Annual Spring Concert Set At FSU Arts Center

The Frostburg State University Department of Music presents the Annual Spring Choral Concert "Sanctus" Sunday, May 11, at 3 p.m. in the Pealer Recital Hall of the Performing Arts Center. The program, which is free and open to the public, will feature Collegium Musicum and the University Chorale under the direction of Dr. Karen Soderberg.

The performance will feature choral works that make use of the liturgical Sanctus text from the Baroque period to the present. The Collegium Musicum's selections include "Sanctus" from J.S. Bach's Mass in B Minor, Mozart's Requiem, and Guida Hazan's arrangement of the African Missa Luba. Collegium will also perform "Lost 'N Blue" and "Wanting Memories" from Crossing by Ysaye Barnwell. Crossing was recently performed by Dance Alloy and Collegium Musicum.

The concert will conclude with the performance of David Fanshawe's African Sanctus, composed of choir, soprano solo, piano, organ, percussion, amplified lead and bass guitar, and African Tape. Performers include the FSU Percussion Ensemble under the direction of Ronald Horner; Chris McCabe, piano; Joan DeVee Dixon, organ; Tenley Newcombe and Barbara Resch, soprano solos; Dan Burks, lead guitar; Ken Oldham, bass guitar; and Ellen Grolman Schlegel, African Tape. The performance will include interpretive dance by Shawn Short and a video of scenes from Africa, created by artist Mark Slinger.

African Sanctus is "an unorthodox setting of the Latin Mass integrated with authentic traditional African music," Fanshawe recorded traditional African music from his journeys on the Nile through Egypt, Sudan, Uganda, and Kenya between 1969 and 1973.

FSU is committed to making all of its programs, services, and activities accessible to persons with disabilities. Persons may request accommodations through the ADA Compliance Office, FSU Library Room 228, 301-687-4102, TDD 301-687-7955.

AmeriCorps Is Looking For Volunteers

AmeriCorps, better known as the domestic Peace Corps, is a national service movement engaging citizens in community service by linking people, ideas, and resources to improve surrounding communities. A STAR! in Western Maryland is an AmeriCorps program located in Allegany and Garrett counties. Headquartered at Frostburg State University, the program currently includes approximately 26 individuals from 10 different agencies throughout Western Maryland.

Annually, A STAR! in Western Maryland coordinates a large service project by networking with multiple organizations and volunteer groups in the Western Maryland region. As a result of extreme damage caused by the 1996 flooding in Allegany and Garrett counties, the A STAR! team has chosen to assist with remaining flood relief reclamation in the village of Shallmar in Garrett County.

A STAR! is currently seeking the assistance of approximately 100 individuals from Garrett and Allegany counties. In cooperation with the Maryland Conservation Corps and the Maryland National Guard, A STAR! will lead a group of individuals on Wednesday, June 11, in assisting with the removal of large debris and trash from the roadside and riverbanks, as well as clearing of the residual brush left behind by the floods.

Organizations able to assist are asked to contact Sandy Sutton at the Garrett County Health Department at 301-334-8122, or the FSU/VOICE program at 301-687-7598. All ages are welcome and encouraged to participate. Children under age 14 must be accompanied by an adult.

Local Church Taking Bus To Florida Revival

Crellin Assembly of God has scheduled a chartered bus trip to the Brownsville Revival in Pensacola, Fla. The trip will begin at 1 p.m. from the church parking lot in Crellin on Wednesday, June 4, and will end when the bus returns on the evening of Saturday, June 7.

Revival services have been going steady since Father's Day of 1995. Hundreds of thousands of people have visited the revival from all parts of the United States and many other countries.

"Even though we realize that the Brownsville church does not have a monopoly on revival, we do know for certain that God is doing a marvelous work within that church, as He pours out His spirit. Lives are being changed, people healed and delivered, and thousands are going away refreshed and encouraged from a divine encounter with the Lord," stated Pastor David Snodgrass of Crellin Assembly of God.

Only about 15 seats remain available for the trip. Those interested may call the church office at 301-334-3867. The deadline for registration is May 15.

MPT TO HIGHLIGHT MARION WARREN - Herrington Manor, circa 1956: "This year we were at Herrington Manor in Garrett County. It was a foggy summer morning, and I wandered off with my camera to see what I could find. I saw this scene [pictured], got it set up, and waited about 20 minutes in hope someone would come along and sit down on the bench. No one did, but I shot it anyway," wrote photographer Marlon E. Warren. Warren's photographs of Maryland will be the focus of a Maryland Public Television (MPT) program slated for Monday, May 5, at 9 p.m., and again on Wednesday, May 7, at 11 p.m. "The Eye of the Beholder" will present the story of this man's visual exploration of the state and its people, according to a spokesperson for MPT. From his scenes of the Chesapeake Bay to the historical print of Engine 28 stopped on its way to the Pen Mar Resort in Western Maryland, Warren has preserved for future generations the powerful images of a Maryland long gone, the spokesperson said. Warren has photographed every region in Maryland, with the help of his wife Mary and daughter Mama. Together they have co-authored several books. The 60-minute program is an MPT production and is close captioned.

4:30 p.m. The three grant programs are located at the McHenry campus of Garrett Community College in the Center for Community and Continuing Education in Room 302.

The New Horizons program is jointly funded by the Maryland State Department of Education and Garrett Community College. Grant funds made available to the program through Career and Technology Education comprise 89% of the total program budget, with Garrett Community College contributing 11% of the total program budget. The Caring Connection is 100% funded by the Maryland State Department of Education. The New Dimensions program is 100% funded by the Department of Human Resources, Women's Services Division.

COVER STORY

Knots Landing reunion nothing but a dead end

By David Migicovsky
©TVData Features Syndicate

TV-show reunions have a lot in common with car crashes: It's almost impossible not to watch, despite knowing the chances of seeing something entertaining are remote, at best. Knots Landing, back to the Cul-de-Sac, a two-part TV movie that airs Wednesday, May 7, and Friday, May 9, on CBS, does little to change this perception of reunion shows.

Despite having millions of devoted fans, Knots Landing was the neglected poor relation of the other prime-time soaps. The plots and acting were more realistic, which allowed the series to remain on the air until 1993, after the others had collapsed from their own absurdities.

While only four years have gone by since the series ended, the producers thoughtfully have provided old and new shots of the actors in the opening credits, for those whose primary interest is to see how they have aged.

Once viewers have satisfied their curiosities about what the actors now look like, the plot becomes important. It is here that viewers may be disappointed—because there isn't much of one. Cul-de-Sac opens with Paige (Niccollette Sheridan, in an uncredited cameo) leaving Greg (William Devane) because she wants to have children and he doesn't.

Other than that, it's pretty much business as usual in the Cul-de-Sac. Greg and Abby (Donna Mills) are still up to their dirty tricks, although, unfortunately, they have mellowed slightly.

Greg is being sued by the former employees of the factory he bought from Gary (Ted Shackelford) and moved to Thailand. He enlists Abby, who owes $1 million in back taxes, to steal a pivotal document that proves he agreed not to close the plant.

Mack and Karen (Kevin Dob-

son, Michele Lee) celebrate their anniversary in Part 1, but their marriage is in trouble. Mack is going through a midlife crisis, feeling left behind because of Karen's personal growth. She and Mack clash over whether their daughter, Meg (Francesca Smith), should be told that Greg is her biological father, and while Karen rightly contends that Meg must be told, viewers are left wishing she were wrong for once.

Across the Cul-de-Sac, Gary and Valene (Joan Van Ark) are having problems of their own. Judging by her facial expressions, Val appears to be in a constant struggle to maintain her sanity. She has written a novel based on her experiences while kidnapped, and is now working with a hack screenwriter (Michael Woods) to develop a movie version of it. He is suffering from writer's block, and when the affliction proves terminal, Val is caught up in a murder investigation.

Kate (Stacy Galina) also returns to Knots Landing, accompanied by a daughter who looks a lot like Gary. Abby's son, Brian (Brian Austin Green), loves Kate and wants to be a father to her child.

Fatherhood is the running theme throughout the movie. Unfortunately, the different reactions of the male characters to their parental responsibilities are among the few true surprises viewers will discover.

Champagne and shame in Royal Opera House

By John Crook
©TVData Features Syndicate

Mention the words "grand opera" and most people—at least those who didn't flee the room screaming—automatically will think in terms of elegantly gowned and coiffed society matrons, dripping jewels like Dom Perignon, taking a promenade at the latest opening night.

The Royal Opera House, a six-part miniseries that airs Thursdays beginning May 8 on PBS (check local listings), does conjure up two such women: Krystle Carrington and Alexis Colby of Dynasty, just before they tumble into a slimy pool for one of their catfights.

Yes, Opera House is catnip for both opera lovers and those who only spell opera with "e" and with a "y" on the end, an informative and titillating backstage glance at London's performing arts house in Covent Garden, home of both the Royal Opera and Royal Ballet.

Opera addicts will love the insights into the complex planning and towering obstacles that figure into each multimillion-dollar production, which can hinge on a slender set of very fallible vocal cords.

Most addictive, however, is the true story line involving Keith Cooper, the opera house's new director of public relations, who is handsome, dapper, articulate and Satan incarnate in the eyes of the staff.

In the opener, we see Cooper discussing a box-office manager's "lack of intelligence," then calling the poor man into his office to fire him. When the series ran in England, those moments prompted indignant headlines throughout London.

Here's a classical villain we never truly expect to find—except, of course, in grand opera.

The Royal Opera House gives a behind-the-scenes look at a season at the prominent establishment. The six-part miniseries begins Thursday on PBS (check local listings).

In 1954, Strike It Rich winner George Popper became a big loser when police recognized him as a fugitive from justice.

The lawn mower was invented in England in 1831. The vacuum cleaner came along in 1907 in the United States.

When Carol Burnett tugged her earlobe at the end of a show, she was sending love to her grandmother.

RED HOUSE

by Marcella Moreland,

The May meeting was called to order by Steve Knepp with all 33 members in attendance and 18 visitors. Aliza Green led pledges. Amanda Hinebaugh called roll and read the secretary's report. Emily Cosner gave the treasurer's report.

Steve reported on the winners from the public speaking contest. We have several members who are involved in dog obedience and the angler fishing and with the broiler project.

We decided to keep our animal workshop for our club on June 14. This will be a hands-on experience for 4-H members from all clubs on all goat, rabbit, sheep, beef, and swine projects. We ask that no one bring his/her animals to the workshop unless one is a member of the Red House Club.

Kathy Sanders talked to the members about the poster contest. Ryan's Glade has invited us to be in. Demonstrations were given by Angie Beckman on her art set and by Sarah Cosner on your food diet. After the meeting some members made Mother's Day shirts with spray painting.

WOMEN'S FINANCIAL LUNCHEON TO BE HELD - "Sunshine & Showers" will be the theme of a women's spring financial luncheon to be held on Thursday, May 8, from 11 a.m. until 2 p.m. at the Silver Tree Inn. Sponsored by the Planned Gifts Committee of the Garrett County Memorial Hospital Foundation, the seminar will feature the following guest speakers: Colleen Nordeck, certified financial planner (CFP) at Wheat First Butcher Singer, presenting The Pot at the End of the Rainbow - Enough May Not Be Enough; Katherine Zimmerman, certified public accountant (CPA), presenting Retiring in Spite of Uncle Sam; and Carlissa Rodeheaver, CPA with First United National Bank & Trust, presenting Who Will Get Your Pot at the End of the Rainbow. "This will be a unique financial luncheon presented for women by women, specifically focusing on investments, retirement concerns, and legal and tax issues from a woman's point of view," stated Criss Sweltzer, an attorney with Elsworth & Jones, PA, and a member of the Planned Gifts Committee. Pictured left to right as they plan the event are Sweltzer, Nordeck, and Rodeheaver. Persons interested in attending the seminar should contact the Foundation office at 301-334-2155.

RYAN'S GLADE By Steven Sines Reporter

The April meeting of the Ryan's Glade 4-H was held April 15 at the Ryan's Glade Community Building.

The pledge of allegiance to the flag was led by Carrie Steyer, and the 4-H pledge was led by Katie Steyer.

Members at the meeting decided to sell food at an auction to be held April 26 as a 4-H event. Each member agreed to draw a poster about the 4-H ways.

Chrissy Steyer demonstrated how to make miniature pizzas. Jeanine Cummings also presented a cooking demonstration. She showed everyone how to make a 30-day cake.

Group Planning Reunion For Accident High

A group of graduates from Accident High School gathered recently to plan a multi-class reunion. The event will bring together the members of the graduating classes of 1940, '41, '42, and '43.

Organizers of the festivities, Wilma Edwards, Alice Deal, Helen Glatfelter, and Skeeter and Mary Bowman, got together at the Glatfelter home to discuss ideas for the occasion.

They have selected June 20 as the date for the reunion. It will be held at the former high school, which is now Flowery Vale Senior Center.

A social hour at 6 p.m. will precede a buffet. The reunion is open to all classmates. Anyone wishing to get more information may contact Jeannie Peiffer at 112 Mary Street, LaVale, MD 21502.

Women's Career Workshop At GCC Set For May 12

"It's A Woman's World Too," a special workshop focusing on self-directed careers for women in Garrett County, will be presented at Garrett Community College on Monday, May 12. The program will begin at 1 p.m. in Room 307 of the Continuing Education Building. The workshop is free and open to the public.

Women who work in a wide variety of jobs will share their stories. Each of the speakers will tell how she chose a career, what educational and personal challenges she met in achieving that career, and the rewards and demands of her current job. Presenters will include Martha Perando, owner of True Colors Construction; Katherine Zimmerman, C.P.A., and small business owner; Cathy Clocquer, director of sales and marketing for the Wisp Resort Hotel; Elizabeth Huxford, civil engineer, and Stirling educational consultant for Discovery Toys; Marie Mallin, former chemical engineer for U.S. Department of Energy at the Morgantown Energy Technology Center; and others.

More women than ever before find themselves as either a single head of the family or the main wage earner. Understanding what a job may do for a woman in Garrett County is essential before commitment to the time, money, and personal effort demanded to achieve a marketable skill is made. The guest speakers will share what they have learned about these choices in their personal career paths.

The workshop is sponsored by the New Dimensions program, the New Horizons program, and The Caring Connection program of Garrett Community College under the direction of Barbara Frey. For additional information or to register, interested persons may contact Barbara at 301-387-3071 or Virginia Jeffrey, intake/counselor specialist for the New Dimensions and The Caring Connection programs at 301-387-3103.

The New Horizons program is jointly funded by the Maryland State Department of Education and Garrett Community College. Grant funds in the amount of $45,000 are made available to the New Horizons program through the Division of Career Technology and Adult Learning, which is approximately 90% of the total program budget, with GCC contributing an additional $5,300, which is approximately 10% of the total budget. The Caring Connection is 100% funded by the Maryland State Department of Education in the amount of $20,000. The New Dimensions program is 100% funded by the Department of Human Resources.

Bloodmobile Nets 178 Units At Friday Visit

Last Friday's bloodmobile visit to Oakland, sponsored by the Oakland-Mountain Lake Park Lions Club, produced 178 units of blood. "We were very pleased with the turnout," stated Elizabeth Huxford, blood services chairman for Garrett County. "With a little extra advertising effort put in by our volunteers and sponsor, we actually saw 196 donors stop by to donate."

First-time donors were: Ron and Michele Hauser, and Diana Winter of Oakland, Jennifer Layton of Mountain Lake Park, and Tina Yoder of Accident.

Those reaching the one-gallon milestone by donating for the eighth time were: Darius D. Paugh, Elk Garden, W.Va., John Rodeheaver, Crellin, and Charles W. Strawser Jr., Mountain Lake Park. Bryon A. Bowman and William W. Yoder, Oakland, reached the two-gallon mark. The three-gallon milestone was reached by several donors, including Paul D. Howdshell Jr., Kitzmiller, and Moses C. Miller, Helen K. Moyer, and Wayne A. Scott, Oakland. J. Leo McBe, Oakland, reached the five-gallon milestone. Roy O. Hinkle Sr., Oakland, reached the six-gallon mark. One correction from the February bloodmobile is Randy Streets, Terra Alta, W.Va., reached the two-gallon mark.

Top donor at Friday's bloodmobile was Dessie B. Bowman of Oakland who donated for the 64th time to reach the eight-gallon milestone.

Volunteers making the bloodmobile possible were: Brenda Crabtree and Don Forrester, posters; Rosalie Baker and Artie Dixon, greeters; Don Forrester, Elizabeth Huxford, and Barb Sweitzer, registration; Ethel Cosner, Jean McConnell, Pat Powles, Freda Quintero, and Mary Rodeheaver, canteen; Beverly Beard, Anne Forrester, Russ McConnell, and Jonathan Wildesen, walkers; and Harold Wildesen, tear-down.

The canteen was sponsored by the Oakland-Mountain Lake Park Lions Club. Other donations were also provided by the Coca-Cola Bottling Company of Cumberland and Arrowhead Market. "Once again the Red Cross wishes to thank all who participated, from the dedicated donors who come each and every time to the Oakland-Mountain Lake Park Lions who covered the canteen costs for last Friday," stated Huxford. "Every Red Cross bloodmobile relies on so many behind-the-scenes volunteers to be successful. We'd also like to thank Arrowhead Market for making and subsidizing the ham and chicken salad for the canteen at a moment's notice. It is great to see the community turn out to help so many by selflessly giving of their time, talents, and donations."

The next scheduled county bloodmobile will be this Friday, May 2, from noon until 6 p.m. at the Laurel Run Church of God in Friendsville. "Those in the Friendsville area on Friday are asked to please join us as we continue the work of helping to save lives," Huxford said.

BETTE'S BACK AND BETTER THAN EVER!

What a duo: Bette Midler and Dennis Farina! Explosive is the way I would describe them. The chemistry between the two actors is wonderful. I laughed, and thoroughly enjoyed myself viewing "That Old Feeling," directed by Mr. Carl Reiner. What I admire about the two main stars of this motion picture is their versatility. Bette can be the house camp, or a very serious actress. Dennis, on the other hand, is your regular cops-and-robbers actor, but they are both fantastic in this comedy in a situation most folks can relate to.

The premise is that Midler and Farina get back together at their daughter's wedding after being divorced for 14 years. Sparks and fun fly thereafter. I recommend this movie highly, so let's give it FOUR STARS! The flick is rated PG-13.

DOUBLE TEAM — Not that Dennis Rodman is my favorite celebrity in the world, and he really isn't a very good actor, but he comes across very well in "Double Team," starring Jean-Claude Van Damme. However, the star of this flick is "Tiaga," a 500-plus pound Bengal tiger.

I thought that Hong Kong director, Tsui Hark, making his American debut did a wonderful job with this movie. The setting is Croatia. There's plenty of action, including van and train scenes, which were very well filmed. Eventually, Van Damme escapes as a prisoner from a CIA compound and goes to rescue his wife (actress Natasha Lindinger) from the devious Mickey Rourke.

Judge for yourself, but when Van Damme eventually ran into Chicago Bull star Dennis Rodman, I enjoyed it. Rodman was wonderful with his hair and typical Dennis style — "ALL ME!"

Van Damme might be all muscle, but he's GOOD in this flick! Three stars for this flick. (Rating: R).

LOVE AND OTHER CATASTROPHES — If you want to see how a woman handles the turbulent times of this era, you must check out Australian upstart Emma-Kate Crothan's hilarious comedy. Five college students' hijinks add up to a lot of fun. Very realistic! (Three plus stars). Rated: R.

Home Tips

EASY UPDATES — I have a habit of clipping special articles of events, deaths, births, marriages, etc., as well as jokes and whatever else catches my fancy. I seemed to be losing track of these items. I came up with the idea of addressing letters and sending them out to loved ones who live far away. This saves all that writing and keeps these folks up to date. Armelia W., Winona, Minn.

FAMILY HISTORIAN — While walking through antique stores, I'm always struck by the old family photos that no one wanted because they weren't marked as to who they were or what relation they were to their family. This is so sad because this family history is lost forever.

Now is the time to visit with grandparents and other relatives and offer to help them identify their pictures and tell about each person.

If you would like copies, you don't need to pay high prices; just copy them yourself. All you need is a camera and good lighting. Just lay the picture down flat in good lighting, focus as closely as you can, and take the picture. Experiment and you will be surprised at what good pictures you will get.

I did this and now have photos dating back to my great-great-grandparents. Lisa H., Red Hook, N.Y.

ON THE ROAD — When traveling, I put out the "Do Not Disturb" sign when going out for breakfast.

That way, the maid won't be there when you need to go back to your room before departing for the day. Rita K., Lubbock, Texas.

FILM I.D. — Attach the end label of the 35 mm film box to the back of the camera. With so many types of film now available, it is difficult to always remember what type is in the camera. It will make for better prints because you will be using the film to its full advantage. Wanda F., Cape Coral, Fla.

AN AMERICAN HERO

and Gary K. Eisler

HENRY M. STANLEY

"Dr. Livingstone, I presume?" This is one of the most famous introductions of all time, uttered by American journalist Henry M. Stanley.

The reporter had been given the assignment of finding famous British missionary Dr. David Livingstone, who had been reported murdered in the wilds of Africa. Stanley had been ordered by "New York World" editor James Gordon Bennett in 1871 to find the lost medical missionary or his remains, but in any event, to come back with a story.

Henry Stanley had little more than a detached interest in David Livingstone when Bennett gave him the assignment, but he was curious why the world press was making such a fuss over the presumed death of a missionary.

As he studied his subject in preparation for his trip, he learned that English-born Livingstone had studied medicine and theology in the late 1830s but decided to become a missionary before starting his practice.

By 1850, Livingstone had gone into the most remote parts of the continent to serve. He made his last visit to England in 1865, returned to Africa and vanished. His silence caught the attention of headline-starved newspapers.

Stanley had none of Livingstone's missionary zeal for saving souls — but he did have passion for finding the truth. Stanley and his party searched for Livingstone for nearly a year, and as food and water became scarce, were ready to abandon the search.

But they learned from a native caravan that an elderly white man had entered the Arab village of Ujiji. It took him days to find it, and pushing through the crowds, saw a bearded white man, and uttered his famous words.

Stanley stayed with Livingstone for four months and got the story of a lifetime. And the next year, Livingstone died, his body embalmed and returned to England for entombment.

Henry Stanley had gone the extra mile for his story, proving himself a true American hero.

More information about other role models is in the book "American Heroes, Their Lives, Their Values, Their Beliefs," by Robert B. Pamplin, Jr. and Gary K. Eisler. MasterMedia: 1-800-334-8232.

ACHIEVEMENT DAY
The Garrett County Association for Family and Community Education will hold its annual Achievement Day on Thursday, May 15, at the Oak Park Church of the Brethren, located across from Southern High School near Oakland. The Sunnyside Club will host the program and registration will be from 9:30 to 10 a.m., and the program will be from 10 a.m. until 3 p.m.

The cost is $2 per person, and each person registering is asked to bring a book for a child under 12 years of age. All books will be donated to Garrett County Memorial Hospital. Awards will be given for 4 C members of the year, membership anniversaries, perfect attendance, and a humanitarian award will be given to an individual who has made a valuable contribution to Garrett County. This recipient does not have to be a member.

Crafts will be displayed and judged and there will also be a plant exchange. The day will include a special program on antiques. Everyone attending is to bring a covered dish, an individual place setting, crafts to be judged, a plant to exchange, and a child's book.

Members who wish to nominate someone for the humanitarian award should send the information to the Extension Service no later than April 30. Those writing biography outlines about older female family members who have made a difference in their lives (such as mother, grandmother, aunt, or others) should send the written report along with a photograph of the person to the Extension Office, also no later than April 30.

Agency On Aging To Hold Hearings For Public Input

The Garrett County Area Agency on Aging (AAA) will hold two public hearings to obtain input from the community as to the direction the agency should take in maintaining or enhancing existing services or developing new programs and services for the senior citizen population.

The public hearings are scheduled to be held on Wednesday, May 7, at 1 p.m. at the Mary Browning Senior Center, Oakland, and Thursday, May 8, at 6:30 p.m. at the Grantsville Senior Center, Grantsville.

The AAA invites anyone interested in aging services to attend one of the public hearings; especially encouraged to attend are caregivers and individuals nearing retirement age. The mission of the AAA is to provide an array of services, within its

Although many of the programs are mandated, there is considerable flexibility in developing support services. "One of the agency's greatest obstacles to the development of new services is a lack of input from the seniors," stated an agency spokeswoman. "We want to provide services which are needed and utilized within our budgetary constraints," she went on to say.

Prior to soliciting comments from the public, the AAA will provide an overview of existing programs and services, including the availability and number of specific services the agency is able to provide to an individual.

The audience will then have an opportunity to offer statements about the services they believe to be most important.

The AAA will compile the testimonies from the public and make every effort to incorporate the suggestions into the plan developed for the county, the spokeswoman explained.

Those wishing to speak at the hearings are requested to bring written copies of their testimony with them. The agency will also accept written testimony from individuals unable to attend the hearings. This information must be received by the AAA by May 19.

Anyone wishing additional information about the public hearings may contact the agency at 334-9431.

Friendsville Man Sentenced After Police Flyover Detects Marijuana

A marijuana eradication flyover resulted in a jail sentence for a Friendsville man in recent Garrett County District Court proceedings.

Richard L. Hoover, 38, had pleaded guilty to possession of a controlled dangerous substance (CDS) charge stemming from his arrest last August after a Maryland State Police flyover detected marijuana growing behind his residence. Police executing a search warrant found the plants growing outside Hoover's house and other marijuana plants growing in his shed.

Hoover was sentenced by Judge Paul Stakem to six months in jail, all but 15 days of which were suspending, fined $350, and placed on 18 months of supervised probation.

A Swanton man was sentenced on charges stemming from a 1995 theft and use of stolen checks in Oakland.

David L. Rounds, 45, had pleaded guilty to two counts each of theft and forgery charges, and Judge Stakem handed him a two-year suspended sentence, placed him on two years of supervised probation, and ordered him to complete 100 hours of community service. A number of related check theft and forgery charges against Rounds were not prosecuted by the state's attorney's office.

A pre-sentencing investigation was ordered by Judge Ralph Burnett in the case of a Friendsville man convicted on theft and forgery charges.

Harvey J. Dilley, 18, was convicted on the charges which stemmed from his January arrest in Accident for allegedly attempting to steal money from a Pepsi machine by using a fake key, being found with a stolen stereo receiver in his van. An additional charge of peeping tom from the same incident was not prosecuted by the state's attorney's office.

Dilley's $3,000 bond has been revoked, and he was jailed again pending his sentencing hearing.

Joseph F. Snell, 19, Mtn. Lake Park, was ordered to serve 48 hours in jail after being found in violation of probation (VOP) by Judge Burnett. Snells was on probation for a theft charge conviction from last year.

Timothy W. Walden, 20, Mtn. Lake Park, had his jail sentence reimposed by Judge Burnett after being found in VOP. Walden will serve six months in jail, which stem from his original conviction on theft charges.

William E. Johnson, 32, Accident, was found in VOP after an earlier possession of a controlled dangerous substance conviction. Judge Burnett reimposed Johnson's original one-year incarceration time, suspending all but seven days.

Jason W. Hale, 20, Oakland, was found to be in VOP after two earlier convictions on theft and breaking and entering. Judge Burnett withheld sanctions. A Glen Arm, Md., man was handed a probation before judgement (PBJ) by Judge Burnett, which means that the case will not reflect a criminal conviction if he complies with all terms of his probation.

Heath W. Frome, 25, had pleaded guilty to a charge of CDS possession, and received a 30-day sentence, all but two days suspended, fined $155, and placed on six months of unsupervised probation.

The charges stem from a March arrest by sheriff's deputies after Frome was discovered smoking marijuana in a room at the Wisp Resort Hotel.

Sarbanes Urges Re-evaluation Of Plans To Close Farm Service Agencies

Responding to concerns expressed by Maryland farmers, Senator Paul Sarbanes is urging federal Secretary of Agriculture Dan Glickman to re-evaluate plans to consolidate or close federal Farm Service Agency (FSA) operations throughout the state of Maryland and the nation.

"While I certainly understand the department's tight budget constraints, it is my view that USDA should very carefully consider the collective impact of moving and consolidating FSA programs and expertise, especially in a state like Maryland where agriculture plays such an important role in the economy of each county," Sarbanes wrote to Agriculture Secretary Glickman.

According to the many farmers who have contacted Sarbanes, the FSA reaches out in many ways to offer assistance and support to farmers and agricultural producers. Local FSA offices, located in each of Maryland's 23 counties, deal with a host of farm-related issues including production flexibility contracts, commodity price protection loans, catastrophic crop insurance requests, direct operating loans and conservation reserve contracts. In addition, as a result of an earlier restructuring in 1994, county FSA offices were expanded to include agricultural credit operations from the former Farmers' Home Administration.

"Throughout each Maryland county, FSA staff work closely and on a daily basis with farmers who are striving to meet the daily rigors and requirements of a successful agricultural operation," Sarbanes continued. Agriculture is a $1.6 billion a year business and is Maryland's number one industry.

Sarbanes asked Secretary Glickman to provide him with a report on the criteria for determining which offices are to be eliminated or consolidated.

"Our farmers have a right to know whether they can continue to expect this commitment by the USDA in their home counties in the future," Sarbanes added.

Explore Ag '97 Applications Now Being Accepted

Application materials for Explore Ag '97, the governor's Summer Scholars Program, to be held June 22 through 27, are available from the College of Agriculture and Natural Resources at the University of Maryland at College Park. This all expense paid week for selected students entering their senior year in high school includes activities which feature the College Park campus of the University of Maryland and trips throughout Maryland designed to introduce outstanding high school students to opportunities for higher education and careers in agriculture, food and natural resources.

Participants will begin the week with hands-on laboratory activities at the University of Maryland, College Park, involving such diverse topics as soil and water quality, animal ruminant nutrition, human nutrition, and the quality control and testing of dairy products, including ice cream. There will be discussions of the ethical implications of releasing creations developed through genetic engineering, animal welfare, and world hunger. Participants and faculty will go on field trips to associate the laboratory exercises with real-life settings. For example, scholars will view the water quality practices of a major agricultural industry and the disease management practices at a large orchard.

All meals, lodging and field trip transportation will be arranged by the College of Agriculture and Natural Resources. In addition to the activities and experience-es, participants in Explore Ag '97 will also be eligible to compete for $1,000 scholarships to the College of Agriculture and Natural Resources at College Park.

Got Bread?

from the Maryland Grain Producers Association, Inc.

Thanks to great advertising, we all know milk's important for a healthy body, but so is another household staple: bread. If you're one of the 38 percent of Americans who told Gallup they think bread is fattening, you're probably missing out on one of the easiest ways to get a few more daily grains servings and extra energy from the complex carbohydrates bread provides. At a mere gram (yes, one gram!) of fat and approximately 75 calories per slice, bread is anything but fattening. But nutritionists caution: Watch out for those high-fat toppings. Fruit purees, all-fruit spreads, reduced-fat margarine, honey, apple butter, vegetables, lean meats and lower-fat cheeses are all suitable partners for the almighty loaf.

When Someone You Love Requires Skilled Nursing Care- Pick the Right Place to get the Right Care!

Ask the Right Questions:

Hospital stays are becoming shorter and patients are being discharged faster. But some patients, especially the elderly, are not well enough to go home. They require continued care or therapy. Placement after a hospital stay becomes a very critical concern for families trying to do the right thing. They must pick the right place to get the right care!

Unfortunately, many families don't know what to look for and don't ask the right questions. They mistakenly believe that an Assisted-Living or Residential Care Facility can provide the necessary skilled nursing services. The fact is they can't. They don't have the experience, expertise or staff. They are not licensed by the state to provide that level of care. So if you have a loved one that will be discharged from a hospital, ask the right questions. One - Is the facility Medicare certified? If it is, then it can provide the skilled nursing care your loved one requires. Two - What does the license say? If the facility is licensed only to provide supportive care, it is not the right place!

Pick the Right Place:

Cuppitt Management Company owns and operates two outstanding Medicare certified nursing homes in Oakland. Both facilities are able to provide skilled nursing care on a daily basis. Both facilities offer extensive rehabilitation programs. At either location your loved one will receive not only high quality medical and nursing care but superior service as well.

Resident and family satisfaction have always been important to us. Friendly, attentive service is not an "extra-job," it's simply what we do. Family involvement is welcomed and encouraged at our regularly scheduled care planning conferences.

So if someone you love requires skilled nursing care, make sure you pick the right place. That would be either Cuppitt and Weeks Skilled Nursing and Rehabilitation Center or Dennett Road Manor in Oakland. They have the experience and expertise to give the right kind of care!

Earns Graduate Scholarship At Illinois Univ.

Christa Suzanne Rolf, the daughter of Jack and Amy Rolf, Red House, has been accepted into the graduate program at the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign. She has been awarded a full tuition waiver and an assistantship by the theatre department at the university and will begin her studies in August to pursue a master of fine arts degree in stage management with a second concentration in costume design.

Christa will receive her BS degree in theatre production from Frostburg State University in May. She was the recipient of the 1996 Dorothy Stone White Scholarship in theatre, the 1995 Technical Theatre Award, the 1994 Technical Silver Crescent Award, and is a member of the United States Institute of Technical Theatre.

In addition to her work in University Theatre and Roundabout Theatre at Frostburg State, she was employed as a stage manager for the Frontier Follies show at Cedar Point Amusement Park in 1996 and as a stitcher, wig stylist, and wardrobe assistant for the Illinois Shakespeare Festival in 1995.

Round-The-Clock May Bird Count Slated In County

The annual county-wide May bird count, sponsored by the Maryland Ornithological Society, will run for a 24-hour period. It is scheduled to begin at midnight Friday, May 9, and ending at midnight Saturday, May 10.

Fran Pope, a local coordinator of the effort, said birds may be counted during any portion of the period and in any part of the county.

"Feeder watchers are welcome as are others who may wish to count birds at a favorite spot," she said. But those who wish to participate should contact the count coordinators, she explained, so duplication of effort is avoided and the best coverage of the area is assured.

Anyone who wishes to get more information on the bird count may call Fran Pope at 301-334-4908 or Connie Skipper at 301-387-5227 prior to May 8.

Results of the count will appear in Maryland Bird Life, a publication of the Maryland Ornithological Society.

BIRD COUNTING in Garrett County will provide many local citizens a chance to spot and enjoy some common and rare birds. The scarlet tanager above is one of the area's more common inhabitants. Its vibrant colors, a clear red body with black wings, make it easy to pick out. This bright little creature breeds in the county. More elusive and rarely seen during a May bird count, Lincoln's sparrow, seen below, is not native to our area. Feathered in muted tans and browns, this sparrow is a migrant. The bird count will be held county-wide from midnight May 9 to midnight May 10. (see story)

GCC Will Be Represented At Science Institute

A team of five faculty members from Garrett Community College has been selected to attend the Association of American Colleges and Universities (AACU) Science Institute at St. Michael's College in Colchester, Vt., in June. All accredited two- and four-year colleges and universities were eligible to apply for the institute, with 20 teams being selected from among the applicants.

Focus on this year's Science Institute, which is sponsored by a grant from the Exxon Education Foundation, will be helping colleges and universities create and/or strengthen interdisciplinary general education science programs. Responding to the need for all students to have a basic understanding of science and the fact that traditional college instruction in the sciences fails to engage most students, the institute will assist the teams of educators to plan and develop challenging, effective courses and programs.

According to established criteria, these offerings should concentrate on major concepts, emphasize interdisciplinary connections, entail hands-on laboratory experimentation, present inquiries in the context of the history of science, and employ non-traditional pedagogies such as learning communities, peer instruction, and case studies.

During their five days at the institute, the GCC team plans to develop two specific courses: a four-credit interdisciplinary laboratory science course for general education students with limited preparation in science and math who do not indicate an interest in studying science, and a four-credit interdisciplinary laboratory science course for honors students. GCC will be implementing an honors program in the fall 1997 semester.

Among prominent speakers who will address the Science Institute are Robert Hazen of the Carnegie Institute and Alexander Astin of UCLA. Resident consultants from a variety of types of institutions who have taught in interdisciplinary science programs will be available to work with the teams.

Members of the GCC team will be: Dr. Nancy J. Prisela, professor of mathematics; Jim Allen, director of technology and assistant professor of earth science; Mike Logsdon, director of AdventureSports and assistant professor of physics; Carolyn Deniker, assistant professor of biology; and Willie Lantz, instructor of agriculture.

New Horizons Group Attends State Conference

Four local residents participated in a recent statewide conference for clients and staff of adult and adolescent single parent programs entitled "Celebrate Yourself - A Day Just For You."

Representing Garrett County were Alyce McDowell and Jenny Thomas, clients, accompanied by Mary Kirkland of the New Horizons Program and Virginia Jeffrey of The Caring Connection Program, both intake counselor specialists.

Lt. Governor Kathleen Kennedy Townsend opened the conference by encouraging participants to identify and use various sources of inspiration to reach personal and professional goals. Fontelle Gilbert, the director of Seminars for Personal Growth, echoed the message in her keynote address titled "Dreams Are Made of Real Stuff."

Training in personal nurturing skills was offered in two workshops that followed. "Be Your Own Best Protector" covered psychological, verbal, and physical techniques to use to control personal risk, while stress and fatigue relief through massage was explored in "It's Okay To Care For Yourself - And Good For Your Family, Too!"

The conference concluded with a presentation by the Mental Health Players of the Mental Health Association of Baltimore, emphasizing real solutions to real needs.

All four Garrett County women gained knowledge in a variety of areas, from women's health issues to new ways of thinking about their dreams. As Alyce McDowell put it, "I learned that the greatest fear comes from inside, and if you claim victory over your insecurities, nothing can stop you."

The conference was sponsored by the Maryland Professional Development Center for Equity Advocacy, located at Hagerstown

Junior College, which is grant-funded through the Maryland State Department of Education.

The New Horizons Program is jointly funded by the Maryland State Department of Education and Garrett Community College. Grant funds of $45,000 are made available to the program through Career Technology and Adult Learning, approximately 90% of the total program budget, with Garrett Community College contributing an additional $5,300, approximately 10% of the total budget for New Horizons.

PUBLIC NOTICE

The Deep Creek Watershed Board of Zoning Appeals will conduct a public hearing on May 15, 1997 at 7:30 p.m. in the Planning Commission meeting room (Third Floor, Courthouse, Oakland). The Board will review applications on the following docketed cases:

1) Docket VR-396; an application made by Jack and Jenny Mullen for a Variance from the terms of Zoning Ordinance as it affects the minimum land area requirement for building lots. Specifically, the applicants are requesting a land area variance to allow the establishment and use of an unrecorded, standard lot having a land area of 40,245 sq. ft. instead of the required 43,560 sq. ft. The property is located on Green Glade Road (Zoned LR).

2) Docket VR-397; an application made by Dennis and Loretta Nicol for Variances from the terms of the Ordinance as it affects the minimum land area requirement for building lots. Specifically, the applicants are requesting land area variances to allow the establishment and use of two standard lots having land areas of 33,225 sq. ft. and 22,362 sq. ft., respectively, instead of the required 43,560 sq. ft. The property is located on Green Glade Road (Zoned LR).

3) Docket VR-398; an application made by Charles and Vivian Smith for a Variance from the terms of the Zoning Ordinance as it affects the side yard set-back requirements for residences. Specifically, the applicants are requesting a Variance to allow an existing detached garage to be attached to a residence, leaving a set-back of five feet from the side line instead of the required eight feet. The property is located on US 219 in Thayerville (Zoned TC).

4) Docket VR-399; an application made by Lake Place Development, Inc., for a Variance from the terms of the Zoning Ordinance as it affects the height limitation for non-residential buildings. Specifically, the applicant is requesting a Variance to allow the construction of a six story hotel facility instead of the allowed three story building on his prospective property located along Pysell Road (Zoned TC).

5) Docket SE-271; an application made by Mr. Wayne Gillespie for a Special Exception permit to allow the expansion of the existing Harley Farm bed and breakfast facility by converting an existing accessory building into three additional guest rooms. The three additional guest rooms would change the facility from a bed and breakfast operation to a lodging facility by definition in the ordinance. The property is located off US 219 near Hoop Pole Ridge (Zoned LR).

Don't Let Car Troubles Spoil Your Vacation

Have your vehicle examined well before you begin your summer vacation, caution the experts at the nonprofit National Institute for Automotive Service Excellence (ASE). That way, you'll have time to have any problems fixed and be assured of peace of mind as you begin your trip.

To help make your visit to the repair shop go smoothly, ASE, the national group that tests and certifies the technical competency of automotive repair technicians, offers the following advice:

Do your homework before taking your vehicle in for repairs or service. Read the owner's manual to learn about the vehicle's system and components. Follow the recommended service schedules. Keep a log of all repairs and service.

Use all of your senses to inspect your vehicle frequently for the following: unusual sounds, odors, drips, leaks, smoke, warning lights, gauge readings; changes in acceleration, engine performance, gas mileage, fluid levels; worn tires, belts, hoses; and problems in handling, braking, and steering.

If you suspect a problem, ask yourself these questions: When did the problem first start? Is it constant or periodic? When the vehicle is cold or after the engine has warmed up? At all speeds? Only under acceleration? During braking? When shifting?

At the repair establishment, communicate your findings. Be prepared to describe the symptoms. Carry a written list of the symptoms for the technician or service manager.

Excellence
Let us show you the difference

THE BLUE SEAL of Excellence - Repair shops that employ ASE-certified technicians often display this sign and post the credentials of their certified technicians in the customer service area.

Resist the temptation to suggest a specific course of repair. Just as you would with your physician, tell where it hurts and how long it's been that way, but let the technician diagnose and recommend a remedy.

Ask as many questions as you need. Do not be embarrassed to request everyday definitions of technical terms. Don't rush the shop to make an on-the-spot diagnosis. Ask to be called and apprised of the problem, course of action and costs before work begins.

Before you leave, be sure you understand all shop policies regarding labor rates, diagnostic fees, guarantees and acceptable methods of payment. Leave a telephone number where you can be called.

The National Institute for Automotive Service Excellence was founded in 1972 as a nonprofit organization, dedicated to improving the quality of automotive service and repair through the voluntary testing and certification of automotive technicians.

ASE tests more than 100,000 automotive technicians annually in more than 30 technical specialties. About 400,000 technicians hold current credentials from ASE. Technicians have joined the ASE program from all segments of the automotive industry: car and truck dealerships, service stations, independent repair shops, volume retailers, franchised outlets, etc.

Consumers benefit, since ASE certification eliminates much of the guesswork in finding competent auto technicians.

For a free copy of ASE's brochure, "How to Communicate for Better Automotive Service," send a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to ASE Communication Brochure, Dept. MC-S97, 13505 Dulles Technology Drive, Suite 2, Herndon, VA 20171.

This Mother's Day Surprise Her With An Automotive Gift

Car Care Council

With Valentine's Day behind us it's not too soon to begin thinking about Mother's Day. One place to look for useful ideas is from the driver's seat of the car, especially if Mom spends a lot of time behind the wheel. Her vehicle is her home away from home and gifts that enhance her enjoyment of that second home are likely to be appreciated, suggests Donna Wagner, Director of Operations for Car Care Council.

"We tend to gravitate toward gifts like jewelry, a framed photo or flowers," she says. "But why not break from the traditional and dress up her car? Maybe she's always wanted a sun roof or has admired someone's wood grained dash trim.

Her wish could come true, with the help of your local auto specialty shop."

Wagner suggests that, beyond the obvious gifts such as the car phone (very popular) and floor mats, Mom might appreciate having her damaged steering wheel replaced with one that's stylish, possibly leather covered. Her sun-damaged and faded padded dash could be repaired, replaced or recovered to upgrade the interior.

"Security devices such as a remote keyless entry or alarm systems are popular add-ons," says Wagner. "as are custom wheels or wheel covers. Women usually are interested in the safety and appearance accessories as opposed to those which are performance related. Gifts can be inexpensive, too. Those net shopping bags, for example, that hook on back of the driver's seat, are great gift items."

Right on the heels of Mother's Day, of course, is Father's Day, with additional categories of gifts to consider: special tools, a bug deflector, running boards or stereo equipment, to mention a few. Gifts for the car generally are well received and, concludes Wagner, the variety of innovative products never stops growing.

Put Safety First When Buying a Vehicle

Buying a car can be daunting. Not only do you need something that will get you where you want to go in the style that you like, but you also need a vehicle that will protect you and your family in the event of an accident. Safety should be a main concern for you.

The following information, courtesy of the Insurance Institute for Highway Safety, can help you better understand the safety features available on many of today's new cars, trucks and vans, making you an informed consumer.

The most important safety features are those that reduce your chances of being fatally or seriously injured in a crash. This is known as a vehicle's crashworthiness.

Vehicle size - The size of your car, truck or van plays an important role in protecting you and your family. The bigger it is, the better off you are. In crashes, people traveling in small vehicles are at much greater risk of injury than those in large vehicles, according to the Institute. In relation to their numbers on the road, small vehicles account for more than twice as many occupant deaths as large vehicles.

Safety belts - When involved in a crash, you don't want anyone to be thrown from the vehicle or to come into harsh contact with the vehicle's hard interior surfaces. Lap/shoulder belts play a key role in ensuring that this does not happen. Instead, these safety belts keep you inside the car and make you decelerate with the car, instead of hitting its inside surfaces.

Before buying a vehicle, make sure that the lap/shoulder belts fit you and your family comfortably. That way, all of you will be more likely to use the belts every time you get into the car. The lap belt should fit snugly across the pelvis, not over the abdomen. Some vehicles offer height adjusters for the shoulder belts, ensuring everyone in your family a comfortable fit.

Air bags - Even the best belt designs can't prevent all head and chest injuries in crashes. This is where air bags come in. They create a cushion between your upper body and the steering wheel, instrument panel or windshield. Driver deaths in frontal crashes are approximately 20 percent lower in cars with air bags than in similar cars with belts only.

Though they may seem complicated, air bags are simple. In a moderate or severe frontal crash, sensors signal inflators to fill the bags with a harmless gas. The bags fill for a split second and begin deflating instantly as they cushion you.

Seating position - While safety belts and air bags provide important protection, they still may allow you to move around some in crashes. Even with state-of-the-art restraints, you still may impact the steering wheel. To reduce the chance of such an injury, sit away from the steering wheel. Choose a vehicle that allows you to reach the pedal comfortably without being close to the wheel. Some vehicles have an adjustment feature that allows you to move the steering wheel away from your chest.

Side-impact protection - To reduce the chance of injury from a side-impact collision, you may want to consider a vehicle with side guard beams. New passenger vehicles have these guard beams, which are somewhat effective in single-vehicle side impacts with objects like trees and poles.

Manufacturers also are developing side air bags to protect you and your right-front passenger in side-impact crashes.

Head restraints - In rear-end crashes, seat backs and head restraints can reduce potentially injurious rearward movement. Head restraints, required in the front seats of all new passenger vehicles, can prevent your head from being snapped back in minor rear-end crashes.

However, all head restraints are not the same. Some are fixed, and some are adjustable. When looking at a car, make sure the head restraints, no matter which type they are, are high enough so they're directly behind and very close to the back of your head. This will best reduce the chance of neck injury.

Besides features that will protect you during an accident, it is also important for any vehicle that you're considering to have safety features that can help you avoid collisions altogether.

Antilock brakes - Antilock brakes, touted as one of the best crash-avoidance features in recent years, pump brakes automatically to prevent them from locking up. This will help you to maintain control of the vehicle. To activate these brakes, use hard, continuous pressure.

Daytime running lights - Activated by the ignition switch, daytime running lights are typically high-beam headlights at reduced intensity or low-beam headlights at low or reduced power. By increasing the contrast between oncoming vehicles and their background to make these vehicles more visible to you, these lights help reduce multi-vehicle daytime collisions.

With this information, you can make a more informed decision when buying a vehicle. Keeping your family safe on the road just got a little easier.

Don't Lose Your Cool in the Summer Heat*

Six Easy Tips for Preparing Your Car's Cooling System

With the summer months approaching, motorists need to prepare for a major cause of engine-related roadside breakdowns—cooling-system failure. One reason for cooling-system failure is the accumulation of rust and other corrosion in the system. This rust can restrict coolant flow and cause radiator boilovers and costly repairs. Simply changing an automobile's antifreeze once a year dramatically decreases rust buildup and the chance of an automobile overheating.

"We have found that less than 20 percent of motorists change their antifreeze once a year," says Tom Lindberg, antifreeze product manager, Prestone Products Corp., Danbury, Conn. "Motorists who regularly maintain their antifreeze can greatly reduce the odds of a breakdown."

Here are six easy steps from Prestone/R, the leading manufacturer of antifreeze, that will help motorists properly change their automobile's antifreeze:

1. Park your car in a safe area, free from traffic. Do not remove the radiator cap or open the drain valve while the engine is hot.

2. Place a bucket underneath the radiator's drain valve to catch the antifreeze or water.

3. Open the drain valve at the bottom of the radiator. Drain and dispose of the used antifreeze according to local laws and regulations. Do not drain onto the ground or into storm drainage systems. After drainage, close the valve.

4. Remove the radiator cap. Fill the radiator with clean water, leaving room for a quality cooling-system flush, like Prestone Super Flush. Add the flush. Run the engine with the heater on high at normal operating temperature for 10 minutes. Stop the engine. Allow to cool. Drain the radiator again. Fill the radiator with water; run the engine for five minutes. Drain the radiator. Close the drain valve.

5. Check the manual for cooling-system capacity and any special service instructions. Prestone suggests adding a mixture of 50 percent minimum to 70 percent maximum of antifreeze and water. Run the engine to normal operating temperature with the heater on high for 10 minutes. Shut off the engine. Allow to cool. Check coolant concentration, and add antifreeze or water if necessary. Drain the coolant recovery tank, and fill with a 50-50 mixture of antifreeze and water.

6. It is very important that used antifreeze solution be disposed of in accordance with local laws and regulations.

"The entire process of changing an automobile's antifreeze should take no more than 45 minutes," adds Lindberg. "By following these steps, motorists can prevent rust, corrosion, overheating, boilovers and many other coolant-related problems and look forward to "cool" summer driving."

Wiper Care Safety Tips

A clean windshield is a safety feature you can't drive without. Rain isn't the only hazard that can cloud your ability to clearly see the road. Mist, mud, road grime, heat, smog, insects and even bird droppings can challenge the performance of your windshield wipers.

No matter what climate you live in, when it's your windshield against the elements, you want dependable wiper blades. It's easy to tell when you need to refill the windshield washer fluid, but have you checked the condition of your wiper blades lately? Why wait until it's drizzling and your wipers only smear dirt on the windshield to inspect the blades?

These five windshield wiper care tips are provided by the experts at Tripledge, the quality, safety and performance wiper blade.

* Check the condition of your windshield wiper blades at least once a month when performing routine car maintenance or cleaning. Don't wait until you're driving in hazardous weather.

* Clean the wiper blades with a damp rag when cleaning the windshield. Wipe free of dirt, grime and bugs.

* Wiper blades should be firm and smooth from end to end, not "dried out."

* Immediately replace blades that are chipped, torn, cracked or split.

* Blades should clear, clean and squeegee the glass completely for optimum visibility without skipping or chattering. Lifetime-guaranteed Tripledge/R premium wiper blades are made of silicone, instead of rubber, which can deteriorate when exposed to the elements. Every time Tripledge blades wipe the windshield, they leave an invisible shield on the glass to help keep it clean; water beads and rolls off your windshield, even when the wipers aren't being used.

There's no substitute for safety, quality and performance," says Victor N. Grillo Sr., president/CEO of Direct To Retail.

For more information about Tripledge and wiper care, call 1-800-517-7600.

FIGURES 1 AND 2 — Squeeze 2 inches from the ends (left) — not in the middle.

Give a Good Squeeze to Detect a Bad Hose

Until recently, the most common method of checking a coolant hose was to visually inspect its outside cover for signs of wear or "ballooning" under pressure. This method is no longer considered completely reliable in light of research by The Gates Rubber Co. that proves most hoses fail from the inside out.

THE ENEMY WITHIN

What you can't see can hurt you. That's what Gates engineers discovered during four years of field-testing. In these tests, they identified the primary cause of coolant-hose failure as an electrochemical attack on the rubber tube compound inside the hose.

The phenomenon is known as electrochemical degradation or ECD. It occurs because the hose, liquid coolant (ethylene glycol antifreeze and water), and the engine/radiator fittings form a galvanic cell or "battery." This chemical reaction causes microcracks in the hose tube, allowing the coolant to attack and weaken the hose reinforcement.

THE "SQUEEZE TEST"

The best way to check a coolant hose for the effects of ECD is to squeeze the hose near the clamps or connectors using the following procedure:

1. Make sure the engine is cool.
2. Use fingers and thumb, not the whole hand, to check for weakness.
3. Squeeze near the connectors. ECD occurs within 2 inches of the ends of the hose - not in the middle.
4. Check for any difference in the feel between the middle and ends of the hose. "Gaps" or "channels" can be felt along the length of the hose where it has been weakened by ECD.
5. If the ends are soft and feel mushy, chances are the hose is under attack by ECD. To avoid breakdowns, replacement is recommended.

SOLVING THE PROBLEM

ECD is evident in almost all cooling-system hoses. The most severe damage occurs where the temperature is hottest and air is present with the coolant, which is why upper radiator hoses tend to fail first.

A replacement interval of four years for all coolant-carrying hoses - especially the upper radiator, bypass and heater hoses - can help prevent unexpected failure from ECD. The incidence of hose failure increases sharply after four years for most vehicles.

To address the damage caused by ECD, Gates developed an electrochemically resistant coolant hose using a new rubber formulation. These new hoses are long-lasting with no ECD effect. In addition to providing electrochemical resistance, the new hose offers improved performance characteristics over a standard rubber hose.

Get Proper Stop For Light Trucks

Ever since the development of front disc brakes, disc brake pads have been "blind" to the vehicles they went on.

The materials used to make the friction material - the material used to stop a vehicle - were generally the same from vehicle to vehicle. If the disc brake pad listed for a pickup truck also would fit a car, it was perfectly acceptable to use it for that.

Americans are doing more with their vehicles, and they demand more from their vehicles; consequently, many drivers have turned to buying pickup trucks, minivans and sport utility vehicles to meet their needs. Although they're now driving trucks, Americans still want the comfort, style and safety they got with their cars.

These demands have led to a new development in disc brake pad technology from Wagner Brake Products. The new ThermoQuiet LTTM disc brake pads are designed specifically for the light-truck category. These pads not only are formulated for light trucks, but also are engineered to eliminate brake squeal in these types of vehicles.

Take a Ride Down Memory Lane

Spring is here, and that usually means it's time to give your car its annual spring-cleaning. Whether you take the car in for a tuneup, change the oil or give it an interior and exterior wash, you will notice just how far your car has come from the days of the horse and buggy. Today's cars are a lot more advanced than ever before.

Do you remember a time when cars were not required to have automatic seat belts or air bags? How about when a new car cost less than $600?

Take a short break from your spring-cleaning chores to relive the days when cars had a two-piece curved windshield and tail fins. The following events, courtesy of "Chronicle of the 20th Century" (Dorling Kindersley), are some highlights of important events in the development of the modern car.

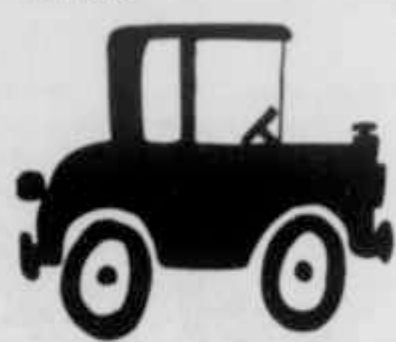

April 1908 — U.S. Steel begins producing all-metal automobile wheels.

June 1919 — New York inaugurates a written test for driver's license applicants.

November 1927 — The price for a new Ford automobile jumps almost $200 from $385 to $570.

February 1930 — Traffic lights are installed at Manhattan, N.Y., intersections to protect pedestrians and drivers.

January 1938 — General Motors Corp. begins mass production of diesel engines.

September 1948 — The Cadillac comes complete with a two-piece curved windshield, a wide rear window, tail fins inspired by Lockheed's P-38 fighter aircraft and a Hydramatic automatic transmission.

July 1952 — GM offers cars with an air cooling system.

March 1960 — In New York, a car is displayed with a battery recharged by solar cells.

December 1970 — President Nixon signs a bill to cut automobile fumes 90 percent by 1977.

March 1971 — Ford Motor Co. recalls all Pintos due to an engine defect.

January 1974 — President Nixon signs a bill for a 55 mph ceiling on the speed limit.

January 1975 — Chrysler, GM and Ford — the Big Three American automobile makers — offer rebates to customers in an attempt to spur the sales of new cars.

September 1980 — The Chevy Chevette, Ford Escort and Lincoln Mercury Lynx are the first U.S. cars to record 30 miles per gallon.

July 1984 — United States announces air bags or automatic seat belts are required in cars by 1989.

July 1984 — New York institutes the nation's first mandatory seat-belt law.

Annual Oil Change Saves Time and Money

Tradition has it that oil should be changed every 2,000 to 3,000 miles and windows washed every spring. Wouldn't it be nice if you only had to change your oil once every 8,000, 10,000 or 15,000 miles? Or better, only once every year? Spring-cleaning could include the annual spring oil change.

The primary reason auto manufacturers traditionally have recommended frequent oil changes is because petroleum-based motor oils tend to break down in the severe service conditions they are required to perform under. The internal combustion engine is a harsh environment, and not every motor oil can take the heat.

Since 1972, the winds of change have been blowing. That was the year AMSOIL introduced its first 100-percent-synthetic 25,000-Miles-Or-One-Year motor oil. Today, high-tech synthetic motor oils are changing the way Americans think about engine lubrication.

The benefits of man-made, or synthesized, motor oils are many:

- * Superior engine protection and reduced maintenance costs
- * Increased fuel economy due to superior lubricity
- * Cleaner engine operation
- * Extended intervals between oil changes
- * Easier cold-temperature starts

The cold-temperature benefits of synthetic motor oils always have been easy to see. However, it's in high-heat conditions when synthetics demonstrate their strongest advantage.

First, because there is less friction between moving parts, engines run cooler. According to Mike Anson, former Motor Trend editor from Long Beach, Calif., "Even running at 'wide-open' throttle in the desert, the oil temperature remained constant."

Second, because synthetics are less volatile, they stay within viscosity specifications and maintain their performance ability. Anson, who is also a racer, says, "With AMSOIL Series 2000 synthetic motor oil in the engine, I don't have to worry about viscosity breakdown. I can concentrate on driving."

A major problem with traditional petroleum motor oils is their volatility. Volatility is a measure of how an engine oil withstands heat. If an oil can't take the heat, it boils off or volatilizes. As this boiling off occurs, the remaining oil becomes thicker, forming lacquer and damaging deposits on precision engine parts. Typical petroleum oils excessively break down at 250 F. Synthetic motor oils have flash points of about 460 F and fire points of approximately 495 F.

Evaporation loss is of particular importance in motor and cylinder lubrication. Because of the high temperatures encountered within the internal-combustion engine, high evaporation loss can result in increased oil consumption and lead to a change in the oil's lubricating properties.

Are synthetic motor oils for everyone, then? No, they're not necessarily recommended for engines that are mechanically unsound or have leaking gaskets and seals. However, synthetic motor oils may be used in any mechanically sound engine where API-approved lubricants are specified.

For motorists considering switching to synthetic motor oils, proper filtration becomes an important factor when extending drain intervals. Oil filters remove dirt and other particulates that can lead to engine wear. Full-flow oil filters manufactured by Fram, Hastings, AMSOIL or NAPA, for example, yield good results. Change your oil filter at the engine or filter manufacturer's recommended interval, and "top off" your oil to the proper level required for your engine.

Straight Talk About Rear-Wheel Alignment

Several misconceptions exist among car owners regarding wheel alignment for today's lighter, front-wheel-drive cars and vans.

For example, rear-wheel alignment was rarely a problem on rear-wheel-drive vehicles with their full-frame construction and solid rear-axle design. That's changed since the late 1970s, when car manufacturers began converting models to unibody construction and independent rear-suspension systems with rear-alignment capabilities.

"These new independent suspension systems have lighter components, but are still expected to take the same abuse as the older systems," says Terry Hawkins, alignment specialist and senior instructor with Moog Automotive. "In the summer, families load up these downsized cars for vacations - and even pull boats and trailers - expecting them to perform the same as a full-size sedan."

"Just loading these cars with four adults, or packing the trunk, can change rear alignment. Driving over curbs and potholes further accelerates these changes. For this reason, most vehicle manufacturers recommend more frequent intervals for rotating tires and checking wheel alignment. A rule of thumb for wheel service used to be every 25,000 miles to 30,000 miles, but many service manuals now recommend 7,500-mile intervals."

WHAT TO LOOK FOR

Rear-wheel misalignment occurs when the direction the vehicle's wheels are heading is not in line with the geometric center line of the vehicle. "You've seen cars where the rear of the vehicle looks like it's going to pass the front - that's a rear-alignment problem," says Hawkins.

Depending on the severity of the misalignment, both handling and safety of the vehicle can be affected, especially under poor road conditions caused by rain, snow and ice. Hawkins explains, "If the rear of the vehicle is out of alignment, front-wheel steering can be affected and lead to tire slip or loss of traction or control." Uneven tire wear, especially on the inside and outside edges, is a common indication of rear-wheel misalignment. Wear patterns will vary on different tires according to their construction and thread design, but once a particular pattern appears, it will continue for the life of the tire.

Other symptoms of rear-wheel misalignment include:

- * a growling noise that's similar to a defective wheel bearing;
- * an off-center steering wheel;
- * vehicle pulls to the left or right;
- * rear-end wander, also known as rear-axle steer; and
- * rough handling during and after turns.

New tires won't remedy rear-wheel misalignment and eventually will wear prematurely if the misalignment is not corrected. Hawkins emphasizes that a single tire usually costs more than the price of the alignment. What if only the front end is aligned? The front wheels will still steer parallel with the misaligned rear wheels as soon as the car is driven, according to Hawkins.

PROBLEM ALIGNMENTS

Although most front-wheel-drive vehicles provide rear-wheel-alignment capabilities, some are not fully adjustable and may require specially designed components. In these situations, a variety of inexpensive alignment aids are available that allow the service technician to make the necessary adjustments.

These adjustments can be made quickly and reliably using today's high-tech diagnostic equipment. It's all computerized and can actually identify and graphically display the alignment capabilities of a vehicle by make and model. The alignment equipment automatically calculates the desired amount of correction necessary, making installation quick and virtually error-free.

Facts You Should Know About Carbon Monoxide

What is carbon monoxide? Carbon monoxide (CO) consists of a carbon atom and an oxygen atom linked together. A product of incomplete burning of hydrocarbon-based fuels, carbon monoxide is a colorless, odorless, poisonous gas.

WHY IS CARBON MONOXIDE A PUBLIC HEALTH PROBLEM?

Carbon monoxide enters the bloodstream through the lungs and forms carboxyhemoglobin, a compound that inhibits the blood's capacity to carry oxygen to organs and tissues.

Persons with heart disease are especially sensitive to carbon monoxide poisoning and may experience chest pain if they breathe the gas while exercising. Infants, fetuses, elderly persons and individuals with respiratory diseases are also particularly sensitive. Carbon monoxide can affect healthy individuals, impairing exercise capacity, visual perception, manual dexterity, learning functions and the ability to perform complex tasks.

HOW IS CARBON MONOXIDE FORMED?

Carbon monoxide results from incomplete combustion of fuel and is emitted directly from a vehicle's tailpipe. Incomplete combustion is most likely to occur at low air-to-fuel ratios in the engine.

These conditions are most common during vehicle starting, when air supply is restricted ("choke"), and at altitudes where the "thin" air effectively reduces the amount of oxygen available for combustion (except in cars that are designed or adjusted to compensate for altitude).

Two-thirds of the nationwide carbon monoxide emissions come from transportation sources, with the largest contribution coming from highway motor vehicles. In urban areas, the contribution from motor vehicles is often greater.

In Los Angeles, a city with severe carbon monoxide pollution, motor vehicles account for approximately 87 percent of the carbon monoxide emissions.

Vacation Safety: Six Tips To See And Be Seen

Car Care Council

Everything points to another summer of record breaking highway travel. Most of us will have our cars checked and serviced before we hit the road, confident that we have taken every safety precaution. However, being safe means more than having good tires, a spare and a flare in the trunk. Highway safety begins with a driver who can see and be seen.

Fully 18% of vehicles inspected during National Car Care Month 1995 (October) failed because of lighting discrepancies.

From worn out windshield wipers to a sudden sneeze, there many ways a driver's vision can be impaired. It's tough to anticipate a sneeze, but you certainly have plenty of warning when windshield wipers begin smearing and chattering across the glass. Your vision/visibility check list should include:

1. WIPERS--Wiper blades should be checked periodically. If they're worn or brittle, better late than too late to replace them. Depending upon your climate, the rubber "squeegee" part of your blades may be effective for only six months.

Clean them periodically with glass cleaner or windshield wiper solvent to remove accumulated oily road film.

If the wiper arm springs are weak or broken, replace the arm. This ensures the pressure will be evenly distributed along the length of the blade.

Be sure the windshield washers are working properly, too, and that you keep the reservoir filled with solvent.

2. SIGNALS--Get in the habit of checking your turn signals, brake lights and emergency flashers. They are essential for communication. When they're not working properly, other drivers can't get your message and the results can be disastrous.

3. HEADLIGHTS--When the sun goes down, your chance of being involved in a fatal accident may increase by as much as 300%.

That's a good reason to check your headlights periodically. Make sure they work on both high and low beam and are properly aimed. It's also a good idea to keep your headlights on while driving in the daylight. They help define your car's position on the road, and its distance from other drivers.

4. REAR WINDOW--If you have luggage, camping gear or other travel items loaded in the rear window, you may be an accident waiting to happen. Although side mirrors help, they are a poor substitute for a clear view out the back window. Likewise, an unobstructed view when backing up is essential.

5. WINDSHIELD--The combined effect of chipped or cracked glass, bugs and road film obscure vision. Repair a damaged windshield as soon as possible and clean it regularly with windshield wiper solvent and a clean paper towel or cloth.

6. SUNGLASSES--There are times when the sun visors above your windshield will not be enough to shield your eyes from glare, so have a good pair of sunglasses handy. Beware of substandard eye wear. It can distort your vision and fail to provide necessary ultraviolet protection.

Be certain you can see and be seen, reminds the Council.

Help Your Teen Be Safe Behind the Wheel

You've just tuned up the car; it's washed, waxed and ready to go. You're about to sit down and relax when your teen-ager asks to borrow the car. What do you do?

You know your son or daughter is a responsible person, but you also know the facts: More than 5,000 young people die every year in car crashes, and thousands more are injured. Drivers who are 16 are more than 20 times as likely to have a crash as are other drivers.

To ease your mind and help your child, the American Academy of Pediatrics recommends that you establish driving rules. To do this, it is important to understand the two main reasons why teens are at a higher risk for being in a car crash:

1) Lack of experience - Teens drive faster than and do not control the car as well as more experienced drivers. Their judgment in traffic is often insufficient to avoid a crash. In addition, teens do most of their driving at night, which can be even more difficult.

2) Tendency to take risks while driving - Teen drivers are more likely to be influenced by peers and other stresses and distractions. This can lead to reckless driving behaviors, like speeding, driving while under the influence of drugs or alcohol, and not wearing safety belts.

With these reasons in mind, you need to set up rules and discuss them with your teen-ager. Remind him or her that you've made these rules because you care about his or her safety, and stand firm if he or she complains. Don't hesitate to revoke driving privileges if any rule is broken.

One way to help your teen gain the experience needed to drive safely and responsibly is to slowly increase driving privileges. Some states have instituted graduated licensing laws, through which learning to drive is spread over three stages. Teen drivers must meet certain restrictions for at least six months before moving on to the next stage. If your state hasn't adopted these laws yet, here are some suggestions from the American Academy of Pediatrics for creating your own graduated licensing program:

STAGE ONE

* Teen must be at least 15 1/2 or have a legal learner's permit
* Teen must drive with a licensed adult driver, the parent if possible, at all times

* No driving between 10 p.m. and 5 a.m. or no driving after sunset
* Driver and all passengers must wear safety belts

* No use of tobacco, alcohol or other drugs
* Teen must remain ticket-free and crash-free for six months before moving up to the next stage

STAGE TWO

* Teen must be at least 16 or have driven with a learner's permit for at least six months
* Teen must drive with a licensed adult driver, the parent if possible, during nighttime hours

* Teen allowed to drive unsupervised during daytime hours

* Passengers restricted to one nonfamily member during daytime hours
* No use of tobacco, alcohol or other drugs

* Driver and all passengers must wear safety belts

* Teen must remain ticket-free and crash-free for 12 months before moving up to the next stage

STAGE THREE

* Teen must be at least 18 or have driven at least two years at the previous stage

* No restrictions on driving as long as the teen driver remains ticket-free and crash-free for six months

* No use of tobacco, alcohol or other drugs

* All passengers must wear safety belts

Other ways you can better your teen's driving include:

* Require that your teen maintain good grades in school before he or she can drive. Check with your auto insurance company to see if any "good student" discounts are available.

* Set a good driving example (no use of alcohol or other drugs, no speeding, always wear your safety belt, and require that safety belts be worn by all passengers).

* Remind your teen how important it is to stay focused on driving and not get distracted by excessively loud music or talking on a cellular phone.

* Let your teen know that driving after drinking or using other drugs will not be tolerated. Tell him or her to call you or someone else for a ride any time her or she or any other driver has been drinking or using drugs. Let your teen know that you will pick him or her up.

So, stop worrying about your child being behind the wheel, and help him or her become a safe, responsible driver. Your support and encouragement can make a big difference.

For more information about keeping your children safe on the road, contact the American Academy of Pediatrics, Division of Publications, 141 Northwest Point Blvd., P.O. Box 927, Elk Grove Village, IL 60009-0927.

Improper Vehicle Height Can Affect Drive Line and Suspension Performance

TOO LOW

TOO HIGH

Altering ride height for cosmetic reasons may result in rave reviews from friends and colleagues, but the effect on the vehicle can result in high heat buildup in the drive line, binding in steering and suspension components, tire wear, vibration, and premature failure.

"Ride height is the angle that all wheel alignment angles are built around and should be kept within manufacturer specifications for optimum performance of the entire steering, suspension and drive line systems," explains Al Lynch, manager of technical services for Moog Automotive.

On light trucks, for example, the steering linkage has a designed operating range that helps to minimize normal road force exerted on individual steering components, like the pitman arm, idler arm and tie rod assemblies.

"The result of increased chassis height or an overloaded chassis can contribute to increased linkage angles," says Lynch. "This increase in angles can accelerate wear and lead to failure of these steering components. Under some conditions, the load may be sufficient to bend the idler arm bracket."

Drive line performance also is affected by improper vehicle height in both light trucks and passenger vehicles. Lynch reports, "Excessive height change may force the universal joint in light trucks to operate out of the desired angle range, producing vibration and joint failure."

"Placing drive line components like CV joints and rubber CV joint boots in extreme angles can cause damage to those components. Incorrect vehicle height can cause continuous high joint angularity, making the joint work harder and creating more heat. It also can cause the convolutions on rubber CV boots to chafe and wear."

Lynch recommends making a quick visual inspection and road test

to determine the condition of the CV joint boots and CV joints, regardless of whether ride height has been intentionally altered. "Begin by placing the vehicle in park on a level surface, and turn your wheels completely to the right to expose the rubber bellows of the CV joints," says Lynch.

"Examine the boots closely for cracks, splits and grease spray around surrounding parts. Make sure the clamps are tight and in the proper locations. When driving the vehicle, listen for a clicking noise in turns, which usually results from wear in the outer CV joint.

"If you hear a clunking noise during acceleration or braking, that's usually due to a worn inner joint. If you feel a shudder, that usually indicates a worn or sticking inner joint. If any of these conditions are detected, it's time to visit your service technician," he says.

"No alignment adjustment can restore a vehicle

Robert Bosch Corporation

With the sophistication of today's increasingly computerized automobile engines, it's become difficult for the do-it-yourselfer to service or tune-up the engine on his own vehicle. And along with this computerization come new parts that are crucial, both for optimal engine performance and also to stay within the bounds of environmental laws regarding engine emissions.

The oxygen sensor is one of those crucial components. They're roughly the size of clothes pins, yet many people don't even know they exist. But they play a pivotal role in monitoring engine exhaust, one of the most common causes of air pollution.

The first oxygen sensor was introduced into automotive engines in 1976 (on a Volvo 240) by The Robert Bosch Corporation.

The oxygen sensor is a measuring probe for determining the amount of oxygen in the exhaust. It continually monitors exhaust gases and signals the engine computer to adjust the air/fuel ratio to ensure that gasoline combustion is as complete as possible, thus reducing harmful emissions while also improving engine performance and fuel efficiency.

In fact, replacing a degraded oxygen sensor with a new one will increase fuel efficiency by 10 to 15 percent.

Oxygen sensors also play a key role in ensuring that vehicles pass the new emissions inspection programs that will be required in many states due to the Federal Clean Air Act.

"Studies show that two thirds of all vehicle emissions test failures are a result of worn out oxygen sensors," explained Chuck Ruth, Bosch general product manager. "Those numbers are staggering when you consider that oxygen sensors are easy enough to replace and that the vast majority of them are also inexpensive, costing roughly $20 to $50."

"Even if you're not a do-it-yourselfer, it's a good idea to have a professional service technician check your oxygen sensor on a regular basis: every 30,000 to 50,000 miles for an "unheated" 1 or 2 wire sensor or every 60-100,000 miles for a "heated" 3 or 4 wire sensor. When the oxygen sensor is degraded, you can very quickly recoup its low replacement cost from the fuel savings of up to $100 a year resulting from complete combustion and a smoother running engine."

How can you tell if you need a new oxygen sensor? Common symptoms of a worn out sensor include excessive fuel consumption, high emissions, engine surging or hesitation, or premature failure of the catalytic converter. When examining the sensor, a shiny deposit on the sensor's heat shield or any gummy deposits indicate it's time to check and/or replace the sensor.

Oil Change Saves Time and Money

Tradition has it that oil should be changed every 2,000 to 3,000 miles. The primary reason auto manufacturers traditionally have recommended frequent oil changes is because petroleum-based motor oils tend to break down in the severe service conditions they are required to perform under.

Today's lighter, hotter-running engines place greater demands on engine oil in both summer and winter. For this reason, consumers are switching to synthetic motor oils, like AMSOIL's 100-percent-synthetic 25,000-Miles-Or-One-Year motor oil, for superior year-round protection and performance.

For more information on synthetic lubrication, AMSOIL offers a free catalog of premium car-care products. Contact AMSOIL Inc., 925 Tower Ave., Superior, WI 54880, or call toll-free 1-800-777-8491.

Identify Engine-Belt Problems

Serpentine belts rapidly are replacing the traditional multi-V-belt drives that have been the mainstay of automotive engine drives for more than 70 years. Today, most car manufacturers use a single V-ribbed serpentine belt to drive multiple engine accessories, including the water pump, fan, power-steering pump, air-conditioner compressor and alternator.

Approximately 90 percent of the cars leaving Detroit now come equipped with V-ribbed serpentine belts. Many import-car manufacturers haven't yet converted to serpentine drives, relying instead on conventional two- and three-point drives.

Serpentine belts should be checked periodically for signs of wear, suggests The Gates Rubber Co. Random belt cracks appear later in the belt's life and are a prelude to failure. Other indications of wear include chunking where parts of the ribs break off (replace the belt immediately), glazing of belt sidewalls, pilling and oil contamination. Pilling occurs when belt material wears off the belt and fills the pulley grooves. Belt noise is another indication of a problem. Older belts become smoother, creating a glossy, glazed surface, which raises the likelihood of noise occurring. However, different noises can mean different kinds of problems.

Belt "chirping" (an intermittent, high-pitched noise that can be heard as the engine is revved up) usually indicates pulley misalignment, but it also can be a result of pilling. A squealing noise that occurs when pulling away from a stop usually suggests incorrect belt tensioning. A slapping sound is likely caused by either loose belts, which need to be retensioned, or misalignment of the belts, according to Gates.

Belt noise also can result from vibration caused when belts are loose or undertensioned. Vibration may happen over time as bearings loosen up, as the brackets become looser or as they deflect more than expected.

Vibration can produce several different types of sounds. Chirping noises are possible if the vibration is bad enough, but at a level that is barely audible.

Contamination of the belt drive is perhaps the easiest cause of belt noise to identify. The belt can be viewed for oil contamination or rocks in the belt. Rocks sometimes will be pushed through to the backside of the belt, and the holes may be visible. Pilling or dust accumulation on the belt also may be obvious. Gates engineers recommend changing serpentine belts every four years, regardless of appearance. To be safe, motorists are advised to keep a replacement belt in the trunk next to the vehicle's spare tire.

"Good Question . . ."

Q. I have a front wheel drive car and I hear a popping noise when turning a corner. What could cause this noise?

A. A popping or clicking noise when turning is almost always a sign of a worn CV (constant velocity) joint going bad. If a joint is noisy, a visual inspection would be in order. The technician would first inspect for loose or torn boots. If the boot is torn and the joint has lost its lubricant chances are the joint has been damaged by water and dirt and will need to be replaced.

Q. When should I service my cooling system?

A. At my shop we recommend to our customers that the cooling system be serviced every 2 years or 24,000 miles (car manufacturers say 3 years 36,000). There are additives in antifreeze that provide alkaline to help neutralize internal corrosion before it begins. We are finding that after 2 years the antifreeze starts to lose the corrosion resistance. When having your system serviced, it should be flushed to help remove debris that may have accumulated in the system. It should then be refilled with a 50/50 mixture of antifreeze and clean water. This is also a great time for a visual inspection of your hoses and belts.

Q. My technician suggested that I have a fuel injection service performed on my car. Could I just add some fuel injection cleaner to my gas tank?

A. Many of today's vehicles that are fuel injected require a professional cleaning every so often. I like to see my customers have a fuel injection service done when they have their tune-up done. A fuel injection service is definitely different than the cleaners you put in your gas tank. This procedure disables the fuel system temporarily so that a cleaning solution, under pressure, can be run through your fuel injection system. This cleaning process also helps to break up carbon deposits that may be built up on your engine valves. The process may also include cleaning the throttle plates. If you have a fuel injected vehicle this service should be added to your yearly maintenance list.

Q. I drive an older vehicle that is equipped with air-conditioning and it uses the R-12 type of refrigerant. I am worried that I won't be able to get it repaired if I need to this summer.

A. Many people have asked the same question and are worried about their older cars that have this type of refrigerant. As of right now there is still plenty of R-12 available but at an expensive price. In most cases if your car just needs to be recharged or has a minor problem with the system which can be repaired for a few hundred dollars it is better to just have the A/C repaired. However, if it is a major repair and you plan to keep the vehicle for a while, you may consider having the system retrofitted for R134a—the new product. Kits are available for almost every vehicle.

Q. My vehicle seems to be rusting especially on the bottom of the doors. Any ideas why this is occurring? I had my vehicle rustproofed when it was new.

A. If you live in a climate where you have seasons of rain or snow it is important to have the drain plugs that are in the bottom of the doors removed and let any moisture escape that may have built up over time. Most rustproofing warranties include an annual touch-up and inspection for a small fee. Try to have this done annually. Also keep your car's exterior as clean as you can—avoid allowing road dirt and salt build up. A semi-annual wax will help keep the paint color from fading and the outside elements from penetrating the paint.

Cool Car Care for Warm Weather

Springtime and cars have always had a strong relationship — as the mercury rises, convertible tops go down. For the next few months, Mother Nature will treat us to warm breezes, blooming flowers, and endless opportunities to crank up our favorite tunes and go for a drive. But, as the walls of winter come tumbling down, what's left in the wake is a dull car coated with months of dust, dirt and road salt — not very refreshing.

Since cruising the highways and byways can be less than cool when the color of your car can best be described as "yuck," now is the perfect time to take a few minutes and restore your car's sparkle. How can cleaning up your car be cool? When it doesn't take a lot of time and effort to get the end result. In fact, many people admit they "feel" better when their car is clean and shiny.

For those ready to "spring clean" the car, Armor All, which celebrates the 25th anniversary of Armor All's Protectant in 1997, has created an easy four-step spring-cleaning guide using its newest products designed to give you maximum results in minimum time.

The first step is a good washing, which usually means dragging out the hose, buckets, scrub brushes, soap, etc. — and that's not cool. What is cool is that you can wash your car without water and all the hassle — and in only 15 minutes. Simply spray on and wipe off Armor All's Express Wash™ Waterless Car Wash to end the "hose woes" and drive away with a freshly washed shine.

A waterless car wash is especially convenient for apartment and city dwellers, where driveways and access to water can be a problem. And, you simply may not have the time or quarters to drive to a car wash or spray stall. This is also great when your car needs a last-minute touch-up before you take the boss to lunch, have a hot date, pick up your mother-in-law or go for that make-or-break interview.

After washing comes step two — protecting the paint. The problem is that most people don't have the time or the "elbow grease" to wax the car. Once again, you can cut the buffing time by using Armor All's Armor Plate® Paint Protectant, which sprays on and wipes off, protects like wax, enhances the color, and leaves a shiny finish that lasts for weeks. While your friends may think you labored for hours to get a mirrorlike finish, you can give your car a coat of armor in only 15 minutes.

Now that the outside of your car looks great, what about the inside? Once you're in the driver's seat, you may turn up the tunes and find yourself singing, "I can see clearly now ...," but you realize — you can't — you forgot about the windshield. During the winter, your car windows get a tough buildup of dirt, road grime and bugs on the outside and a hazy, oily film on the inside. And, you don't want to miss seeing those great spring colors or the street signs.

So for step three, reach for the bottle of household glass cleaner, right? Wrong! Using a household product on car windows is definitely not cool. Most have ammonia, which not only is unsafe for tinted windows, but also can cause streaking. If you want to make your windshield look transparent, use a cleaner developed specifically for automotive glass, like Armor All's Auto Glass Cleaner. Research proves it leaves your windshield crystal clear and streak-free so the beautiful colors of spring can come shining through.

Along with the warmer weather comes an increase in ozone — the invisible enemy that eats away at your car's vinyl, plastic and rubber surfaces. Heat and ozone combine to "bake out" the chemicals that protect your car's dashboard and break down the bonds of the rubber in your car's tires. Without proper protection, those surfaces will look like "Old Man Winter" instead of a "spring chicken."

Step four includes protecting and shining the surfaces on the interior and exterior of your car — which is very important. For interior surfaces, like the dash, door panels and seats (vinyl and treated leather), apply a protectant to replenish the chemicals necessary to keep these surfaces soft and pliable, protecting them from the sun's harmful UV rays. Most people "Armor All" their surfaces, but some don't like the slippery finish. So if you have one of those big windshields and your dashboard is Shock & Struts—More Than Just a Comfortable Ride!

Gabriel Ride Control

What Shocks & Struts Do

Shock absorbers and struts do more than just provide a comfortable ride. Their most important function is to influence the control and handling characteristics of your vehicle. Without them, a vehicle would continually bounce and bound down the road, making driving extremely difficult. Shocks and struts are designed to help keep your tires on the road. They control the action of the spring to resist bottoming out ... like when you hit a pothole ... and keep the movement of the springs under control when they rebound.

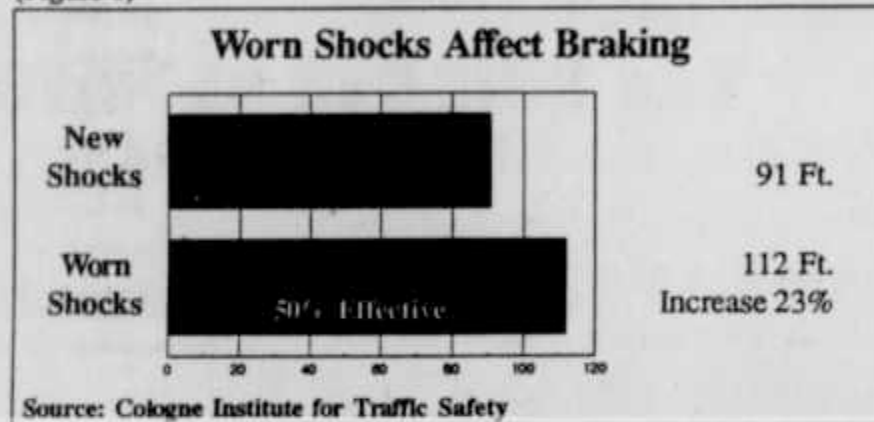

How Shocks & Struts Work

According to the experts at Gabriel Ride Control, shocks provide resistance by forcing hydraulic fluid (oil) through valves in the piston as it moves up and down. Because the oil cannot be compressed, only a certain amount of fluid can be forced through these valves, which creates resistance to the vehicle movement. Premium shocks and struts are superior to regular hydraulic shocks because air in the shock is replaced by pressurized nitrogen gas. This advancement in technology prevents bubbles from forming in the hydraulic fluid. These bubbles, called foaming, reduces the ability of shocks to provide resistance and prevent bounce. Gas shocks also quicken the response of a shock's movement thereby increasing comfort and control under all conditions.

How to Tell if Shocks & Struts Need Replacement

Under normal conditions, shocks & struts wear out gradually. However, many factors can affect how much wear is actually occurring and at what rate it is occurring. For example, 2 people buy the same vehicle new off the dealer lot ...

one lives in the city close to the office, and drives mostly on straight roads. The other lives in the country, 45 miles from the office and must travel 10 of those miles on a winding, often muddy gravel road. Because shocks operate in extremely hostile under-vehicle environment, where anything from gravel to ice, and snow to grit can affect the life of the product, it is a good bet that driver #2 will need to replace his shocks long before driver #1. The piston rod can easily be nicked or damaged by flying gravel allowing grit and dirt to damage the piston seal. When this occurs, fluid begins to leak from the piston seal and eventually the shock will lose its ability to function properly.

Worn shocks and struts not only affect the ride comfort and control of your vehicle, but can affect its braking effectiveness, too, as shown in Figure 1.

Here is a good self test to check for signs of worn shocks or struts:

- Do you experience excessive bounce (3 or more bounces) when crossing an intersection or dip?
- When stopping quickly, does your vehicle rock back and forth several times?
- While applying your brakes firmly at higher speeds, does your vehicle have a tendency to drift left or right?
- When changing lanes quickly does your vehicle rock or sway from side to side?

- On a tight curve like a freeway ramp, does your vehicle lean and sway giving it an uneasy and disconnected feeling?

Many components contribute to the handling characteristics of your vehicle. Having your vehicle inspected if you experience any of the above signs is good preventive maintenance and can help parts wear less and last longer. When inspecting shocks and struts, your service technician will look for:

- A badly leaking shock or strut. The unit is losing fluid and can't provide the resistance it was originally designed for.
- Shiny spots at the contact point of the safety bumper, and marks between the coils of the spring called "coil clash". They are the result of topping and bottoming caused by excessive suspension travel.
- Tire cupping around the circumference of the tire can be caused by worn or ineffective shocks & struts.
- Broken or loose shock or strut mount. The product is not solidly connected at both ends and cannot function properly.
- Broken or damaged piston rod. The product cannot function properly and should be replaced.

So, now that you've got the facts, wouldn't you agree that shocks and struts provide more than just a comfortable ride?

HEAT: TOUGH ON TRANSMISSIONS

MANY AUTOMATIC TRANSMISSION FAILURES ARE DUE TO SEVERE SERVICE SUCH AS TRAILER TOWING OR HAULING HEAVY LOADS, ESPECIALLY IN HOT WEATHER IN HILLY TERRITORY. OVERHEATING CAUSES DETERIORATION OF TRANSMISSION FLUID: EVENTUALLY SEALS HARDEN AND CLUTCHES BURN OUT.

CHECK YOUR TRANSMISSION FLUID: IF IT SMELLS BURNED OR HAS A BROWNISH CAST RATHER THAN ITS NORMAL CHERRY RED COLOR, HAVE IT AND THE FILTER REPLACED. CONSULT YOUR TRANSMISSION SPECIALIST ABOUT HAVING A COOLER INSTALLED.

the size of a picnic table, use Armor All's Interior Protectant, which offers a great shine, four times as much UV protection as other protectants and a slip-free finish.

Along with the detrimental effects of heat and ozone, exterior vinyl, plastic and rubber surfaces, like tires, bumpers and trim, also suffer from the erosion caused by rain, salt, road cinders, etc. To protect these surfaces and keep them looking their best, apply a product like Armor All's Exterior Protectant, which is specifically designed for outside surfaces and has all-weather protection that lasts for weeks. It will add a deep, dark shine that will make all the surfaces spring. After you complete this four-step spring-cleaning plan, you'll feel ready for a road trip to enjoy the fruits of your efforts and the sounds and smells of spring. rust. But, a few minutes on a Saturday morning and a can of a superpenetrating lubricant, like Power Lube® from CRC Industries Inc., can help undo some of the ravages of winter.

CRC lubrication experts have put together this easy seven-point preventative maintenance program:

1. Door hinges - Open the car door, and spray the door hinges with Power Lube superpenetrating lubricant. Then, gently open and close the door so the spray can thoroughly lubricate all surfaces.

2. Radio antennas - The winter months are brutal on a car's antenna. If a car has a power antenna, the lubricating grease can become brittle and cause the motor to seize. To prevent this, simply extend the antenna, and spray Power Lube into a rag. Then, glide the rag over the antenna's surface to remove any grease buildup.

3. Brake, clutch and accelerator pedals - Like all hinges, foot pedals need lubrication and can develop squeaks over time. Since Power Lube has a "spray-in-any-position" valve, these difficult-to-get-to places can be lubricated easily. Plus, Power Lube does not have an offensive odor like other lubricants, so it can be used in the most confined places of a car's interior.

4. Hood latches - The hood latch is located under the hood, where dirt, mud and snow clog the release mechanism, preventing the hood from opening. To keep the hood latch working smoothly, simply spray Power Lube on the latch and cable.

5. Light sockets - Exterior light sockets can become corroded from dirt and moisture, causing light bulbs to fail prematurely. To prevent this, simply remove the bulb, and spray the socket with Power Lube superpenetrating lubricant. It will help prevent corrosion while providing a proper electrical connection.

6. Distributor cap - Moisture can build up in the distributor and cause starting problems. After the winter months (even if the car starts normally), remove the distributor cap, and spray the electrical contacts with a thin coating of Power Lube. The water-displacing properties of Power Lube will remove any moisture present and help the car start more efficiently.

7. Fuel door hinge - This hinge can squeak and bind after being exposed to winter dirt, mud, snow and grime. A light coating of Power Lube will wash away these contaminants and keep the door operating freely.

THE REPUBLICAN, OAKLAND, MARYLAND - CAR CARE, THURSDAY, MAY 1, 1997 11

No one can stop winter from coming. But, by following these simple steps, some of the problems it causes can be prevented.

Care Council have compiled a book of 110 multiple choice questions and answers on this subject. Their objective: to reduce maintenance neglect in the interests of highway safety, fuel efficiency, and reduced vehicle emissions.

What Do You Know About Car Care?

"All I know is to turn the key to start it..." "Brake fluid? What brake fluid? My husband checks that, I

*See Dealer For Details.

INSTEAD OF BUYING A NEW CAR, you may be able to save yourself the time and effort of going from dealership to dealership simply by repairing your old car. Consider using the money you would have used for a down payment to pay for the needed repairs.

Is Replacing Your Old Car Worth All of the Effort?

Is your old car squeezing you for everything you're worth? Are you fighting the urge, with every last ounce of determination, to head for the dealer's showroom or used-car lot? Well, whether it's the once-trusty family sedan, the once-shiny sports car or the pickup that was once the envy of truckers from Idaho to Ohio, your once-prized vehicle probably represents a sizable investment.

Thinking about investing perhaps no more than the amount of a down payment to fix it up just may make the soundest financial sense. A little money can go a long way toward upgrading a car.

Here's how to consider this option objectively:

1. Visit a mechanic, and let him inspect your car. After compiling a list of mechanical needs, he can approximate the cost to put it back in good shape. If the car is paid for, you'll probably save money by giving it a new lease on life. Further, by having it repaired, you can make your car serviceable for another two to three years while saving toward its replacement. After all, you'll probably have more value to bargain with when you're ready to trade.

2. Diagnosing mechanical problems is one consideration, but how about a manicure? Car owners should look to buffing out the paint job, fixing dented fenders or replacing missing trim. Some touch-up work or perhaps a new paint job may be needed. How about pinstripes or adding rims to dress up the tires a bit?

3. Next, look at the interior. Does the fabric need to be cleaned and/or repaired? Would a sunroof make "Old Faithful" snazzier?

To estimate the costs of a cosmetic upgrade, you'll need the help of a body and paint shop, as well as an upholstery and trim professional.

If you decide to revamp the car you already own, depending upon the extent of the project, you may need a little help from your bank. Most banks will be eager to finance a loan for repairs on an older car - the sum will be less than a loan for a new car and, therefore, there's a reduced risk. Your payments will be smaller and on a shorter term also.

So, the options beckon:

* a new car that may strain the budget and depreciate once you drive off the lot.

* a used car that's an unknown, and

* the once-beloved car you already own. Remember, regardless of the work your car requires, it may not be as costly as the first two options. Put the pencil to it, and arrive at a conclusive figure. Treat your car to a make-over or an upgrade and, in return, it will give you extended years of driving enjoyment.

Winters Is Named New County OBPI Administrator

Scott Winters, a local self-employed contractor, has been named as the Garrett County Building Codes Administrator, according to Lamont Pagenhardt, administrative officer for the Garrett County Commissioners.

To comply with state and federal law, the county must have an Office of Building Permits and Inspections (OBPI) established and operating by August 1 of this year. Preparations for this new office, which will issue building permits and several other building-related authorizations, have been underway for several months. (See related story.)

The administrator position was advertised in December of last year and the county office received 40 applications for the job, Pagenhardt said. Three individuals were interviewed and Winters was named to the position yesterday.

The new administrator is a graduate of West Virginia University, where he earned a degree in mechanical engineering. He is a current member of the West Virginia Air Guard and a veteran of the Desert Storm Initiative. Winters has been a self-employed contractor for several years. He is also a graduate of Southern High School. He and his wife Dana reside in Oakland.

Pagenhardt said the interview process involved he and John Nelson, director of the Garrett County Planning and Zoning Office, as well as the Building Codes Advisory Committee. The commissioners gave the final approval on the hiring of Winters.

An inspector position may be a part of the office, Pagenhardt said, although the commissioners have yet to finalize this position within the county budget. The budget plan is to be complete by June 3 and if the position is approved, it will be advertised.

The OBPI is expected to bring in a yearly revenue of about $84,000, which would make the office nearly self-sufficient, Pagenhardt said. Start-up expenses may cause the first year costs to be slightly higher, he noted.

A NATIONAL DAY OF PRAYER was observed at the Garrett County Courthouse rotunda May 1 at noon. The event was sponsored by the Mt. Top Ministerial Association. Presenters for the occasion were Gail Getty, Tom Doyle, and Rev. Galen Hixon. Dave Martin led the singing of "America the Beautiful," and a prayer was led by Rev. Tepper as those attending bowed their heads.

School Board To Revise County Funding Request

The Board of Education learned this week that funds they were hoping to receive from the state to spend on operating costs cannot be used for that purpose. The result is the Garrett County school budget, as currently outlined, will require revision. The amount requested from the county will need to be increased.

Board President Dale Carpenter explained that during a special budget meeting on Monday night, board members addressed the problem that a portion of the state funding will come with specific designation of use. The moneys cannot be applied to operating expenses as originally earmarked by the board.

Though the amount to request from the county may increase, Carpenter said, it should still be about equal to last year's request. This is because the original figure put into the budget for county funds was lower than the previous year, he explained.

The budget should be ready to submit to the county commissioners at their meeting May 13, he added.

Two Friendsville Women Charged With Assault

The Garrett County Sheriff's Office arrested two Friendsville women on Monday and charged them each with assault.

The charges against Sherry L. Stanton, 26, and Lisa J. Paugh, 27, stem from an altercation at the Ken Friend Bar in Friendsville on the evening of May 3. The pair allegedly accused another woman in the bar of reporting them to police in regards to an earlier incident, then both allegedly assaulted and beat her. The altercation was broken up by the bar's owner. The victim sustained bruises to her face and cuts on her arm. Both Stanton and Paugh were later released from jail on their own recognizance.

In other sheriff's news recently, an Oakland man was arrested and charged with assault and sex offenses. Jamie W. Staubach, 23, faces one count of second-degree sexual offense, one count of third-degree sexual offense, and one count of fourth-degree sexual offense. The charges stem from a series of alleged incidents over the

"Maryland You Are Beautiful" Campaign Begins

The 11th annual "Maryland You Are Beautiful" program was officially launched on April 30 at the Garrett County Courthouse. Pat Light, the coordinator of the local search, has gathered several local persons to serve on the nominating and selection committees.

Those serving this year include last year's winner, Bob Shaffer, as well as Carolyn Bell, Cathy Clocker, Sondra Kolb, Paul Mullen, Mary McEwen, and Betty Jo Swauger.

The local kick-off consisted of an informal meeting, with Light explaining this year's theme and the purpose of this annual Maryland celebration.

All residents are invited to nominate a person or persons who have given their time generously to hospices, hospitals, the homeless, seniors, youth, and other social causes. Nomination forms are available at many public buildings throughout the county and are attached to the "Maryland You Are Beautiful" posters. The deadline for nominations is August 15.

Advertisements will be run in local newspapers to remind persons to nominate "real heroes" who have volunteered their time to help.

For more information, persons may contact Pat Light, County Commissioners' Office, 203 S. Fourth Street, Oakland MD 21550, telephone 301-334-8970.

"We are looking forward to another successful campaign," Light said.

Logging Mishap Claims Life Of Friendsville Man

A logging accident Friday morning near Valley Point, W.Va., claimed the life of a Friendsville man.

According to a report filed by Sr. Tpr. D.B. Swiger of the West Virginia State Police, Terry Wade Frazee, 35, was killed when he was struck by a tree he and another person were cutting on the Hudson Road, near Valley Point.

Frazee was pronounced dead at the scene, following the 9:15 a.m. accident. Also responding to the scene were members of the Bruceton-Brandonville Volunteer Fire Department.

Frazee was born Sept. 13, 1961, in Oakland, a son of Ruth E. (Humberson) Frazee, Friendsville, and the late Eugene S. Frazee.

He was employed as a timber cutter and farmer.

In addition to his mother, he is survived by one son, Bailey W. Frazee, at home; and three brothers, Willard E. Frazee, Ronald R. Frazee, and Barry Frazee, all of Friendsville.

Friends were received at the Newman Funeral Home, Friendsville, where a service was conducted Monday, May 5, with the Rev. Philip Geoghan officiating. Interment was in the Blooming Rose Cemetery.

BRIGADIER GENERAL DALE SCHROYER, VANG, RET., recently hung up his star after a 38-year military career and returned home to Garrett County for good. A direct descendant of Friendsville's founding family through his mother, Virginia Friend Schroyer, he is the only born and bred Garrett Countian to rise to the general's rank, although deceased generals Benjamin Kelley and George Cook resided here and retired generals Bruce Babbitt and Joseph Franklin live here still. Schroyer's decorations include the U.S. Legion of Merit, the Meritorious Service Medal, the Army Commendation Medal, the Distinguished Service Cross (Maryland's highest award), and the Virginia Legion of Merit. Schroyer will be the featured speaker at the Memorial Day ceremony at American Legion Post 208, Accident, on May 26. See feature story on page A-15.

Eight Lose Jobs As Part Of Health Department's Fiscal Recovery Plan

A portion of the fiscal recovery plan for the Garrett County Health Department was implemented last Friday, as eight individuals were notified that their positions will be eliminated as of July 1. Those losing their jobs are two mental health counselors, two home health supervisors, an administrative specialist, a housekeeper, an outreach worker, and a clerical employee.

The plan, a consensus between the Garrett County Commissioners, the State Department of Health and Mental Hygiene, and the health department, was finalized last week. It was in response to the deficit situation currently facing the health department. According to a press release from Dr. Rex Archer, health officer, the lay-off measure is in response to "dramatically reduced revenues, both this year and projected in future years." He stated that the health department has over the last two years reduced its costs "by over $600,000," and that this year's projected deficit has been "limited to less than $350,000."

Throughout the funding dilemma at the health department, Archer has maintained that the problems have been caused chiefly by changes in Medicare and Medicaid reimbursements for such services as home health. Both state and county officials have agreed with this, although Commissioner John Braskey has expressed his opinion that Archer has been somewhat at fault, lacking in his planning decisions and in his relationship with the health department staff. Commissioners Roger Giotfely and Wayne Wilt have concurred that the reaction time to growing financial problems was too slow, but both officials feel the predicament is not Archer's fault but simply a part of the sweeping change in medical care funding across the nation.

THREE MORE CHANCES TO CATCH NUNSENSE - The laughter emanating from the Garrett Community College theater last week could apparently be heard for miles around as the play Nunsense, presented by the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival, kept the audience in stitches. The nuns are trying desperately to raise enough money to properly bury a few deceased sisters who, unfortunately, are being kept in the convent freezer. Their idea is to put on a show, which has to be done on a local high school stage currently set for the play Grease, and their antics and performances have so far left the audience members "rolling in the aisles." The show, which is under the direction of Nancy Learey and Susan Harkins, is geared toward adult audiences. Remaining performances are set for Friday and Saturday, beginning at 8 p.m., and Sunday at 3 p.m. Tickets for the show are available at the GLAF office at GCC (387-3082) or at the following pharmacies: Englander's, Deep Creek, Beachy's, and Gregg's. Admission is $6 for adults and $4 for youth 17 and younger. Set design, construction, and lighting are under the direction of Ben Sincell, assisted by his GCC theatre students, and costume design and construction has been headed up by Terri Hagglund. The accompanying band consists of members Dr. David Sheets, David Peterson, and Tim Beckman. Nancy Geisler choreographed the several dances in the fast-paced comedy. Pictured clockwise, beginning at bottom left, are Jean Covello, Julia Geisler, Sheila Edwards, "Sister Mary Annette" being held by Linda Goodrich, Kaylen Carlson, Denise Connelly, Dana Braskey, Sue Harkins, and Jill Holler. The chief sponsor for this GLAF presentation is the First United National Bank & Trust. Nunsense is produced by special arrangement with Samuel French, Inc., New York.

A SCENE OF DESTRUCTION? At first glance, this may appear to be a simple photo of a farm house under renovation, but it is in fact a scene of great destruction, inflicted by the power of nature in the form of a lightning blast. A violent thunderstorm racked parts of the county Tuesday morning and this farmhouse, owned by Keith and Ivaline Cummings, was literally thrashed. Fortunately, no one was home at the time of the strike, which was at about 11:30 a.m. Neighbors for miles around the Dilley Road residence reported that the area was hit by a "huge fireball," according to the Cummings' daughter, Elaine Bernard. The tree in the foreground was stripped of its bark and limbs were tossed over the house, across the road, and into a pond. Sod was found at the highest peak of the two-story home and every brand new window but two was broken. The foundation was cracked, as can be seen at the back of the cement stairs, and all the electrical outlets in the house were blown out of the walls. The bathroom was virtually destroyed, with the tub blackened by fire and the fluorescent lights blown into another room. The Cummings had planned to move into the home in a matter of weeks, having renovated it over the past several months. Obviously those plans have been delayed. Neighboring homes in the area also experienced damage in the way of lost televisions, computers, and VCRs. Telephone service was interrupted for a short while as well. Besides the electricity jumping all over the place, the storm also brought hail and severe winds, causing havoc throughout the area.

Public Hearing Held On Need For Senior Services

A public hearing was held by the Area Agency on Aging earlier this week to get input on programs, services, and supports needed by the senior population of Garrett County.

A group of older residents, human service professionals, and others gathered at the Mary Browning Senior Center for the first of two such sessions. Adina Brode, director of the county's agency on aging, opened the brainstorming assembly by presenting the menu of support and enrichment programs available to senior citizens.

Services are provided within the homes of those in need and at centers in the community where activities, meals, and education are available. These programs include nutrition, information, advocacy, legal assistance, assisted living, health insurance counseling, and chore service.

According to Brode, a budget must be prepared to access funding. Input from the public is important to this process. "We expect to provide the same level of services in the coming year," she said. However, she encouraged those present to think about what needs they have now and also what they may need five years down the road.

Brode noted that there are many senior citizens not currently served by the agency. "There are a lot of people who don't use our services," she said. "We want to hear from them. What do they need?" she questioned.

New programs may be needed as more of the population ages, Brode reflects. "Do people want retirement planning or other types of educational programs?" she asked.

A second public hearing will be held tonight, Thursday, at the Grantsville Senior Center, beginning at 6:30 p.m. The Area Agency on Aging will also accept suggestions until May 19. The public is invited to write or drop by the Area Agency on Aging at Garrett County Community Action, 104 E. Center Street, Oakland, MD 21550 or call 301-334-9431.

Police Focus On Enforcing DUI/DWI Laws

During the month of May, personnel at Barrack W. McHenry, the Maryland State Police will be emphasizing the enforcement of alcohol related incidents in Garrett County. These will include violations of DWI/DUI, underage alcohol consumption, alcohol restrictions, and alcohol related collisions.

Patrols will be increased during the peak problem times of the month. This program will coincide with the local high school proms in an effort to eliminate alcohol related incidents among students.

In 1994 35 percent of all fatalities in Maryland were alcohol related, according to MSP. The estimated cost for each fatal collision is $3.4 million dollars. The possible consequences of being arrested for DWI are suspension/revocation of your driver's license, fines, jail time, and increased insurance premiums, a police spokesman warned. Each year thousands of people are seriously injured in alcohol related collisions, many receiving injuries that last a lifetime.

It is unlawful in Maryland for any person under the age of 21 to consume or possess alcohol. Also, drivers under the age of 21 have an alcohol restriction on their license, which limits the amount of alcohol in the persons blood to .02 percent or less, he stated.

GRAND OPENING - Market Square, the new shopping center on Route 219 in McHenry, will hold its grand opening on May 17 beginning at 8 a.m. The grocery store Foodland Fresh will be the only shop in the commercial center to open for business on that date. Three other merchants are scheduled to follow suit during the initial phase.

Market Square Announces Grand Opening Of Phase I

May 17 will mark the grand opening of Market Square, the new shopping center on Route 219, McHenry. Built by Hugh Umbel, president of Legacy Home Corp., the enclosed plaza will provide 50,000 square feet of retail shopping area.

The project is scheduled to be completed in sections. The first store to open for business will be the supermarket Foodland Fresh which will spread over 21,000 square feet and will offer a full-service delicatessen, a fresh seafood department, as well as a bakery and butcher shop. The store will also feature "Café 219," serving hot foods, pizza, and pasta.

During this first phase, a second store will be opening, though no firm date is set for that, according to a spokeswoman for Umbel. Two other stores will open during the initial phase, but Umbel has not disclosed the names of those businesses. During phase two of the development, nine more shops will be added to the complex. This is scheduled for early 1998.

Patrons of Market Square will have over 300 parking spaces available to them.

ARC Launches Civic Program; Locals Take Part

Teams of citizens representing small communities across rural Appalachia are participating in a civic leadership development program developed by the Appalachian Regional Commission (ARC) that focuses on solving real-life community problems. ARC officials announced last week. Called the Appalachian Community Learning Project (ACLP), the program is designed to spark community change by broadening the range of problem-solving strategies available to local leaders.

The program has been recently initiated for communities located in the southern and central Appalachian states. Last week, teams of local leaders from 12 communities in Maryland, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania and West Virginia met in Hidden Valley, Pa., to discuss common problems facing their communities and to sketch out plans for local projects aimed at solving local concerns.

A team from Oakland took part in the event, with members Mike Wagoner, Tri-County Council of Western Maryland; Mark Wallis, Maryland Department of Housing and Community Development; Wendy Bauer, Oakland; Peggy Jamison, Garrett County Economic Development; Asa M. McCain Jr., mayor of Oakland; Mikal McCartney, chair of the Greater Oakland Business Association (GOBA); and David Moe, chair of the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce.

The projects discussed at the forum cover a multitude of areas, such as revitalizing downtown retail districts, developing youth leadership programs, establishing recycling programs, and others. Backed by small grants ($3,800 or less) from ARC, the community teams will now put their plans to work and carry out a local project over the next six months. Communities that successfully complete their projects will have an opportunity to apply for additional ARC funding next fall when participating communities from all 13 commission states convene again, according to an ARC spokesperson.

"This is a 'home-grown' approach to community problem-solving," said ARC Federal Co-Chairman Jesse L. White Jr. "A number of our Appalachian communities have made great strides in becoming economically self-reliant, in mobilizing their citizens, in organizing, in conceiving innovative ideas and strategies, in planning, and in successfully carrying out their vision. We view these examples -- all home-grown in Appalachia -- as great, untapped resources."

According to the ARC spokesperson, more than 160 people will be participating in ACLP, with more than half representing the most economically distressed portions of the region. Support for the program comes through ARC's Regional Initiative on Civic Development and will total $429,000 over a three-year period.

Joining ARC in facilitating the regional forums and guiding the implementation of the local projects is the Rensselaerville Institute, a non-profit organization that specializes in assisting communities mobilize self-help

Baumgardner Memorial Scholarship and the Civic Club of Oakland-Patience W. Grant Memorial Scholarship, both intended for females who are 25 years of age or older; the Lucille H. Sines Memorial Scholarship, which is restricted to those who plan to pursue majors in English or music; and the Aza Stanton Art Scholarship, intended for art students.

The GCCF Scholarship Booklet, available at the Financial Aid Office at the college, contains detailed information about these scholarships and the scholarship applications. Interested persons are asked to submit completed application forms to the office by 4:30 p.m. on May 17, or mail them to 687 Mosser Road, McHenry, MD 21541. CROSSING THE FINISH LINE - The Garrett County Literacy program offers both the opportunity and challenge to any person who wishes to improve his or her reading skills. Connie Tasker meets weekly with her tutor Wayne Caple to take this opportunity and meet its challenges. Her determination is paying off.

Connie's Determination Leads To Literacy Success

By Peggy Santamaria

Success can be measured in many different ways. Trumpets may blast to celebrate the event. Audiences may leap to their feet and applaud. But sometimes success comes quietly and with little notice. This does not diminish the significance of the incident.

One of those hushed victories is about to occur. It is the achievement of one tiny woman, Connie Tasker. She is about to complete the final step of the Literacy Council program.

It was over two years ago that Connie decided she would like to upgrade her reading skills. She had the basics down already, but knew she could improve. And she wanted to.

The Garrett County Literacy Council provided just what Connie was in search of -- a tutor. She had gone through the reading program's pre-testing to determine her competence and scored very well.

And then the tutor connection was made. Since Connie lives in Oakland, a tutor from Oakland was selected, Wayne Caple, of the Department of Natural Resources, volunteered to work with Connie.

The two spoke, chose a convenient spot to meet, and a day and time agreeable to both. The Ruth Enlow Library filled the bill for convenience, and Wednesday evenings were scheduled for one-hour sessions. So the work began.

Connie worked from a series of books that gradually increased in difficulty. The lessons involved reading for comprehension, pronunciation, and spelling. She explained that there were assignments to be done at home and in class. There were also weekly spelling quizzes.

Connie said that Wayne has been very helpful to her. "He's been wonderful. If I'm having a problem, he works with me. He encourages me," she said.

She said she also found there were far fewer distractions doing individual work with a tutor than working in a classroom full of people.

As tutor, Caple said he is proud of the progress his student has made. He also praised Connie for her willingness to stick with the program. "She has persevered. Very few people in the literacy program really see it through to the end," he said.

Many who start a reading improvement course hope to have it finished in just a few sessions, he explained. But Connie stuck it out.

And how does she feel about her accomplishment? Not only does she see that her reading, spelling, and pronunciation have improved, but she also has found growth in another way. "I feel like I've changed. I've shown myself that I have the ability to stick with something," she said and flashed a big smile.

River Cleanup On Upper Yough Set For May 16

In cooperation with America Outdoors, headquartered in Knoxville, Tenn., Mountain Surf, Inc., Friendsville, is sponsoring its fifth annual river cleanup day on the Upper Youghiogheny River. The section to be cleaned this year lies between Swallow Falls and the Friendsville Town Park.

Low water was a factor in changing the cleanup day from May 14, the originally scheduled day, to May 16. According to Ken Baker, of the Maryland Department of Natural Resources, any water released for the cleanup on Wednesday would be taken from commercial outfalls (white-water rafters) on Fridays and Mondays because Deep Creek Lake is below the desired water level. John Mason and Jess Whittemore of Mountain Surf changed the cleanup date to prevent harm to the local outfalls' business.

Because of low water, it is especially important that volunteers this year be familiar with the Yough River in the cleanup area, according to Whittemore. Those who are familiar with the river and are interested in volunteering to clean up a few hundred feet or helping to clean up longer stretches are invited to call Whittemore at 301-746-5389. Volunteers are asked to meet in the Mountain Surf parking lot between 10 and 11 a.m. the day of the cleanup.

The DNR is assisting with the effort by establishing trash pick-up sites along the river. Rodney Grottel, director of the Garrett County Office of Solid Waste, agreed to accept the trash at no cost to the volunteers, but he said, "While we can take the refuse at no cost, the public should be aware that there is a maximum $10,000 fine and up to a year in prison for a first-offense conviction for dumping refuse in rivers or close by their banks."

Nationwide nearly 37,000 volunteers will be participating in more than 500 cleanups of shorelines and river banks during next week, which has been designated as the 1997 National River Cleanup Week. This event was originally conceived by America Outdoors, a national trade association for outdoor outfitters and guides.

Masonic Grand Master Will Visit Oakland Lodge May 27

John C. Naquin, Grand Master of Masons in Maryland, will be among the guests of Oakland Lodge #192, Ancient, Free, and Accepted Masons, at a special multi-jurisdictional communication on Tuesday, May 27. The Grand Master accepted an invitation by the Oakland Lodge to attend the event, which will also include members of Temple Lodge #28 of Painesville, Ohio, as well as Masonic brethren from Pennsylvania and West Virginia.

The present Worshipful Master of Temple Lodge #28 is Thomas C. Anderson, a former local resident and a frequent visitor of Oakland Lodge #192.

Also the visitors whom Grand Master Naquin, several members of his Grand Line of officers, and officers of Oakland Lodge are expecting to receive that evening is Richard N. Swisher, Grand Master of Masons in West Virginia.

Naquin, a native of Aliquippa, Pa., is a resident of Camp Springs and a past master of his home lodge, Camp Springs Lodge #227. He is a member of numerous Masonic, Scottish Rite, and York Rite bodies, as well as past Worthy Patron of Unity Chapter #112, Order of the Eastern Star. Besides currently serving a two-year term as Maryland's Grand Master, he is also chairman of the Scottish Rite Speakers Guild and Preceptor, Chesapeake Consistory, Valley of Baltimore, Orient of Maryland.

He was a career U.S. Naval officer, having served with the Atlantic Fleet Amphibious Force as a diving and salvage officer for the Marianas and Bonin Islands stationed in Guam, as officer in charge of a diving and salvage team in Vietnam working out of the Philippine Islands, as assistant officer in charge of the Navy Experimental Diving Unit in Washington, D.C., as assistant superintendent of diving for the Royal Navy under the auspices of an international exchange program, and finally, as director of navy diving programs in the office of the Chief of Naval Operations. He retired from the Navy with the rank of lieutenant commander.

Among his military awards are the Legion of Merit, three Navy Commendation Medals, the Meritorious Service Medal, and the Vietnam Gallantry Cross.

After his retirement from active duty, he worked in the field of diving research at the Naval Medical Research Institute; as general manager of a diving company; as a technical writer for a government contractor; and as a project manager for waterfront and offshore construction. He holds a bachelor of science degree from the University of Maryland and a master of arts degree from Central Michigan University, both in management and supervision.

At the May 27 communication at the Paul B. Naylor Masonic Temple in Oakland there will be a Fellow Craft degree presented by the officers and members of the lodge. Prior to the 7:30 p.m. opening of lodge, there will be a bean soup dinner served in the lodge fellowship hall, beginning at 6:15 p.m. After the closing of lodge, strawberries will be served.

Worshipful Master Donald Nuce invites all Master Masons to attend the communication and social activities.

County "Gearing Up" To Fight Underage Drinking

A cooperative effort between the Garrett County Health Department, local law enforcement, Crime Solvers, and residents has been initiated to reduce the negative effects of alcohol in local communities. According to a press release from Diane Lee, coordinator of the health department's Zero Tolerance for Underage Drinking Grant, the organizations involved in the effort are enthusiastic about the program, the goal of which is to deter the underage drinking of alcoholic beverages.

She explained that Crime Solvers is prepared to accept telephone calls reporting underage drinking, the law enforcement personnel have taken specialized training in this area, and the court system and addiction services are ready to handle the new cases. "Now we need community members to do their part by helping young people understand the dangers of underage drinking and by reporting incidents," Lee said.

When young people drink alcohol, there are often serious consequences, Lee said, including car accidents, drownings, suicides, violent injuries, vandalism, rapes, assaults, unwanted pregnancies, sexually transmitted diseases, academic problems, and death from alcohol poisoning.

Approximately 70 local police officers recently participated in a specialized training session dealing with underage drinkers.

"In other words," Lee said, "80% of all officers in Garrett County have been reminded of the importance of cracking down on illegal alcohol drinking."

Residents who are aware of underage drinking incidents are urged to contact any local law enforcement agency.

Who Should Pay?...

There were several stories in the national news this past week that provide considerable fodder for editorializing, each of which has to do with individual rights and our legal system.

One of them has to do with Megan's Law in New Jersey, which requires a convicted sex offender to notify police and, subsequently, residents when that offender moves into the neighborhood. The law came about after the rape and slaying of 7-year-old Megan Kanka by Jesse Timmendquas, who had served time for sex offenses, unbeknownst to his neighbors.

Of course, the Civil Liberties Union has jumped to the defense of Timmendquas, claiming that the law is unconstitutional because it violates the man's rights. The CLU says he served his sentence and thus paid for his crime, in full, and he should not be made to continue paying a price by being identified as a child sex offender wherever he goes.

Well, we ask, what about the parents of young Megan, who must pay a much higher price every day for the rest of their lives because of this felon's action, as they are forced to cope with the eternal absence of their daughter? And they didn't even break the law. They didn't violate anyone's rights. Aren't laws designed to protect people, primarily the victims or potential victims of criminals?

In our opinion, when one commits a felony, which involves the taking away of the rights of others, that person should lose a certain number of his rights; and yes, it may well be for the rest of his life. It could be described as suffering the natural consequences of one's actions. If one breaks a leg, he may limp the rest of his life, and there is nothing anyone can do to change that.

We don't understand the logic of the Civil Liberties Union on this one. Even before Megan's Law, convicted felons have continued to pay a price after they are freed from prison. For example, a question on just about every job application is "Have you ever been convicted of a felony?" An answer in the affirmative probably forces one well down on the priority list of candidates available to fill that position. Using the CLU's logic, should not all employers be forced to remove that question from their job applications?

It is also a fact that the majority of sex offenders now in prison are there for at least the second conviction. So most of them will strike again if and when they are released. Our government has a responsibility to protect innocent citizens from these people. Parents of young children, in our opinion, have a right to know if their next-door neighbor has been convicted of sex offenses.

The other stories noted in the above lead are those concerning: the big standoff in Texas (why do we waste so much time and money by handling these criminals with such delicacy?); the sentencing of a drunk driver in North Carolina to life in prison without parole for his killing of two young women (yes!); and the tobacco industry's exoneration in a lawsuit filed against them by the family of a woman who died because of smoking cigarettes (another case of "money talks," or blaming someone else for one's own actions?). But we have neither the time nor space to comment further on these this week.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

The Town Council of Friendsville and the Planning Commission have spoken. Friendsville is being opened up for development.

They have approved the extension of sewer service to a proposed convenience store trying to locate 2,300' from the existing developed town center. This approval comes with no public hearing and little effort to inform the public. I'll bet most of the town didn't even know they had a choice. On May 12th, in the Planning Commission room at the courthouse in Oakland, the public will at least have a chance to express their views on this to the Garrett Sanitation District before they approve service.

The Friendsville government is supporting the commercial development of a huge tract of land.

The Frantz farm that is now cornfields and farm will be given sewer service. The owners have always asked for and received commercial zoning for their farm. I expect their commercial development plans will now happen. Why else would they want commercial zoning for their farm if they didn't want to develop it?

Hold on to your hat. Strip malls and even bigger truck stops may be around the corner for Friendsville. It won't take long, and it can happen overnight. We can never go back once that sewer line is in.

This is the destructive sprawl development that helps to destroy the character of so many small towns. Responsible planners suggest that growth should happen slowly and be located adjacent to existing development and existing utilities such as water and sewer.

Every respected and professional planner in the country acknowledges that this encouragement of uncontrolled development is a mistake. No development plan had ever advocated sprawl. This type of development is exactly why the recently passed Smart Growth legislation crosses party lines and was almost unanimously passed by the Maryland legislature. It is one of the country's most sensible growth bills. It suits Democrats and Republicans because it makes an effort to cut costs.

One of the worst and most destructive things to do is open up large tracts of land, before there is a demand for growth. John Nelson of the county planning department is all for this proposed development and convenience store. I wonder why?

The Town and County Comprehensive Development plans have strong and basic goals to concentrate development near existing development, and to protect farm resources. Is this move to extend sewer service consistent with these plans? Does it help to protect farms and sensitive areas? Is the county willing to fight in court their support of this development? It's your taxes they'll use to pay attorney's fees.

The Sanitation District is considering granting service to this project while we still have 20 homes in town without service. The Sanitation District will own this 2,300' sewer line when it is completed, and they don't even know where or how it will go in. Do they know that Smart Growth legislation will make it mandatory for state funds to be withheld from them if this project is not smart growth?

Smart Growth can be defined as concentrating development near or immediately adjacent to existing population centers, and where utilities are already in place. It means that growth happens to the town center slowly and as needed. It's a nice concept, smart growth. It promotes and protects community.

Does the interchange need development? Of course not; it is developed. There is a town here. At least last time I checked we had a grocery store, rafting companies, restaurant, museum, health food store, insurance office, bait and hunting supplies, pharmacy, hardware store, laundromat, car wash, furniture store, art gallery, post office, school, antique store, gas station, and bank.

We know the video store is leaving. What business will be next? Why not leave? They won't have to pay town taxes or be subject to town control or regulation.

Does the town need low paying convenience store jobs? Why is convenience store employee the most dangerous job in America? Late night convenience stores are crime magnets. Do we want late night traffic prowling around? Do we want our kids walking a long distance up a dark and poorly lit road at night to rent a video? What kind of late night traffic frequents truck stops? Hitchhikers?

Why should the town government support giving away sewage capacity? In fact, our sewage plant is under a strict moratorium by the Department of Environment, restricting new taps because it currently exceeds its capacity. Maybe someday we'll get a chance to have a nice small industry with high paying jobs within the town limits. Isn't our capacity precious? Aren't the town officials supposed to ensure that we have sewage capacity for present and future needs? The town's Comprehensive Plan says they are supposed to ensure and protect capacity. Why are they giving it away to a business outside the town?

Government and utility companies eventually end up paying the bill for growth like this. It's a county decision too, and may impact everyone in the future.

Friendsville is a collector's item. It is the classic example of what small town life is all about. I always thought the folks of Friendsville wanted to protect and preserve their way of life. Every other town on the interstate is junked up with this type of development. I guess that is our future, too.

This proposed store site impacts 3,750 square feet of wetlands and stream buffers. Aren't we supposed to protect these resources? Minnow Creek flows right through this project and dumps into the Youghiogheny River just upstream of our drinking water intake pipes. Shouldn't we be concerned about petrochemical or sewage contamination? The Friendsville Planning Commission voted to support the project without even looking at plans. Is this responsible? Does this meet ethical standards of serving the public interest?

Has the Town Planning Commission or Town Council even proposed a public hearing? No.

Is this ethical to deny public information and a right to get involved?

On the short term I foresee businesses in town being hurt. You stop for gas and a burger at the proposed convenience store, and you are on your way. You won't come into town if you don't have to. The town won't be getting one dime from that traveler, but we sure will get their fees.

On the long term, in my opinion, it's the beginning of the end. What was once a special place will be no more. You can count on taxes, traffic, noise, pollution, and crime going up. Friendsville could have remained the nice, quiet, peaceful town it is. Instead, the gate is being opened to change us forever, and it breaks my heart.

I came to this town because I like the quality of life here. Now I think about how someday I may have to leave because it will become what I wanted to escape. I come from the land of sprawl and strip malls. It is ugly, and it's coming our way, fast!

We can still save ourselves if we want to. If we don't we can only blame ourselves when the first robbery, shooting, or child abduction happens right up the road.

Let's do something, Friendsville, before it is too late.

Sincerely,
Crede Calhoun

To the Editor:

In response to the editorial in last week's Republican, I would like to say that I'm not in the least bit worried about the person the elected school board might hire as the new superintendent. In fact, I'm very optimistic about the future of our schools.

I would offer the following reasons as to why I place my confidence in them. They have demonstrated concern that our kids would be exposed to such foolish things as horoscopes, and I applaud them in their attempts to monitor what our kids might be exposed to, whether it be sex education about AIDS, pornography on the Internet, history revision, or even massage therapy.

Unfortunately, my job takes me away from home on Tuesdays and I cannot attend the May 13 meeting to give my opinion. However, I'm sure that they will find someone that has the best interests of our kids in mind and will be more concerned with educating our kids than forming them towards some kind of modernist socialism. He or she will probably be opposed to condom distribution, and the teaching of the acceptance of the gay lifestyle in our schools. Groups like Planned Parenthood will probably never be invited to our schools to teach a message of anti-chastity to balance a speaker that would encourage our kids to practice chastity until marriage. The revision of American history and the vilifying of our ancestors will probably not continue.

It is most likely that our new superintendent will

HEALTH OF MIND AND BODY

By Peggy Santamaría

Reflections on Mental Health Month run along a recurring theme in my mind. We make too large a distinction between malfunctions of body systems above and below the neck.

We have different words to describe these problems: mental illness and physical illness. We even have different manners of speaking about them. It is with greater ease we air subjects relating to illnesses south of our chins than those north of our eyebrows. Notable exceptions are the sinus infection and the migraine headache. Both of these are accorded sympathy and words of support.

When, however, the site of the chemical disorder is the brain rather than the pancreas or liver, our attitudes may be less sympathetic and supportive and tend more toward aversion or fear.

It seems to me that if the troubled organ or muscle is below the neck, we are likely to speak of the afflicted person with much reverence and concern because we will be heard and received by the listener in the same tones. "Did you hear? Poor Mr. Smith had to have double bypass surgery." This kind of exchange is often followed by orders for flowers and mailing of Hallmark cards.

"I'm not surprised," the response might be. "He was under so much stress at work. He was in his office night and day." Accolades and compassion.

STRESS. We all seem to accept it. Stress is often seen as a virulent force that is inflicted from an outside source and can result in serious illness, even heart attack and death. It doesn't originate within. Or does it?

I find that people speak openly about the stress they are under due to the economy, job loss, marriage difficulties, or troubled children. Once again, it is more often than not that the person so troubled is viewed with concern and respect. But here I begin to ponder. Is suffering from stress a physical or mental problem? Is the heart attack, induced by stress, an after-effect of a mental illness? Did stress result from an unrealistic interpretation of daily events?

Are the mind and body really separate? Medical insurance policies generally distinguish between them. I am far less convinced of such a division. Anyone who has suffered from anemia or a slow thyroid can attest, as I can, to the vast difference in mental status, energy, and zest for life when the physical problem is alleviated through treatment.

It isn't necessary to be steeped in cultural history to be aware that at various times illnesses have been a source of fear within societies. From the recent history of tuberculosis as an illness to be kept secret within a family, back to the mystery attached to menstruation, people have shunned what they don't understand. And what they don't understand can cause fear.

As we develop various medications that regulate and correct chemical malfunctions of the body organ housed within the skull, perhaps we will modify our outlook on human illness.

reflect the values of the vast majority of us in Garrett County who elected the current school board.

I would agree that we have good teachers here in our county. My children have benefited greatly from the ones that they had so far in the Broad Ford and Kitzmiller schools. One of the reasons we elected the current board was to keep our schools from getting worse like everywhere else in the country. They have the opportunity to improve the education of our kids with their choice and I trust they will. And I'm sure they will be re-elected by a large majority if they decide to stay, despite the best efforts of some.

Chuck Bowman
Kitzmiller

To the Editor:

Thank God for the two school board members who willingly bear the cross that you are nailing them to. They are accountable only to the voters who elected them and re-elected them rather than having been appointed by some select few to be "cloned" to their way of thinking.

Having "fun" by presenting astrology at a school function is not only a violation of the Great Commandment and prohibited by Jew and Christian alike, but is a violation of secular law which demands separation of church and state. Since astrology is a religion, having "fun" could cost lives if it violates the Koran and the Islamic religion. The Bible is a solemn and Holy book to its believers and is not to be used as a "funny" book. Belief and adherence to its commands would cure all the ailments of the world (including AIDS).

As for Yale and the larger institutions, although they were chartered as Christian schools, they have become "dens of iniquity." Several nights ago the news media promoted an "open" homosexual from Yale or Harvard who was honored and warmly accepted by his "blind" followers as their Professor of Religion. Is this the kind of person you want to teach and influence the minds of your children?

This may be your "cup of tea" sir, but it "ain't" mine. It is the academicians of these schools with their self-proclaimed omnipotent wisdom that turned the truth of God into a lie and replaced God's teaching of creation into Hell's lie of evolution.

Multiculturalism was introduced at the Tower of Babel and is the father of one-world government. God preferred individualism rather than "cloned zombies" so He destroyed it, as He will again. History repeats itself.

Let God be true and every man a liar.

Second Rabies Case Confirmed By Health Dept.

The second confirmed rabies case has been announced by the Garrett County Health Department. A raccoon submitted to the Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene laboratories was confirmed positive on April 30 for being infected with the rabies virus.

The raccoon apparently came up on the porch of a Selbysport home on April 28 and fought with a cat. The raccoon was shot. The cat was not currently vaccinated against the disease and was euthanized because of the exposure.

Pet owners are urged to keep their animals' vaccinations current. Dogs and cats need to be re-vaccinated at least every three years after the initial one-year inoculation. Pets three months of age may be adequately protected by vaccination, according to a health department spokesperson.

The health department's Environmental Health Services division is currently sponsoring the year's first low-cost rabies vaccination clinics around the county. The vaccines are $5 per animal. Three clinics remain: tonight (Thursday), 5-6 p.m., at the Bloomington fire hall, Friday, May 9, 5-6 p.m., at the Friendsville Elementary School, and Saturday, May 10, from 10 a.m. until noon at the Broad Ford Elementary School.

Mellotts Celebrate 50th Event

Mr. and Mrs. Homer Mellott, Swallow Falls, will observe their 50th wedding anniversary with an open house hosted by their children and grandchildren on Sunday, May 18.

Mrs. Mellott, who is the daughter of the late Ord and Hilda (Floh) Strayer, and Mr. Mellott, son of the late Zenas and Della (Beeghly) Mellott, were married May 14, 1947, by Elder Joshua Rice at Mt. Dale Dunkard Brethren Church, Frederick. They were attended by Carrie Rice, Frederick.

Mr. Mellott was ordained into the ministry by the Dunkard Brethren Church in 1952 and has served in the capacity of minister in numerous churches since then. He is the former owner of the Mt. Top Home Builders and has operated the home farm at Swallow Falls for over 40 years. Mrs. Mellott has been a homemaker throughout her marriage.

The Mellotts are the parents of two children: Paul, Battle Creek, Mich.; and Elizabeth, Swallow Falls. They have eight grandchildren.

The open house slated for May 18 will be held in the Pine Grove Church of the Brethren, Fellowship Hall, Swallow Falls, from 2 to 5 p.m. All friends and relatives are welcome to attend.

Women Charged

past five years involving reports of improper touching of a juvenile. Slaubaugh has since been released from jail on his own recognizance.

An Oakland man was arrested on assault and theft charges stemming from a May 3 domestic incident.

Stephen J. McGreevey, 42, faces charges of one count of second-degree assault and one count of felony theft. McGreevey allegedly assaulted his girlfriend at the residence they share, and reportedly stole $400 in cash from her. The victim sustained facial abrasions and bruises. McGreevey was later released from jail on his own recognizance.

A Swanton woman was arrested and charged with three counts of second-degree assault and one count of child abuse.

Brenda J. Bittinger, 32, allegedly cursed and struck a juvenile riding in a car with her last week. She was subsequently released on her own recognizance.

In other arrests, Amy L. Frye, 23, Oakland, was arrested on a bench warrant for failure to appear. She was subsequently released on a $2000 bond.

James B. Hay, 29, was arrested on a bench warrant for failure to appear. He was subsequently released on a $500 bond.

Lance L. Logsdon, 22, Oakland, was arrested and charged with DWI after his pickup truck struck a house trailer off of Bethlehem Road. He has been released pending trial.

Jeffery W. Ackerman, 39, Oakland, was arrested and charged with DWI. He has been released pending trial.

The sheriff's office is investigating the theft of a hunting rifle with a scope mount from a Cash Valley Road residence that occurred sometime between April 26 and May 4. Stolen was one Marlin .30-30 lever action rifle, with a wood grain stock, thick rubber recoil pad, and a gold-colored trigger.

Also under investigation is a breaking and entering of a trailer on Walnut Bottom Road just off Mt. Zion Crosscut Road. The incident occurred sometime between April 29 and May 3, during which time the padlocked trailer, used by the owner as a hunting camp, was entered through a rear window. No theft or damage was apparent, although someone had apparently used the bed and scattered newspapers about inside.

A projectile, apparently fired from a gun, was discovered lodged in an exterior wall of a home in the 3000 block of Underwood Road on May 5. A resident discovered what was later described as a .22 caliber bullet lodged in the exterior house siding just below the bedroom window. The projectile was determined to have apparently originated from either the road just south of the residence or a field on the east side of the road.

Let's Get Down To Business!

Peaceable Kingdom Pet and Home Sitting Service

PEACEABLE KINGDOM owner Lisa Deal poses with her dog Kista at her home and office near Accident. The business offers professional and reliable services to pet owners who must be away from home and need someone to care for their pet the same way they would.

This is National Pet Week, and an excellent time to announce a new business opened by Lisa Deal, Peaceable Kingdom Pet and Home Sitting Service.

The service is located on Bear Creek Road near Accident, and operated by Lisa and her husband Jim. Lisa is currently enrolled in a small business class at Garrett Community College, has taken the Veterinary Science Technology course at GCC, is certified in small business management at GCC, and is an animal science graduate at ICS. She was a co-founder of the Garrett County Humane Society, and has her own dog, 15-year-old Kista, and two cats, Sunshine and Shadow.

Peaceable Kingdom's mission is to care for pets in their home just like their owners do. "We will care for any pet or animal from as small as goldfish to as large as horses and livestock," Lisa said. "We hug, snuggle, care for, and love other people's pets like they are our own. Our goal is to give the best quality of service at an affordable price."

The couple will check on an owner's home as a crime deterrent measure even if they do not have animals. Lisa says, "Owners will have a trustworthy, knowledgeable and confident person caring for their pets and home in their absence. We will give lots of love and compassion to every animal in our care."

With the service of Peaceable Kingdom, pets remain in the comfort and security of their home, and are not traumatized by a neighbor's house or a kennel. "We follow the pet's customary diet and exercise routine," Lisa added. "With our service, pets avoid exposure to illness from other animals. We provide personalized and loving attention to all the owner's pets and their special needs."

These regular visits by Peaceable Kingdom personnel help deter crime and other problems in the owner's home while they are away, and the pet owner can travel with peace of mind knowing their pets and home are in good hands.

Lisa's service includes feeding and watering animals, walking dogs, playing and exercising pets, grooming horses, maintenance grooming, transportation to the vet or groomer when the owner can't make the appointment, house-sitting and watering plants. "We offer our services as an alternative to kennels or neighbors and friends who sometimes forget," she said.

Lisa hopes the future holds a very rewarding career in pet care for her. "I want to make people and pets happy, and also make and keep their home a 'peaceable kingdom' while the owners are away," she said. To arrange scheduling or to receive more information, interested pet owners may contact Peaceable Kingdom at 301-746-8882.

at Weber Road.

Roy W. Hershman, 52, Oakland, was stopped at a red light at Weber Road when a vehicle driven by David Rihm, 45, Huber Heights, Ohio, approached the same intersection. Rihm failed to reduce speed and collided with the Hershman vehicle.

Holly R. Hershman, 10, a passenger in the Hershman vehicle, was later treated and released by Garrett Memorial Hospital.

KING'S RUN ROAD
Rachel R. Kelly, 18, Oakland, was northbound on King's Run Road May 4 at 2:55 p.m. when she lost control of her vehicle on the wet road, according to a police report. Kelly then travelled across the center line and struck a ditch.

Both Kelly and a 14 year old passenger were transported by Southern Garrett Rescue Squad to Garrett Memorial Hospital where they were treated and released.

Kelly was charged with failure to drive right of center, the report said.

CHESTNUT RIDGE ROAD

According to a police report, on May 5 about 9 p.m. Thomas G. Lancaster, 75, Swanton, was southbound on Chestnut Ridge Road waiting to turn into the eastbound ramp of I-68. He failed to yield the right of way to a northbound vehicle driven by Christine M. Platter, 17, Grantsville. The Lancaster vehicle struck the left front of Platter's car.

One of three passengers in the Platter vehicle, a child, was transported to Sacred Heart Hospital, Cumberland, by Northern Garrett Rescue Squad. She was treated and released.

Lancaster was charged with failure to yield right of way, the report stated.

Voters League Conducts 27th Annual Meeting

The League of Women Voters (LWV) of Garrett County held its 27th annual meeting April 19 at Uno's Restaurant, Deep Creek Lake. The meeting focused on a legislative wrap-up by Senator John Hafer and Delegate George Edwards, election of new LWV officers and board of directors, and adoption of the program for the coming year. Approximately 30 attended the lunch buffet and meeting.

In their overview of the recent Maryland General Assembly, Del. Edwards and Sen. Hafer spoke of new legislation that will affect Garrett County, as well as major legislation such as the new income tax reduction for the entire state. They provided their particular insights into the whole political process and referred to the legislative session as a particularly stressful one.

Following the legislators' review, Commissioners Roger Giotfelty and Wayne Wilt discussed the new building codes, the prospective purchase of the Oakland train station, the completion of the Glendale Bridge by Memorial Day, and other timely concerns. Finally, Dr. Rex Archer, county health officer, and Emily Ferren, head librarian, spoke briefly about their respective agencies. The dedication of the newly renovated Accident branch of the Ruth Enlow Library had immediately preceded "SEEKING HARMONIES" EXHIBIT AT GCC - An exhibition of visual arts and natural sciences projects from the Hickory Environmental Education Center's "Seeking Harmonies" summer program will be on display at Garrett Community College's Bausch & Lomb Art Gallery May 8-30. The exhibition is a retrospective, documenting works and activities from the program's 1994-1996 seasons. The three-year "Seeking Harmonies" program involved high school students, resident artists, and visiting natural sciences professionals, all of whom worked together in teams and in seminars exploring the links between the arts, the environment, and the natural sciences. Pictured above are students who participated in the 1996 performance work titled "4 Elements." In the center is Candace Wellbaum, and pictured left to right behind her are Charlie Nolan, Rachel Robinette, and Timothy Machado. An opening reception for the exhibit will be held at the B&L Gallery on Saturday, May 10, 7-9 p.m. Special performances of the work pictured will be given during the reception at 7:30 and 8:30. The event is free and open to the public. "Seeking Harmonies" was made possible through community support as well as by grants from the Chesapeake Bay Trust, the Garrett County Arts Council, the Maryland State Arts Council, and the Maryland State Department of Education.

During the annual business meeting, members voted to increase dues to $35 per year for full, single membership in order to meet increased costs of operation. Leaguers were urged to pay their renewal dues by June 15 in order to maintain their membership. Board members elected for the 1997-99 term are: Virginia Grove, re-elected as president, Donna Aspinall as 1st vice president, and new directors Cosette Harman, secretary, and Henrietta Lease. Continuing board members for the 1996-98 term are Edith Brock as treasurer, Barbara Flinn as membership chair, and other directors Edgar Harman, Dorothy Leighton, and Emily Ferren. Frances Acton continues as newsletter editor. Roberta Andersen and Constance Margison retired from the board.

Nominating committee members for next year are Barbara Briggs (chair), Joan Crawford, and Marilyn Filemyr.

The local program studies adopted for the next year are planning and zoning, health care, welfare reform, education, women's issues, and league promotion and involvement in the community.

LWV is open to both male and female US citizens who are at least 18 years old. The league is a political, nonpartisan organization which promotes the active and informed participation of citizens in all levels of their government. Those who want more information about the league may contact Ginny Grove, president, at 301-334-1804, or any other board member listed above.

Unusual Treatments for Head Lice Questioned

According to a recent report in Pharmacist's Letter, pharmacists are seeing different treatments for head lice, a growing problem for many school-age children. Pediatric News indicates that over half of the students in some urban school systems have been infested with head lice this school year. Cases in children age 5 to 15 are now common. This is no longer a problem seen only in preschool children, according to the director of pediatric dermatology at a leading university medical center.

Unconventional treatments for lice are being reported primarily due to the ineffectiveness of some standard regimens (resistance to permethrin and lindane have occurred). Unusual treatments include using regular therapies for 4 to 8 hours when product labels state that they should remain on the head for only a few minutes; using medicines that are not approved for lice; and using medicines that are much stronger than standard drugs. The National Pediculosis Association and most physicians who treat children favor standard therapies. Standard approaches include removal of lice eggs (nits), soaking combs and brushes in hot water, washing clothes and bedding, and applying an effective head lice shampoo. Products containing pyrethrins with piperonyl butoxide are popular and can be obtained without a prescription.

Rams Win Two Of Three; To Face Huskies In Tourney

After recording 43 straight home victories, the Southern High School varsity baseball team finally saw that streak halted on Saturday when the Rams dropped the first game of a doubleheader to Preston County, 9-4. It was as if the Rams were simply caught off guard in the first game, for they came back to convincingly win the second game, 10-1, and two days later flattened cross-county rival Northern on the same field, 12-0.

The Rams, 11-4 overall and 9-1 atop the WMIL, are slated to wrap up their regular season this afternoon with a make-up game against visiting Mount Savage and then face the Huskies again Friday at 4 p.m. at the Cove in an opening-round game of the 1A West Region Tournament.

The second inning was the big one for Preston County in Saturday's first game, as the Cavaliers put eight runs on the scoreboard. Derek Everd then took the mound for the Rams and held the visitors scoreless the rest of the way, but the Ram offense managed only four runs. Scott Benson stroked a triple and a single to drive in four Preston runs, while Pat Street plated two more with a home run and a single. Tink Kronek finished with a double and two singles, as Preston recorded a total of 13 hits.

In going the distance for Preston, Nathan Haskiell gave up eight hits and struck out six.

Everd had a triple and a single and scored twice for the Rams, and Jordan Uphold added a pair of singles.

Everd stayed on the mound in the second game, allowed only one run in five innings, and combined with Uphold on a four-hitter. They struck out seven and allowed just two walks.

Seth Tressler smacked a two-run homer and a single for the Rams, while Everd and Uphold each singled twice and Chad Warnick stroked a triple.

Getting half of Preston's hits was Danny Liston, who singled twice. Kronek was tagged with the loss.

The game against the Northern Huskies on Monday lasted only five innings because of the 10-run rule, but during those five frames the Rams recorded a dozen hits, including a grand slam by Warnick in Southern's

Joel Uphold also had a home run and two singles for three RBI. Tressler rapped his second homer in three days, and Everd added two singles and one RBI. Twin brothers Mike and Chris Bittinger also each had two singles for the Rams.

Huskies Lose Three, Will Host Rams In Playoffs

It was a tough week on the baseball diamond for the Northern High Huskies, who saw their record dip to 8-11 by being hammered by visiting Westmar last Thursday, 15-4, falling to host Mount Savage on Saturday, 5-3, and then being blanked by cross-county rival Southern on Monday (see separate story). The loss to Southern capped Northern's regular season, but the Huskies will get another shot at the Rams this Friday at home in a first-round West Region game.

The only highlight for the Huskies in Thursday's game against Westmar was a three-run homer by Chris Herman in the fourth inning. Herman Arndt had a solo shot in the third to account for the other Northern run. Zach Rawe was the only other Husky to record an extra-base hit, a double in the first inning. Brandon Moran allowed only six hits in going the distance for the Wildcats. Brandon Foutz smacked a grand slam in the top of the seventh inning for the Wildcats to end the game via the 10-run rule. Billy Metts also had a three-run homer, Ross Metts provided an RBI double, and Joey Meanwhile, Joel Uphold fired all five innings for the Rams and allowed only two Husky hits, fourth-inning singles by Zach Leverenz and Zach Rawe. Uphold struck out nine and walked only one.

The loss gave the Huskies a final regular season record of 8-10.

Langham and Josh Broadwater each finished with two singles. It was the 11th win in 15 starts for Westmar.

An RBI single by Mike Brailer and a run-producing triple by Brian DeHaven gave Mount Savage a 2-0 lead in the first inning of Saturday's game, and the Indians never trailed.

The Huskies cut the margin to 2-1 with a run in the fourth, but a two-run homer by Scott Simpson made it 4-1 in the bottom of the fourth. The Huskies scored single runs in the fifth and sixth, but Simpson added a solo shot in the sixth to complete the scoring.

Zach Leverenz pitched well for the Huskies, as he went the distance, allowed five hits, struck out three, and walked six. Leverenz also had a single and scored a run. Each of the Huskies' other three hits was a single also.

Larry O'Baker, who pitched six innings, got the win for the Indians. He struck out seven and walked three. Jason Skidmore pitched a scoreless seventh to earn the save.

The victory upped Mount Savage to 8-7 overall and 6-5 in the WMIL standings.

SHS JV Girls Edge Spartans

The junior varsity softball team of Southern High School edged the Bishop Walsh jayvees, 12-11, yesterday in Oakland, as Tiffany Sears led the Rams' attack with a double and a single that plated four runs.

The win upped the Rams' season mark to 3-2-2. They will play at Beall today.

Husky Jayvees Defeat Keyser, Preston County

A four-hitter pitched by Josh Hook highlighted a 4-2 victory by the Northern High School junior varsity team over the Keyser jayvees last Friday at the Cove, and Adam Brenneman paced the Northern offense yesterday as the Huskies topped visiting Preston County, 11-8. The pair of victories improved Northern's record to 6-8.

B.A. Sisler had a double for the Huskies against Keyser, who scored all four of their runs on wild pitches.

Brenneman smacked two doubles and a single to lead the Huskies over Preston yesterday, while Levi Schmuck and P.J. Workman each had a double and a single.

Jeff Carr earned the win on the mound, as he pitched the first five innings. Cricket led Preston's offensive effort with three singles.

The Huskies are slated to host Preston County again today.

Ram Jayvees Split Twinbill, Top Fort Hill

The Southern High junior varsity baseball team is enjoying a successful season, but hit a snag Saturday by losing to visiting Allegany, 9-6, in the first game of a doubleheader. The Rams came back to hammer the Campers in the second contest, however, 8-0, and then topped the Fort Hill jayvees yesterday in Cumberland, 3-1. The results left Coach Tom Bosley's Rams with a 14-2 season record, best in the area.

Two-run homers by Matt Wright and Sam Long led the Campers over the Rams in Saturday's opener, while Jeremy Strother drove in a pair of runs with a triple and a single and Robbie Stansbury provided two singles.

Leading Southern's offense were Mike Shahan with a triple and two singles and John Andrews with a pair of singles.

Josh Bosley fired a one-hitter for the Rams in the second game and aided his own cause at the plate by hitting three singles. Chris Warfield drove in runs with a double and a single and Boyd Bagwell had a triple and two singles.

The only hit off Bosley was a fifth-inning single by Dave Aydelotte.

Allegany concluded its season with a 12-2 record.

Bosley took the mound again yesterday against Fort Hill and later got relief from Warfield, as the two combined for a five-hitter.

Gabe Schaidt also had an impressive day on the mound for the Sentinels, as he struck out 13 and allowed only two hits, but it was enough for the Rams to win the game. Warfield provided a run-producing triple and Shahan had a single.

Kevin Beem was the only multiple hitter of the day, as he recorded a triple and a single for Fort Hill (7-10).

Local Hockey Team Crushes Somerset Trust

Yoder's Prime Veal Farmers hockey team started its quest for a third straight B Division championship by thrashing Somerset Trust, 9-1, last Thursday evening.

Craig Cumberworth led Yoder's offensive effort by finishing with two goals and four assists, while Dean Daniels added two goals and two assists and newcomer Bob Barnes recorded two goals and one assist. Picking up one goal each for the Farmers were Brian Yoder, Jeremy Yoder, and Lyndon Yoder.

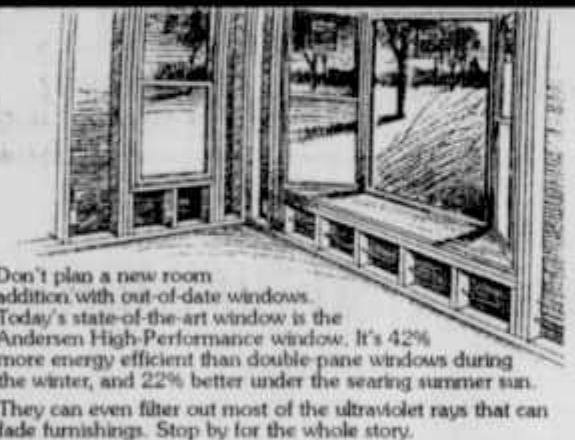

Yoder goaltender Mike Bream led the Farmers' usual stingy, collapsing defense.

The Farmers' next games will include another clash with Somerset Trust this Saturday, May 10, at 9:15 p.m. and with Stoystown Auto Wreckers next Wednesday, May 14, at 10:15 p.m. All games are played at Ice Tracs in Somerset, Pa.

"Yellow Glass" of the 19th Century
A century ago the ever-popular "yellow glass" was part of many glass manufacturers' color palettes. The yellow color is acquired by adding depleted uranium to the base glass, and poses no risk to the people who own the glass. The use of uranium as a coloring agent originated in the mountains of Bohemia and has been used by American and European factories since the late 1800s.

This highly collectible glass has been produced in a variety of shapes and patterns over the years. Beginning in the late 1930s, the antique trade called yellow glass Vaseline. Fenton first produced this color of glass in 1921 and called it Tux. The Northwood Glass Company dived it in the 1890s and called it Canary while in England and on the continent, various European companies referred to it as Uranium Glass.

No words can describe the beauty or value of these handmade glass treasures. Only at Proudfoot's

Northern Girls Win Final Games; Will Host Southern

The girls' softball team of Northern High School captured a pair of wins this past week in nipping host Fort Hill last Thursday, 8-7, and blasting visiting Allegany in an error-ridden contest on Friday, 23-13. The wins improved the Huskies' season mark to 10-7 and stretched their winning streak to six games.

Kristin Heslop led the Huskies on the mound and at the plate against Fort Hill, as she tossed a five-hitter, struck out five, and smacked a triple and a single on offense. Brooke Brenneman and Mindy McCarty each added a double in the Huskies' six-hit performance against losing pitcher Carrie Liller.

Liller, like Heslop, also led her team's offensive effort, as she hit a double and a single. Emily Coyle added a double and Amber Waltz contributed a run-producing single. Liller recorded eight strike-outs.

The Huskies and the Campers of Allegany committed a total of 30 errors in Friday's game, with the Campers recording 19 of them.

After spotting the Campers four runs in the top of the first, the Huskies took the lead for good in the bottom of that frame by scoring nine runs. They added four more in the second, three in the third, one in the fourth, and six in the sixth to end the game because of the 10-run rule.

Heslop had a three-run triple for the Huskies, while Jenny McKenzie and Erin Selders each finished with two singles. Earning the win on the mound was McCarty, who went the distance.

Kelly Keith paced Allegany's hitting with a home run and a single. The loss dropped the Campers to 9-5 on the season.

The Huskies were scheduled to play at Westmar on Monday, but no report of that game was received. Northern will host arch rival Southern on Friday in the

Both seniors were among the area's top point guards, with McCarty averaging 15.3 points, six rebounds, and four assists for this past season in leading her team to a second place finish in the state 1A tournament. Dabney averaged 11 points per game in WMIL play, was a second-team All-Area selection, and as a junior led the Rams to a perfect WMIL record. Southern's Kerri Cannon and Lauren Newcomb, and Brooke Brenneman of Northern were named to the All-WMIL second team. Other first-team selections were Area Player of the Year Jill McGowan of Westmar, Amber Waltz of Fort Hill, and Heather Abucovicz of Mount Savage.

Arsenal Team Falls To West Virginia Teams

The Arsenal Football (soccer) Club of Oakland played three matches on the past two Sunday afternoons, two in Clarksburg, W.Va., and one in Oakland, and lost all three of those encounters.

On April 27, in a persistent, cool rain, the local squad dropped a 4-0 decision to a team from Shepherdstown and then fell to a Bridgeport team, 3-0. Then this past Sunday, Arsenal fell to the same Shepherdstown team in Oakland, 4-1.

In the 4-0 loss, Arsenal out-shot their opponents by a 12-7 margin and finished with a 3-1 lead in corner kicks, but could not capitalize on most of those opportunities. Chris Menker had three saves in goal for Arsenal.

The Bridgeport team that won the second match was comprised of players from six counties who had played together for three years, so Arsenal coach Mel Menker was pleased with his team's effort, despite the loss.

Menker had 10 outstanding saves in goal, while John Menker, Steve Parisseau, Bo Jonson, and Nick Gletty led the rest of the Arsenal defense. Chad Lovett excelled on offense.

Details of Sunday's match were not received.

Rams Capture Track, Field Wins Over Three Opponents

The girls' and boys' track and field teams of Southern High School are enjoying another outstanding season, and each added three more victims to their lists of conquests Tuesday afternoon by winning four-team meets on their own track and field. The Southern girls coasted to victory by recording 128 team points, while Preston County finished a distant second with 59 points, University High of Morgantown placed a close third with 58 points, and Union High was fourth with eight points.

The boys' meet was closer, however the Rams won with 96.5 points, despite the absence of Jared Beckman, who holds several jumping records at the school, and Brian Park, one of the top runners on the team. Beckman is nursing injuries from a biking accident, while Park was out with illness. University just edged out Preston for second place with 78.5 points, as the Cavaliers finished with 78 points, and Union was a distant fourth with just three points.

Sophomore Amy Snyder led the Southern girls with four first places: the 400-meter dash, 800 run, and as a member of the winning 3,200 and 1,600 relay teams. Senior Lauren Newcomb captured three first places: the triple jump, 1,600-meter run, and as a member of the 1,600 relay team.

Earning double victories were senior Kerri Cannon in the shot put and discus; freshman Angie Sincell in the 3,200 run and as a member of the 3,200 relay team; and freshman Erin Hoalcraft and sophomore Kaitlyn McHee as members of the 1,600 and 3,200 relay teams.

Alison Rudy won the high jump for the Rams and Toni Sullivan won first in the long jump.

In the boys' competition, pacing the Rams were Dan Sincell and Eric Rexrode, as Sincell won first places in the 3,200 run and as a member of the 3,200 relay team, and Rexrode placed first in the 800 run and was also a member of the 3,200 relay team.

Ram Netters Split With FH, Lose To Alco

The tennis teams of Southern High School split a match with host Fort Hill Friday, as the Southern boys coasted to a 7-0 victory and the Ram girls were edged, 4-3. The Southern boys were then topped by visiting Allegany yesterday and the girls' results were not reported.

Against Fort Hill, Brandon Ferguson, Scott Rexrode, Justin Stephens, Mike Pamepinto, and Jamie Durst swept the singles competition for the Rams. Then the teams of Pamepinto and Stephens, and Bo Jonson and Bryson Paugh took both doubles matches.

Megan Mou and Desiree Spady each won singles matches for the Southern girls, while Casey Hook, Sarah Grogg, and Emily Keiper were winners for the Sentinels.

The Rams' final point came on a forfeit in the doubles competition. The Southern boys also defeated Fort Hill the previous day by a 5-2 score, with Ferguson, Stephens, Pamepinto, Durst, and Todd Tasker again sweeping the singles competition.

Lakers Sweep Anne Arundel; Set For Allegany In Playoffs

Garrett Community College baseball coach Ed Willesen hopes that a double-header sweep over host Anne Arundel Community College on Friday will give his team the momentum it will need to be successful in the Region XX Division I Baseball Tournament. The Lakers topped Anne Arundel, 7-3 and 4-3, to finish with a regular season mark of 25-9, an 18-4 Maryland JUCO record, and a third seeding for the Region XX tourney.

The 25-9 record is the fifth best winning percentage in GCC history and the best since 1978. The Lakers will be severely tested right away in the Region XX, double-elimination tourney, as they must face second-seeded Allegany College in Friday's 10 a.m. game at Hagerstown Junior College. The Lakers split games with Allegany in the regular season.

The first game against Anne Arundel on Friday was knotted at 1-1 going into the third inning, but that's when the Lakers scored four runs to take the lead for good.

Brian Tingen went three-for-four in the opener with three singles and two runs scored, while Mike Fiabane and Eric Harper each singled twice and Brian Hays added a double.

Matt Bell was credited with the win after getting some relief from Jason Lantz in the fifth inning. The two allowed a total of six hits, including two singles each by Adam Bolling and Shane Thompson.

Tingen racked up two more hits in the second game and reliever Matt Stollings worked his way out of a bases-loaded jam in the sixth to preserve the win for the Lakers.

Garrett took a 1-0 lead in the third inning when J.D. Hawkins scored on a double by Tingen. The Lakers upped their advantage to 4-0 with three runs in the fifth, as Harper reached on an error and Gene Sethman followed with a single. After a fly out, Hawkins walked to load the bases and Tingen singled to plate two runs. A fielder's choice off the bat of Fiabane brought home the third run of the inning.

Anne Arundel rallied for three runs in the sixth via two hits, a hit batter, and four bases on balls. Stollings then took over the mound from starter Matt Jones with the bases loaded and two outs. He forced a pop-up to get out of the inning and keep the Lakers up, 4-3.

The home team threatened again in the seventh by putting a runner on by way of an error with no outs. Stollings made a clutch play on a sacrifice bunt and then forced the next two batters to hit infield pop-ups.

Jones and Stollings allowed a total of only three hits. While Jones walked nine and hit a batter, he also recorded 10 strike-outs.

The Lakers were limited to just five hits by Dave Borro, which included Tingen's double and single.

Essex is seeded first in the Region XX tournament, while Montgomery-Rockville is seeded fourth and Hagerstown JC is seeded fifth. The fourth and fifth seeds played each other last night (result unknown at presstime) and the winner

Intercollegiate Triathlon Held; OU Is Winner

A team from Ohio University won first place in the overall competition at the second annual Adventuresports Intercollegiate Triathlon held recently in Garrett County. Five teams and four individual competitors participated in the multi-venue event.

The weekend kicked off Friday night with a welcoming and refreshments at New Germany State Park. Saturday brought with it sunshine and a spirit of competition as the triathlon go under way with kayaking. The 7.5-mile portion of the North Fork of the Potomac River included Bear Rapids and sections of hard paddling. The mountain bike segment was held Saturday afternoon at New Germany

State Park, with the eight-mile ride, which included technical as well as strenuous riding. The evening was concluded with a barbecue at the park.

Competition resumed Sunday morning at Garrett Community College with the final event: the climbing wall. Climbers had three routes to choose from and were allowed one opportunity to reach the top. The top three finalists had a "climb off" to determine the winner of the event. The kayak and mountain bike races were timed events.

An awards banquet was held at the Laker Cafe Sunday afternoon following the climbing wall event, with awards presented by Mike Logsdon, director of the GCC Adventuresports program. The team of Reid Swan, Amy Dingley, and Brad Stewart from Ohio University took first place overall and were awarded the triathlon trophy. Second place medals went to Sara Wise, Dan Jackson, and Todd Burnett, also from Ohio University. Third place medals went to James Forester, Melissa Adle, and Bryce Jenkinson of Frostburg State University.

Medals for individual male competitors were Scott Vogelpohl of Ohio University, who captured first place, and Jason Powell of GCC, who took second place. Medals for individual female competitors were Elise Kafsky of Ohio University, who won first place, and Lyz Lynch of Frostburg State, who placed second. The teams of Mark Mostrom, Janet Amelio, and Dave Best, along with Jesika Bolden, Dan Cunkleman, and Tim Spiro, gave a strong showing for GCC.

Because of the success of this second triathlon, plans are being made to have another similar event in fall 1997, according to Logsdon.

Sailboat Racing On Deep Creek Lake

Sailing School Announces Summer Program

by Dan Muss

There is still quite a nip in the air, but spring is here and the Deep Creek Sailing School is ready for a summer of teaching sailing to anyone who wants to learn. We will teach sailing using a one-week day-camp format for both adults and children; Mondays through Fridays starting at 9:30 a.m. and ending at about 4 p.m.

The schedule is as follows: beginner/intermediate adult instruction, weeks of June 23 and July 28; advanced adult, week of July 7; beginner/intermediate junior instruction, weeks of June 30, July 21, Aug. 11, sign up together, but we welcome singles too.

Advanced Junior Week: These weeks are for youngsters who have had a few years of experience; the training will concentrate on advanced sailing and racing techniques in single-hand Lasers and three-man crewed Flying Scots. If you are unsure about whether a junior belongs in this advanced class talk to Ted Russell at 301-387-4497.

Adult Advanced Week: This is for adults with some sailing experience who wish to learn how to use the spinnaker, and try some racing. For those who have been wary of racing due to the complexity of the rules, those rules have been simplified.

Junior Beginner/Intermediate Week: This week is for youngsters who have had either no experience or have had some experience. New/smaller kids will sail Optimist Prams; more experienced/bigger kids will sail Lasers with our shorter rig. The week will start with capsizing drill, rigging and unrigging, proceed through on-the-water instruction, free sails, cruises, and some racing. This course is aimed at providing a fun experience for the juniors; children who have gone through the course have had a good time, made new friends, and learned to sail. The only prerequisites for children to enroll is that they must be competent swimmers and they must wear a well-fitting PFD (life vest) at all times near or in the water.

The tuition for these training sessions is $165/week/participant. There are discounts for multiple family members and for adults who bring their own Flying Scots. Again, the school number is 301-387-4497.

Civic League Holds Roll-Off; Jones Wins Again

The Wednesday Civic Bowling League held its final roll-off April 30 at Par-Matt Lanes, Oakland, an event which determined the league champion from the winning teams of the first and second halves.

The first half winning team was Jones Trucking, consisting of Joe Jenkins, Hugh Schrier, JR Glotfelty, Frank Teter, and John Sharpless. The second half winning team was Keystone Paving Inc., consisting of Vernon Wampler, Lowell Thomas, Ken Metheny, Dale Umbel, and Mel Humberson.

The roll-off is a three-game match with one point for total pins with handicap used to determine the winner.

The handicap for Keystone Paving was 150 pins per game and for Jones Trucking, 38 pins per game. The first game Frank Teter had the highest individual game of 205. Jones Trucking had a handicap score of 869 and Keystone Paving had a handicap score of 962. The second game saw Lowell Thomas as the high-

The third game started with Joe Jenkins opening with a double and John Sharpless with four strikes in a row. Jenkins finished with a 213 game and a 551 set, Hugh Schrier had a 233 game and a 543 set, JR Glotfelty finished with a 223 game and a 547 set, Frank Teter recorded a 221 game and a 615 set, and John Sharpless had a 236 game and a 572 set.

The final tally had Jones Trucking with a 2,942 handicap over Keystone Paving's 2,909 handicap score. This is the third consecutive year that Jones Trucking has won the league championship.

BOWLER OF YEAR

The Wednesday Civic League conducts a Bowler of the Year competition. Every four weeks the highest handicap and the highest scratch scores are used to seed bowlers for the competition. This year the league was divided into two classes: the A Class, bowlers averaging 176 and above, and the B Class, bowlers averaging 175 and below.

A Class

Of the 16 bowlers who qualify for the Bowler of the Year, six are seeded into the final roll-off. The top three seeds are handicap scores and the last three are scratch scores. The top seed was Jeff Friend with a 672 set, followed by Curt Bucklew with a 629 set, Butch Spurrier with a 627 set, John Sharpless with a 620 set, Gary Friend with a 618 set, and Hugh Schrier with a 607 set. All of these bowlers had O pins handicap.

The first match between Hugh Schrier and Gary Friend was won by Schrier, 236-190. In the second match, Schrier topped John Sharpless, 213-179. Schrier then advanced with a 203 over Butch Spurrier with a 182. The semi-final match advanced Schrier into the final by scoring a 227 over Curt Bucklew's 208.

B Class

The selection of the six seeds for the B Class is the same as for the A Class. The top seed was Moe Miller with a 540 scratch and 639 handicap set, followed by Ollie Guthrie with a 562 scratch and 634 handicap set, Bob Sines with a 597 scratch and 633 handicap set, Norman Guthrie with a 587 scratch set, Jay Meyers with a 581 set, and Harland Tichnell with a 562 set. All of the scores for the roll-off are handicap scores.

The first match advanced Jay Meyers with a 211 past Harland Tichnell (156). Norman Guthrie then defeated Meyers, 216-174, and Sines, 162-152. In the semi-final match, Norman Guthrie topped Ollie Guthrie, 201-185.

The final match found Moe Miller successfully defending his top seed ranking by shooting a 214 to defeat Guthrie, who recorded a 196.

The commissioners last week approved a $30,000 increase in county funding for fiscal year 1998 as well as an increase in various permits issued by environmental health. This action averted two additional layoffs proposed in the original fiscal recovery plan.

The state health department has approved the option of paying back the deficit over a period of up to five years instead of three, as was first required. This apparently averted two other layoffs, Archer said.

The health officer said he wished to express his appreciation to the depart-

Thirty-Eight Years And A General's Star Later, A Friendsville Native Is Home

by David Foster

1950s Friendsville. A young boy growing up could hear grown men telling stories anywhere, at almost anytime. Around the counter at Fox's Hardware, on the steps of the library, in the living room after Thanksgiving dinner, men would talk of work, weather, and various matters, but sooner or later they'd come to stories of The War: World War II.

One young boy listened closely to the stories of the heroes of his hometown, for his own father was one of them. Wade Schroyer had served in the First Infantry Division, seeing action in the Battle of the Bulge and elsewhere. When Wade came home from Europe he worked in the timberwoods for a few years, then carried the U.S. mail in the Friendsville area for the next three decades. The experience of war had made Wade and his fellow vets a close bunch, and they even worked together to open a VFW in Friendsville across from the bridge. They shared a past and a camaraderie that young boy found intriguing. He, too, would be a soldier someday.

In June of 1959 the young man, now 17 years old and fresh from Northern High's graduation, brings a visitor to the Schroyer home. Sergeant Sherry, an Army recruiter from Kingwood, W. Va., has papers for Virginia Schroyer to sign. She's reluctant at first, but her son convinces her that "this is what I really want to do." There in the living room on Maple Street, the son of a rural mail carrier and a bank teller begins a 38-year journey through the Army's ranks from the stripe of buck private to the star of brigadier general, the only native-bred Garrett Countian to wear a general's star.

Yet even a general can miss his hometown, and after his retirement this March, he and his wife Joyce have moved back to Friendsville. New civilian Dale W. Schroyer, an Army veteran like his father, is home now in the small town founded by his ancestors. The circle is complete.

Dale Schroyer first took to the National Highway out of Garrett County as one of many local young people who've left home for economic reasons. The influence of Friendsville's veterans was a big factor, but he also realized that "there just wasn't much for a young person to do around here. Basically, our choices were to either work in the woods or in a coal mine."

After basic training at Ft. Jackson, S.C., Private Schroyer was sent to Ft. Bliss, Tex., to train as a launcher crewman and propulsion mechanic for Nike Hercules missiles. The missile system depended on hydraulics, and he recalls that "the computer that ran the firing battery took up an entire van the size of a mobile home. Now it could probably fit on a laptop - but it did the job it was supposed to."

Sent to Germany for a 30-month tour, Schroyer was on hand when the U.S. Army's stationary missile corps made the move to mobile units, which prowled the German forests and countryside in a deadly game of hide-and-seek from their Soviet counterparts. (Interestingly, Colin Powell's first command was guarding one of these mobile missile units in Germany.) Schroyer was on German soil, stationed just south of Frankfurt, during the building of the Berlin Wall, a major crisis of the Cold War.

One of Schroyer's fondest memories of those days overseas is the monthly letter from his sister Janice and her husband Benny Frazee which always contained a $5 bill. "That five dollars went a long way in helping me get stretch out the $68 a private was paid every month," he laughs.

Missiles in Maryland

As his overseas tour ended, then-Corporal Schroyer

REVIEWING THE TROOPS - Then-Colonel Dale Schroyer, foreground, commander of the troops, reviews the troops of the 29th Infantry Division (Light) during a change of command ceremony in August 1996. Schroyer is flanked by Major General Langley to his left and Lt. General LaBoa to his right. The WWII jeep bears the name "Vixen-Tor" on its windshield, and it was used by the 29th Division in combat during the Normandy landings on D-Day and throughout the European campaign. Activated for this ceremony, the vehicle is part of a museum display housed at the 5th Regiment Armory in Baltimore.

applied for a position with the Maryland National Guard as a missile technician. The move from regular Army to the Maryland National Guard brought him home from overseas, but he had to start over as a private again. Schroyer was assigned to the Baltimore-Washington Air Defense System, where he would spend the next 13 years.

Global events of October 1962 put Schroyer, then barely 20 years old, in the middle of the most dangerous crisis the nuclear world has ever seen. "During the Cuban missile crisis, every single missile battery from Maine to Florida, and around the Gulf Coast, was on a constant five-minute alert, 24 hours around the clock for two weeks. It was tough, physically and mentally," he said, "but it was our job. A lot of military personnel did a great job during that confrontation."

After 10 tense days Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev recalled his ships that were on their way towards an American naval blockade of Cuba, and the crisis defused. President John F. Kennedy's leadership skills during the crisis were not lost on the young serviceman. "Kennedy may have impressed me most of all the presidents I served under. It's a shame his presidency was cut short; there's no telling how differently things may have turned out had he lived," he said.

Schroyer continued serving with the missile battery while attending Officer Candidate School, and graduated from the Maryland Military Academy in 1967. In 1973 the former private, now a captain, was named battery commander of the same missile battery where he had begun as a missile technician 11 years earlier. By 1974, however, evolving technology had made the National Guard missile batteries obsolete, and the sites were closed. Schroyer adapted by transferring to the National Guard Infantry, and for the next four years was assigned to Battalion Staff in Silver Spring.

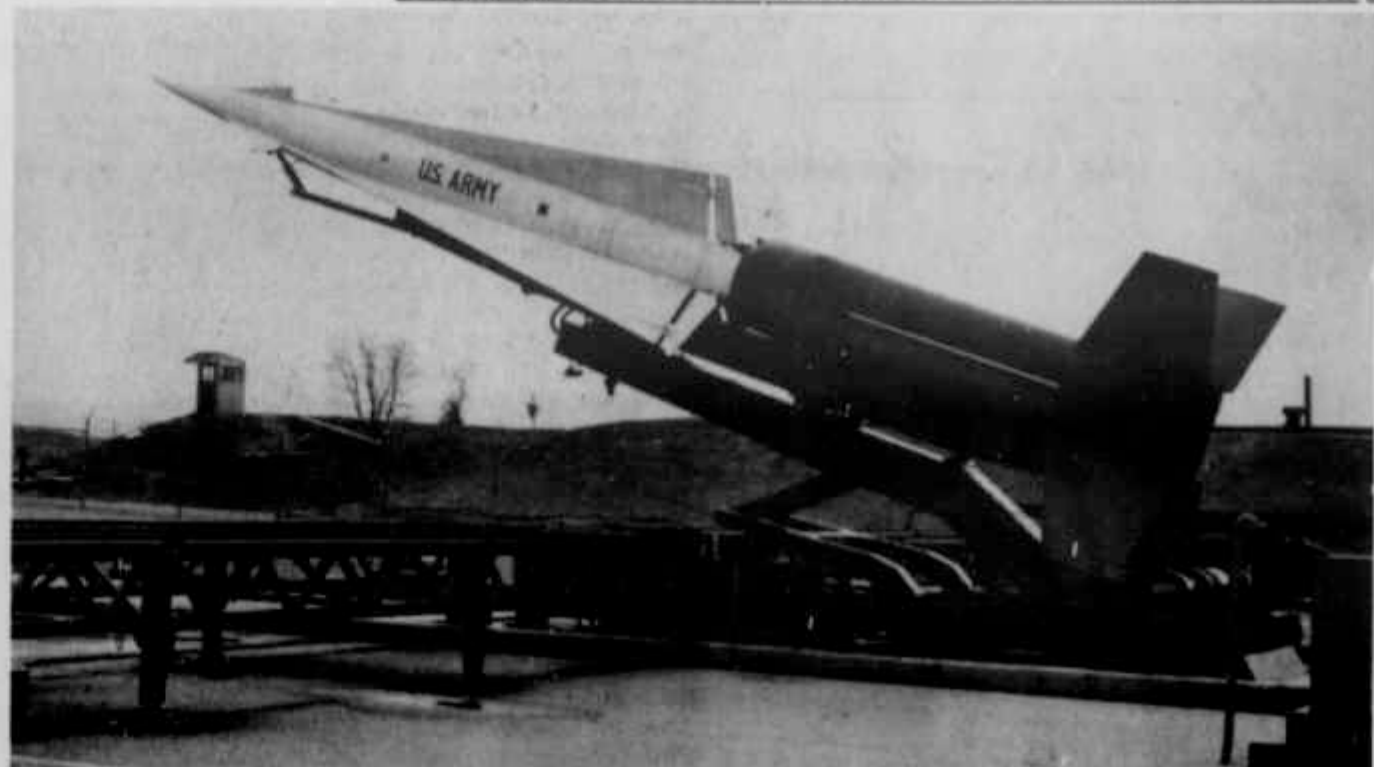

First Homecoming

In 1978 Schroyer left active duty for the reserves, and he and Joyce brought the Mill Run General Store and moved back home to mind the store. "Back then Mill Run was a booming area. Pittsburgh steelworkers had lots of weekend cabins, and we did big business on the weekends," he said. The boom was short-lived, however, and 20 years after a depressed local economy first helped send the young Dale Schroyer away, he faced the same decision. "In 1979 things started slowing down as the closing of steel factories finally caught up with us, and gas prices rose higher and higher. We finally had to give up the store, and I went back to active Guard reserve duty in 1981."

The Schroyers returned to Baltimore, where he took an assignment as a recruiting officer. "In the all-volunteer military, we had to come up with ways to make the military attractive to potential recruits, which wasn't always easy," he said. "The job gave me a chance to observe young people closely; at times I would honestly question their commitment, although later when Desert Storm came along they showed up to do their jobs. It gave me a really good feeling that they passed that big test when they were called to serve."

29th Infantry Division

In 1982 Schroyer graduated from the Army's Command and General Staff College, and in 1985 he was transferred to the newly reactivated 29th Infantry Division, the only light division in the Reserves. Known as "the Blue and the Gray Division" the 29th had a storied past, and "the new 29th," as he puts it, "was redesigned to be the army of the future - light and versatile for quick intervention in a very COLD WAR WEAPON - Part of the Baltimore-Washington Air Defense System, this Nike Hercules missile was based at one of the various missile sites Dale Schroyer was assigned to from 1962 to 1974. Throughout the Cold War such missiles stood on alert around major U.S. cities, ready to defend against any Soviet nuclear attack. Although thousands of miles from Moscow, the crew manning this missile was on one of the front lines of that era. "Our job was to defend against Bear Bombers," Schroyer recalls, "the Soviet version of our B-52s. Circling the globe carrying nuclear weapons, they could conceivably attack from anywhere at anytime. Each missile battalion had four rotating missile batteries: one was always on a five-minute alert, another on a one-hour alert, the third on a three-hour alert, and the fourth was a 'cold battery,' stood down for maintenance," he explained. "Each battery had three missile crews, rotating 24 hours on and 24 hours off for a week at a time. Two launch technicians had to open separate safes to launch our weapons, and we could enable, aim, and fire within five minutes of first being alerted to incoming enemy planes." All Baltimore-Washington Air Defense System missile sites were finally closed in 1974, and today some of these Nike Hercules missiles are part of a museum display at Fort Meade.

A FAMILY CELEBRATION - The Schroyer children gather around their parents at Fort Belvoir, Va., to mark Dale Schroyer's promotion to Brigadier General and retirement from military service in the same ceremony on March 22. short time frame. We sent many of our men and women to Desert Shield/Desert Storm. Among their tasks was to support the 82nd Airborne as water treatment specialists, operating a portable water purification system for the troops."

In 1993, Colonel Schroyer was named The 29th's Chief of Staff, "sort of like the CEO of a large corporation," responsible for the day-to-day management and allocation of resources for more than 10,000 division members in five states. Under Schroyer's tenure as chief of staff, the 29th Division was involved in a number of first-time initiatives: the first National Guard unit to be deployed in an observer role in the Sinai Desert; overseeing a joint/multi-national task force for the ground defense of Iceland; a highly successful staff operation in Warfighter, the Army's premier test of battle staffs; and finally, deployment of Virginia National Guard troops as part of the peace-keeping force in Bosnia.

Schroyer continued as chief of staff of the 29th until this past March, at which time he was promoted to brigadier general during his retirement ceremony at division headquarters at Fort Belvoir, Va.

Lessons Learned

Thirty-eight years of military service encompassing a rise from a private's stripe to a general's star gives Schroyer a unique perspective of what it means to be a soldier. "The great thing about being in the military is just not the technology or the travel - it's the people. It was having the opportunity to work with wonderful people who make things happen. In the military you get to see a cross-section of the country, and of the world, and that's the

Schroyer's earlier concerns about the commitment of America's youth have been answered, too. "Along with seeing the fantastic response of young Americans to the call for duty in Desert Storm, I'm constantly amazed by how smart the soldier of today is. The technology is so advanced that a soldier has to be intelligent and adaptable to make it. They're so smart that they could be making a good living on the outside. It's a great feeling to meet young people who have chosen the military in order to serve and to learn, who aren't out to make a fast buck."

After spending over half his life in uniform, Schroyer would have no hesitation if a young person were to ask him about the military as a career. "The experience was great; I'd recommend it to anyone who was considering it. You just have to want to do it, and be willing to work," he says. "It's been a good life, and it shows that kids from Garrett County can be anything they want to be if they commit themselves and work hard at it," he said.

Home For Good

Dale and Joyce Schroyer have thrown themselves headlong into their latest assignment: retirement. The Schroyers are happy to be back in Friendsville, close to their granddaughter Dia. When not unpacking a lifetime of moving boxes at their Mill Run home, they're often in the crowd at the Accident Little League field cheering on their nephews, Jason and Christopher Thomas, both of the Marlins team. They also visit the Sand Spring Cemetery, where both sets of their parents, Laura and James Pagano and Virginia and WWII veteran Wade Schroyer, rest beneath the blue Garrett County sky.

Schroyer's retirement plans include a little travel, fishing the Yough, and putting his new .308 Remington rifle, a retirement gift from the soldiers of the 29th Infantry, to use in the local woods next deer season.

"We love the mountains of Garrett County," Joyce Schroyer said. "There's no place else in the whole world we would want to live."

A Final Salute

Garrett County's only born and bred general does not want the sacrifices made by fellow local military veterans forgotten. "There's a memorial in front of the Friendsville School to our six hometown soldiers who were killed in Vietnam," he said. "Friendsville sent and lost a higher percentage of its population in Vietnam than any other town in America. Without degrading their respective achievements, the vets of WWII and Korea served and came home together at the end of their wars, while men and women who came home on their own after a year or two in Vietnam had a very different experience. They didn't have the informal support groups of other war vets to talk to when they got home, and in some places some people even threw rocks at them."

The irony of rocks being thrown at servicemen who risked their lives in answering their country's call is not lost on Schroyer. "I joined the Army out of a deep commitment to serve, and because we have a free country which must stay that way. I didn't agree with people who threw rocks at the Vietnam vets, and there are some views expressed today that I may not agree with," he quietly admits, "but the military upholds people's freedom to express their opinions. However, it does say something for small towns like Friendsville that Vietnam vets were treated with respect here," he said proudly.

"It's good to be home," Schroyer concluded. The circle is complete.

Note: Brigadier General Dale W. Schroyer, VANG, Ret., will be the featured speaker at the Memorial Day ceremony at American Legion Post 208, Accident, on May 26. The public is invited to attend.

GOP Club Women Hear Legislators Speak At Meeting

bly this year.

The club members congratulated the two men on the work accomplished on behalf of their constituents.

After these speakers concluded, the regular business meeting came to order and Louise McKenzie made the treasurer's report followed by the secretary's report by Lois Rowe. Both were approved. Among other business, the club president reported on a meeting held in Hancock last month.

president of the Southern Garrett Republican Women's Club. Roberts informed those present of changes at Broadford Park, where the joint club picnic will be held in July. The speaker scheduled for the that event is Bunny Parrish, president of Maryland State Federation of Republican Women.

A fruit basket was won by Lois Rowe. Proceeds from the chances on the basket were $25. Cora Bowser, Helen Keller, Jean Friend, and Orpha Miller will be responsible for the May fruit basket. The

GCC To Offer One-Day Class In Visualization

Garrett Community College will offer a course titled "Visualization in Relaxation and Self-Realization" on Saturday, May 24. The one-day course will be held from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. in the Center for Community and Continuing Education. The course is designed for massage therapists and students of massage therapy, but others in the helping professions are welcome to enroll.

Topics for the course include mind/body relationships, how to visualize, relaxation and visualization, and effective use of the voice. The use of affirmation, color, breathing, and images will also be explored. The relationship of visualization in sports and education will be introduced as well.

The instructor, Gail N. Herman, Ph.D., was involved in stress management at Eastern Connecticut State College for a number of years, and has training from the National Training Laboratory in Bethel, Maine, in visualization.

STUDENTS RAISE MONEY FOR ST. JUDE'S - Students at Loch Lynn Elementary School recently participated in the St. Jude's Children's Research Hospital Math-A-Thon. The event is a fund-raiser for the hospital, founded by the late actor Danny Thomas. Students raised money by being sponsored to complete math "fun books." The books had math problems geared to each grade level, as well as puzzle pages, according to math resource teacher Amy Thayer. By participating in the project, students sharpen their math skills while providing financial assistance to the hospital, Thayer said. Of the 120 students at Loch Lynn, 61 in grades kindergarten through five participated and raised $2,844.39 for the hospital. Thayer (pictured above left) and Principal Lindsay Stanton (at right) considered the effort a great success and attributed that to the enthusiasm of the children as well as the support of their families and friends. Those participating are pictured here, with the second grade class shown below and the other grades pictured above. Participants (not in order) included kindergartners Nolan Marple, Alex Wood, Sara Holler, Torrey Riley, and Tiffany Callis; first graders Andrea Hedrick, Eric Tichnell, Amber Thorne, Cory Broadwater, Alicia Tasker, Sara Shaffer, Andrea Stoyer, Joel Rush, B.J. Upole, Tyler Tasker, Derrick Tasker, Cody Colaw, Megan Shaffer, and Sara Fike; second graders Travis Keller, Sean Knox, Dustin Shreve, Matthew Burns, Mikey Crosby, Stephen Schrock, Hanna Storey, Amber Plank, Cody Broadwater, Mathew Foley, Sara Beckman, Tony Steyer, and Dustin Hoffman; third graders Sara Cavalier, Tracy Rush, Jacob Tasker, Amber Cline, Destiny Kitzmiller, Joshua Fike, Jennifer Steyer, Charise Tasker, Jeremy Gregory, Michelle Holler, Jessica Gatto, and Corey Lewis; fourth graders Travis Riley, Jennifer Walker, Brittany Miller, Jared Thorne, Jordan Hypes, Matthew Savage, Chad Everd, J.D. Plank, and Brad Lilly; and fifth graders Sean Cavalier, Derrick Rhodes, Michelle Kitzmiller, Heather Crosby, Brandon Bowman, Matt Shaffer, and Ben Uphold.

The cost of the course is $60 for Garrett County residents. For additional information, persons may call the GCC Continuing Education Office at 301-387-3069.

Goldstein Says State Keeping Pace With Boom

"Maryland's economic growth for the first three months of 1997, and throughout the fiscal year, has kept pace with a national economic growth rate that just hit a 10-year high," said Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein.

For the first three months of calendar year 1997, Maryland sales and use tax receipts produced $465.3 million, 7.3% more than the amount produced for the same three months of 1996. Nationally, an increase in consumer purchasing of 6.4% for the quarter helped drive a 5.6% increase in gross domestic product, the highest quarterly increase since the last quarter of 1987.

"These strong sales tax revenues reflect a continuing trend here in Maryland. Growth in the last quarter of 1996 was 6.6% over the same period of the previous year, producing sales tax receipts of $570.7 million. This, compared to a national growth in consumer spending in the fourth quarter of 3.4%, shows that Maryland's economic growth isn't a one-time blip on the chart but a continuing trend," Goldstein said.

Strong employment growth has helped to spark the increase in consumer spending and confidence. Employment in Maryland grew by 2.5% for the first quarter of 1997, compared with national employment growth of 2.3%.

"In Maryland, we saw our greatest employment growth in business services, in transportation and communications, and especially in construction employment, which showed an 11% increase over the same period of last year. Warm winter weather and a relative lack of snowfall contributed to the growth in construction employment," the comptroller said.

"The solid growth in employment, especially in higher-paying industries, and healthier wage increases, have kept Maryland's income tax withholding strong throughout the fiscal year. For the first nine months of fiscal year 1997, Maryland income tax withholding payments totaled $3.86 billion, up 6% from the same period of the previous fiscal year," Goldstein said.

Withholding payments reflect trends in wages and employment. "Maryland's economy has been picking up steam through the fiscal year, and we have seen steady growth as our state continues to rebound from the impact of last year's federal government shutdown," the comptroller said.

ITV Links NHS To GCC Students In Pre-Calc Class

There are 38 students in the Garrett Community College pre-calculus class this year. For the first time this course is being taught via interactive television which links students from Northern High School with students on the GCC campus.

The technology allows students to work from the studios at their respective schools. They are able to hear each other and see each other on the television monitors.

The class instructor, Dr. Nancy Priselac, coordinator of mathematics at GCC, said she spends half of the semester at each of the studio locations. "There is also a technical assistant at each location," she explained.

The pre-calc course requires students to use a variety of skills. Besides the math functions that are performed, students are also responsible for a three-dimensional project that demonstrates a principle in calculus, and research paper to be presented.

Though going to school on separate campuses, the students were able to work together on their projects. The students were tasked with developing three-dimensional representations of Platonic solids. Groups selected a house, a Christmas tree, cookies, and

Joint Venture In Painting Opens At Local Gallery

Artists Michael Zuckerman and Ireta Skipper-Sweitzer will be opening a collaborative show of their works this month at a local gallery. These two artists differ in personality and style, yet they paint together, simultaneously, on the same canvas.

The show, titled "As I Remember," is the accumulation of two lifetimes of perspective, fused together as one. The artists will be showing paintings that began in 1975 and continue to evolve to this day.

Zuckerman refers to their work together as an adventure. "In art to seek always comes first and that is what differentiates art from craft. Technique in original art is only a means to an end and never the end in itself. In fact the technique is in getting lost to begin with. Artists are pilgrims of the work in progress," he said. "Painting together has helped us each with our own individual work," he added.

"When we first began, we'd stand back and laugh," states Skipper-Sweitzer. "Then came the time we got serious, the worth in it came to be when somebody liked our work; our struggle now is to remember the joy and to remember to laugh at ourselves," Zuckerman added.

Skipper-Sweitzer recently won first prize for her pastel, titled Renaissance, in the Garrett County Senior COLLABORATIVE ART - Ireta Skipper-Sweitzer and Michael Zuckerman, artists in their own right, work brush-to-brush to create a unique expression on canvas. Results of this unusual approach to painting are on display through May at the Windrush Gallery, Friendsville. Above, Mike and Ireta share the easel and below Ireta applies a few more brush strokes.

Art Exhibit. The same work was also juried into the exhibit "Maryland Blossoms in the Arts 1997" to be shown at the Governor's Mansion in Annapolis. Zuckerman is a graduate of the Maryland Institute of Art and is the recipient of the coveted Peabody Sculpture Award. He attended the Rinehart School of Sculpture and has taught at the Maryland Institute in of Art selected Zuckerman's art to go on traveling exhibit, and he was chosen as one of 13 artists to be shown at the Washington County Art Museum. Zuckerman's work is included in The Bronzes of the American West Registry and Index. He has shown at the New York City Sculpture Center and in Miami, Florida. Permanent collections of his work can be found as far away as New York City and Ghana, Africa, as well as in Cumberland and on the grounds of Garrett Community College in the form of an outdoor sculpture commissioned by the Garrett County Arts Council.

The work of Mike and Ireta will be on exhibit from May 1 through June 7 at the Windrush Gallery, Morris Avenue, Friendsville. The public is invited to meet the artists and discuss their work at a reception at the gallery Saturday, May 17, 7:30-9:30 p.m. Refreshments will be served. For more information persons may contact the gallery at 301-746-4083.

COVER STORY

Three hits take bows as season's end nears

©TVData Features Syndicate

If the imminent end of this TV season feels a little sad, chalk it up to the fact that three long-running situation comedies are facing their final bows.

By the end of this month, Coach, Wings and Roseanne will be history.

Coach, which premiered on Feb. 28, 1989, wraps up its three-part series finale Wednesday, May 14, as Hayden and Christine (Craig T. Nelson, Shelley Fabares) reach a decision that will dramatically affect their future.

It's a sweet episode and a well-merited conciliatory gesture from ABC, which in recent seasons has treated the one-time ratings winner strictly as a utility player, called in off the bench whenever another show went belly up.

Its fans can rest assured that title star Nelson, who won an Emmy for his work on the show, will continue to be one of the most in-demand actors in TV and film.

Ditto Steven Weber, whose Brian Hackett on Wings has been a perennial audience favorite since the show's NBC debut on April 19, 1990. Though never the show of the moment, Wings has always at the very least been a solid if sometimes modest ratings hit. But this season was a turbulent one for the program. Wings was consigned to NBC's ill-considered attempt to launch another comedy beachhead on Wednesdays and the show abruptly went down in Nielsen flames.

Weber himself is on a red-hot streak these days: He got terrific reviews for his work in the TV adaptation of Stephen King's The Shining, and recently directed another King story for TV's The Outer Limits.

The 36-year-old actor says filming the one-hour Wings finale, which airs Wednesday, May 21, was bittersweet, and admits he and his co-stars occasionally chafed at how their show seemed to live in the shadow of its more famous sibling, Cheers.

"We were doing the show long enough that we wanted to have a little critical notice," Weber says, "especially for something that we thought was better than a lot of other shows that were getting that attention."

He finds it fitting that his show is slipping out as quietly as it slipped in seven years ago — something that can't be said about Roseanne, the controversial, ground-breaking sitcom that is completing a decade of episodes. Its one-hour finale airs Tuesday, May 20, on ABC.

Roseanne recently announced plans to take her show's central character to another series venue. The idea was rejected by all of the Big Three networks.

But regardless of that ending, Roseanne has been, by critical consensus, one of the most influential shows in TV history. It was the first sitcom to offer a frank, often painful look at blue-collar American family life, as well as the first to introduce multiple gay characters whose sexuality was simply a fact of life, not just a cheap punch line.

As in life, problems took weeks or months to solve, not 23 minutes. And sometimes, people actually failed.

"You could watch Roseanne just for laughs," says head writer Allan Stephenson, "but if you were a thinking person, every show had a message."

IN FOCUS

Ben Kingsley tackles the role of Julian, a powerful business tycoon determined to own a professional football team, in Weapons of Mass Destruction. The HBO movie premieres Saturday, May 17.

Unfortunately, Julian's rival (Gabriel Byrne) also wishes to own the team. Soon, the strong-minded men are involved in an all-out war. Their blackmail and mudslinging escalate to a point that could destroy themselves and their families.

Mimi Rogers also stars.

TV PIPELINE

Q: I have tried over and over to understand all the words in the theme song to All in the Family, but with the way Edith and Archie sing, it's very difficult. What are the last few words in the second-to-last line, just before "those were the days"? It sounds like "sour grapes," but it can't be. —Janet in Cleveland.

A: Don't be too hard on Family stars Jean Stapleton and Carroll O'Connor, who went so far as to redo their performance of the opening song in hopes of making this stubborn line more comprehensible.

Despite that, most people still don't realize that they're singing, "Gee, our old LaSalle ran great."

Q: A Pennsylvania reader asked about a movie that featured a pair of young lovers in heaven before they were born. You may have been right with The Blue Bird, but a second choice could have been Made in Heaven, starring Kelly McGillis and Timothy Hutton. Could the two films be related? —Louise Rohrbach via e-mail.

A: Several readers wrote to remind me about Made in Heaven, but you, Louise, were the only one who considered the possibility that either film could be correct.

Given the complete information the reader provided in the letter she submitted, she clearly was looking for The Blue Bird, starring Shirley Temple. I removed some of those particulars when editing the letter for publication.

To those readers who were confused and thought I had identified the wrong movie for this reader, I'm happy to clear this up.

Jean Stapleton

Q: Is ABC reporter Deborah Roberts married to Al Roker of NBC's Today show or Mark McEwen of CBS' This Morning? —C.W., San Angelo, Texas.

A: Roberts is married to Roker.

Q: Has the soap The City been canceled? I can't find it anywhere in my area. —K.K. via e-mail.

A: Yes, the low-rated soap, an attempt to salvage Living, has been canceled. In most markets, the new soap Port Charles will move into the former City slot on June 2, following a prime-time launch the previous night.

Q: I loved to watch TV cowboys as a kid in the '50s. One was Sugarfoot with Will Hutchins; another was Clint Walker in Cheyenne. What was the series starring Ty Hardin? —Robert Rhode via e-mail.

A: Hardin's series, Bronco, ran on ABC from September 1958 to August 1962.

SOAP TALK

Aprea trades guns for respectable shipping job

By Candace Havens
©TVData Features Syndicate

Former gangster Lucas (John Aprea) has not returned to Another World. But a tall, dark and handsome stranger who greatly resembles him has.

That's because Aprea is back on AW in the new role of Alexander Nikos, a mysterious Greek shipping magnate.

"When AW headwriter Michael Malone conceived this character, we started looking for an actor with a certain presence," executive producer Charlotte Savitz says. "We realized John could do it better than anyone else we could ever imagine."

"The character of Alexander provides a unique way for us to have John return to AW, while bringing in a new character."

Alexander is like an exotic whirlwind, who blows into Felicia's (Linda Dano) life and sweeps her off her feet.

Working with Dano again was one of the reasons Aprea returned. "I cannot wait to see how these characters interact," the actor says.

Dear Candace: Can you please let me know what is going on with the actor who plays good ol' Roger Thorpe on Guiding Light? His mouth seems crooked to me and his speech is a little slurred. Or is it my imagination? —C.A., Orrington, Maine.

Dear Reader: No, it isn't your imagination. Michael Zaslow, who played Roger, has some kind of medical problem. He is taking an extended leave. Executives from GL are not commenting on the nature of the problem.

Dennis Parlato is taking over the role temporarily.

John Aprea

"I have mixed feelings about stepping into the role of Roger Thorpe, which Michael Zaslow has played for so many years," Parlato says. "This is an excellent role and I see it as my job to quietly attempt to carry on in his absence."

Dear Candace: What happened to the actress who played Phyllis on The Young and the Restless? She just won an award for outstanding villainess and now suddenly another actress is playing the role. —J.D., Mount Vernon, Wash.

Dear Reader: Michelle Stafford left her Y&R role to star in the prime-time series Pacific Palisades.

Local Students Attend Model UN Event At FSU

Frostburg State University recently hosted the fifth annual Model United Nations Security Council for high school students from Allegany and Garrett counties. The students spent the day on the FSU campus role-playing UN Security Council delegations and discussing the appropriate role the UN should play in maintaining the Middle East.

According to model coordinator, John O'Rourke, of the FSU political science department, approximately 90 students and their faculty advisors from Allegany, Bishop Walsh, Flintstone, Fort Hill, Northern, and Southern high schools were in attendance. The students and their advisors spent many hours researching and preparing for the model in order to more effectively represent their assigned countries.

FSU students played the role of UN facilitators during the simulation, providing assistance to the high school students.

The purpose of the simulation was to provide area high school students with an opportunity to engage in an active learning experience focusing on issues of world peace and security, the role of international organizations, and the nature of peace keeping tasks. Through the process of participating in the simulation, the students developed a greater appreciation of the difficulties involved in arriving at a peaceful solution to the problems which plague the Middle East. Previous simulations have focused on the former Yugoslavia, Cyprus, and Angola.

The Model UN Security Council is an annual event hosted each spring by FSU in its ongoing efforts to provide increased cultural and educational opportunities to the greater community, according to O'Rourke.

Applicants For Math, Science Program Sought

Frostburg State University's Regional Math and Science Center is currently accepting applications from area high school students to attend the fifth annual summer program held on its campus. Students completing the summer program will be eligible to continue in the program throughout the academic year. The academic year program includes interactions with professional scientists, academic support, and field trips.

During the six-week summer program, this year from June 21 to August 1, students will be investigating acid rain. They will study mathematics, technical writing, life science, physical science, and computers in their investigation. These studies primarily use hands-on, laboratory, and field-based experiences to facilitate learning and keep enthusiasm high.

Students live in residence halls on the campus of FSU and eat their meals in the dining hall free of charge. Students are under the supervision of a professional staff who live with the students, plan and supervise recreational activities, and organize evening study sessions. Students also receive weekly stipends with transportation costs paid for by the center.

The program still has openings for students residing within West Virginia, the Appalachian region of Pennsylvania, Allegany, Garrett, and Washington counties of Maryland, as well as Maryland's Eastern Shore and Baltimore City. To be eligible, students must have completed the 8th grade by the end of the 1996-1997 school year and have an interest in math and/or science. Students also have to meet either the U.S. Department of Education low-income or potential first-generation college students criteria. Students currently enrolled in Upward Bound or Talent Search programs automatically meet those criteria.

For more information and applications, persons may contact the Regional Math/Science Center office at 1-800-646-6004 or 301-687-4295.

First "Festival Four Friends" Event Raises Funds For Selected Charities

As a collaborative effort, Creative Momz Brenda Thomas, Oakland, and Lori Malcolm, Swanton, introduced a new concept in children's parties with their first annual "Festival For Friends," a unique event designed to consolidate their children's birthday parties into one celebration. Emily Thomas and Nixon Malcolm were the guests of honor celebrating their fourth birthdays on Sunday, April 13, at the Deep Creek fire hall in McHenry.

Children of all ages enjoyed carnival games with prizes, fun photos in Fantasy Land, sing-a-long karaoke with video, face painting, and tattoos. An added treat included a visit from the Ali Ghan Shriner clowns and a magic show performed by Derrick Robey.

"Festival Four Friends" was a unique brand of birthday party in that parents were asked not to bring gifts but instead make a monetary donation to be distributed to selected charities, according to Malcolm. All donations and proceeds from the event were donated to the Johns Hopkins Grant-A-Wish Foundation, the Children's House at Johns Hopkins, and the Ali Ghan Shriners Children's Hospital Transportation Fund on behalf of Emily and Nixon. The Johns Hopkins Grant-A-Wish Foundation was formed in 1982 by Brian Morrison, to fulfill the special wishes of children with life-threatening illnesses. The Children's House at Johns Hopkins was a concept developed by the Grant-A-Wish Foundation as a way to meet the needs for nearby, affordable housing for families and patients who visit the Johns Hopkins Children's Center. The Ali Ghan Shriners Children's Hospital are located in Cincinnati (Burn Center) and Philadelphia (Spinal Injury Center). Currently there is a need for funds to transport children from the Cumberland area to the Cincinnati and Philadelphia hospitals. The Festival Four Friends raised $518.80, which will be distributed among the three selected charities.

As a gesture of goodwill, the intent of the Festival Four Friends was to instill core family values and allow children to experience the pleasures and rewards of giving to others, according to Thomas. On behalf of the Festival Four Friends, thanks were extended to McDonald's of Oakland for donating cookies; the Ali Ghan Shriner clowns (Lewis Marks, Bill McKenzie, Ken Harris, and Scott Lewis) for donating their time and entertaining the children; Debbie and Chris Crabtree of Oak Lee Dairyland for donating ice cream cone holders; Little Mountain Promotions, Watch Dog Security Systems, and Fantastic Cleaning Services for cash donations and building materials and supplies for the carnival games; Reminiscence Antique Mall for donating items for raffles; Kenny and Alice Sisler for monetary contribution, donating film and a raffle item; Bill's Marine Service for donating a mannequin to use for carnival games; RMC Consulting Services for a cash donation; Ellen Taylor for cookies; Mr. and Mrs. Burton Thomas for a monetary contribution and donating snacks and drinks; Geri Baumann for talents in face painting and baking cakes and cookies; Debbie

Taylor for her tattoo artistry; Holly Baumann and Jessica Johnson for waitressing at the Parents' Cafe; Kathy Mayles for donating icing; and Shari Riggleman, Michelle Caldwell, Crystal Rounds, Brandi Rounds, Tasha Feaster, Alice Sisler, Barbie Sisler, Daniel Sisler, Mary Taylor, Marilyn Malcolm, Eric Malcolm, and Todd Thomas for helping with the carnival games.

Thanks were also extended to all the parents and children for their donations and making the first annual Festival Four Friends a success.

ERIC STOLTZ

THE JURY IS IN ON THE NUMBER ONE MOVIE IN THE COUNTRY — ANACONDA: Starring Jon Voight, Jennifer Lopez, Eric Stoltz, Ice Cube, the flick runs a fast 90 minutes and is rated PG-13.

(If you would like to share your views in this column, send your reviews to Rick Wilson, King Features Weekly Service, 235, East 45th Street, New York, New York, 10017.)

Here are our guest experts:
Debbie Horrocks, Sanford, Fla. — "I thought Jon Voight was wonderful. I've never seen so many snakes in my life. This is a movie you should go to with friends. The suspense and attacks are fierce. (Four Stars)."

Felix Martinez, New York, N.Y. — "Ice Cube had a great performance. He was fantastic when he was squeezed by that monster and trying to be saved. I never thought he could act very well, but he proved me wrong. He's great and so is this movie. (Three Stars)."

Cody Chase Brooks, Winter Haven, Fla. — "I'm only 11 years old, and I was so frightened. However, my mom was with me and explained that it was only a movie. Jennifer Lopez was great! (Four Stars)."

Chris Sullivan, Fort Worth, Texas — "Well, I loved all the snakes, but I was a little disappointed with this flick. I thought it would be more of a thriller. (Two Stars)."

Neal Anthony, St. Johnsbury, Vt. — "Jon Voight probably had his best performance to date. So without a doubt, this movie is a WINNER! (Four Stars)."

Rick Wilson, New York, N.Y. — "I loved it! This flick sent chills up and down my spine! (4 Stars)."

Home Tips

AWAY WITH ANTS — In California, we have ant problems throughout the year. We use our vacuum cleaner with the hose attachment to pick them up. The fine dust inside the machine will suffocate these pests. Just make sure you have some dust in the bag, in case you have just installed a new paper bag.

If using it around the sink, take care not to pick up water unless you are using a wet/dry vacuum. Try to locate where they are entering the house and either spray ant poison or plug the entry point with caulking.

One of our problems was, the ants would go up the exterior wall into the attic and then come down inside the walls and enter the room at the plug-ins. I sealed these areas with expanding foam spray. A little of this material goes a long way. Larry C., Rowland Heights, Calif.

OLD BEDSPREAD — We changed the paint and draperies in one of our bedrooms, which made the queen-size spread obsolete.

I put the two wrong sides of the quilted cotton spread in a vertical fold, right sides up on top and bottom. After stitching around all four sides (top stitching), I have an ideal coverlet for a daybed or single bed. It makes a good substitute for a light-weight blanket. Sue R., Santa Fe, N.M.

WEDDING GIFT — I have a tip for a wedding or shower gift that's always a big hit whenever I do it.

Buy a three-ring cookbook or a file box with blank recipe cards in it. Before the big event, distribute the blank cards or pages to relatives and friends of the couple. Ask them to write their favorite recipe on the card and be sure they sign it.

Reassemble the book or box with the recipes and you have a unique and memorable gift that the newlyweds will enjoy forever. Chris L., Washington, Ill.

Share your special Home Tip with our readers. Send it to Diane Eckert, King Features Weekly Service, 235 East 45th Street, New York, N.Y. 10017.

Antiques

Q. The bottom of an old fruit jar I found is marked "U-Savit Jar." Is it valuable?

A. The Owens-Illinois Glass Co. of Toledo, Ohio, made the jars for a commercial food packer. They are marked "Speas Manufacturing Co." The clear jars have a smooth lip, and a Mason beaded neck seal and alternating stippled and smooth panes. They were sold with the suggestion that consumers make lamps of them once they were empty. The value is $50.

Q. I have a set of ceramic Budweiser mugs, one each in red, orange, green and gray. The decoration is an eagle. Do you have any information on these?

A. Your embossed mugs were a 1940s advertising giveaway for Anheuser-Busch's Budweiser beer.

At a 1988 advertising auction, a set of four in excellent condition sold for $83.

Q. Someone told me my carved box with Chinese scenes on it was "cinnabar." Is that a kind of wood?

A. Cinnabar is a red lacquer. Layers of lacquer are applied to an item. After many layers dry, it is carved.

A new 3- by 4-inch cinnabar box with carved Chinese scenes recently sold for $55. Old pieces of cinnabar are worth hundreds of dollars.

Q. My painted mesh purse has a picture of Charlie Chaplin on it. I bought it years ago for $10. Is it worth anything today?

A. Whiting and Advise of Plainville, Mass., made 4-inch by 5-inch purses with pictures of movie stars. They included Chaplin, Renee Adoree, Clark Gable and Marion Davis.

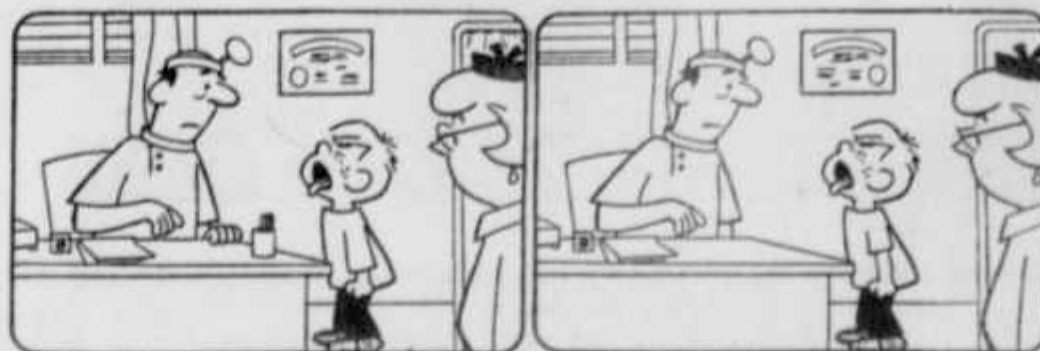

The purses didn't have much retail success. Today, movie memorabilia collectors would pay at least $150 for your Chaplin purse.

Lutheran Women Conduct Spring Cluster Meeting

Women of the Evangelical Lutheran Churches of America (ELCA), Monongahela Valley-Mountain Cluster of W.Va.-W.Md. Synod, gathered for their spring meeting at Holy Trinity Lutheran Church, Elkins, W.Va., on April 19.

Greetings and a welcome were extended by the Rev. Jay Sullivan, host pastor, and Nancy Schumacher, president of Holy Trinity's unit. The theme for the day was "God Is Love." Devotions were led by the ladies from St. Mark's Lutheran Church in Clarksburg, W.Va.

A slide presentation was shown by Traci B. Miller, who addressed the group with the highlights of her work as director of Randolph County (W.Va.) Court-appointed Special Advocate (CASA). Pastor Sullivan also reported his association with the CASA program which concentrates on abused and neglected children. He also noted there is a direct need for volunteers to assist with this program.

Jackie Finney and Lisa Schiller from Lutheran Youth and Family Services in Zelienople, Pa., also presented a program relevant to the work that their agency does for the welfare of children. Project and sponsorship lists were distributed to encourage assistance from church groups.

Jane Hazer, cluster coordinator, presided over the business meeting in the afternoon. She introduced Evelyn Weirick, synodical unit president, who announced that the W.Va.-W.Md. synodical women's convention will be August 8-9, at Mineral Wells, W.Va. A new president and vice president, along with several board members, will be elected. The convention offering will be divided between the scholarship fund for women, and a shelter for abused women and chilprovide a way to discuss and resolve annual implementation issues. State tests are based directly on curriculum frameworks and other state guidelines that are part of all Maryland instructional programs.

MSPAP is administered in grades 3, 5, and 8 as a measure of school and school system improvements in reading, writing, language usage, mathematics, science, and social studies. The test requires students to have a strong understanding of basic skills and an ability to apply skills and knowledge in challenging, problem-solving situations.

The 1997 administration of MSPAP started Monday when 65,000 fifth graders across the state began five days of testing. Third and eighth graders will be tested next week.

"Ever Close in Mind and Heart"
 No further away than a picture,
 A smile or remembered phrase,
 Our loved ones live in memory—
 So close in so many ways.
 For how often does a sunset bring nostalgic thoughts to mind
 Of moments that our loved ones shared
 In days now left behind!
 How often has a flower or a crystal autumn sky
 Brought golden recollections Of happy days gone by?
 Yes, memory has a magic way
 Of keeping loved ones near—
 Ever close in mind and heart
 Are the ones we hold most dear.

Love,
 Your Son Bill

An approximate attendance of 50 was reported, and included the guest speakers, various visitors, and synodical officers Evelyn Weirick and Florence Williams. Eight of the churches in the cluster were represented: St. Paul's, Aurora, St. John's, New Milton, St. Mark's, Clarksburg, Grace, Fairmont, and Holy Trinity, Elkins, all in West Virginia; and St. John's, Red House, Emanuel, Bittering, and Zion, Jennings, all in Maryland.

An invitation to host the cluster meeting next spring was received from the unit at St. Mark's Lutheran Church in Clarksburg.

State Seeks Ways For Parents To See Children's MSPAP Tests

State School Superintendent Nancy S. Grasmick announced this week that she has asked staff to report to her a list of ways the state might be able to allow parents access to their children's scored state tests. In the past, the state has not been able to let parents view their children's Maryland School Performance Assessment Program (MSPAP) test booklets in order to control costs and test validity. Dr. Grasmick also announced the establishment of two public panels to aid with the annual production of the test.

"In the past year," Dr. Grasmick said, "we have worked very hard to involve parents and the public in all of our school reforms. It is now time to look for additional ways to ensure greater public involvement and access to state tests." State Board President Christopher T. Cross added, "Increased involvement will help assure the public that these assessments are exactly the kinds of academic experiences they want for students."

Grasmick announced the formation of two panels to aid in the annual development of MSPAP. The first group, the Assessment Issues Committee, will help state staff resolve test construction and administration issues that teachers and staff may encounter as they write the test each year.

The second group, the MSPAP Review Panel, will provide advice to the state superintendent and the state board and will review the first draft of the MSPAP each summer before it is field tested. The panel will include legislators to be appointed by President of the Senate Thomas V. "Mike" Miller Jr. and Speaker of the House Casper R. Taylor Jr., as well as representation from parents and leaders from business, education, the religious community, and the education advocacy community.

Dr. Grasmick will seek advice from the MSPAP Review Panel on a list of options from her staff for parents' access to their children's scored test booklets. The state superintendent expressed strong interest in responding to parents who wish to follow their children's progress. "We want to identify effective ways to permit parents to review their children's scored test booklets, but we must be sure that we maintain test security, validity, and reliability," she said.

The Assessment Issues Committee will begin working with the department's testing staff as the 1998 MSPAP is finalized this summer. In the past, State Department of Education staff and approximately 200 teachers developed test items and resolved issues together. The new Assessment Issues Committee will add the perspectives of parents, university faculty, teacher associations, education advocates, and business. The committee will

GARRETT COUNTY NOTICE OF A PROPOSED PROPERTY TAX INCREASE

The County Commissioners of Garrett County propose to increase property taxes.

1. For the tax year beginning July 1, 1997, the estimated assessable base will increase by 2% from $735,032,371 to $750,022,957.
2. If Garrett County maintains the current tax rate of $2.59 per $100 of assessment, property tax revenues will increase by 2%, resulting in $388,257 of new property tax revenues.
3. In order to fully offset the effect of increasing assessments, the property tax rate should be reduced to $2.54, the constant yield rate.
4. The County is considering not reducing its property tax rate enough to fully offset increasing assessments. The County proposes to adopt a tax rate of $2.59 per $100 of assessment. This tax rate is 2% higher than the constant yield rate and will generate $388,257 in additional property tax revenues.

A public hearing on the proposed property tax increase will be held at 9:00 a.m. on May 20, 1997 at the County Commissioners, Meeting Room, County Courthouse, Oakland, MD. The hearing is open to the public, and public testimony is encouraged. Persons with questions regarding this hearing may call 301-334-8970 for further information.

Tax Checks In Bank, Refund Checks In Mail

All Maryland state income tax payment checks are in the bank, and Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein says his office is now processing refund checks once again. The comptroller said his office deposited more than $520 million in income tax payments during the month of April and has issued 1,122,031 refund checks totaling $536 million to taxpayers.

"We received 728,379 pieces of mail between April 11-16," Goldstein said. "Two shifts in our deposit unit worked from 7:30 a.m. to midnight from April 7 through April 30, 1997, to deposit millions of dollars. The quick deposits of checks between April 15 and April 30 resulted in the state earning nearly $1 million in additional interest."

"Through the use of new technologies, old-fashioned customer service, and the cooperation of Maryland taxpayers we had a record-setting filing season," Goldstein said. "Our high-tech scanning and computer processing systems allowed us to process Maryland tax returns all filing season with no backlog until April 15."

"Our Internet website, Forms-by-Fax system and e-mail access offered 24-hour a day service to taxpayers, and all were tremendously popular. And more taxpayers than ever before used the services of a professional preparer to file their Maryland tax returns electronically (156,547) for the speediest of refunds or an easy way to file balance due returns," the comptroller said.

Nearly half of all the correspondence received by the Comptroller's Office was transmitted by e-mail.

Between January 1 and April 15, taxpayers downloaded more than 50,000 forms and publications from the comptroller's website, and another 21,000 from the Forms-by-Fax system. The comptroller's website received almost three times as many "hits" during the income tax filing season as Maryland's Electronic Capital website, the state's central site on the Internet. More than 21,000 taxpayers used the Internet or the interactive telephone system to file for an extension of time to file a return. "Maryland is the first state in the nation to offer online filing of extensions," Goldstein said. The comptroller's website address is www.comp.state.md.us and the forms-by-fax system can be accessed by dialing 410-974-FAXX.

During the 1997 filing season, the comptroller's taxpayer service offices received more than 705,000 taxpayer service calls. Despite the volume, taxpayers calling for assistance on April 15 had an average wait of only 30 seconds before they got a taxpayer service representative on the phone. "With the use of modern technology, taxpayers were able to help themselves more, which cut down the long waiting cues for telephone assistance," Goldstein said. More than 19,632 taxpayers had their tax forms completed for them free of charge by the comptroller's representatives.

AHEC Receives Federal Grant Of $165,772

Maryland Senators Paul S. Sarbanes and Barbara A. Mikulski announced last week the awarding of $165,772 to the Western Maryland Area Health Education Center (AHEC) for its project titled "Interdisciplinary Prevention in Rural Communities." The federal funding comes from the Health Resources and Services Administration at the Department of Health and Human Services.

Specifically, this program will promote recruitment and retention of non-physician health care personnel in rural areas, and provide them with skills training aimed specifically at providing top quality health care to low-income families throughout Western Maryland. AHEC will work in coordination with the University of Maryland at Baltimore, Towson State University, the University of Pittsburgh, and Allegany College of Maryland to achieve a continuum of care and training.

"This investment of public funds will provide health professionals and health professions students with the training they need to help meet the health care needs of those in rural areas who do not have ready access to medical attention and advice," Sarbanes said. "In light of the shortage of primary care providers in the area, it is critical that we create collaborative approaches such as AHEC's to ensure access to quality health care to all Western Marylanders."

"I've listened to the people in Western Maryland, and I've heard their concerns about how much harder it is to get a doctor in rural areas," said Senator Mikulski. "The Health Education Center grant provides a way for non-physician health care workers to be a doctor's eyes and ears, making it easier for families to go to a medical professional and get the treatment they need."

Health career recruitment activities are one of the many services provided by the Western Maryland AHEC. For 20 years, the Western Maryland AHEC has worked to improve access to and promote quality in health care in the three westernmost Appalachian counties of Maryland and its neighboring West Virginia and Pennsylvania communities.

Spring Dance Concert Set At Frostburg State

The annual Spring Dance Concert featuring the choreographic and performing talents of the FSU Dance Company will be presented in the Drama Theater of the Performing Arts Center at Frostburg State University. Evening performances are scheduled tonight, May 8, Friday, May 9, and Saturday, May 10, at 8 p.m. There will also be a matinee on Sunday, May 11, at 3 p.m.

The program will showcase nine dance works illustrating the diversity of themes from jazz, modern dance, and performance art. The concert will open with an energetic street-styled modern jazz group work choreographed by Sigrid O'Ferrall. A love duet will follow to Beethoven's "Moonlight Sonata," danced by Joshua Miller and Connie Fink. Closing Act 1 will be an abstract group work based on African-American women's struggle in society. This piece was collaboratively choreographed by Martinique Person, Winsome Taylor, and Quitiqua Hartridge. Additional student choreographers Amy Hanson and Stacey Purdum will also present premieres of their work.

Guest artist Sean Curran of New York City, who currently appears in the Off-Broadway production of "Stomp," has set a 10-minute modern work, "Where I End and We Begin," (excerpts) by 13 members of the FSU Dance Club to music by Franz Schubert. Dance veteran Frances Alenikoff, 76, who also hails from New York, will perform a 15-minute solo called "Re-Membering" based on her fight to overcome the deadly disease babesiosis, which was caused by a deer tick bite.

Artistic director Barry Fischer will present two serious modern dance works for solo and group ensemble. The recent award-winning choreography "Lamenting Echo," a solo based on the loss of colleagues and friends who have died from AIDS, will be danced by Connie Fink. The closing dance work of the concert, "Hands from the Cauldron," will demonstrate the theatricality of Shakespeare's Lady Macbeth and her struggle with her infamous act of murder.

Theater faculty member Richard Kagey will design the lighting. Costume design for "Lamenting Echo" was prepared by Nick Barberio. Members of the FSU Dance Company include Stephanie Adams, Esha Carter, Kim Douglas, Connie Fink, Allison Gardner, Hilary Griffith, Amy Hanson, Quitiqua Hartridge, Alison Krohn, LaNiece Lansey, Mary Leister, Joshua Miller, Lisa Moreland, Sigrid O'Ferrall, Kelly O'futi, Andrea Pappas, Malika Pryor, Martinique Person, Stephanie Persons, Stacey Purdum, Kris Ritz, Amy Sutton, Winsome Taylor, and Cori Zinner.

The concert is sponsored by the Department of Health, Physical Education, and Recreation. Tickets are on sale now in PE Center Room 273 between 11 a.m. and 12:30 p.m. Tickets will be available at the door one hour before performance time. Admission is $2 for students, $4 for FSU faculty and staff, and $6 for the general public.

FSU is committed to making all of its programs, services, and activities accessible to persons with disabilities. Persons may request accommodations through the ADA Compliance Office, FSU Library Room 228, 301-687-4102, TDD 301-687-7955.

Governor Notes Maryland Career Connection Month

Maryland Governor Parris N. Glendening recently issued a proclamation designating May as Maryland Career Connections Month. Through this action, Glendening underscored his support for school programs focusing on employability of students as a goal of the education process. Federal, state, and local programs have been established toward this end. In the Garrett County school system the career connection program, called School To Work, is under the direction of JoAnn Vent of the Garrett County Board of Education.

In his proclamation the governor noted that the career connections system will ensure that students graduating from high school will have selected a career pathway and will be prepared to meet the needs of the workforce. In addition, he stated that every individual must continually learn new academic and technical skills to keep pace with the changing nature of work. Glendening not only challenged educators and students, but also employers, labor unions, and parents to support the goals of these programs through participation.

Read. Then Recycle.

In Loving Memory of Earl "Bill" Kitzmiller

August 18, 1920 - May 9, 1996

It's been a long, sad year since we said our last good-bye. We didn't want to let you go but we knew we had to try.

Somehow we've gotten through each day.

With our memories of you.

We know you're in a better place where we'll be someday too.

We see you in twinkling stars, your presence shining bright.

We hear you in the birds that sing at dawn's first early light.

We know that you are with us each day in all we do.

For within our hearts you'll always be - We've kept a place for you.

Your loving family

To the Editor:
Warning! This is a refreshingly positive letter to the editor.

Too often, the silent voices of children are not heard. I thought your readers would be proud and heartened to know how very special Garrett County's young people are in the eyes of a visitor.

Over the past six years, I have worked within all twelve elementary schools, as well as both Northern and Southern middle schools. My goal, as it is in every region of our fine state, is to share the art of poem-making.

During our Writing Workshops, students read and discuss poems, then write an original creation inspired by our theme. I have read literally thousands of such works-of-art by your boys and girls. The impact of this achievement is so great that children who were first introduced to poetry workshops in third grade remember the poem they wrote years later when I work with them in middle school. Even parents of middle schoolers recall the images from poems their child composed back when they were budding writers. The arts are an amazing source of educational inspiration. As proof, I have hundreds of original poems authored by Garrett County students. Last year alone, a number of your young writers, and their poems celebrating this county's natural wonders, made it all the way to the Library of Congress in Washington, D.C., by invitation of United States Poet Laureate Robert Hass. Your youth sat with peers from around the country, listening and reading their award-winning pieces.

Who has nurtured this literary and artistic success which merits local and national acclaim? Through my interactions with your top-notch teachers, it is clearly a result of dedicated, visionary educators. And, at the helm, I hear time and again, year after year, is the leadership of an administrator who began her career as a classroom teacher. Though she holds a great deal of responsibility for directing the education of thousands of young people, she does so with the heart of a true educator, supporting the accomplishments of each individual child.

All counties and cities should be so fortunate as to have such a student advocate in their backyard. You, in Garrett County, possess a richness of natural beauty, a wealth of talent and potential in your young people, and a world-class education professional in Dr. Brenda McCartney.

May your greatest assets continue to thrive and flourish.

To the Editor:

On February 27, 1997, Dr. Ian Wilmut, a 52-year old embryologist at the Roslin Institute near Edinburgh in Scotland, published an article in Nature, which described how he and his colleagues had created a Scottish sheep named Dolly, the first mammal to have been "cloned" from the tissue of another animal. The researchers used udder or mammary cells in her creation, and named her after Dolly Parton whose mammary cells they considered equally famous. Instantly, she became the most famous sheep in history (Biblical references aside), her creation likened to the Wright Brothers at Kitty Hawk who freed humanity from a restriction once considered eternal.

President Clinton demanded a report within 90 days, and on March 4, 1997, imposed a ban in the use of federal money for cloning humans. The Vatican was aghast. Press and pundits trundled out fears of cloned Hitlers, Mozarts or Aldous Huxley's society described in Brave New World, published in 1922.

What Dr. Wilmut and his colleagues did was take a cell from a 6-year-old ewe and fuse and activate it with an egg from which the nucleus and its DNA has been removed, eliminating all generic characteristics of the egg donor. In past attempts, the cell kept on growing and dividing apart from the egg. The researchers stopped the cell from developing, replicating its own DNA and growing by culturing it in a solution which deprived it of its nutrients to stop its development. Inserting the cell inside the egg and introducing an electric charge caused the cell to merge into the egg. The charge also induced the egg to start to divide with the nucleus and DNA of the cell from the ewe, resulting in an embryo which was inserted into the surrogate mother sheep, who gave birth to Dolly.

The Roslin Institute was established during World War II, when England was under siege by German U Boats, to improve the productivity of agriculture. That remains its mission. Dolly is considered as a step toward more productive sheep, despite the overtones assigned by the press.

The accomplishments of Dr. Wilmut and his research group cannot be understated. However, 277 eggs had been fused with adult cells, and only 29 developed into embryos. Of the 29 implanted, only 13 sheep became pregnant, and only one carried the pregnancy to term and delivered a live lamb. Clearly, efficiencies will be required for any possible commercial exploitation. And finally, when asked if Dolly should be considered 7 months old, which is as long as she has been alive, or 6 years old, since she is a replica of a 6 year old sheep, Dr. Wilmut's clear blue eyes clouded for a moment and he responded, "I can't answer that. We just don't know. There are many things here we will have to find out."

Maryland's best remaining landscapes are being threatened by sprawl development at an alarming rate. Nearly 10,000 acres of forests and farmland have been lost over the past six months. In the next 25 years, Maryland could lose half as much land to development as it has used in the entire history of the state. Moreover, we are losing our sense of place, our history, and the unique character of Maryland's cities, towns and countryside.

Governor Parris N. Glendening's Rural Legacy program will help turn this tide. Because of Governor Glendening's leadership, we will now be able to protect our best remaining landscapes -- areas that make Maryland such a special place in which to live. Rural Legacy, a component of the governor's Smart Growth and Neighborhood Conservation initiative designed to limit the adverse impacts of sprawl development, was passed by the General Assembly last week and will soon be signed into law by the governor.

Rural Legacy is a bold, new initiative that will nearly double the state's capacity to conserve land. Over the next five years, the Glendening administration will commit $90 to $140 million in existing state dollars to preserve more than 50,000 acres of farms, forests and open spaces. Rural Legacy will conserve land that supports Maryland's resource-based economies, including forestry, agriculture, outdoor recreation and tourism; preserves and defines a sense of unity and character within Maryland communities; provides critical habitat for plant and animal species; and helps improve air quality and the health of the Chesapeake Bay and its tributaries.

Governor Glendening's Rural Legacy initiative will enable us to act now, with existing state dollars, to guarantee conservation of

THE STUDY OF BAY LIFE was made much easier and more fun for fourth grade students at Dennett Road Elementary School recently, as a variety of creatures from the Chesapeake Bay were brought to the school via the Baltimore National Aquarium Outreach program. Because a number of Maryland students reside so far away from the National Aquarium, making a field trip to that location difficult, the aquarium staff initiated the Outreach program to take aquarium life to the schools. The program includes displays and gadgetry that also teach youngsters about water flow into the Chesapeake Bay from all regions of the state and how pollution even in parts of Garrett County can affect the water quality of the bay. That's what the youth in the photo above are watching being demonstrated by Shala Hankiman, from the National Aquarium (in right background). Students pictured from left are: Brittany Smith, Whitney Snyder, Nicole Stark, Bryan Cosco, Aaron Loudon, Tabitha Popish, and Corey Tressler, and at far right is parent volunteer Naomi McKenzie. Below, parent volunteer Kathy Swartzentruber talks with students as they observe and have an opportunity to hold such creatures as starfish and hermit crabs. Students, from left, are: Lindsey Strubin, Amanda Proulx, Felicia Trzicak, Shar Hollingsworth, Joshua Louie, and Chad Bean.

Maryland's most valuable areas in their entirety forever. And, for the first time, the state will be able to protect land at the same pace it is being developed. This is a voluntary land conservation initiative, and local governments and private land trusts will be encouraged to identify Rural Legacy areas and to competitively apply for funds to complement existing.

This tribute first appeared in The Republican for Mrs. John W. Maroney, Sr., who passed away June 25, 1927. We felt many of the same attributes were applicable to Mrs. John Maroney, Jr. (Mildred Stark Maroney), who passed away Feb. 13, 1997.

Mrs. John W. Maroney was one of the most endearing people a rare soul - unconsciously loving and sweet. No pen can portray the tender motherliness with which she received all who approached. She gave all with whom she came in contact a feeling of serene peace. Small insinuations, even large ones, had no power to chill her affectionate heart. To saint or sinner alike she was tenderly charitable. When there was a friend or family down with illness, she was found present at bedside with willing helpful hands; when there was sadness and death she was found beside the casket, and with her prayers and tender words of comfort striving to stay the despair and tears of the sorrowing mourners. Following the burial she could be found preparing a meal for the family before they traveled home. Through the years she kept going with her smile undimmed to the end. But those dear eyes are closed; those dear arms will no more enfold loved ones.

An angel came to visit us; we knew that only after she had gone. Within his wings of darkness death enveloped her spirit, bore it away to dwell forever with her dear ones gone before. The community of St. Peter's has lost a loving sister. May she rest in peace.

Rural Legacy was developed by Governor Glendening, the Department of Natural Resources, the Department of Agriculture under the guidance of Secretary Lewis Riley, the State Office of Planning under the leadership of Director Ron Kreitner, and a broad coalition of agriculture, forestry, environmental, local government, land trusts and other interests.

To the Editor:

The County United Way wants to make a difference in people's lives in Garrett County. The County United Way theme is Touching Lives, Touching Hearts...Be the Difference.

Nine businesses in Garrett County recently helped County United Way make a difference in people's lives.

On March 15, County United Way sponsored Luck O' The Irish, a fund-raising event to support the 22 human service organizations which serve Garrett and Allegany counties in Maryland as well as Grant, Hampshire, Hardy, Mineral and Pendleton counties in West Virginia. Several local businesses were asked to contribute items and gift certificates to ensure a successful and profitable event.

Arrowhead Market, The Fun Zone, Garrett County Peat Products, Harley Bed and Breakfast, Schoolhouse Earth, Uno Restaurant, Will O' the Wisp, Wisp Resort, and Yoder's Country Market generously made the evening a success.

On behalf of the Board of Directors and the 22 organizations that benefited from their thoughtfulness, I would like to express my gratitude to these business people and to the dedication of the staff of the Garrett County Lighthouse, one of the 22 County United Way member agencies, who worked to secure their gifts.

Considering the number of lives and hearts touched by a united community effort to help people, the kindness of these nine businesses will make a difference for thousands of our neighbors.

Thank you for caring.

Very truly yours,
Harry King
Executive Director
County United Way

To the Editor:

The impact of Alzheimer's disease reaches far beyond the 8,000 residents of Western Maryland who have the disease. It reaches their families, friends, and caregivers. Because this country does not effectively deal with chronic illness, Alzheimer's is also crippling our economy and health-care system. Many families and advocates in Western Maryland are joining the Western Maryland Chapter of the Alzheimer's Association in a March on Washington, D.C., April 26-29 during the Alzheimer's Association Public Policy Forum to fight for the lives of those suffering from this insidious and deadly disease.

The Alzheimer's Association has witnessed the devastation Alzheimer's disease wreaks on both family members as well as friends. We have seen its toll on patients and caregivers alike, and have seen them drained physically, emotionally, and financially. We have heard of affected individuals and their families suffering from a lack of understanding of the disease process as well as how to properly manage the care of persons with dementia.

Today, 8,000 Western Maryland residents are thought to have Alzheimer's disease, and this number will increase to 10,000 by the year 2000. By the middle of the next century, nearly 28,000 are likely to have this devastating disease which not only takes the life of the individual, but ravages their families and their resources as well. How many will be your neighbors or relatives?

We encourage every citizen of Western Maryland to call or write Congressman Bartlett, Senator Mikulski, and Senator Sarbanes and ask them to support our proposal to combat Alzheimer's disease by encouraging Congress to allocate $355 million for Alzheimer research, modernize Medicare to meet the needs of the chronically ill and more appropriately and effectively, and to maintain the Medicaid safety net for families who exhaust their own savings in paying for years of expensive long term care.

We cannot afford to have more friends, families, and neighbors lost to this disease. To learn how you can join the fight against Alzheimer's disease, please call the Western Maryland Chapter of the Alzheimer's Association at 301-696-0315 or 1-800-696-6830.

To the Editor:

Is adultery legal in this state since courts do not recognize adultery and the mothers of children can leave a marriage and live with another man and take her children with her? She can live with this man with court approval and demand that the husband be responsible for support for her and the children. The father then has to hire an attorney to defend himself or lose everything, then finds out that the attorneys are ignoring this crime, if it is a crime, to prolong the case because he is paid by the punish the criminals. I strongly believe that every father is responsible for his children and the total support of them.

If our elected representatives agree that adultery is not a crime, they should introduce a bill to legalize adultery to protect this outrageous breach of the law in our courts.

Thank you,

The Family of JOHN H. BRANT

wishes to express our deepest thanks to the friends and relatives who have supported us through the illness and death of our dad and grandad. A special thanks to Dr. William E. Becker and Dr. Young C. Bae, Duane Frederick, Glen Dumire & Brad Stewart.

In Loving Memory of Russell R. "Jock" Wilt

I'd like to say so many things but I don't know where to start. So I'll just say "I love you and I miss you" from the bottom of my heart. As time goes by without you the days turn into years. They hold a million heartaches and a million silent tears. So many times I've cried. I talk about the old days. I laugh and smile the same. But it still hurts inside me. When someone speaks your name. Our memories are my keepsakes from which I'll never part. God has you in His keeping. I have you in my heart. Happy Birthday, Honey, I'll love and miss you forever.

THE CIRCUS IS COMING! A menagerie on wheels will be arriving in Garrett County in a few weeks as the Kelly-Miller Circus comes into town. Sponsored by the Greater Oakland Business Association (GOBA), the show will be presented twice on Wednesday, May 28, at the Treasure Island shopping plaza. Advance tickets (which can be purchased at Rudy's, Book Mark's, Water Street Market Place, Lamplighter Christian Books, or Marvin's Men's wear) are $7 for adults and $5 for children under 12. Tickets at the gate on the day of the shows will be $9 for adults and $6 for children under 12. The 1997 edition of the Kelly-Miller Circus is to be the most impressive ever, according to a GOBA spokesperson, as the performance will include new acts, new shows, and a new tent. The innovative design of the big top allows each patron equal distance seating from the performance ring, and the added height of the tent allows for a wider variety of aerial acts and other maneuvers. Featured this year will be the Perez family from Mexico on the flying trapeze, and the Vital family -- juggling and balancing experts -- from South America. Animal acts will include a six-horse presentation and various elephant performances. The public is invited to come to the site early in the morning on the 28th to watch the circus "come to life."

Town Plans Week To Pitch In, Clean Up, Throw Out

Friendsville Mayor Spencer Schlossnagle and the members of the town council have scheduled the town's annual Spring Clean-up Week May 12-17.

This is a community project that brings Friendsville residents together to get things in order. According to Schlossnagle, students, church groups, organizations, and individual citizens get into the act. "Everyone helps out," he said.

The spring clean-up includes yard work, repairing and painting buildings, cleaning up vacant lots, and disposing of broken appliances, furniture, and other household items. Schlossnagle arranges for a special trash removal and scrap metal pick-up for recycling. Regular trash removal will be Friday, May 16, with a special pick-up of large items on Saturday, May 17, beginning at 10 a.m.

The Republican office has received numerous requests in recent weeks to print the works of local poets who have had their poems published. In order to comply with these requests, we are introducing a new feature to allow space for those who have had their works included in credible publications. Selection of these poems, however, will be published at our discretion.

Idella Bender, activities director at the Goodwill Mennonite Home in Grantsville, was recently recognized for her original poem that recognized the facility's volunteers, published in the April 1997 edition of Creative Forecasting.

"We have many volunteers who freely give of their time," said Shirley Teets, activities assistant at the nursing home. "Each year Mrs. Bender strives to recognize our valuable volunteers with a theme-filled banquet in their honor. Her poem exemplified the significance of volunteers in our nursing home setting."

Mrs. Bender's poem is printed below.

VOLUNTEERS' VALUE IS BEYOND MEASURE
Measure has its many, many ways,
There are cups, feet, miles, and days.
But there is such we can not measure,
The Volunteers who are our treasure.

Your unfailing love is freely shared,
Your touch of kindness cannot be compared.
You help build self-worth in many a heart,
You strive continually to do your part.

Even when time is hard to find,
Your dedication is one of a kind.
Peace and joy in plenty abound,
When our volunteers are around.

Your patience must at times be tried,
When for water and more water someone cried.
You seem not to notice the trembling hand,
As with gentle spirit you do what you can.

Your faith is evident in what you do,
Encouraging all to try anew.
From stitch to stitch you persevere,
Knowing that the deadline is very near.

From visit, card, paint, balloon and stitch,
Each one finds their special niche.
We want you to know that you are treasured,
Because your value just can't be measured.

The Garrett County Crime Solvers organization is currently seeking information about a break-in at a local business.

On April 1, someone broke into the Butcher Block, located along Rt. 135 near Deer Park, and stole cash from a bank bag which was left inside the store.

On April 10, another breaking and entering occurred at the business, but apparently no items were stolen. Both burglaries were committed during the evening or nighttime hours, according to the Crime Solvers report.

Persons who have information about these or any other unsolved crimes are urged to contact Crime Solvers at 334-1975. Callers do not have to give their names, nor do they have to appear in court. Rewards of up to $1,000 are available to persons who provide tips that lead to arrests.

Charles Strawser of Rowlesburg was expected to undergo bypass surgery on Monday at a Morgantown hospital.

Walter Shaffer of Aurora

is recovering from recent surgery at Ruby Memorial Hospital last week and expects to return Tuesday to his home.

Ruth Peterson of Mt. Grove remains a patient in Memorial Hospital, Cumberland, where she underwent further surgery last week. She now seems to be making some progress again.

Hilda Frantz returned Friday to her home at Eglon after being hospitalized at Garrett Memorial for tests.

CMU MEETS

Church Women United (CMU) met for a May Fellowship Day observance at the Bethel United Methodist Church on Friday, May 2. The covered dish noon meal was followed by the program "Growing Seeds in Prepared Soil," a continuing theme for the year. This program stems from the finding of 1,000-year-old seeds in Arizona that germinated and grew.

Alice Penzo provided placemats for the noon meal that featured the design of a Hopi Indian jar. She also announced that the amaranth seeds which she distributed were obtained through the Seed Savers Exchange and were also from the very old grain seeds. The program stressed the growth of justice, reconciliation, and peace with seeds that were planted by Christ over 2,000 years ago, according to Mrs. Penzo.

An offering will be sent to the Fellowship of the Least Coin. The next meeting of the Church Women United will be World Community Day on the First Friday in November. Amboy United Methodist Church Women have been asked to serve as hosts.

Mrs. Penzo also announced that she would like for the various community organizations to write a brief history of the organization, including the founding date, and send this to her for an updated version of the history of the Aurora community.

TERRA ALTA

TERRA ALTA AMBULANCE

The Terra Alta Ambulance Squad will host an open house for the public on Sunday, May 18, from 2 to 4 p.m. This is in observance of EMS week. Events will include a coloring contest for elementary students with prizes to be awarded, handouts of vital information, an emergency helicopter landing, full-scale rescue of a patient from a simulated car accident, and free blood pressure readings.

The squad meets the first Monday of each month at 7:30 p.m. in the squad hall. The hall is rented out to groups and individuals. More information on this can be obtained by calling Donna Carney at 789-6752. The main goal for National EMS Awareness Week is to increase squad membership and boost community support.

ASSEMBLE AND REJOICE - The workers at Rigidply Rafters methodically align and assemble the sections of a 40-foot truss that is part of an order about eight times the size of the average order. Below, the trusses, separated into 20-foot lengths, are loaded into a box truck to begin an overland trek to the ship that will carry them across the ocean.

Local Company Manufactures Rafters For Distant Customer

Rigidply Rafters, the Oakland company that manufactures rafters and truss systems for construction, has just completed an order for a new customer. The number of pieces requested and the location of the new customer set this purchase apart from others handled in a normal week. On average, Rigidply ships its products within a 150 miles radius of the plant. The orders are generally for about 125 pieces. But this new customer has ordered approximately 900 trusses and they are to be shipped to Japan.

Jeff Opel, production supervisor at Rigidply, explained that the company built the trusses to meet the customer's specifications. They will span 40 feet across. In order to make it possible to ship them, they were fabricated in two 20 foot sections and will be reassembled on site, Opel said. Trucks with box trailers will carry the wooden structures to Norfolk, Va., where the box portion of the truck will be transferred directly onto the ship for transport. The first 300 pieces were sent several weeks ago. The remainder of the order goes out this week.

And how did the workers at Rigidply feel about getting this order? "It's kind of exciting," Opel commented. He also said they were all rather amazed to get an order like this. Will he be sent along to oversee the project?

"It would be nice," Opel said with a smile. "But I don't think so."

Farm Bureau Says Senate's Clean Air Approach Won't Work

The "shotgun" approach to proposed new clean air standards will not result in significant change, but instead will only hurt American agriculture, Farm Bureau told a Senate panel last week.

California Farm Bureau President Bob Vice, testifying before a Senate Environment and Public Works clean air subcommittee, said the agricultural community supports efforts to improve air quality. The Environmental Protection Agency's proposal to revise the National Ambient Air Quality Standard for particulate matter (PM), however, raises many concerns because it would impose severe restrictions on farming and ranching practices, Vice said.

"Make no mistake: we are all for clean air," Vice told the panel. "This debate is about how to continue to achieve those goals."

Vice, a Fallbrook, Calif., citrus and avocado grower, said he is concerned that EPA's studies blame agriculture and forestry for a disproportionate share, 34.3 percent, of "fine particulate matter" emissions. Experts have questioned the accuracy of this large estimate, he told the panel, noting that EPA data were based on erroneous factors.

Vice, an American Farm Bureau Federation board member, said the emissions inventory used by EPA in a central and southern California air district "has proven that it has many flaws" regarding agricultural practices.

"Inaccurate estimates of the number of times a farmer drives his tractor over a field is one major example: eight times for an alfalfa crop, 13 for rice and two for rangeland," Vice said. "But probably the most blatant example, which would have cost the agricultural industry thousands of dollars, was the initial emissions inventory for combustion engines used to operate irrigation pumps."

He said the original inventory estimated emissions of nitrogen oxide, a precursor of particulate matter, at 626 tons per day from all the pumps in the San Joaquin Valley. This would have exceeded all

Farm Bureau Sets Up Flood Relief Fund

The American Farm Bureau Federation has established a relief fund to aid rural victims of the Red River flood in North Dakota and Minnesota. According to AFBF President Dean Kleckner, the fund will be used to provide relief in farming and rural areas affected by the devastating flood.

"There are heavy property losses along the flooded Red River in Minnesota and North Dakota," Kleckner said. "While a good share of the news concentrates on destruction in Grand Forks, tragic losses in more rural, agricultural areas of the two affected states have touched thousands of lives and livelihoods."

Tax-deductible donations to the flood fund are being coordinated through the American Farm Bureau Foundation for Agriculture (AFBFA). Flood relief donations may be sent to: AFBFA Disaster Relief Fund, 225 Touhy Ave., Park Ridge, IL 60068.

"Americans, especially those in rural areas, always come together in critical times of need," Kleckner said. "Now is one of those times. Many farmers and ranchers are hurting and will be for a long time due to this flood's lingering effects."

"Cash donations are the quickest way to get necessities in the hands of those who need them. We are sure that farmers from the affected areas would appreciate any assistance that is offered."

Weed Control for Small Grains Seeded with Legumes

There is a small selection of herbicides that you can use to control broadleaf when you use a legume companion crop with the small grains. Probably the two most common herbicides are Butril and MCPA. Butril is applied at a rate of 1.5 to 2.0 pints per acre. Apply after the small grain is beyond two-leaf stage and the weed seedlings have no more than three to four leaves or rosettes 1.5 inches across. Use the higher rate for henbit, chickweed and wild mustard. Poor control can be expected when applied to large weeds. Good spray coverage over the weeds is necessary. MCPA is applied at a rate of 0.5 to 1.0 pint per acre. Apply when grain is in the three to five leaf stage or up to early boot. For best results, apply when the weeds are small. Use the lower rate on small grains underseeded with legumes.

Seven and One-half Percent of Dairies Called It Quits

Total dairy farm numbers fell 7.5 percent last year to 126,800, down from 137,030 in 1995, according to USDA. USDA's total dairy farm numbers account for all farms with one or more milk cows. While most of the loss—6,620 farms—is due to declining operations with fewer than 30 cows, both the 30-49 and 50-99 cow categories took substantial drops in herd numbers, 2,300 and 1,510 respectively. At the same time, the 100-199 cow category gained 180 farms and the 200-plus group grew by 20 operations.

Total dairy farm numbers are likely to fall between 20-30 percent over the next five years to between 88,760 and 95,100, says economist Bob Cropp, University of Wisconsin. Producers in the "50-99 cow group are struggling the most," Cropp says. "They are working themselves to death and don't have enough volume to hire labor." Many will expand into the 100 cow group while others call it quits, he says.

Not one of the nation's 50 states ended the year with more dairy farms than it started with, and only eight held farm numbers steady over the course of the year: Vermont, Maine, Connecticut, Rhode Island, Nevada, Wyoming, Hawaii, and Alaska. As for the top 10 dairy states, total dairy farm numbers declined the most in Wisconsin and Minnesota, both down by 1,000 operations. Here's how the top 10 fared: California, down by 400 herds, or 12 percent; Wisconsin, down 1,000, or 4 percent; New York, down 800, or 8 percent; Pennsylvania, down 300, or 3 percent; Minnesota, down 1,000, or 8 percent; Texas, down 700, or 19 percent; Michigan, down 300, or 8 percent; Washington, down 100, or 6 percent; Idaho, down 100, or 7 percent; and Ohio, down 700, or 10 percent.

All funds will be distributed through charitable organizations, including local churches, in the two affected states. Donors may earmark their contributions either for the general fund, which will be divided according to need between the two states, or directly to either of the states.

Because of this year's harsh blizzards, which resulted in tremendous livestock losses, a relief fund has also been established for disaster victims in South Dakota. People wishing to contribute to that separate fund may send donations to: South Dakota Livestock Foundation, c/o South Dakota Department of Agriculture, 523 E. Capitol Ave., Pierre, SD 57501-3182.

Sweet Corn Planting Ahead Of Average

Sweet corn planting in Maryland was slightly ahead of the five-year average last week. Tomato and cantaloupe plantings were ahead of their five-year averages. Cucumber and watermelon planting continue running behind their respective five-year averages. Potato planting was well ahead of the normal pace. Field corn planting was still slightly behind the five-year average.

Winter wheat and rye headings were all ahead of the five-year average. Barley has fallen behind the previous year and five-year averages. Wheat condition was one percent very poor, three percent poor, 21 percent fair, 62 percent good, and 13 percent excellent. The barley crop was two percent very poor, three percent poor, 30 percent fair.

Topsoil moisture was five percent short, 73 percent adequate, and 22 percent surplus. Subsoil moisture was five percent short, 71 percent adequate, and 24 percent surplus. There was an average of 4.7 days suitable for fieldwork for the week ending on May 4.

A LARGE CROWD was present at the Pleasant Valley Community Center recently to support the Garrett County Historical Society in its museum fund-raising efforts and to hear a program about the county's most renowned photographer, Leo Beachy. Maxine Broadwater (pictured below), a niece of Beachy, was the speaker for the program. See story for details.

Society Holds Fund-Raiser For Museum

Inclement weather was no deterrent to more than 220 people who gathered at the Pleasant Valley Community Center recently for the Museum Fund Raising Dinner, sponsored by the Garrett County Historical Society.

Ernest Gregg, emcee, introduced President Clifford DeWitt, who gave a welcome to all. The invocation was given by the Rev.

Franklin Bishop.

After the meal, Martha Kahl gave the financial report and a brief account of the purchase of the Professional Building in downtown Oakland by the Historical Society to house its headquarters and museum. She explained the terms of the $140,000 mortgage and the more than $11,000 raised to date from fund-raisers, donations, and the sale of various items. Memorials have been a popular form of giving. Members and friends were urged by Mrs. Kahl to continue their support.

Beth Friend, curator, gave a brief report on moving the artifacts, and announced the grand opening set for Sunday afternoon, May 18. The museum will be open for the summer after that date.

John Grant, editor of the Society's periodical The Glades Star, in conjunction with Matthew Novak's history course, had chosen the writings of six students to be published in future issues of The Glades Star. Novak made a few comments about the subject of each student as he introduced each one. Each student was presented with a certificate. Four were guests at the dinner and the top three received a small cash award, courtesy of Rev. Grant.

Gregg introduced Maxine Broadwater, who presented a commentary and slide program of photography of Leo Beachy. She displayed some of his photographic equipment and glass plate negatives. She and Novak have published a book including many of Beachy's old pictures. A second book is now being published.

A dinner and auction have been set for September 18 at the same location. Donations of good usable items, new or used, collectibles, and antiques for the auction are being sought by the Society.

Gregg called on Rev. Bishop to give the benediction.

Donations can be mailed to Mrs. Martha Kahl, 877 Fricks Crossing Road, Deer Park, MD 21550.

MUSEUM OPEN HOUSE SET - The Garrett County Historical Society will hold an open house of its new museum, now housed in the former Professional Building in downtown Oakland, on Sunday, May 18, from 2 to 5 p.m. Among the displays at the new site are a Victorian bedroom (above) and a saddle (right) that was owned by Civil War General Benjamin F. Kelley, who owned a horse farm in Gortner. Other displays include a kitchen with a restored 1866 stove, the Meshach Browning room, coal mining tools, Civil War items, old B&O Railroad items, and an extensive genealogical library. Several antique cars will be on display in front of the museum during the open house. The museum will begin its regular summer schedule (Monday through Friday, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.) on Monday, May 19. Persons are encouraged to attend the open house and/or visit the museum during the regular hours. Donations are always welcome to help pay the mortgage on the new building location.

Better Hearing Tip:

When speaking to someone with a hearing loss, it is best not to yell, but speak only slightly louder. Speaking too loudly can often make it even harder for the person to hear. Speak slower and more clearly, and rephrase a sentence if the person is having trouble hearing you.

Scottish Folksinger Carl Peterson To Perform At Highland Festival

One of the highlights of the 10th Annual McHenry Highland Festival on Saturday, June 7, at the Garrett County Fairgrounds will be performances by renowned Scottish folksinger Carl Peterson.

Peterson's performances are best described as warm, familiar "evening-at-home" experiences, a spokesperson said. Home is where he learned the traditional songs of Scotland, Ireland, and England, as well as contemporary music of the times. After learning to play guitar and banjo, Peterson added American folk songs and storytelling to his repertoire and went from Scotland to Canada, then to the United States via radio and television.

Peterson was born and reared in Greenock, Scotland, on the banks of the River Clyde, where a great shipbuilding industry flourished for hundreds of years. He has performed throughout Canada and in over 40 states in the U.S. from coast to coast. After a sold-out 1994 debut, he has remained a popular addition to Columbia Artists' Community Concerts Touring Roster.

The folksinger has over a dozen published recordings to his credit, having recorded with Capitol Records of Canada, London Records, Nesak International, and Music Minus One. He currently records for his own company, Darach Recordings, and has written his own material, some of which has been performed and recorded by other artists. He is currently looking to the music video market.

Peterson will perform throughout the day at the festival, as well as at the ceilidh that evening beginning at 8 p.m. at the Will O' the Wisp. The ceilidh is hosted by the Wisp Ski & Golf Resort and the McHenry Highland Festival.

Festival hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and admission is $5 for everyone 12 and over. The festival is sponsored by the Deep Creek Lake-Garrett County Promotion Council, in part by GPU Energy and Bell Atlantic Maryland, and funded in part by a grant from the Garrett County Arts Council and the Maryland State Arts Council.

For more information or advance tickets, persons may contact the McHenry Highland Festival, 200 South Third Street, Oakland, MD 21550, telephone 301-334-1948, e-mail GCTo urism@garrett.ncn.com.

PUBLIC NOTICE

The Deep Creek Watershed Board of Zoning Appeals will conduct a public hearing on May 15, 1997 at 7:30 p.m. in the Planning Commission meeting room (Third Floor, Courthouse, Oakland). The Board will review applications on the following docketed cases:

1) Docket VR-396: an application made by Jack and Jenny Mullen for a Variance from the terms of Zoning Ordinance as it affects the minimum land area requirement for building lots. Specifically, the applicants are requesting a land area variance to allow the establishment and use of an unrecorded, standard lot having a land area of 40,245 sq. ft. instead of the required 43,560 sq. ft. The property is located on Green Glade Road (Zoned LR).

2) Docket VR-397: an application made by Dennis and Loretta Nicol for a Variance from the terms of the Ordinance as it affects the minimum land area requirement for building lots. Specifically, the applicants are requesting a land area variance to allow the establishment and use of two standard lots having land areas of 33,225 sq. ft. and 22,362 sq. ft., respectively, instead of the required 43,560 sq. ft. The property is located on Green Glade Road (Zoned LR).

3) Docket VR-398: an application made by Charles and Vivian Smith for a Variance from the terms of the Zoning Ordinance as it affects the side yard set-back requirements for residences. Specifically, the applicants are requesting a Variance to allow an existing detached garage to be attached to a residence, leaving a set-back of five feet from the side line instead of the required eight feet. The property is located on US 219 in Thayerville (Zoned TC).

4) Docket VR-399: an application made by Lake Place Development, Inc., for a Variance from the terms of the Zoning Ordinance as it affects the height limitation for non-residential buildings. Specifically, the applicant is requesting a Variance to allow the construction of a six story hotel facility instead of the allowed three story building on its prospective property located along Pysell Road (Zoned TC).

5) Docket SE-271: an application made by Mr. Wayne Gillespie for a Special Exception permit to allow the expansion of the existing Harley Farm bed and breakfast facility by converting an existing accessory building into three additional guest rooms. The three additional guest rooms would change the facility from a bed and breakfast operation to a lodging facility by definition in the ordinance. The property is located off US 219 near Hoop Pole Ridge (Zoned LR).

A POIGNANT MESSAGE was given to juniors and seniors of Southern Garrett High School last Friday, one day before their annual prom, as local fire and rescue personnel demonstrated what they are called to do when people are involved in automobile mishaps, and what can happen to those victims. The point of the program was to hear once again that speed and alcohol do not mix with responsible driving and doing so can result in death and serious injury. Steve "Beefy" Eyler, a graduate of Southern who was critically injured last year in an automobile accident, also spoke of his experience to an absolutely silent audience of nearly 500. All made it home safely after Southern's prom Saturday night, and there is great hope that the same will be said for after Northern High School's prom set for this Saturday night.

Builders Striving To Open Glendale Bridge By Memorial Day Weekend

A variety of factors are weighing on builders and contractors at the Glendale Bridge site as they strive to meet the original opening date of May 24. According to Lee Thorne, county roads supervisor, the possibility of the bridge opening on time "doesn't look good."

Thorne explained that two utilities, Bell Atlantic and the Sanitary District, are in the process of attaching their service lines to the bridge. The conduit that will contain these connections

EYM Ensemble To Perform At Solomon's Island

The Ecumenical Youth Ministry music ensembles are "on the road again," as the 60-member group will travel to Solomon's Island this Friday, May 16. The local youngsters, representing about a dozen churches, are the invited performers for the National Capital Area Episcopal Convention.

Since completing the production of Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat on April 19, the EYM has been in an intensive rehearsal period, working three days a week to prepare the 40-minute program. "Because the music for this program is more difficult, we have scheduled multiple sectional rehearsals in addition to full chorus rehearsals to ensure a careful reading of the music, note by note," said EYM director Lynn Broderick. "Even so, some of the loftier tenor notes must be adjusted to accommodate the youthful voices. The sound tions has to run underground at the approach areas of the bridge. While LA Construction (the contracting company doing the bridge work) has agreed to do the digging and placement for Bell Atlantic, the Sanitary District director, Wendell Beitzel, has asked for a specific contractor to do the Sanitary District job and that contractor may not be available for several days.

Thorne updated the Garrett County Commissioners this week, who in turn strongly urged Thorne to make a concerted effort with all those involved to get the bridge open. Thorne arranged to meet with the contractors and other involved individuals at 10 a.m. today to confer about the status and try to work out a plan for completion.

In a telephone interview yesterday, Thorne said about 60 feet of the concrete barriers, or parapets, were poured yesterday. He said it was an encouraging accomplishment and the builders hope to pour at least as much today. The weather will play an important role in the curing of the parapets.

"If we have good concrete tests, that will certainly improve the outlook for opening," Thorne said. But if the tests show that the newly poured parapets would not stop a car (should a driver lose control on the bridge), then for obvious safety reasons the bridge could not be open until the concrete has cured further.

The contractor has until May 23 to finish the first and most extensive phase of

Education Board Asking For Just Over $13 Million From County

The budget request of the county from the Garrett County Board of Education in its endeavor to serve the 5,100 local students is just over $13 million for fiscal year 1998. Superintendent Jerome Rysavage and Dale Carpenter, board president, presented the budget request to the Garrett County Commissioners on Tuesday.

Included in the budget is a two percent raise for employees, which is part of a three-year agreement reached with the bargaining groups. Other budget items include support for the enhanced mathematics program in the elementary schools and the continued growth of the pre-kindergarten program.

The entire budget request -- including funds from federal, state, and county sources -- equals $31,176,500, which is about a million and a half dollars more than last year. The county's share shows approximately the same increase, from $12.6 million to $13.176 million.

The budget package is separated into four sections: the current expense (or general operating) budget, the school construction fund, the food and nutrition services fund, and the dedicated programs budget.

The current expense budget is the largest of the four, including salaries for the school system employees. The two percent increase would be the first step of a three-year contract which will provide another two percent increase for the same employees in the second year, and the flat equivalent of a three percent increase in the third year.

Steve Benson, UniServ representative for the Garrett County Teachers Association, spoke briefly at the meeting Tuesday to express his satisfaction with the agreement, even though the increase next year will still not advance the staff's ranking in the state, which is near the bottom of the scale. Benson, however, said he appreciated the effort on the part of the education board to reach an agreement that at least keeps the staff in a "holding pattern."

The Garrett County Federation of Teachers (GCFT) has yet to reach an agreement with the board, although the budget does reflect a similar increase. Continued on Page A-9

Museum Grand Opening Sunday

The public is reminded that the Grand Opening of the new museum of the Garrett County Historical Society will be held this Sunday, May 18, from 2 to 5 p.m. The museum is located in the former Professional Building on Second Street in downtown Oakland. Refreshments will be served to those attending the Grand Opening.

The opening of the museum will be the culmination of preparation work by local members of the society. They have been arranging the various museum displays since the removal of artifacts from the old museum on Center Street began in February of this year.

Mrs. Beth Friend, curator, announced that, following Sunday afternoon's opening, the museum will begin its regular summer schedule (Monday through Friday 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.) on Monday, May 19.

ACE Comments On Criteria For Superintendent

The Advisory Committee on Education (ACE) addressed the Garrett County Board of Education at the meeting Tuesday night at the board office.

ACE had requested time to submit recommendations on the hiring of a superintendent of schools to take office when Dr. Jerome Rysavage retires at the end of June.

Speaking on behalf of the committee, Rob Sharps presented comments based on the Request for Resumes issued previously by the board of education.

ACE agreed the individual should be a strong leader with sound background in education.

The committee report requested the term "community values" be further defined. "We agree that certain values on which the entire community would agree such as individual responsibility, hard work, and honesty are appropriate, but others that are not universally accepted are not," Sharps read from the recommendation.

Community involvement was another point noted for concurrence by ACE with the inclusion of teachers and students in the definition of community.

The ACE report also agreed that the superintendent should foster a "positive climate" in the community, "listen to all sides with an open mind and not one that promotes a personal philosophy or agenda," he said.

The final request to the board by ACE was that a profile be developed for the superintendent and that the profile then be shared with the public.

Dale Carpenter, board president, explained that members would not be able to share the profile with the public because the applicants could then use that information to their own advantage during interviews.

Carpenter updated information on the search, indicating that 27 applications are now being reviewed and the first five or six interviews are scheduled.

Public comment on hiring of the superintendent brought statements from representatives of groups

A PROUD GRANDDAD, who just happens to be employed by an outdoor advertising poster company, decided to tell the world about the birth of his first grandchild by placing this billboard at Hayes Run Road near McHenry. Wayne and Delores DeBerry, Terra Alta, W.Va., who manage Allegheny Poster Advertising Company, helped welcome into the world the baby son of Phil and Lisa Carr. Brooks Aaron, who was born Monday evening at Memorial Hospital in Cumberland, is also the first grandchild of Ed and Donna Carr, McHenry. The proud father of Brooks Aaron is the coach of the Northern High School varsity baseball team and had to miss the Huskies' first playoff game when Lisa went into labor on Monday. The Huskies "won one for the glipper," though, by upsetting county rival Southern, the area's top-ranked team. See sports pages for details.

Response To Channel 1 Defeated In 3-1 Vote By Board Of Education

The proposal for Southern High School to contract for the services of Channel 1 broadcasting was denied by a three-to-one vote of the Garrett County Board of Education at a meeting Tuesday evening.

A commercial enterprise owned by K-III Communications, Channel 1 broadcasts by satellite to equipment which K-III has installed in classrooms at no charge to the schools. The hardware is valued around $60,000.

The programming, consisting of ten minutes of news and current events, and two minutes of advertising, is to be viewed by 90 percent of students by contract.

During the time for public comment, two parents spoke against contracting with Channel 1. Scott Hollingsworth opposed the concept that children need 10 minutes of television a day. Teresa Dominick stated, "The last thing our children need is more TV."

Stephanie Foreman and Eric Tressler, students at the Garrett County School, had asked to speak on behalf of other students based on results of a survey. They both said they supported implementation of the plan and that only 9 percent of the 650 who responded to the survey stated they felt they would not benefit from it.

Board member Jim Raley had searched the internet for information on the effects of this program. "I can find no evidence or research that Channel 1 would improve instruction or test scores," he said. He also questioned the price tag of this project, saying that a target market of 1000 people would be delivered to advertisers through this venture.

School Superintendent Dr. Jerome Rysavage recommended trying the system for one year and having teachers evaluate the effects.

The motion was made by Raley to not contract with Channel 1. Board member Charlotte Sebold seconded it, stating that once we have something in place in the schools it is sometimes hard to get it out. Board member Rodney Durst cast the only dissenting vote.

THE LONGEST WAGON TRAIN in Garrett County's history of participation in the annual National Pike Festival departed from Grantsville this morning. According to Wagon Master "Doc" Sherry, Farmington, Pa., some 50 horse-drawn wagons and buggies will carry approximately 200 riders to California, Pa., in the four-day adventure, spanning about 52 miles along U.S. Alt. Rt. 40. In the photo above, taken yesterday afternoon at the Grantsville Community Park, Bob DeWeese, left, of Spencer, W.Va., and Jennings Ellison, center, of Minnora, W.Va., work with several assistants to assemble the supporting framework for the canvas cover of one of the smaller wagons that will make the journey. Indicative of how the event is growing is the fact that DeWeese and Ellison traveled 220 miles to Grantsville to participate, while Ellison's brother, Glen Ellison of Ashland, Ohio, drove about 500 miles before arriving in Grantsville. By last night, the town park was saturated with vehicles, campers, trailers, wagons, and horses sprawling over onto both sides of the adjacent Miller St. for the night. Joining the journey are numerous local horse and pioneer buffs, including former Wagon Master Ken Reish, Grantsville. Photo by Craig Speicher.

GARRETT COUNTY'S 125TH BIRTHDAY CELEBRATED - The Garrett County Commissioners and the Garrett County Historical Society this week issued a proclamation in recognition of Garrett County's 125th anniversary. As part of the celebration, the Historical Society will open its new museum, located along Second Street in Oakland, on Sunday, May 18. The opening will take place from 2 to 5 p.m. and all residents and visitors are cordially invited to attend. The proclamation signed Tuesday states that the Maryland General Assembly passed an act in January 1872 to take a vote of the people for or against the development of a new county. In the November 1872 election, the new county was endorsed by 1,297 voters (405 were opposed). At that time, Governor William Pinkney Whyte issued the proclamation declaring the new county be established and be named Garrett, in honor of John W. Garrett, president of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad. Garrett is credited with the building of the railroad stations as well as the Deer Park and Oakland hotels. He was also a personal friend of Abraham Lincoln. Pictured left to right are Mary Bennett, historical society board of directors member; Jerry Moyer, vice president; Beth Friend, museum curator; Larry Cosner, president-elect; and Commissioners Roger Giotfelty, John Braskey, and Wayne Wilt.

These videos, "A Million Teenagers," and "Choices

The committee recommended the videotapes to the Garrett County Board of Education at their meeting May 13.

Anyone wishing to view these tapes may do so on weekdays between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. at the offices of the Board of Education, Oakland.

Domestic Dispute Results In Arrest Of Oakland Man

An argument between a man and woman at their Oakland residence last week resulted in his being arrested and charged with second-degree assault.

John R. Lee Jr., 23, was arrested by Garrett County sheriff's deputies on May 9 following an altercation with his girlfriend at their Trailer Court Road residence. Lee and the woman had reportedly been arguing about his decision to go spend the night in the company of a friend at his hunting camp. During the dispute Lee allegedly struck the woman in the chest with the heel of the palm of his open hand and turned to leave; while he did so, she reportedly took aim and kicked him in the posterior with her foot. At that point Lee allegedly turned, hit the woman on her left arm with his fist, and left the scene.

Deputies responding to the call observed bruises on the woman's body corresponding to her account of the events, and subsequently placed Lee under arrest. He has since been released on his own recognizance (ROR).

In other sheriff's office news, an Oakland man was arrested for violating a domestic protective order requiring him not to be found near his wife. David A. Smith, 30, had reportedly been harassing his wife since the court order was issued by repeatedly driving past her house and yelling out the car window. When a deputy, called to monitor the situation, witnessed Smith doing this, he placed him under arrest on a charge of violating of the ex-parte order. Smith has subsequently been ROR.

A driving while intoxicated (DWI) arrest on Sunday resulted in an additional arrest of a passenger in the car on an outstanding warrant. Michael A. Corby, 22, Swanton, was stopped by a sheriff's deputy on Garrett Highway after his vehicle was observed weaving on the roadway, and was subsequently arrested and charged with DWI. Riding with Corby was Jeffery V. Corby, 28, Oakland, who was also arrested on a warrant which charged him with passing a bad check at the Arrowhead market in November, 1995. Both men have subsequently been ROR.

John P. Georg, 26, Accident, was arrested and charged with one count of second-degree assault, one count of destruction of property, and one count of disorderly conduct. He was subsequently ROR.

Michael L. Kitzmiller, 20, Grantsville, was arrested and charged with possession of controlled dangerous substances, reportedly marijuana and cocaine. Kitzmiller has subsequently ROR.

Janet E. Moats, 22, Oakland, was arrested and charged with possession of a controlled dangerous substance, reportedly marijuana. She is currently incarcerated awaiting a bond hearing.

Delmar E. Moats, 18, Oakland was arrested on a failure to appear (FTA) bench warrant. He was scheduled to face a charge of willfully contributing and encouraging a condition which rendered a juvenile female in need of supervision. Moats is currently being held in jail on a $20,000 bond.

Nina M. Wolf, 32, McHenry, was arrested on a FTA bench warrant after being charged with passing bad checks. She was subsequently released after posting a $200 bond.

Susan Parker Foss, 44, Oakland, was arrested on a FTA bench warrant. She was subsequently released after posting a $400 bond.

Casey V. Patton, 19, Oakland was arrested on the strength of a bench warrant charging him with violating conditions of his probation (VOP). He is currently incarcerated on a GCMH RECOGNIZED BY TRANSPLANT RESOURCE CENTER - The Transplant Resource Center of Maryland has awarded Garrett County Memorial Hospital with a Certificate of Appreciation, recognizing the hospital for its support of the center's organ and tissue donation program. Garrett Memorial recently had its first tissue donor in the history of the hospital. In 1996 Garrett Memorial established policy to refer all potential donors to the Maryland Donor Hotline, a one-call communication system designed to simplify the routine referral of all potential organ and tissue donors. Most importantly, this easy-to-use system increases the chance that Maryland citizens are given the opportunity to consider the option of organ and tissue donation. Pictured, from left, are: Walter Donaldson, CHE, president and CEO at Garrett Memorial; Joyce Andrews, RN, director of nursing; David Taylor, RN, CPTC, of the Maryland Transplant Resource Center, who serves as the Western Maryland Satellite Coordinator of Organ and Tissue Services; and Jeff Hinebaugh, RN, emergency room nurse manager.

$5,200 bond. Samuel J. Wagner, 22, Accident, was arrested on a VOP bench warrant. He was subsequently ROR.

Accident Victim Corrects Article, Credits Seatbelt

Last week in a report of an accident on Route 135, Oakland, Esther Clemons was noted as being 44 years old. Reference to her injuries and subsequent transport to the hospital were omitted. She has corrected this information.

Clemons is 34 years old and a result of the two-vehicle collision, she was transported by Northern Rescue Squad to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, where she was treated and released.

She also stated she is convinced that her injuries from this accident would have been far more severe had she not been wearing a seatbelt. She said she hopes everyone realizes how important these safety features are.

"When we throw something away, where is it?" The above is a question posed by the Channel 1 educational television program after a 30-second clip showing heaps of trash and persons tossing litter out their car windows. It is but a tiny example of the messages and information available via this technology, all designed to encourage our young people to think about important things, expand their horizons, and thus better prepare them for life in our world.

Of course, our elected board of education members voted 3-1 this week to not allow this technology in Southern High School, despite the fact that it would be installed lock, stock, and barrel, free of charge by the sponsors of the programming; despite the fact that it features young people sharing the news, in their own style and lingo; despite the fact that the technology can also be used to produce in-school video programs; despite the fact that 88 percent of the teachers (most of whom are parents) and over 90 percent of the students in the school supported it; despite the fact that the SHS school improvement team, comprised of still more parents and local community leaders, supported it; despite the fact the program comes highly recommended by other school officials where it is being used; and despite the fact that the principal of the school had experience with it in her previous school of employment and found it to be greatly beneficial and an enhancement to education.

The reasons given for turning it down included the fact that there are commercial spots broadcast on Channel 1 by the sponsors of the program, and our students should not be subjected to television commercials during school time, especially Levi jeans commercials that just might show the shape of a teenager's backside below the waste (we can't have our young people looking at each other). Another reason was that there was no hard evidence, no numbers or percentages shared, that prove that this technology improves test scores. To us, education is far more than test scores, and it is blatantly obvious that this technology will enhance our children's education. Still another was that our kids can just watch CNN to get their news, to which we respond that CNN, and the other major network news programs, are geared for adult audiences and put most teens to sleep. So they just don't watch it, whereas as part of a school curriculum they would have no choice.

To change our beginning quote just a bit: "When we throw something away, what all do we throw away?" Our board of education has thrown away a wonderful opportunity, and has thus taken one more step in hurling our schools back into the dark ages.

P.S. Thank you, board member Rodney Durst, for having the wisdom and the courage to vote for this project.

To the Editor:

Your May 8 edition editorial page was overall one of the best I have ever read; even the cartoon was tops!!

I agree wholeheartedly with your Megan's Law theory!! The CLU carries most things to an unrealistic extreme. I am fed up with the way our legal system by and large is now working for the criminal rather than the victims. The classic example is right in our own back yard, down state. So much for change of venue and all that good stuff at taxpayers' expense!!! I am sick of it!!

I was especially pleased with "Out on a Tangent!" Health of Mind and Body by Peggy Santamaria. What a grand article. I am very impressed by her writing and her thinking and her presentation, not only this article but all her writing. Her introspection is great!! Thank you, Peggy, I hope you do more writing on mental illness. We surely do need the advocacy in Garrett Co. and it seems you could do the educating as well.

I also love Jeffrey Wilson's column very much!! His rhybarb "View From My Window" is a classic. Thank you.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Louise Harvey

To the Editor:

I am responding to your editorial in the May 1 issue of the paper. I shall endeavor to keep this letter brief, but you have given so many areas to respond that I am afraid it may not be possible.

You have made a scathing attack on the School Board of Garrett Co. I would just like to go on record that I support the values that this board has endeavored to bring to the education of our young people. If the school boards across the country were as in touch (as is Garrett Co.) with the pitfalls that our youth are exposed to we might see a very different generation coming into adulthood.

You do not see anything wrong with massage therapy or horoscopes that are portions of cult religions. Yet you would not allow Bible studies or a posting of the Ten Commandments because of their Christian religious value that teaches us how to live honestly and lawfully before God and mankind. Strange how cults are not viewed as dangerous, even after Guyana, Waco, and the recent episode in Calif.

You have taken offense with the attacks on the higher learning institutions. Consider that our young people are graduating from these institutions as alcoholics, drug experimenters (if not addicts), sexual deviants, and a loss of their Christian beliefs. It is record that many professors will not give grades to students who do not hold to the evolution theory. Creation is not compatible with their curriculum.

It may be that the Board in its view of the Internet believed not that the teachers would not monitor their students, but that it would be impossible to watch every screen throughout the day. It is putting an added burden on the teachers. I feel that schools have graduated well educated young people for generations without the Internet and it is of questionable value when we have well equipped libraries.

You advocate teaching multiculturalism. I grew up with the understanding that America was a melting pot. Keeping the focus on various cultures is keeping this country focused on bias and racism. We should do away with the forms that require us to say we are Caucasian - Black - Hispanic - Asian. We are all Americans, and must strive to keep our language and our history intact so we can blend and melt together to be Americans.

I was really taken by the fact that you feel it is permissible to rewrite history. What has passed is fact. We don't abolish the Atom Bomb by omitting it from our text books, any more than the Holocaust - ghettos - pogroms - the Spanish Inquisition. I don't know what history you were referring to rewriting, but I do think you are on the wrong path here.

AIDS education is terribly misunderstood. The bottom line is to inform that sex is safe with a condom. The HIV virus is so small it passes through the pores of the material that is supposed to be the barrier. Sex outside of the parameters of marriage is potential suicide. Our children need to be taught that there is no alternate lifestyle that will produce long life and good health.

I don't think this letter will change your mind about our school board, but

IMMEDIATELY AFTER THE LAST MATCH DEEP BLUE SIGNED WITH NIKE.

I hope you will print it so that the board members know there are a few of us that are grateful for their labors for the youth of Garrett County.

Sincerely,
Pat Fernandez

To the Editor:

In his letter to the editor of May 8th, Bob Groves has inadvertently given us an excellent example of what religious freedom is all about.

I find it interesting that he supports the Constitutional restriction of separation of church and state only when it suits his purpose. He decries the application of astrology and horoscopes when used as a "fun" exercise in a classroom as a violation of this separation, but then expresses his belief that the Christian theory of creationism should be taught in lieu of the long-accepted, irrefutable scientific proof that genetic mutations do occur, resulting in the evolution of all species of life.

Mr. Groves is free to believe what he wants, but the restriction is in the Constitution precisely to protect us from such one-sided religious dogma being inflicted on us all.

The Mock Trial Team of Southern High School would like to thank the following people and organizations for making it possible for us to compete this year: The Elks Club, the Lions Club, Mr. Thomas Dabney, Mr. Robert Watson, and Ms. Elizabeth Morin, attorneys at law. Without their generous contributions we would not have been able to meet our transportation expenses.

We would also like to thank Mr. Leonard Eiswert for being our attorney/advisor this year. His many hours of work and sound advice were greatly appreciated.

To the Editor:

The purpose of this letter is to assure parents that their children can still come to dances at the Oakland fire hall and be in a safe environment.

Several weeks ago, a group of outside disk jockeys rented the fire hall on a Friday night and held a dance. It is very important to me, Mr. Z, that people know that "Z and Company" is in no way associated with Moonlight Audio. I do have two DJ's who help me at the fire hall, Wendy Craver and Derek Spirk. They play music approved by me and they follow my rules.

When we started working with the teens seven years ago, Dave Terlizzi had already laid the foundation for the Teen Center. Basically it was, and is, a place kids can come and hang out with their friends, but still be under good adult supervision. My wife and I are devout Christians and we use the dances as a tool to help kids in this capacity.

We not only have information on biblical principles, but also on drug and alcohol addiction, teen pregnancy, AIDS, suicide, etc. Some of this information is from the Health Dept. and some from the American Bible Society. There is also a student version of the Bible that is theirs for the taking.

We have five floor chaplains on duty. Our rules are simple and to the point. 1) Ages 13 to 19. 2) You sign in and out and include name, age, birth date, school, and time. 3) No readmittance, and once you leave, you do not "hang out" around the fire hall. 4) No drugs or alcohol. 5) No tobacco or smoking anywhere, no matter what age! 6) No foul language and you are expected to respect the other people there, including chaplains. 7) Absolutely No MTV or other inappropriate dancing.

Even though we have excellent chaplains and a good set of rules, we still have problems, but we are almost always on top of them, and deal with them promptly and to whatever degree is necessary to assure everyone's safety. The city police and the sheriff's office have been absolutely fantastic in stopping in and just checking things out and also in responding to the fire hall when I call for assistance. Rest assured that if I can't handle a problem, I'll call someone who can.

In closing, I ask all parents to please be aware of the music your kids are listening to. The music we have and play is censored as much as we can. I do not buy or allow anyone to bring in music that has a parental advisory on it. Even at that, there is unlabeled music that is not fit to carry home and we will not stoop to that level of so-called "music."

Having said all that, please rest assured that as long as Mr. Z and Company is doing a dance, it will be run as I have just described. If at any time I have to compromise my values and convictions to please the kids and/or keep up with the competition, I'm out of here!

Sincerely,
Mr. Z

My husband and I are writing to encourage everyone to use their seatbelts. I was recently in an automobile accident, and I probably would have sustained more injuries had I not been wearing my seatbelt.

We also thank the emergency medical technicians on the Garrett County Rescue Squad and the emergency room staff at Garrett County Memorial Hospital for their quality care and professionalism. You are greatly appreciated.

Also a sincere thank you to Ed and Bonnie Lewis for calling 911 and other calls made on my behalf.

To the Editor:

Accessibility to diverse natural areas and a wide variety of recreational opportunities are two significant benefits of living in Maryland. The value that citizens place on these quality of life issues escalates each year as our population grows and development intensifies. During the 1997 legislative session, Governor Parris N. Glendening once again demonstrated his commitment to protecting Maryland's most unique natural areas, with the addition of more than 4,000 acres to the state's Wildlands Preservation System.

The "Wildlands" Designation preserves public land and water areas that have retained their wilderness character, or sustain rare or vanishing species of plant or animal life in their natural state. Managed by the Maryland Department of Natural Resources, the state's 39,000-acre Wildlands System helps protect the Chesapeake Bay Watershed and water quality, and increases the opportunity for wilderness research and recreational activities like hiking, hunting, fishing, birdwatching and horseback riding.

The six sites added to the system this year represent a number of diverse ecological communities, including the islands of the Potomac - 670 acres of riverine islands in Montgomery and Frederick counties, believed to be historical locations of pre-Columbian Indian villages and Civil War encampments. The protection of these islands will offer the opportunity for genetic research as well as the creation of environmental education programs for students.

With a commitment to Maryland's present and its future, Governor Glendening remains dedicated to working with citizens, businesses, environmental interests, and the legislature to balance the path between the economical and the ecological. This year's wildland additions are part of the governor's unique environmental agenda that will not only protect our historical and natural resources for future generations, but will also ensure that Maryland's strong environmental policy continues to be good business.

Sincerely,
John R. Griffin, Secretary
Maryland Department of Natural Resources

To the Editor:

Rising in all its debauchery and stench is an ugliness that invades civility; a colorless mass that shadows what is good and right (in some circles read the law) about America. This ugliness permeates an individual's soul and ebbs its way attempting to stave the lifeblood on route to the heart of humanity. This ugliness knows few boundaries. While dollar figures are not easily assessed, this ugliness assuredly taxes "man" kind. And, we pay for it.

This ugliness is promulgated by snarling homophobes and gun-toting militia men alike. Toting in its leagues spew conspiratorial and hate-mongering rhetoric. This ugliness incites the mentally challenged fringe element and manifests itself in the form of Waco, Heaven's Gate, and the Uni-bomber. This ugliness took the lives of 168 unsuspecting, innocent people on April 19, 1995. And, we pay for it.

The collective who wallow in partisan sniveling, the likes of which is associated with Dornaniamism, can and should lay to rest their angst for Communism. With it, let them lay to rest New's Revolution, Trent's Whitewash, Pat's Fanaticism and Bob's Dole-"drums." Sadly, we pay dearly for it!

But, cheer up...each day that is devoted to ending this ugliness is a day that encourages "good," old made-in-America optimism and acts affirmatively to dispel the baited non-sense espoused in the silly word-play and assumptions made by the "you-know-whos" of the world.

Adequately perplexed,

"LAND OF HOPE AND GLORY"

High school and college bands all across America will be playing Edward Elgar's "Pomp and Circumstance" marches this month and into June. You may not recognize the name, but you would surely recognize the tune if you ever graduated from anything and especially if you ever played in a musical group that performed at a graduation.

The most famous tune from "Pomp and Circumstance" had words set to it by Arthur Christopher Benson.

"Land of hope and glory, mother of the free, How shall we extol thee, who are born of thee? Wider still and wider shall thy bounds be set: God who made thee mighty, make thee mightier yet." Both Benson and Elgar were English patriots. The "land of hope and glory" is England.

This march is sung in England with the love and fervor that Americans reserve for the more hymnlike "America the Beautiful." The English are not great flag-wavers, but when they sing "Land of Hope and Glory" they wave the flag, stand on tables, and do all sorts of extrovertish things they do not usually do.

Two weeks ago today the English were singing "Land of Hope and Glory" in honor of their election results. After 18 years the British electorate turned out the Conservative Party and put the Labour Party into power. The way it happened one would think it was a thing they had meant to do all along, and why it took them so long was something no one could explain.

I made a leap in the last paragraph from "England to Britain." England is only one nation of three located on the island of Great Britain, which contains two other nations, Wales and Scotland. The three nations are united into one kingdom (with Northern Ireland as well) and together are the United Kingdom, often abbreviated the U.K.

The Scots do not like the English. The Welsh hate the English. The Protestants of Northern Ireland think they are English. The Catholics of Northern Ireland know they will never be anything but Irish.

Another English patriotic song is "There'll Always Be An England." There is, however, no song "There'll Always Be a United Kingdom." The most recent British election suggests that the days of that Union may be numbered.

The new Prime Minister, Tony Blair, has promised Scotland and Wales their own Parliaments. He has also said that on the day a majority of those living in Northern Ireland want to become part of the Republic of Ireland, he will agree to it.

While the United Kingdom may begin to dissolve, a new Union may be near at hand, the European Union. We may see England, Scotland, and Wales part company in order for all three to become member nations of what in effect will be the United States of Europe.

By all accounts there is an air of euphoria in Britain in the aftermath of the May 1 election. It will be ironic and even tragic if this sense of well being is merely the beginning of the end of what for 290 years has been one of the most potent political unions the world has ever seen.

It is a long time since we U.S. Americans have lived under the flag of the United Kingdom, but that kingdom has been our mother country in many ways. Though its destiny is not ours, its destiny will affect ours.

I do not share the euphoria of our cousins across the pond. I feel as I might if my grandmother were to make her debut in a mini-skirt and love beads. Even if we rebel against our elders-as we certainly did in 1775 and the decades following-there is something comfortable about our elders staying as they were when we rebelled. The nations of the United Kingdom are headed for a modern world of which the U.S.A. is not a part, and it makes me nervous.

American Trust Charity Golf Event Set; ARC To Benefit

American Trust Bank is planning its ninth annual Charity Golf Tournament, to be held at the Oakland Golf Club on July 18. The bank has sponsored a charity tournament of this nature for the last eight years and has succeeded in raising over $115,000 for a number of philanthropic organizations through the generosity of area contributors. This year's recipient of funds will be the Garrett County Chapter of the American Red Cross.

"We are absolutely delighted to have been chosen the beneficiary of this event. The Garrett County Chapter of the American Red Cross is totally dependent on local funds for our survival and, quite frankly, we have been struggling," said Dusty Huxford, spokesman for the Garrett County ARC Chapter. "This is a great year to participate in this event since it is our 80th anniversary celebration. During all these years the citizens of Garrett County have relied on the Red Cross programs and services to help them prevent and prepare for emergencies. They have trusted the Red Cross to supply safe blood for medical needs and have enrolled in health and safety courses. In addition, the Red Cross has relayed emergency family messages 365 days a year, 24 hours a day to our men and women in our Armed Forces around the world," Huxford said.

The United States government provides no funding to the Red Cross, he explained, yet as a private non governmental, not-for-profit organization, the Red Cross delivers many services. "The willing spirits and tireless efforts of the local volunteers enables us to spend 93 cents of every dollar on programs to service people in need," Huxford said.

All donations to the local ARC chapter are for the sole use of Garrett County residents. "Without support, the Garrett County Red Cross may not be able to continue providing services it has offered in the past," Huxford said. Proceeds from the tournament help support projects such as health and safety classes, disaster services, and blood services. All programs are taught and run by volunteers who are certified American Red Cross instructors. "In 1996, 1,595 units of blood were collected by the ARC, which results in approximately 4,785 potential lives being saved," he said.

"We are really excited about this year's tournament," said Gary Yoder, member of the organizing committee. "We have made several changes that will speed play and our prize selection is the best ever. In addition, we are working closely with the staff at

In order to speed play, the organizing committee has limited the number of teams to 36 (four fewer than in past years). Interested participants are urged by Yoder to enter their teams as soon as possible to ensure a place in the tournament.

Registration forms for the tournament are now being accepted by American Trust Bank. The event has been planned to include the golf tournament, contests, prizes, and dinner. Businesses and/or individuals can participate by entering teams, sponsoring teams, or by simply contributing a donation. In Loving Memory of our Beloved Wife, Mother and Daughter Marion Louise Tasker who passed away May 17, 1996

How we miss you, no one will ever know.
The tears we have shed are many.
It seems as if you are just away and will be back someday to stay.
But we know you are in Heaven and we'll meet you over by the river some sweet day.
Your friends were so many, they loved you too.
We know God needed you.
He was there with outstretched arms to welcome you home where you will have no more suffering, no more tears.
We know you must be happy, we miss you so much, but some sweet day we'll meet you once again to part no more.

Love,
Gene, Connie, Dede, Bub and Annie

The sleeves were full length with pearls and lace, and the full skirt fell to a semi-cathedral train. Her crown headpiece had a fingertip length veil. The bride carried a cascading bouquet of pink roses, white carnations, and baby's breath.

Huskies Upset Rams, Crush Oldtown In Regional Playoffs

Monday was a super day for Northern High coach Phil Carr, even though he was not on the sidelines when his Huskies upset the Southern High Rams, 5-2, in an opening round game of the 1A West Region Tournament at the Cove. The reason Coach Carr was not there was that he was assisting his wife with the delivery of their first child at Memorial Hospital in Cumberland.

The Huskies took that momentum from their win over the Rams, who were the area's top-ranked team and favored to return to the state tournament this year, and proceeded to crush Oldtown in a second-round contest last night, 24-0, on the Indians' diamond. Northern will play at Clear Spring this afternoon at 4 p.m. in a 1A semi-final game for a chance to host Williamsport in the regional title game on Friday.

The win over Southern came exactly one week after the Rams had embarrassed the Huskies in Oakland, 12-0, in a regular season game. Apparently fueled by the pain of that loss, coupled with wanting to win a big one for their absent coach, the Huskies played virtually flawless ball Monday to unseat the Rams, who came into the game with a 12-4 record and a successful defense of their area championship.

All five of the Huskies' runs against the Rams were scored with two outs, and pitcher Matt Fritz worked his way out of several jams.

A two-out, two-run single by Scott Sisler in the bottom of the first inning put the Huskies in front, 2-0. Southern's Seth Tressler cut that lead in half with a solo homer in the top of the second inning, but Northern added two more runs in the bottom of that inning when Matt Houser walked and, after two strike-outs by Joel Uphold, Zach Leverenz blasted a two-run homer to make it 4-1.

An RBI single by Herman Arndt in the fifth inning concluded the Huskies' scoring. Mike Welch scored the final Southern run with a solo home run in the top of the sixth.

Houser and Sisler were credited with some outstanding defensive plays to keep the Rams from scoring more runs.

The Rams out-hit the Huskies by a 7-4 margin, but Northern did a better job capitalizing on their hits and a pair of Southern errors.

"I was very concerned about having to play Northern again after beating them in Oakland last week," stated Southern coach Jim Bosley, "and with Coach Carr and his wife at the hospital it just gave those kids even more incentive to win the game."

"The Huskies played absolutely flawless baseball," he added.

Yesterday was long-ball day for the Huskies, who smashed six home runs in the rout of Oldtown. Matt Fritz belted two of them, while Jeremy Reed and Jeff Carr combined on a four-hitter.

The Huskies finished with 18 hits and, once again, did not have a single error on defense. E.J. Scofield and Joey Wilhelm each finished with three hits, with Scofield's including a home run, a double, and a single, while Wilhelm had a solo shot and two singles.

Fritz's round-trippers included a two-run shot in the third and a solo homer in the fourth. Scott Sisler

Rams Capture Fourth Straight Area Baseball Championship

Despite having only two returning starters and despite losing their first two games after being unable to practice outside because of the weather conditions, the Southern High School baseball team coached by Jim Bosley captured its fourth straight area championship by vote of the area's coaches. It was the sixth title in the past 11 years for Bosley, who is the area's winningest coach.

The Rams concluded their season, somewhat suddenly and unexpectedly, with a 12-4 mark and a 10-1 record in the Western Maryland Interscholastic League. The downside is that they were upset in their opening-round playoff game by the Northern Huskies on Monday and will not get an opportunity to return to the state finals this year.

The Rams opened their campaign with a 4-2 loss to Fort Hill and a 3-0 setback by Keyser, but then proceeded to win 12 of their final 14 games.

All of this was accomplished with only two senior starters - Seth Tressler and Joel Uphold - back from last season's state runner-up squad. Tressler, who will attend James Madison University on a football scholarship, is the only player to have been on all four of the last area champion teams, while Uphold played the past three varsity seasons.

Coach Bosley finishes the 1997 campaign with an outstanding 18-season record of 245 wins against only 86 defeats for a winning percentage of just over 74%.

The Rams are 66-11 over the past four years, which included an undefeated regular season in 1994 (17-0) and a 21-2 overall mark last year when they finished second in the state.

"We didn't panic when we lost our first two games this season," Bosley said, "because we had to play them with virtually no practice outdoors. Beating Fort Hill in our home opener sort of turned the tide and put us on a roll."

Bosley was also delighted with his team's accomplishments, consider the fact that his only returning starters were Tressler and Uphold, "and Seth had to miss about half of the season because of a knee injury," he said.

Uphold's first blast came in the bottom of the first inning and his second game in Southern's four-run fifth.

The fifth also featured a solo homer by Mike Welch and a two-run double by Jason Weaver.

The only hit off Warnick was a single by Jared Martin in the second inning. Warnick finished with 11 strike-outs in the game, which was called after six innings because of rain.

Uphold led the Southern offense against Mount Savage, as he smacked a pair of two-run homers, while Chad Warnick spearheaded the defense by firing a no-hitter.

The Indians finished with a 4-14 record, while the Huskies have improved their mark to 10-11.

SHS Girls Fall To Beall In Regular Finale

Before being eliminated from the 1A West Region Tournament by the Northern Huskies on Monday (see separate story), the Southern High girls' softball team dropped its final regular season game last Thursday to host Beall, 4-3.

The Rams scored a pair of runs in the top of the fifth to take a 3-2 lead in the contest, but the Mountaineers rallied for two in the bottom half of that frame to record the win.

Amanda Reese led Southern's six-hit effort with a triple and a single, while Erica Johnson finished with two singles.

Amber Ballases and Chrissy Jackson each had two singles for the Mountaineers.

Karen Keister went the distance on the mound for Beall to earn the win over Autumn Newcomb.

Tom Vent Earns Certification As Athletic Admin.

The National Interscholastic Athletic Administrators Association (NIAAA) announced this week that Thomas E. Vent, coordinator for athletics for Northern Garrett High School, has been recognized by this association as a certified athletic administrator.

To earn this distinction, Vent has demonstrated the highest level of knowledge and expertise in the field of interscholastic athletic administration, according to a NIAAA spokesman. The voluntary certification process included a thorough evaluation of the candidate's educational background, experience and professional contributions, as well as a rigorous, comprehensive written examination.

Vent is one of only 1,050 interscholastic athletic administrators nationwide to attain this level of professionalism.

The NIAAA is a national professional organization consisting of all 50 state athletic administrator associations and more than 5,200 individual members. It is dedicated to promoting the professional growth of high school athletic administrators and preserving the educational nature of interscholastic athletics and the place of these programs in the secondary school curriculum.

Brooke Brenneman Invited To World Scholar-Athlete Games

Brooke Brenneman, Grantsville, a junior at Northern Garrett High School, has been accepted as a participant in the 1997 World Scholar-Athlete Games, organizers announced this week. This event will bring together more than 2,000 of the world's finest young scholars and athletes for a celebration of education, culture, and athletics at the University of Rhode Island in Kingston and in Newport, R.I.

Conceived and organized by the Institute for International Sport, which is based at The University of Rhode Island, the second World Scholar-Athlete Games will be held from June 22 to July 2, 1997. It will feature competition in seven sports and six cultural activities for young people ages 16-19 from more than 125 countries and all 50 states. The inaugural World Scholar-Athlete Games in 1993 attracted approximately 1,600 young people from 108 countries and all 50 states.

Scholar-athletes will compete in basketball, sailing, soccer, swimming, doubles tennis, track, and volleyball, while a second group of young scholars will participate in the cultural programs of art, choir, dance, symphony, theater, and writing/poetry. A key aspect of the Games is that there will be no national teams; instead, athletes from different countries will play on teams together. For example, a basketball team may be composed of players from Australia, China, Ireland, South Africa, and the United States.

Brenneman, 16, who will take part in the basketball component of the Games, is a starting forward on her high school varsity team. This past season, she averaged 15.6 points and 10 rebounds per game in helping her team to the Region 1A championship and to a second place finish in the Maryland State 1A Tournament. An honor student, she has been nominated to the National Honor Society, and is a member of Minds in Motion.

Besides the sport and cultural competitions, there will be a number of Theme Days that will serve as educational forums for uniting all participants, both cultural and athletic, in discussions about pertinent global issues. Some of the noted presenters at the Games will include: Dr. Sylvia Earle, marine biologist; Adam Werbach, president of the Sierra Club; Zoe Baird, President Clinton's initial nominee for U.S. Attorney General; Nancy Kassebaum Baker, former U.S. Senator from Kansas; Bob Cousy, former Boston Celtic All-Star; Ron Shipp, former LAPD officer involved in the O.J. Simpson case; Mark Gearan, executive director of the Peace Corps; Jean Ashe, wife of tennis hall of fame Arthur Ashe and international advocate of AIDS research and prevention; and Sandy Padwe, chair of the Columbia School of Journalism and former senior editor with Sports Illustrated.

Other celebrities attending the Games include: Sinjin Smith, professional beach volleyball player and Olympian, Games Honorary Chair for volleyball; John

Naber, four-time Olympic gold medal winner in swimming; Games Honorary Chair for swimming; Paul Michael Glazer, co-star of the hit television series Starsky and Hutch and director of big screen blockbusters The Running Man and The Cutting Edge; Bobby Clark, director of soccer operations and head soccer coach at Stanford University, and former World Cup goalie for Scotland, Games Honorary Chair for soccer; and Ralph Boston, former Olympic marathon runner, Games Honorary Chair for track and field.

a time for renewing our walk with the Lord, a time to allow the Holy Spirit to re-ignite the flames of our once intimate relationship with Christ, a time to develop a fervent interest in holy living on a daily basis, and a time to increase our desire to see souls saved!

Do you need revival? Is your communion with the Lord gradually decreasing? Have you strayed far from the Saviour because the cares of life have overtaken His place of priority? Have you lost interest in promoting the cause of Christ's kingdom? Do you feel like giving up on Christianity altogether?

Friends, if we have answered "YES" to any of these questions, we definitely need revival! Lord, may you send a GREAT revival in our souls!

Oakland Church of the Nazarene invites and welcomes you to our Spring Revival services. We look forward to having you; so "come just as you are," and join with us as we allow our lives to be renewed by the transforming power of Jesus Christ!

Lakers' Season Is Ended By Allegany, Rockville In Playoffs

The 1997 season for the Garrett Community College baseball team came to an end this past weekend, as the Lakers were eliminated from the Region XX Division 1 Tournament. Coach Ed Wildesen's team, which wrapped up the regular season with a 25-9 mark, dropped a 14-5 decision to nationally ranked Allegany College on Saturday and was then ousted from the double-elimination tourney on Sunday by losing to Montgomery-Rockville, 7-0. The tournament was played at Hagerstown Junior College.

The Lakers recorded an equal number of hits against Allegany in Saturday's game (12), but were unable to capitalize on them the way the Trojans did and left a number of runners on base.

Allegany's first run came in the first inning without a hit, as Bob Spangler struck out, but reached first on a wild pitch. After a pair of walks, Spangler came home on a sacrifice by Raffe Boria.

The Lakers then put two runners on base via errors, but the next three batters were struck out by Lou Ross. Garrett did tie the game at 1-1 in the top of the third, but left the bases loaded in that frame as Ross recorded the third out by throwing strikes.

The Trojans took the lead for good with a single run in the bottom of the inning on an RBI triple by Chuck Conley.

Allegany went up 7-1 with five runs in the fourth. Willie Sowers led off with a double, Mike Carter singled to plate Sowers, and Jason Harrison and Tim Neumark each singled to load the bases. Carter then scored from third on a wild pitch and a single by Conley that bounced off the glove of Jeremy Miller at shortstop, which allowed both Harrison and Neumark to score. A ground-out by Spangler brought Conley home for the fifth run of the inning.

Allegany added three more runs in the sixth behind doubles by Harrison and Neumark.

The Lakers rallied for three runs in the seventh on a pair of errors by the Trojans and RBI singles by Ryan Flanagan and Jeremy Fitzwater.

The Trojans responded with a run in the bottom of the seventh and three insurance runs in the eighth behind a double by Boria to put the game away.

Ross upped his personal record to 9-1 after Joel Byler worked the final two and one third innings to earn a save. Ross had nine strike-outs.

The Lakers were led in hitting by Miller with a double and two singles, while Brian Tingen finished with three singles and Fitzwater had two. Harrison and Neumark each had three hits for the Trojans and Spangler and Conley had two apiece.

The victory by the Trojans avenged an earlier 8-6 loss to the Lakers and upped their overall record to 35-6. Allegany went on to win the Region XX title by defeating Rockville.

The defeat seemed to take any momentum away from the Lakers as they entered Sunday's game with Montgomery-Rockville and managed to record only five hits. Seven innings of the game were played Saturday, but the game had to be suspended until Sunday, with the Lakers trailing 4-0.

Ben Jones pitched the Saturday innings and allowed four runs on five hits, while Matt Stollings was on the mound for the Lakers Sunday and allowed three more runs in the top of the ninth.

Rusty Truett finished with three singles in Rockville's 10-hit performance, while Mike Deming and Frank Valois each had a double and a single. Miller again led the Laker offense by getting three of GCC's five hits, a double and two singles.

For his 3-for-4 effort in both tournament games, Miller was named to the All-Tournament team. Brian Tingen was considered for the team for his performance.

While Coach Wildesen was disappointed with the result of the tournament, he was pleased with the 1997 campaign. "We had a great year, and I wouldn't trade a single member of our team for anyone else out there," he said.

The Lakers finished with their best winning percentage in 20 years and had a school record 14-game winning streak. They also won

More details of the Lakers' season, including various individual statistics, will be published within the next week or two.

Former GCC Athletes Attend Alumni Weekend

The Garrett Community College Athletic Department recently hosted its first Athlete-Alumni Weekend, as the alumni had a chance to return to the college, meet old friends, and relive their sports careers at GCC with a volleyball or basketball game. The weekend consisted of three games: men's basketball, women's basketball, and volleyball. A baseball game was scheduled, but was not played because of a lack of participants.

"We were very excited to host the first alumni weekend because we feel it is very important to keep in touch with all the alumni and give them a chance to reacquaint themselves with the family spirit that our athletic teams experience," remarked Ann Wellham, GCC athletic director.

The weekend started on Friday at 6 p.m. with the women's basketball game, in which 11 former GCC players participated. They were: Crystal Wagner, Sharon Taylor, Amy Hartsell, Clarissa (Jordan) Harris, Sue Snyder, Wanda Swartzwelder, Dawna Friend, Tracy Feather, Kathy (Baker) Hale Cooper, Karen (Guerrera) Thompson, and Lallie Thomas. The team of Wagner, Taylor, Hartsell, Harris, and Snyder won by a score of 42-31. The leading scorers were Wagner with 15 points and Friend with 14.

Eleven male alumni basketball players participated in the high-scoring game that followed the women's game. Participants included: Pete Brosnihan, Poke Winters, Dennis Gibson, Joe Schimide, Nick Gray, John Guadagnino, Kevin Selby, Alessandro Lima, Dave Martin, Mike Saturday, and Kevin Liller. The team of Brosnihan, Winters, Gibson, Schimide, and Gray won, 128-105. Nick Gray, who arrived halfway into the first half, led the players in scoring with 30 points.

Phillips, Dianne DeWitt, Peggy (Evans) Shrock, Crystal Wagner, Chris (Gregory) Wood, Tracey Feather, Stacy Sines, and Kathy (Baker) Hale Cooper. Teams were divided into even and odd years. The even years team defeated the odd years team 15-8, 16-18, 15-11, and 16-14.

The Athletic Department will hold next year's alumni games during the last weekend in April. T-shirts are available for those alumni who were unable to participate in the activities. Those who would like to purchase a T-shirt, should contact Ann Wellham.

GCC Athletes Honored; Gross, Meyers Receive Top Honors

The Garrett Community College Athletic Department recently hosted its annual Awards Reception to honor students for their outstanding athletic and academic achievements. VaShawn Gross and Nicole Meyers were named GCC Male and Female Athletes of the Year for 1996-97. Student athletes are nominated for this award by the Laker coaching staff, and are voted on by local sports media personnel.

Brian Tingen and Meyers were named the GCC Male and Female Scholar Athletes of the Year. The Scholar Athlete Award is given to a graduating male and female student athlete with the highest grade point average.

Also receiving recognition were those student athletes who were designated as honor students (3.0 GPA or higher) for fall 1996 and/or spring 1996 semesters. They included: Lance Loya and Frank Winter, men's basketball; Nicole Meyers and Lori Evans, volleyball; Jennifer Wilson, Carla Miller, and Rachel Robinette, women's basketball, Brandon Mitchum, golf; and Dennis Rulli, baseball.

As a freshman member of the men's basketball team, Gross averaged 16 points, 7.1 rebounds, and 1.5 assists per game. This year his scoring average increased to 20.5 points per game and rebounding to 7.6. He moved into third place on GCC's all-time scoring list and fifth on the rebounding list. Gross was the third leading vote getter in Region XX and a first team all-region selection. He was named this year's men's basketball Most Outstanding Player and is being recruited by a long list of major NCAA Division I, NCAA Division II, and NAIA programs.

"If I were to pick one player that we could not afford to lose during the season it would have to be VaShawn," stated Coach Dennis Gibson. "He was our true team captain, he was never late for practice, and did not miss class. If we needed a shot late in the game, he stepped up and took it."

Nicole Meyers was

is ranked eighth in Region XX in overall quality point average.

"Nicole Meyers made a valuable contribution to the accomplishments of the GCC volleyball team and the college community," remarked Coach Margaret Quinn. "She is a gifted athlete with a concentration on team concept."

Brian Tingen, a two-year starter for the baseball team, is in line to receive an AA degree in general studies during GCC's May commencement. At the conclusion of regular season play for the 1997 season, he was ranked third on the team in hitting with a batting average of .411 and is being nominated for Region XX and Md. JUCO selections.

Southern Girls Win Track, Field WMIL Title And Relays

The Southern High girls' track and field team captured a pair of first places this past week, including one in the rain-shortened Western Maryland Interscholastic League Championships hosted last Thursday by Beall High School and one in the Rams' own annual Southern Garrett Track Relay Invitational.

The Southern girls, coached by Katie Kane, finished with 90 points in the WMIL meet to defeat second place Allegany with 75, Fort Hill with 66, Mount Savage with 42, Northern with 42, and Beall with 11.

Meanwhile, the Southern boys were in third place with 37 points when the rain finally forced cancellation of the second portion of the meet. Fort Hill was comfortably on top with 108 points, Allegany was in second with 45, Beall was fourth with 13, and the Northern Huskies were in fifth place with 12 points.

Leading the Southern girls in scoring was Amy Snyder, who won the 400-meter dash in 1:02 and was a member of the winning 3,200-meter relay team with Erin Hoalcraft, Katelyn McBee, and Angie Sincell.

Andi Bender also had a first place finish in the high jump (4'10").

Earning second places for the Rams were Kristin Spurrier in the 400 run, Christy Hoalcraft in the 100 hurdles, Annie Neville in the high jump, and the 800-meter relay team. Winning third places were Alison Rudy in the high jump and Liz Paesani in the long jump.

Leading the Northern girls was April Enlow, who finished third in the 100 hurdles. The Northern 3,200 relay team was also third.

In the boys' competition, Jared Beckman won first place in the long jump (18'6") and Corey Friend was awarded first in the high jump since he was in first place when the event was cancelled. Nathan Rickman placed second for the Rams in the 400 dash, Jonathan Price was second in the 110 hurdles, and John Franca and Beckman were tied for second in the high jump. Earning third places for the Rams were Eric Rexrode in the 1,600 run, Matt Sincell in the pole vault, and the 3,200 relay team.

Pacing the Northern Huskies were Randolph Baumgartel, who was second in the long jump, and Jeremy McKenzie, who placed third in the 110 hurdles.

In the relay invitational on Monday, the Southern girls edged out Keyser to win the meet with 58 points. The Golden Tornado was second with 52, followed by Northern with 22 and Tucker County with 20.

The Southern boys finished second with 34 points, while Keyser won with 43 and Tucker County was third with 27. The Northern boys' team did not participate.

Leading the Southern girls were Angie Sincell, Erin Hoalcraft, Katelyn McBee, and Amy Snyder, who teamed up to win both the 3,200 relay and distance medley. McBee, Hoalcraft, Snyder, and Lauren Newcomb also captured first place in the 1,600 relay. The Rams' shuttle relay team of Christy Hoalcraft, Crystal Hinnant, Jody Bowser, and Michele Teter also placed first, as did the co-ed distance relay team that included McBee, Newcomb, and from the boys' team, Dan Sincell and Eric Rexrode.

The Northern girls' team of Laurel Wolf, Jill Speicher, April Enlow, and Noelle Collins won the throwers' relay.

In the boys' competition, Southern's Brian Park, Tim MaCauley, Eric Rexrode, and Nathan Rickman won the 3,200 relay, while MaCauley, Rexrode, Rickman, and Dan Sincell won the distance medley. Northern Girls Top Rams, Lose To Blazers In Playoffs

The 1997 season of the Northern High School girls' softball team came to an end yesterday, but not before the Huskies defeated county rival Southern in a playoff contest Monday, 11-4, at the Cove. The win over the Rams, the third this season, came while, in an adjacent field, the Northern baseball team was upsetting the Southern Rams in another West Region 1A tournament contest.

However, the Northern girls' season concluded yesterday with a 9-3 loss to host Clear Spring in a 1A West Region semi-final.

The Huskies were greatly aided by their Southern opponents on Monday, as the Rams committed 11 errors. Northern finished with six hits, while the Rams were right behind with five, but the Huskies made their count and took advantage of several of the Rams' errors.

Kristin Heslop had two of the Huskies' hits, a double and a single that yielded two runs. Erin Selders, Brooke Brennehan, Shanna Powell, and Mimi Harvey accounted for the other four Northern hits, all singles, with Brennehan's producing a run.

Amanda Reese had an RBI single for the Rams and Autumn Newcomb finished with a double.

The Rams concluded with a 7-10 record. It was the eighth straight win for the Huskies.

The Huskies fell behind 5-0 in the bottom of the second inning yesterday against Clear Spring and were down 9-1 after three innings.

No other details of the game were reported this morning.

The Huskies finished their season with a 12-8 record.

of 60 voices is quite magnificent when the blend is balanced."

The EYM ensemble has added six musical selections by the Brooklyn Tabernacle Choir to its repertoire. The music, arranged by Carol Cymbala, ranges in style from rousing gospel melodies to soulful ballads. Each number is written for soloist and chorus, which enables the EYM ensemble to showcase nine of its many talented singers.

In addition to rehearsing the chorus, EYM music director Michael Broderick is preparing the band, which includes keyboards, percussion, drums, trumpet, bass, guitars, and flutes. Local adult residents Don Richter and Jeff Gilbert will join the EYM band members, playing trumpet and bass, respectively.

Vocal soloists in the program include Rita Powell, Alex Hill, Bridget Nolan, Sara Sincell, Janet Cook, Gina Powell, Leah Broderick, Molly McGowan, and Karlo Gesner.

Following the Friday evening performance, the EYM will return to Oakland to sing two worship services on Sunday, May 18, which is Pentecost Sunday. The first service will begin at 10 a.m. at St. Peter's Catholic Church, and be followed by the 11:15 a.m. service at St. Matthew's Episcopal Church. All are welcome to attend.

the job, and then until June 30 to finish all the cosmetic work. The bridge should be usable by the first date. Thorne said a penalty of $2,800 per day will be levied against IA Construction for each day the bridge remains closed after the May deadline.

"Actually, this project has gone extremely well," Thorne said. "We have a good relationship with the contractor -- he has been very cooperative. And while we did have a mild winter -- which helped keep the project on track -- we have not had a good spring. This has certainly been a factor in these delays."

Thorne explained that the approach areas to the bridge are extremely muddy, which makes the digging difficult. He also noted that when pouring concrete, the temperature has to be fairly warm for a good set-up.

"It doesn't really matter if it's 50 below zero or 32 degrees outside -- we have needed warmer weather recently to properly cure the concrete," he said.

The concrete deck has been poured and is finished, Thorne reported. The most of the barriers should be poured this week, with contractors hoping to finish

MOCK TRIAL TEAMS - The Southern and Northern high school mock trial teams recently completed another season of competition in Circuit IV, which also includes teams from Allegany, Fort Hill, Bishop Walsh, Westmar, and Flintstone high schools. Sponsored by the Maryland State Bar Association, Maryland State Department of Education, and the Maryland Judicial Conference Public Awareness Committee, the mock trial program has four primary objectives: to further the understanding of and appreciation for the law, courts, court procedures, and the legal system; to increase proficiency in basic skills such as listening, speaking, reading, and critical thinking; to promote better communication and cooperation between the school system, the legal profession, and the community at large; and to heighten enthusiasm for academic studies as well as career consciousness for law-related professions. Team members prepare cases with the help of attorney advisors and try cases in the district and circuit courts of Garrett and Allegany counties. Southern High School mock trial team members pictured above are, from left: Paul Liller, Amber Crites, K.J. Dimik, Misty Soreno, Coach Matthew Novak, Sarah Winter, Scott Sanders, Cassey Tichinel, Josh Sines, and Terri Crosby. Not present for the photo were James Steyer and Brian Aronhalt. Northern team members are pictured below and include, from left seated: Megan Sines, Juli Savage, and Amanda House; and standing: Coach Tom Ables, Rachael Gosnell, Cindy Thomas, Stephanie Gosnell, and Becky Goehringer.

Dr. Lillian Mitchell, dean of academic affairs, will present candidates for degrees and certificates to Rob W. Michael, member of the Board of Trustees, who will confer the degrees. Dr. Mitchell will then present awards to outstanding graduates and Dr. Herman will confer special recognitions.

Following the ceremony a reception for graduates and their guests will be held in the Student Center. The public is invited to attend the commencement activities.

began working with Michael Sines, supervisor of maintenance and operations for the school system, to develop a comprehensive package of upgrades to increase energy efficiency and reduce costs. Known as a performance contract, the agreement guarantees savings in the amount of expenses for the improvements.

Honeywell representative Linda Price asked for commitment from the board so that rates could be set with other partners in the contract such as, lending institutions. Board members questioned the blanks in the contract form and Price explained they could not be filled in without the commitment that would lock in the rates that determine those amounts.

The board has requested more information from the engineers who developed the parameters of the improvements as well as a meeting with them next week, along with the board attorney, Robert Watson. Price replied that she did not know if that would be possible but would look into it.

YOUGH GLADES SCHOOL

Dr. Ryscavage presented an update of the progress on Yough Glades Elementary School. The construction company has projected Oct. 23 for completion of the building.

It was suggested by the superintendent that the Thanksgiving vacation would be the appropriate time to move into the new facility. Families of the students affected by the move will be contacted for consideration of issues related to the transition process.

Dr. Ryscavage also asked the board to consider several additional days off for the children who will be moving to the new school. The board will consider the request and respond at the next board meeting.

PERSONNEL

Among the personnel noted by Dr. Ryscavage as retiring or resigning was his secretary and assistant, Lucille Ludvigsen, a 44-year employee at the board of education. For 20 years she has been secretary to Dr. Ryscavage.

Other names submitted by the superintendent to the board were Paul Harr, coordinator of accountability and assessment; Ed Green, coordinator of the teacher education center; and Ron Kuhn, guidance counselor.

STUDENT MEMBER

Sarah Fike, the student member of the board of education, was recognized by the board for her service and dedication. She was presented with a leather brief case as a thank you gift from the other board members.

The student member for next year, Karlo Gesner, was introduced.

Board Asking

arrangement for those staff members. This was, Carpenter said, because the board felt obligated to make the total request of the commissioners this week, despite the lack of a final settlement.

Ryscavage and Carpenter explained a significant increase in the portion of the budget covering "Administration and Operations." Because of new state regulations, certain positions had to be put in different categories. The main change was the removal of principals' salaries from the "instructional salaries" category to the "administration" category. Although the increase in the administration is significant, there is an equal decrease in the instructional portion.

In the school construction fund portion of the budget, the board has requested money in the amount of $485,295 to fund projects such as a lift at Route 40 Elementary and a roofing at Northern Middle School. As noted in the budget request document, funding for several of these projects is expected to come from bond funds the board was granted for the construction of classrooms at Northern High School and the Yough Glades Elementary School.

Also included in this category is an amount of $75,000 for the Technology in Maryland projects. This funding will match a 70 percent state fund contribution and will be used to wire both Southern Middle and Northern High schools for computer service. Albert Coviello, assistant superintendent in curriculum and instruction, noted that this amount actually "leverages" about $300,000 worth of work in the schools.

Another item in the school construction fund is the equipping of the new elementary school. While some pieces may be transferred from Red House and Loch Lynn schools, numerous other items have to be purchased for students, teachers, and other staff. While some funding may remain from bond monies, the board was obligated at this point to include an amount of $198,000 for this need.

Other projects that have been on the "to do" list for several years and are included in the construction fund request are an auxiliary gym and stage at Northern High and a new foyer at the Southern High gymnasium, as well as a new stage and library furnishings there.

The board is requesting no funding for the Food and Nutrition Services fund, as it is supposed to be self-supporting. However, the program this year is currently about $55,000 in debt, and the board is projecting a deficit of about $49,000 for next year, despite the plan to increase the price for school lunches. Carpenter said by the following year, the program should be "back on track."

The school lunch prices in elementary schools will jump from $1.15 to $1.35; secondary will go from $1.25 to $1.30-$1.50; and adults will pay $3 instead of the current $2.90.

The board is allotted money from the state in "dedicated funds," which is money that can only be spent for specific projects and programs. These include programs such as aging schools repair, early elementary education (EEEP), Targeted Poverty Grants (TPG), special education, school nurses, drug-free schools, infant and toddler special education, Maryland Tomorrow, and several others.

The board was granted $335,000 during the recently concluded General Assembly Legislative Session and this money will be used to offset some of the expenses, Carpenter noted. The dedicated funds the board is asking the commissioners to support will provide the following additions to the school system: one elementary math resource teacher, two elementary math teachers, an instructional assistant, a curriculum coordinator, and a part-time teacher and an assistant for an additional four-year-old program at Yough Glades.

Two positions -- one half time teacher at Route 40 Elementary and a coordinator of data processing and systems management --

DEER PARK

The Town Council meeting was held Monday, May 12. There was not a quorum so no action was taken, but the following issues were addressed.

●Garrett County Commissioners attended the meeting. Those present brought issues of town maintenance and water up for discussion with the commissioners.

●There was more work done on preparing the town budget.

●The discussion of a meeting to be held June 3, 7 p.m., on town zoning that is being developed. Doug Green from the Garrett County Office of Planning and Zoning will speak at that meeting.

The next meeting will be held June 10.

MTN. LAKE PARK

The town meeting was held Tuesday, May 13.

●Two residential building permits were approved. One permit was not approved because the house to be demolished is in the historic district. While not currently governed by ordinance, the council members prefer the owner consider another option to demolition.

●The council read the opinion and order from the board of appeals on an application for special exception to have a private school, day care and church services within the town. The request has been approved with a few stipulations.

●The Garrett County Commissioners were present and discussed town issues with those present. The mayor stated he was a bit disturbed by the charge to townships for disposal of solid waste. He requested Rodney Giotfely of the county office of solid waste to attend a meeting with them in the future to further discuss the matter.

●There was also discussion of the new access road to the Yough Glades school. The town has suggested maintaining that road on the condition it be connected to an existing town road. There will be a cost study on this matter.

●The commissioners were requested to endorse the town's requests for sidewalk installation on Oakland Drive.

●A bid for paving was awarded to Keystone Paving, pending completion of the budget and identification of funds for the project.

●The purchase of a new computer was also discussed. The next meeting will be held Tuesday, May 27.

could not be included in the dedicated funding, Carpenter said, so they are the only two additional positions included in the current expense budget.

The commissioners plan to have the county budget finalized by June 3, according to Lamont Pagenhardt, county administrative officer.

GARRETT COMMUNITY COLLEGE PIPES & DRUMS

GCC Pipes, Drums Will Again Host Highland Fest

The Garrett Community College Pipes & Drums will perform as host band of the 10th Annual McHenry Highland Festival on Saturday, June 7, at the Garrett County Fairgrounds in McHenry.

This band, which is dedicated to the preservation and performance of bagpipe-music, began in 1979 as the "Garrett Highlanders," organized by Charles P. "Chip" Evans and Fred A. Thayer. A class of eight students started the course of instruction at the Oakland Center of GCC. A member of the first class was the Rev. John A. Grant, who continues as a member of the band and serves as Pipe Sergeant. Thayer serves as Pipe Major and instructor.

The band's first public performance was at Wisp's Summerfest in July 1980.

Enjoy Deep Creek Times Mag. — Online at www.deepcreektimes.com 2nd issue out today!

Approximately 20 public performances per year have continued since that time and included an appearance at Rocky Gap State Park in 1988 to introduce Governor William Donald Schaefer at the Baltimore Symphony Orchestra's Western Maryland concert. The band was officially adopted by GCC in 1989 and is currently sponsored by the college; it is also supported through a grant from the Garrett County Arts Council, Maryland State Arts Council, and Westvaco Corporation has also been a sponsor.

In 1989 the band led the dignitaries and athletes, both local and international, at the Whitewater World Championship ceremonies at Frostburg State University. It has served as host band for the McHenry Highland Festival since that event was organized nine years ago, which led to a cover story feature in Maryland Magazine's Summer 1993 issue titled "Oatmeal Warriors." The band has participated regularly in the Christmas Walk in Oldtown, Alexandria, Va., and was seen on international TV in 1992 as the feature of that parade.

Formal instruction in piping and drumming is offered on the McHenry campus of Garrett Community College in a curriculum designed by P/M Thayer (who recently retired as Chief Judge of Maryland's Fourth Judicial Circuit). All interested people are encouraged to join in instruction and/or the band. The band is available for public performances, parades or other functions either as a group or in solo, duet or other configuration by calling the college or Thayer.

Festival hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and admission is $5 for anyone 12 and over. The band will also perform during the Kirkin' O' the Tartans on Sunday morning, June 8, at St. John's Episcopal Church on Route 135 in Deer Park at 9:30 a.m. A ceilidh, co-hosted by the festival committee and Wisp Ski & Golf Resort, will be held Saturday evening at 8 p.m. at Will O' the Wisp.

This festival is sponsored by the Deep Creek Lake-Garrett County Promotion Council and in part by GPU Energy and Bell Atlantic Maryland; it is funded in part by a grant from the Garrett County Arts Council and the Maryland State Arts Council. For more information or advance tickets, persons may contact Festival Headquarters, 200 South Third Street, Oakland, MD 21550, telephone 301-334-1948, E-Mail GCTourism@garrett.ncin.com.

Friendsville Mayor Spencer Schlossnagle has announced a change to the schedule for pick-up of materials such as scrap metal and old tires.

As part of the annual town clean up Schlossnagle has arranged removal of large household items such as washers and dryers. This year the mayor explained that he was able to contract for pick-up at a great savings to the town.

The town garbage collection will be on Friday, as usual. There will be a special pick-up of large items on Saturday, May 17, beginning at 10 a.m. Scrap metal items and old tires will be picked up Monday, May 19, beginning at 8 a.m., Schlossnagle said.

The births of four infants this week at Garrett County Memorial Hospital were announced this morning by a hospital spokesperson.

A son was born May 8 to Gregory Dean Rouse and Diana Elaine Boller, McHenry.

A son was born May 12 to Freddie Clinton and Stephanie Marie Paugh Glotfelty, Accident.

A son was born May 12 to Danny Jay and Regina Faith Yoder Kauffmann, Swanton.

A son was born May 12 to John Walter and Devon Diana Sweitzer Mayne, Oakland.

Admissions were listed at 65 with 64 discharges. This morning's census shows 36 patients.

Food For Thought

Most-basic Italian before-dinner nibbles, even in the best restaurants, are bruschetta—toasted slices of country bread, topped with tomatoes and basil, or sauteed mushrooms, or anything else you favor. Nothing fancy, but yum!

Freezer tip: cover highly acidic or salty foods—chili, or lasagna—with plastic wrap and then foil, so that the foil doesn't touch the food. Remove plastic before heating.

Buttered broccoli tastes even richer with a touch of mustard. Mix ¼ cup Dijon into ½ cup butter. Let the hot steamed vegetables melt the topping.

For more successful baking, make sure the ingredients are at room temperature before you start.

The trick to diet meals: more vegetables, less meat. Pepper steak for two calls for ½ pound meat and two green peppers, everything thin-sliced for quick stir-frying.

What's our chef's trick for delicious dishes? Start with top-quality ingredients and add magic. Taste the best at

Dear Mr. Huebner:

My wife and I would like to take this opportunity to let you know about the first-rate job that Mary Jo Lyons did in helping us to purchase a condominium earlier this month. . . . During the course of our sales contract negotiations and follow-up . . . Mary Jo was always very responsive to our many questions and needs that arose. I found that her cheerful and professional approach is a rare commodity in the sales field today, and she is certainly an asset to your office. We would have no hesitation in recommending her to our friends and acquaintances who may be interested in purchasing property on or near the Lake.

Very truly yours,

"It's A Home Run!"

Sometimes it happens. The batter steps up to the plate. The pitcher throws the ball and "crack"...the ball sails as far as the eye can see. Just like that..."It's a home run!"

Sometimes...it happens that way. Yet, more often than not, victory is scored one base at a time with quickly calculated risks and several slides through the dirt, never losing sight of home.

Hebrews 6:12 beseeches us to "show the same earnestness in realizing the full assurance of hope until the end, so that you may not be sluggish, but imitators of those who through faith and patience inherit the promises." Life is seldom perfect. We must have faith in God's purpose for our lives and utilize the power and patience He has given us to reach our goals one step at a time.

Your goals are attainable. Praise God each Sabbath in His house. Never lose sight of home.

Safe Debris Burning Tips Offered

The Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Forest Service, in cooperation with the Garrett County Health Department and the Garrett County Emergency Management office, reminds residents that spring is traditionally a time of high forest fire danger in Maryland. There were 470 natural fuels or woods fire calls recorded by the County Emergency Management agencies in the Western Region in 1996. Garrett County Emergency Management received 28 natural fuels or woods fire calls in 1996. These fires burned 27.3 acres.

Typically, spring is the time of the year when many property owners are conducting outdoor burning of leaves and other debris. Thirty-four percent of the natural fuels fires in Garrett County were caused by unsafe debris burning, and 41 percent of these fires occurred on Saturday or Sunday.

In order to prevent wildfires from occurring and causing destruction to private homes and woodlands, the state of Maryland has established open-air burning regulations. These regulations apply to activities in woodlands and within 200 ft. of woodlands, or activities adjacent to or within an area where flammable materials that could ignite and carry fire to woodlands. These regulations are:

- 1) A natural or constructed fire break at least 10 feet wide must completely surround the material to be burned.
- 2) Adequate personnel and equipment must be present to prevent the fire from escaping.
- 3) At least one responsible person must remain at the burning location until the last spark is out.
- 4) Permissible burning hours are between 5 p.m. and 1 a.m.
- 5) All open air burning requires a permit from the county health department.

Open air burning prior to 4 p.m. EST also requires a burning permit from DNR. Open air burning of any type not in accordance with these regulations is subject to citations and fines ranging from $70 to $260.

Landowners interested in conducting open air burning are encouraged to burn after 5 p.m. when a burning permit from the DNR Forest Service is not required, and the air is generally moister and calmer, reducing the chances of the fire escaping.

If a landowner wishes to burn before 5 p.m., the Garrett County Health Department and the Maryland DNR Forest Service have entered into a cooperative agreement to issue a combined burning permit. The landowner should contact the Forest Service office at Mt. Nebo Monday through Friday, 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., at 301-334-3296. Landowners are encouraged to contact the office several days before they plan on burning to arrange a site visit with one of the forest rangers.

Prior to doing any open air burning, the landowner should contact Garrett County Emergency Management at 301-334-1929 to let that staff know about the controlled burning to reduce the chances of the local volunteer fire departments being dispatched on false alarms.

When conducting open air burning, it is the landowner's responsibility to make sure the fire doesn't escape and to make sure the fire is out cold before leaving it.

Re-Pointing Of Bricks Set At Springs Church

A special congregational meeting for the members of St. John's United Church of Christ in Salisbury was held following the worship service on Sunday, May 4.

President of St. John's consistory, Michael Albright, conducted the meeting. Albright explained that, since the church building is now 100 years old, it is necessary that the re-pointing of the bricks be done to preserve the building. After some discussion a unanimous vote was cast to proceed with this project.

Colonial Waterproofing Company of Scottsdale, Pa., is being awarded the contract. Pastor Raymond Brown, along with the members of the consistory, encourage all members and friends of St. John's to support this major undertaking.

GARRETT COUNTY NOTICE OF A PROPOSED PROPERTY TAX INCREASE

The County Commissioners of Garrett County propose to increase property taxes.

1. For the tax year beginning July 1, 1997, the estimated assessable base will increase by 2% from $735,032,371 to $750,022,957.
2. If Garrett County maintains the current tax rate of $2.59 per $100 of assessment, property tax revenues will increase by 2%, resulting in $388,257 of new property tax revenues.
3. In order to fully offset the effect of increasing assessments, the property tax rate should be reduced to $2.54, the constant yield rate.
4. The County is considering not reducing its property tax rate enough to fully offset increasing assessments. The County proposes to adopt a tax rate of $2.59 per $100 of assessment. This tax rate is 2% higher than the constant yield rate and will generate $388,257 in additional property tax revenues.

A public hearing on the proposed property tax increase will be held at 9:00 a.m. on May 20, 1997 at the County Commissioners, Meeting Room, County Courthouse, Oakland, MD. The hearing is open to the public, and public testimony is encouraged. Persons with questions regarding this hearing may call 301-334-8970 for further information.

Local Students Fare Well In Math Competition

Allegany College of Maryland's Tri-State Mathematics Scholarship Competition, which has been encouraging and rewarding math achievement for a dozen years, recently saw 128 students from 16 area high schools compete for top honors and scholarships.

Began in 1986, the annual event invites tri-state area high school juniors to test their math knowledge and compete for recognition and for Allegany College scholarships, which are underwritten by the LaVale Lions Club.

The top 10 winners, determined by scores on a written test, were recognized at a recent awards ceremony for the 12th annual event. A team award, given to the school with the highest point total of its top three scoring individuals, also was presented.

The top three winners were: first place, Chinmay Hegde of Allegany High School; second place, Eric Neubert of Northern Garrett County High School; and third place, Matthew Growden of Allegany High School. Scholarships of $1,000, $500, and $250 were awarded to the first-, second-, and

In fourth place was Josh Koontz of Bedford High School. Miranda Lantz of Frankfort High School took fifth. A tie for sixth place was shared by Alicia Brown of Bedford High and Tara Little of Allegany High.

Biloo Bhatnagar of Southern Garrett County High School won eighth place. The top 10 was rounded out by two students who shared a tie for ninth place. They were Dana Kennell of Hyndman High School and Sara Hille-gas of Berlin-Brothersvalley

High School.

The team award went to Allegany High. The school's 1997 win represents the sixth team victory by Allegany in the 12 years the contest has been conducted.

Competition results are based on individual student performance on a one-hour algebra- and geometry-based test compiled and scored by faculty members in Allegany College's Mathematics Division, which conducts the contest.

The scholarship awards sponsored by the LaVale Lions, totalling $2,450, can be used by students on an early placement basis while in high school, as regularly enrolled freshmen or in summer courses between academic years at other colleges.

The scholarships are administered by the Allegany College Foundation. The campus chapter of Mu Alpha Theta, a student mathematics honorary, helps conduct the competition. The contest's founder and coordinator is Gary Shaffer, Allegany College professor of mathematics.

COVER STORY

Mad about maternity:
Buchman baby on boardBy Dave Larsen
cTVData Features Syndicate

Bruce Willis

At last, the Buchmans are having their baby.

But the suspense still lingers: Paul Reiser won't say whether it's going to be a boy or a girl.

The Mad About You executive producer and star isn't being coy about the series' one-hour season finale, airing Tuesday, May 20, on NBC. Reiser honestly doesn't know the answer.

"We have yet to decide," he says. "We shot both endings, and as we're editing we look at each other and say, 'You know, we have to make a decision at some point.' But as of this point in time, we haven't figured it out. I think we literally just may go into a room and flip a coin."

The dilemma has long-term implications for the series as the writers and producers wrestle with the question: Which is funnier, a boy or a girl?

"It may be a third option," Reiser offers dryly. "As we indicated in one of the episodes, it may be an owl."

One thing is certain: Baby Buchman will be surrounded by a Who's Who of guest stars when Mad About You wraps up its fifth season with the much-anticipated episode, titled "The Birth."

Bruce Willis, an old friend of Reiser's, appears as himself. Carol Burnett (The Carol Burnett Show) and Carroll O'Connor (All in the Family) reprise their roles as Jamie's parents. Eric Stoltz (Anaconda), Estelle Getty (The Golden Girls) and Michael Moore (TV Nation) also guest star.

In the episode, Jamie (Helen Hunt) feels her first contractions while Paul is filming an interview with his easily distracted Aunt Ida (Getty). An errand dunts his arrival at the hospital, jeopardizing his chance to witness the birth of their first child. But Paul faces a greater obstacle in the media frenzy surrounding an injured action-film star (Willis).

The inspiration for the story came when Reiser and co-executive producer Larry Charles, who wrote the episode, "were sort of caught in a melee of traffic one day when Michael Jackson's baby was born" and realized "there's something funny about when somebody famous is in the hospital," Reiser says.

The episode marks Willis' first series television appearance since his Emmy Award-winning stint as wisecracking private investigator David Addison on Moonlighting.

Reiser had been hesitant to add a baby to Mad About You until the end of last season, when Jamie's pregnancy was announced. "We decided, just for the growth of the show and the growth of the comedy, it would be fun to watch this couple grow through this experience," he says.

A more difficult task will be putting the baby at the forefront of Paul and Jamie's lives without changing the focus of the show from the couple to their child. "One of the realities is you're always exhausted, and I know as a viewer, I don't want to watch a show about two people just yawning," Reiser says.

The comic has an 18-month-old son, and will draw on his experiences as a father for a new book, as well as next season's episodes.

"In the last year and a half, my baby has done some really funny things," Reiser says. "And the sad thing is I'm too tired to remember what they are."

IN FOCUS

Armand Assante stars as Odysseus, a king who survives the Trojan War only to endure 10 years of torment on his way back home, in The Odyssey.

The two-part adaptation of Homer's poem premieres Sunday, May 18, and concludes Monday, May 19, on NBC.

During Odysseus' journey, he encounters a seductive witch, a cyclops and a sea nymph (Bernadette Peters, Reid Asato, Vanessa Williams). Greta Scacchi and Isabella Rossellini also star.

Essence Awards show

Most awards shows are icing on the cake, an affirmation of commonly held perceptions.

But this year's Essence Awards show, airing Thursday, May 22, on Fox, seems more like a call to action. Established in 1987 by Essence magazine, the awards honor the achievements of African-Americans. Halle Berry and Sinbad return as hosts.

The appearance by Muhammad Ali to accept the Living Legend Award evokes memories of this past summer's Olympic Games in Atlanta, where Ali, who suffers from Parkinson's disease, lit the Olympic torch.

Gymnast Dominique Dawes, who helped the U.S. Olympic team win the gold medal in Atlanta, also receives an Essence Award. In winning her individual bronze medal, Dawes became the first African-American to win an Olympic medal in floor exercise competition.

The emotional center of the evening is a speech by Bill Cosby, made as part of the presentation of an award to him and his wife, Camille. Cosby speaks about their son, Ennis, who was murdered this year.

The awards strike a blow for enlightenment with the selection of Marilyn Chambers as an honoree. Six years ago, Chamberlain's daughter was diagnosed with HIV.

After seeing their friends turn away because of the stigma of AIDS, mother and daughter became active in AIDS education, and Marilyn established a facility for AIDS patient care.

A new honor, the Triumphant Spirit Award, goes to singer Whitney Houston, whose outreach programs opened the door of success to others.

Halle Berry and Sinbad host the 10th Essence Awards, airing Thursday on Fox. The ceremony honors some of the outstanding achievements of African-Americans.

TV-PIPELINE

By Taylor Michaels

Q: Who played Mr. Kotter in an episode of Mr. Rhodes this season? It wasn't the character's original portrayal, was it? —Charles V. Taylor, Sebastian, Fla.

A: No, John Kassir stepped in for former Welcome Back, Kotter star Gabe Kaplan.

Q: Please tell me about Daniel Davis, who plays the butler, Niles, in The Nanny. Is he English? —Ward F., Washington, D.C.

A: Despite an affinity for playing English characters — including a couple of interesting guest appearances as Professor Moriarty in Star Trek: The Next Generation — Davis was born and raised in Arkansas and earned his bachelor's and master's degrees at the Arkansas Arts Center.

Davis has more than 200 theater credits, including the original Broadway production of Amadeus and the national touring production of the musical Coco with Katharine Hepburn.

He has worked with the finest American theater companies, including the American Shakespeare Festival in Stratford, Conn.; the Guthrie Theatre in Minneapolis; the Williamstown (Mass.) Theatre Festival and San Francisco's American Conservatory Theatre.

Q: Many feature film credits include The Hunt for Red October, Havana and K-9.

A: I say the actor who plays the title character's father in The Jeff Foxworthy Show is the same person who played Sgt. Carter in Gomer Pyle, U.S.M.C., the sitcom with Jim Nabors. My husband disagrees. —Cecile Klemen, Monticello, N.Y.

A: Sorry, Cecile, but your husband is right. Veteran character actor G.W. Bailey (Capt.

Harris in several of the Police Academy movies) plays Big Jim Foxworthy. The late Frank Sutton played Sgt. Vince Carter in Gomer Pyle.

Q: In The Waltons TV series and in the recent Easter reunion movie, there were four sons in the family. I remember John Boy, Ben and Jim-Bob, but I cannot remember the name of the fourth son, who I believe was between John Boy and Ben in age. —Beverly Joe, San Francisco.

A: Jason, the second-oldest son, was played by Jon Walmsley.

Q: Who played the title character in Sergeant Preston of the Yukon? My husband says it was Robert Preston. I disagree. —Leslie Jackson, Erie, Pa.

A: Richard Simmons (not the weight-loss spokesman) starred as Sgt. Frank Preston in the 1955-58 series. (The character's first name was never mentioned in the series, but Simmons later revealed it.)

Loggers, Forestry Field Day Slated For June 13-14

Everything associated with the region's logging industry will come together in a special two-day family event, June 13-14, at the Garrett County Fairgrounds with the sixth Western Maryland Loggers and Forestry Field Day and Equipment Show, sponsored by the Maryland Forests Association. The event includes the mid-Atlantic region's only skidder-pull competition, horse logging, and a variety of lumberjack demonstrations.

Included in the one-ticket, two-day admission of $5 is a full schedule of attractions, plus the first 1,200 ticket holders will receive a free field day collector's cap. The field day and show is open from noon to 7 p.m., June 13, and from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., June 14.

Chainsaw carvers, competitors in a knuckleboom loader event, and Floyd Presley's famous "Birds of Prey" educational show, featuring a Harris hawk named Elvis, are among the activities that will take place on the fairgrounds. A program, distributed at the gate, lists all the exhibitors and participants and includes a schedule of events for both days.

More than 30 informational exhibits from a variety of agencies and organizations, including Maryland's Department of Natural Resources' famed Scales

Owners Attend Fashion Seminar

Lisa and Steve Brennehan, owners of Unique Decor in Oakland, recently completed an "Excellence by Design" fashion trend seminar in Timonium. The seminar provided training that will enable Unique Decor to provide a total custom decorating job for its customers.

"I'm leaving this conference with both creative and hands-on skills to help my customers create a designer look in their homes," said Lisa Brennehan. "I can continue to offer them the broadest selection of coordinating home fashion products in the market."

DEEP CREEK LAKE

Mrs. Jack (Sue) Weber, Sarasota, Fla., will arrive Sunday, May 18, for the summer at her Deep Creek home. Accompanying her will be a friend, Betty Kleindinst, Florida, who will visit Garrett County for a week.

"Stop Sticks" To Help MSP Curb Suspects

Maryland State Police Superintendent Colonel David B. Mitchell recently announced the implementation of tire deflation devices known as Stop Sticks.

The Stop Stick is a new tool that State Police hope will save lives and reduce property damage by quickly curbing a fleeing suspect vehicle without injury or accident.

The stick is a plastic device which contains several spikes that puncture a tire when driven over. Once a tire is punctured, the spikes act as valves permitting air to escape and slowly deflate the tire.

The Stop Stick is manually placed in the roadway by a trooper prior to the arrival of the suspect vehicle. After that vehicle drives over a Stop Stick, the device is removed from the roadway by the trooper to allow for the free passage of pursuing vehicles and other traffic.

"We are taking another step to help ensure the safety of Maryland's motorists and citizens," said Colonel Mitchell. "Our goal is to make Maryland safer. The use of Stop Sticks will provide a controlling element in a police pursuit that will greatly assist law enforcement in quickly and safely removing the reckless driver from our highways," he explained.

With the assistance of funding from the Maryland State Highway Administration, the State Police will be supplying Stop Sticks, Piranhas and Terminators to the Field Operations Bureau and Commercial Vehicle Enforcement Division. The Piranha and Terminator are additional tire deflation devices used for stopped or parked passenger vehicles and commercial vehicles.

In 1996 the Maryland State Police were involved in 154 pursuits and 169 in 1995. An individual arrested and charged with fleeing and eluding police, a violation of the Maryland Transportation Article, faces a maximum penalty of one year in jail and/or $1,000 fine and twelve points on the driver's record.

According to a spokesman at Barrack W. McHenry, the Stop Stick will be coming to Garrett County. Training is now being planned for officers, he said.

Portrait Sales To Benefit NGCRS

To raise funds for the purchase of equipment, the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad is participating in a portrait program. The rescue squad has authorized employees of Bower Portraits of Confluence, Pa., to solicit orders for 8 x 10 inch color portraits, according to Danny Durst, chairman.

The representatives are now canvassing. They each carry a letter of authorization from the rescue squad.

GCC To Offer Computer Course For Sr. Citizens

The Continuing Education Division of Garrett Community College will offer a Microsoft Windows 95 course at the McHenry campus on Monday, May 19, and Tuesday, May 20, from 1:15 to 4:30 p.m.

This course will cover the new Windows operating system, which replaces MS/PC DOS commands with easy-to-use pull-down menus. Included in this course will be working with multiple applications simultaneously and integrating text, numbers, and graphics. A prerequisite of a computer literacy or similar course is required.

This course is open to seniors (60 years of age or older) and their spouses. For additional information persons may contact the Continuing Education Division at 301-386-3069.

Long-Awaited Parsonage Dedicated At Underwood United Brethren

A group of heartened parishioners of the Underwood United Brethren in Christ Church gathered together Sunday to dedicate a new parsonage, now to be home to Pastor David Kisamore and his family. The project has taken almost five years and the congregation celebrated its completion Sunday.

Details of the project and a history of the over 120-year-old parish was written by Pastor Kisamore and his wife Valerie. It is as follows:

Ground was broken on September 30, 1992, at the location of the recently completed parsonage for the Underwood United Brethren in Christ Church in Crellin. This celebration was the beginning of a project that would last for 5 years.

In light of the church's history, the decision to build a parsonage has been momentous. In January of 1873, church members had their first meeting. Over the next two years, a church building was erected, and a dedication ceremony was held there on August 15, 1875. The building stood until 1937, when it was torn down and replaced by the church that stands today.

Underwood Church was originally founded by a circuit-riding United Brethren preacher named I. M. Underwood. This was the first United Brethren church started by Underwood in this territory. According to the former Underwood pastor, Michael Mudge, Underwood was at one time part of an 11-point charge. The present pastor, Rev. David Kisamore, is actually Underwood's first pastor who is not pastoring any other church.

Throughout its history, the Underwood congregation has had its ups and downs, especially since it had to form its own leadership at times when the itinerant preacher couldn't be there. For example, in the late 1920's, Mrs. Nevada Nine kept the church open by herself for five years. On cold mornings, she would go early to build a fire in the pot-bellied stove. She would return later in her "Sunday best" to record that there was an attendance of one, that she had put in a certain amount of offering, and that she had read a certain scripture. Mrs. Nine's faithfulness in keeping the church going has repeated itself through the church's faithfulness in the 1990's, providing the new pastor a parsonage, now that Underwood was no longer on an itinerant system.

Though the building project began in 1992, it wasn't until January 30, 1994, that the basement was completed for the Kisamores. For the next year, no solid plans were made to complete the upper level of the parsonage, but in January of 1995, a representative from the Mt. Pleasant United Brethren Church (located just north of Chambersburg, Pa.) approached Pastor Kisamore and the church's administrative board to discuss the possibility of assisting with the raising of the parsonage's top level. At a meeting held later, the Underwood administrative board unanimously decided to proceed with Mt. Pleasant's generous offer.

PARSONAGE AT UNITED BRETHREN DEDICATED - A ceremony was held Sunday afternoon, despite intermittent rain showers, to dedicate the United Crellin Brethren Church's new parsonage. Pastor David Kisamore and his family will reside in the home, which has been under construction for over four years. Several area pastors attended the event, as well as congregation members. Rev. Daryl Elliot greeted the guests and the Gortner Union Quartet provided special music. Rev. Michael Mudge gave the scripture reading and Bishop Ray Seilhamer delivered the message for the service, as well as the prayer of dedication. Rev. Mike Dean gave the closing prayer. A story about the history of the parish was written by Pastor Kisamore and his wife Valerie, and it appears in today's issue. Pictured above left are Bishop Seilhamer and his wife Ruth. Kisamore is shown in front holding his daughter Rebekah, 3, and Valerie is behind him holding 2-year-old Joshua.

Because of a 150-mile distance between the two churches, the building time had to be condensed to within a few days. In August of 1995, the interior and exterior walls, the roof, shingles and siding, and all of the windows and doors were erected in just two days. However, despite this impressive accomplishment, much remained to be done before the upstairs would be livable.

Over the course of the next year some wiring was done, but Underwood was unable to raise sufficient funds to complete the remaining work. Once again, Mt. Pleasant agreed to provide assistance. In the fall of 1996, Mt. Pleasant members made three trips to help complete the dry-wall work, install trim, and lay floors. At this time, plans were made to have a dedication service on May 4, 1997, and to be conducted by Ray Seilhamer, the Bishop of the United Brethren Church.

Fifteen people from the Mt. Pleasant congregation arrived on Saturday, May 3, with campers and trailers and camped in the back yard of the parsonage. Later that evening, the Bishop and his wife Ruth arrived and settled in the upstairs of the parsonage. On Sunday morning, the Bishop delivered the morning message to a congregation of 88. Meanwhile, more people were driving from Chambersburg to Oakland to participate in a covered dish dinner and the 3:30 p.m. dedication service.

Inclement weather forced the celebration into the parsonage basement, where a variety of speakers testified to God's grace in completing the building project. Following the indoor ceremony, a well-timed break in the weather allowed for a ribbon-cutting ceremony on the front porch of the parsonage. In view of the entire project, the actual construction of the building was subsidiary to two outcomes which cannot be valued by a dollar figure. The first of which was the development of deep relationships between Underwood and Mt. Pleasant members. The second and most enlightening was the realization that we were not there on Sunday to celebrate a building, but rather a display of God's grace upon those who will faithfully and patiently wait upon Him.

The Underwood congregation expresses appreciation and thanks to the Mt. Pleasant congregation, as well as to the following churches who also gave of their time, talents, and resources over the past five years in the building of the church parsonage: Mt. Washington United Brethren, York, Pa.; Mongel UB, Shippensburg, Pa.; Otterbein UB, Greencastle, Pa.; Fountain UB, Keyser, W.Va.; Crellin UB; Swanton Mennonite Fellowship; Gortner Union Church; and the Amish church in Pleasant Valley.

Urgent Need Noted For All Blood Types

An urgent need for all blood types and critical need for type O negative has been reported by the American Red Cross Johnstown Region according to Elizabeth Huxford, Garrett County Blood Services chairman.

Huxford has urged all local residents to donate when the bloodmobile visits the Grantsville Volunteer Fire Department from noon to 6 p.m., Friday, May 23.

She said that at least one of every 10 hospital patients in the United States needs a blood transfusion. She added that all blood types are needed, but with an increased potential for outdoor accidents and other emergencies during the summer, hospitals continue to experience an even greater demand for type O positive and type O negative blood, the universal blood type.

Huxford explained that an adequate blood supply must be readily available. Once an emergency occurs, it's too late to recruit donors, because intensive screening and testing is required on every unit of blood. "The Red Cross must always be ready to meet the blood needs of the public we serve," she said.

To be eligible to give blood, individuals must be at least 17 years of age, weigh at least 110 pounds, and be in generally good health. Normally, individuals can give blood every 56 days.

Local residents and patients are among those served through the American Red Cross Blood Services, Johnstown Region.

The Johnstown Region directly serves hospitals, patients and donors in a 63-county area in Maryland, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Virginia, and West Virginia, and also supports blood needs experienced by patients served through Red Cross Blood Services.

To further ease the donation process and help maintain accurate donation records, the Red Cross encourages people to bring Red Cross donor cards, driver's licenses or other positive identification with them when they give blood.

Older Americans Health, Fitness Festivals Planned

In support of the National Healthy Aging Campaign and in observance of Older Americans Month, Community Action Committee's Area Agency on Aging will host two Senior Health & Fitness Festivals in partnership with the Garrett County Health Department's Community Outreach.

Garrett County American Corps members will also participate in the Festivals, Thursday, May 29, at the National Guard Armory, Oakland, and Friday, May 30, at the Grantsville Senior Center.

Registration and a continental breakfast will begin at 9:30 a.m. each day, followed by a get acquainted scavenger hunt, angel food cake-walks, indoor horse-shoes, bowling, balloon tennis, chairplay, and "Name that Tune." These activities promote the Healthy Aging Campaign theme that it "is never too late to get started on the road to a better quality of life."

There will be prize drawings throughout the day with one final door prize drawn immediately after lunch. In addition to participating in the various fitness activities, seniors will have the opportunity to receive facts about senior safety and to be informed about programs and services for seniors. Seniors will also have the opportunity to speak with a registered nurse at the Senior Health Concerns table.

Sheriff Asks Drivers, Riders To Buckle Up

The Garrett County Sheriff's Office will be observing BUCKLE UP AMERICA week May 19-26. The focus of the program is to step up enforcement efforts to ensure that all children are properly secured in child safety seats or seat belts.

Sheriff Randy Sines reported that on average, eight children per day, through age 14, were killed in motor vehicle related crashes during 1995 in the country. An estimated 279 children under 5 years of age were saved by child restraint use in 1995. The best way to protect children from the risks that air bags may pose is to properly restrain children ages 12 and under in the back seat, he explained.

Sheriff's deputies will be on high alert in their patrols during this week to enforce safety belt and child safety seat restraint laws. The enforcement program will also focus on speed and drinking/driving violations during the week which concludes on the Memorial Day holiday.

The office can also provide information on laws pertaining to safety restraint systems, as well as a one-minute check up for the child safety seat and procedures persons are now using. Those who need more information may contact the Garrett County Sheriff's Office at 301-334-1911.

Farm Bureau Unveils Campaign To Kill The Death Tax

Farm Bureau is asking America's farmers and ranchers to unite in a campaign to "Kill the Death Tax." Dean Kleckner, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, last week announced a nationwide campaign urging Congress to repeal the federal estate tax.

Federal estate taxes, also known as death taxes because they are levied against assets following a death, make it difficult for some farmers to continue farming and instead often make the taxed farmland an inviting target for development.

"These death taxes are pushing farmers from the land and encouraging the transformation of farm fields into parking lots," Kleckner said in a statement announcing Farm Bureau's "Kill the Death Tax" campaign. "We all know that the amount of taxes farmers and ranchers pay have an indirect impact on land use. This government tax policy is bad for America's farmers, bad for our overtaxed economy and bad for our environment." During the "Kill the Death Tax" campaign, Farm Bureau members will write letters to their members of Congress urging repeal of the federal estate tax. According to Kleckner, state Farm Bureau presidents will deliver the letters directly to their state's members of Congress.

Bernice Kepple, Farm Editor

Kleckner said that because federal tax rules allow farmers and ranchers to exempt only a portion of their farm property from death taxes, the "beneficiaries often are saddled with huge tax bills." Over the next two months, he said, Farm Bureau members will unite in an all-out effort asking members of Congress to abolish federal estate taxes.

"Death taxes are one of the chief reasons many farms and ranches are abandoned rather than expanded," Kleckner said. "Sadly, because estate taxes can reach the 55 percent threshold of a farm's value, it is often more expensive to pass the family business on to the next generation than it is to sell the land and get out of agriculture altogether."

Kleckner said the impact death taxes have on agriculture is especially harsh because farms and ranches cannot be easily converted to cash to pay the taxes. For many, the only way to pay the death tax liability is to sell all or a portion of the farm or ranch.

"This strain can be particularly troublesome for the family farms that are being passed on to the spouse or children," he said. "Farming is overwhelmingly a family business. In order for that bond to continue, we must kill death taxes now. Tomorrow's farmers should not be penalized because their parents die."

To participate in Farm Bureau's "Kill the Death Tax" campaign, interested persons should write a letter to their Congressman and send it to their state Farm Bureau president. The letters will be delivered in mid-July following a news conference in Washington, D.C.

U.S. Dept. of Ag Announces Cheese Price Series

Agriculture Secretary Dan Glickman has announced that a new cheese price series will be used under the federal milk marketing order program to calculate the basic formula price (BFP) beginning June 5. Cheese prices reported on the National Cheese Exchange had been used in calculating the BFP, but the exchange was closed April 25.

The new cheese price series, developed by USDA's National Agricultural Statistics Service, is based on a weekly survey of cheese manufacturing plants throughout the country.

"The new cheese price series being factored into the basic formula price will significantly contribute to improved market information for the dairy industry, while allowing the current longer term process of reforming federal milk marketing orders—including possible replacement of the BFP—to continue without disruption," Glickman said.

NASS began collecting data in early March from cheddar cheese manufacturing plants around the country, covering approximately 80-85 percent of all bulk cheddar cheese sales. NASS released the first price series May 9 and will publish the series on a weekly basis. All bulk sales of 40-pound block cheddar cheese during a week are included in the survey price, thus providing more information than the National Cheese Exchange, in which trades only took place each Friday.

The BFP serves as the basis for establishing minimum prices for milk under the federal milk marketing order program. Because of concerns raised about use of the cheese exchange price in calculating the BFP, USDA sought public comments on whether the cheese exchange price should continue to be used or what alternative prices could replace it. USDA received nearly 800 comments during the comment period, which closed March 31.

With the cheese exchange closing, it became imperative that a replacement cheese price be found. A new cheese price was needed to calculate the BFP for May, and for milk marketing orders that use cheese prices to derive a protein price under component pricing plans.

Under existing federal milk marketing order regulations, if a price used to administer the orders is no longer available, the secretary is authorized to administratively adopt a suitable and equivalent replacement. If a suitable or equivalent cheese price were not available, the BFP could have been replaced under existing regulatory authority. With the NASS survey, this will not be necessary.

Replacement of the BFP is a long-term effort that will be accomplished through the current reform process mandated by the 1996 farm bill. USDA recently released a preliminary BFP report as part of the milk order reform process, and is receiving comments now.

Meat Animal Production And Income Reported

Maryland produced 89.1 million pounds of beef and veal during 1996, 14 percent less than the 103.3 million pounds produced last year. Marketings at 103.9 million pounds were down 13 percent from 1995. Cash receipts for beef and cattle were $44.47 million, down 26 percent from last year's $59.96 million. Decreases in marketings and prices for beef and veal combined to cause the decline in cash receipts.

Pork production for 1996 totaled 24.42 million pounds, down 39 percent from 1995's 39.94 million pounds produced. Cash receipts received from pork totaled $12.76 million, down 25 percent from the cash receipts of $17.03 million for 1995. Lower marketings more than offset the price increase to make the decline.

Sheep and lamb production for 1996 totaled 1.55 million pounds, down two percent from the 1.59 million pounds produced during 1995. Sheep and lamb marketings for 1996 totaled 888,000 pounds, down 38 percent from 1995's 1.44 million pounds marketed. Cash receipts from sheep and lamb marketings totaled $691,000, down 23 percent from the cash receipts of $894,000 for 1995 cash receipts.

Sheep Improvement Center Could Help U.S. Producers

The National Sheep Industry Improvement Center would be an asset to American sheep producers, providing it adequately addresses producer needs, Farm Bureau told the Agriculture Department last week.

Farm Bureau laid out several areas of emphasis that the sheep improvement center, when fully operational, should focus on, including enabling the U.S. sheep industry to be more competitive with other sheep-producing nations. The center also should support lamb and wool marketing systems and aid with new consumer product development, Farm Bureau wrote to USDA.

The sheep improvement center should concentrate some of its resources to help U.S. sheep producers develop a value-based marketing program that encourages consistent supplies of high-quality lamb products for domestic and export consumption, the organization said. To help meet that end, Farm Bureau said the development of new sheep pharmaceuticals, improved producer access to enhanced sheep genetics, and access to new production technologies would help the U.S. sheep industry.

Development of regional education and research centers that would support transfer of new technology to producers should also be a sheep improvement center activity, Farm Bureau said.

To help create and support new lamb and wool marketing systems, Farm Bureau urged that the center help create opportunities for development of industry-wide standards for lamb tenderness, flavor, leanness and acceptable range of lamb carcass sizes. Access to new markets also would help sheep producers, as would the implementation of a "wool classes" education program, the organization said.

"We believe some of the major marketing concerns of lamb and wool producers are: price volatility, packer concentration, imports, product image, industry image and the lack of lamb market development and promotional activities," said Richard Newpher, executive director of the American Farm Bureau Federation's Washington, D.C., office.

Newpher urged the sheep improvement center's directors to support innovative farm-to-market approaches for marketing fresh and frozen lamb. He said the center should support projects that will bring innovation to the U.S. sheep industry, not support projects that will duplicate existing industry infrastructure, such as those facilities that process "commodity lamb."

GCC Agriculture Club Members Recognized At Spring Banquet

Garrett County's agricultural heritage was evident at the recent spring banquet sponsored by the Agricultural Club of Garrett Community College at the Pleasant Valley Community Center.

At this event three generations of area residents whose life's work is involved with agriculture (farm production, agribusiness, or agricultural education) dined together and honored students who have graduated or who are about to graduate from GCC's Agricultural Management program.

Heidi Hauser, president of the Agricultural Club who lives on a dairy farm in Oakland, welcomed the guests and served as mistress of ceremonies for the evening's program. Following her graduation in May, Hauser plans to transfer to West Virginia University to obtain a degree in Animal Science.

Vice President Tiffany Rexroad, a native of Morgantown whose family has a tractor business and raises sheep, recognized sponsors and contributors to the Agricultural Management program with certificates of appreciation. Rexroad also plans to transfer to West Virginia University to study Agricultural Education.

Dr. Ron Seibel, director of the Institute of Applied Agriculture at the University of Maryland College Park, reaffirmed the institute's commitment to the GCC program as he spoke to the group.

Willie Lantz, a native of Preston County, W.Va., who is agriculture instructor at GCC and advisor to the Ag Club, introduced the students in the program who have graduated or who are about to graduate. Students who spoke expressed their gratitude and appreciation for Lantz's help and guidance through the Agricultural Management Program.

December graduates of the program who were recognized at the banquet were Jeremy Hile, now working on his family's farm and for a lawn and garden dealership; Mike McClintock, in the process of becoming a certified crop advisor and pursuing a career in agronomy; Joy Matthey, now employed by a greenhouse in Clarksburg, W.Va.

In addition to Ms. Hauser and Ms. Rexroad, other students graduating in May are Melissa Roy, former president of the Ag Club; Patsy McKenzie, who plans to major in Agricultural Education at West Virginia University; and Todd Chess, who plans to major in Veterinary Science at Fairmont State College.

Following the recognition of students in the program, the Cooperator of the Year award was presented to Southern States Oakland Cooperative. The evening's program concluded with the showing of a video depicting the Ag Club's many

Tractor Safety Workshop Set For June At GCC

A 20-hour tractor and machinery training workshop will be conducted for area youth on June 9, 10, and 11. The workshop will be held at Garrett Community College, McHenry, from 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. each day. Youth ages 14 and older completing the course will receive a certificate. Youth ages 12 and 13 are invited to attend, but will not be certified.

The workshop is coordinated and sponsored by the Garrett Community College Agricultural Club and the Cooperative Extension Service, with support from the Agriculture Care and Education Grant. The workshop is offered free of charge, but participants must provide their own transportation and lunch.

The course includes classroom instruction in both tractor and machine safety, practice driving time, and both written and practical tests. The training curriculum meets the Department of Labor, Bureau of Labor Standards, Child Labor Regulations for "Occupations in Agriculture particularly hazardous for the employment of children below the age of 16" requirement.

For additional information and to register, interested persons may contact the Extension Office at (301) 334-1990 or send name, address and phone number to 202 South Third Street, Oakland, MD 21550 by the May 23 deadline. Compost Operator Certification Exam Set For June 26

Maryland Department of Agriculture (MDA) Secretary Lewis R. Riley has announced that the next Composting Facility Certified Operator Examination is scheduled for Thursday, June 26, at MDA's headquarters building in Annapolis.

"The Composting Facility Operator Certification Program is designed to ensure that an operator of a commercial composting facility is knowledgeable about composting methods and systems and is familiar with compost regulations," said Riley.

"Composting is an expanding industry in Maryland for recycling a variety of organic wastes, such as yard debris, crab processing wastes, livestock and poultry manures, or municipal solid wastes. The MDA has been given the responsibility to make sure that commercial compost products are properly labeled and are produced by a composting facility with a certified operator," Riley said.

The certification exam is open to qualified individuals from the private or public sectors who have experience or education in commercial composting of organic wastes. Interested persons should submit a completed application to MDA.

Applications will be accepted as long as they are postmarked by June 11 or faxed to MDA by that date. An application for operator certification or additional information may be obtained by calling the State Chemist Section's Composting Program at 410-841-2721 (fax: 410-841-2765). A list of recommended study materials will be mailed to all qualified applicants. There is no fee for the examination.

For further information, those interested may contact David A. Tibbitts, State Chemist Section, MDA, 50 Harry S. Truman Parkway, Annapolis, MD 21401; (410) 841-2721.

WVDA Receives Funding To Assist Beekeepers

The West Virginia Department of Agriculture (WVDA) has received funding from the state legislature that will be used to help registered beekeepers avoid losses of honeybees due to the honeybee tracheal mite (HBTM) and Varroa mite. Both were introduced into the U.S. from other countries. HBTM was first found in West Virginia in 1988 and Varroa mite in 1991. Senator Mike Ross of Randolph County introduced and supported the legislation that gave the WVDA the necessary funding to conduct the beekeeper assistance program for one year.

According to Agriculture Commissioner Gus R. Douglass, "These two parasitic mites are responsible for a substantial decline in the number of domestic and wild honeybees throughout the state in recent years." Declining honeybee populations mean that there are less bees to pollinate fruits and vegetables, so many gardeners and orchardists may experience a decrease in the production of certain crops.

This law requires the annual registration of all persons keeping bees and provides the WVDA with authority to inspect honeybee colonies for the purpose of detecting parasites and diseases that could adversely affect honeybee production within the state. When a serious honeybee pest is discovered during an inspection, the apary inspector instructs the owner or manager of the bees as to the best treatment for correcting the pest problem. "Treatments exist that will protect colonies of honeybees from parasitic mites," says WVDA Plant Industries Division Assistant Director Gary W. Gibson, "but they are cost prohibitive for many of our state's beekeepers."

Gibson went on to say, "The WVDA plans to use the money appropriated by the legislature to assist those beekeepers who were registered with the WVDA in 1996. The 1996 apary registration data were used to establish the estimated cost of the beekeeper assistance program for the legislature, and since these beekeepers met their obligation to register with the WVDA, they should be the ones to benefit from the program."

The WVDA plans to provide those participating in the program with the proper materials to treat all their beehives against both HBTM and Varroa mite, this summer, and one "Buckfast" queen bee (reported to be resistant to HBTM), next year. With the remaining money, the WVDA plans to hire a part-time apary inspector to increase the pest detection capabilities of the WVDA's Apary Program. Gibson said, "There are a lot of details that must be worked out in a very short period of time, if the beekeeper assistance program is to succeed as it is envisioned." Funding for the program will be available July 1.

Maryland Milk Production Up Slightly

Maryland dairy operators produced 340 million pounds of milk during the January-March quarter, up 0.6 percent from the same quarter a year earlier. The number of milk cows was down 3,000 from a year earlier, so yield per cow accounted for the production increase. Farmers fed an average of 15.9 pounds of grains and concentrates to each cow on April 1, 1997, up 0.5 pound from the year earlier ration. In 1997 the value of this feed was $10.20 per 100 pounds compared with the 1996 value of $10.30.

In 1961, a Friesian cow in Bishopston, Great Britain was recorded to have the heaviest live birth weight for a calf -- 225 pounds!

Barriers To Good Nutrition

from the Maryland Grain Producers Association, Inc.

When asked why they don't eat more grain foods, people eating five or fewer servings a day told Gallup that time was the biggest obstacle. However, those who eat six or more servings a day cited nutrition-related benefits as one of the top reasons they eat plenty of grains, followed by taste. In addition to the "time" factor, nutritionists add that it's what we put on top of grain foods, which are naturally low in fat, that can be the biggest stumbling block to good nutrition. Fortunately, getting a few more servings of grain foods each day without adding unwanted fat can be quick and delicious.

Five Tips on Time:

- Bread is the original low-fat "fast food," offering a quick base for an array of toppings, from lean meats and vegetables to jams and fresh fruit. Of course, it's also great straight from the bag.
- Couscous, one of the more "exotic" grains, cooks in just five minutes and comes in a variety of unique flavors, like toasted almond.
- It's a wrap! Leftovers are transformed instantly when you wrap 'em up in a tortilla. The latest restaurant trend—hand-held tortilla wraps—is a cinch at home: simply fill, roll and eat.
- Getting more grains is easy in a crunch—a cereal crunch, that is. Standard breakfast fare, cereal is also a satisfying snack and, in the spirit of Seinfeld, a breeze for dinner.

• Pasta is perfect for "make-ahead" meals: cook a large batch at the beginning of the week, toss with a small amount of light oil (to keep it from sticking), store in an airtight container and take what you need for dishes throughout the week.

Five Tips on Toppings:

- Choose red, tomato-based sauces (typically lower in fat) instead of creamier, white sauces. When in doubt, check food labels or ask your waiter.
- Opt for fat-free mayo, mustard, catsup, flavored nonfat yogurts or jams on sandwiches instead of oils, regular mayo or cream cheese.
- Try lemon juice, fresh herbs, dried fruits, vegetables or fat-free chicken broth to flavor grains like pasta, couscous and bulgur.
- Sweeten unsweetened cereals with fresh fruit or flavored yogurt.
- Salsa, fruit chutneys, diced tomatoes, cilantro and jalapenos add flavor to a variety of grain-based meals, such as burritos and fajitas, without adding extra fat and calories.

Help for the Mud

In the last issue of Hoard's Dairymen, in the "Helpful Hints" section, a farmer used shredded bark to combat mud in their cow lanes. I have used the bark in human walkways and found it very effective. You can purchase shredded bark from local sawmills rather cheaply. It's a practice that could get your cows out of the mud.

We are Moving to a New Location

We will be open for business on Monday, June 9. Our new address and telephone numbers are as follows: Garrett County Extension Service, 1916 Maryland Highway, Suite A, Mtn. Our staff is looking forward to moving. There will be plenty of parking and easy access.

Crop Notes

* As of Tuesday, May 13, the average soil temperature was still too cold to plant corn. It is very risky planting corn in soils that are below 52 degrees F. Also, remember that no-till soils are slower to warm up than conventional tilled soils.

* Soil compaction could cause some problems this year. Working fields that are wet, planting when wet and hauling manure have all created compacted conditions in many fields. You can examine suspect fields with a soil probe to see if a problem exists. Soil compaction will show itself in weak plants early in the season and as stressed plants during any dry spell in the summer.

GCC Delegates Attend Session, Meet Governor

Garrett Community College students made a trip to the state capital recently when the Maryland Student Legislature (MSL) met for its eighth annual session at the State House in Annapolis.

MSL members Senator Richard McCrobie Jr. and Delegates Tiffany Rexroad and Shannon Corbin sat in their respective chambers during the session, listening to sometimes heated debate on student-pressed resolutions and bills concerning issues such as child care, home schooling, affirmative action, and student financial aid qualifications.

Delegate Rexroad wrote legislation for the session concerning a no-tolerance drug policy for Maryland colleges and universities. Her resolution came out of the Judicial Committee with a favorable vote that was overturned on the House floor; as a result, her legislation was not debated. Bills and resolutions with favorable committee votes were heard first.

Delegate Corbin wrote a resolution calling for increased computer training for elementary and secondary teachers. Her legislation was given an unfavorable vote in the Ways and Means Committee and so did not make it to the House for debate.

forts to champion higher education issues, notably the HOPE scholarship program, which failed in the General Assembly this year. Glendening also encouraged the student legislators to consider public service as a part of their professional lives. The governor, a 27-year educator, considers service a major part of his own career. He concluded his remarks and then participated in the inauguration of the MSL governor, lieutenant governor, attorney general, and secretary of state.

Following the governor's address, the GCC delegation had the opportunity to speak with him. When Gov. Glendening learned the delegation came from Garrett County, he invited the group to a reception he was holding that afternoon for Western Maryland dignitaries. The group attended the elegant affair at the Governor's Mansion before getting on the road for home. The delegation members had their photographs taken with the governor.

Maryland Student Legislature I and II are one-credit courses at GCC (Speech 270/271) offered in both fall and spring. These courses offer students the opportunity to participate in writing, debating, and passing legislation just as the actual state legislature does. For more information about MSL, persons may contact Jack DuBose at 301-387-3008.

Introducing Beltone's Comfort Circuit An exciting advance in amplification Designed to keep loud sounds comfortable...Automatically!

NOW BELTONE'S
TINIEST HEARING AID HAS EVEN MORE ADVANCED CIRCUITRY.

INVISIA

As small around as a soft contact lens

Here's how the Comfort Circuit helps solve these common complaints of hearing aid wearers:

COMPLAINT #1 "My hearing aid makes everything sound too loud."

SOLUTION #1 The Comfort Circuit is designed to automatically keep sounds within your comfort range.

COMPLAINT #2 "I always have to fiddle with the volume control."

SOLUTION #2 With the Comfort Circuit in most cases the volume is self-adjusting to your hearing needs.

COMPLAINT #3 "I turn the volume up loud so I can hear the soft voices, then suddenly I've got racket in my ears."

SOLUTION #3 Our Comfort Circuit amplifies high-pitched sounds separately from low-pitched sounds, so you get more amplification for the softer sounds you need help hearing.

THE COMFORT CIRCUIT HERE'S HOW IT WORKS!

The dual band signal processing circuit splits the input signal into two channels, one for low and one for high frequencies. Gain is then applied to each band to keep amplified sounds in a comfortable listening range.

Finally, a hearing aid designed to keep loud sounds comfortable. Automatically.

All Invited To Ribbon Cutting At Randolph Lake

Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Secretary John R. Griffin, along with U.S. Senator Paul Sarbanes, elected officials from Maryland and West Virginia, officials from the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, and the Maryland National Guard, invite the public to attend a ribbon cutting ceremony for the boat launch facility and dedication of the Captain Robert S. Opportunities For Recovery and Rehabilitation

Today's Challenge:

Dennett Road Health Services and Cuppett and Weeks Skilled Nursing and Rehabilitation Center in Oakland understand the challenge seniors face when they are trying to rebuild their lives after a major illness or sudden trauma such as a stroke or a fracture. We consider our work even more important today as governmental regulations require Medicare patients to be discharged from hospitals sooner and quicker than ever before. Some patients are simply not ready or able to go home. They require skilled nursing care as well as continued therapy.

That's when our Nursing facilities can help. It is important that you understand our expertise in geriatric rehabilitation. We are Medicare certified and offer an array of highly skilled cost-effective therapies. Our entire staff understands the critical importance of rehabilitation and restorative nursing to your ability to manage the activities of daily living.

Our Solution:

We believe the combination of our experienced therapists together with our state-of-the-art equipment motivates our residents to further their own recovery. Since each resident comes to us with a unique and personal reaction to his or her impairment, we design a care plan based on each one's limitations, stamina and abilities. We focus on what each individual can do.

Upon admission we carefully evaluate the disease or injury itself and set realistic goals and objectives for improvement of the condition. Our entire rehab team works diligently to alleviate pain, and to restore mobility and function. We consider successful rehabilitation to be a partnership. Your effort and determination; our competence and skill. If you have the will, Cuppett and Weeks Skilled Nursing and Rehabilitation Center and Dennett Road Health Services provide the way.

Pittsburgh Scottish Country Dance Society To Perform At Festival

The Pittsburgh Scottish Country Dance Society will perform during the 10th Annual McHenry Highland Festival on Saturday, June 7, at the Garrett County Fairgrounds in McHenry.

Scottish country dancing is a cousin of square dancing and contra dancing; it is a blend of Gaelic stepping with influences from the courts of Queen Elizabeth I of England and Louis XIV of France. It is performed in time to music uniquely Scottish in rhythm and was wildly popular in the second half of the 18th century at the peak of Scottish immigration to this area. This Country Dance Society was founded in 1923 to restore and preserve the tradition.

The Society has headquarters in Edinburgh, Scotland, and the patronage of Queen Elizabeth II. The Pittsburgh affiliate meets weekly at several locations for social dancing and instruction; newcomers are welcome and courses for beginners are offered regularly. Members also give demonstrations at festivals and special events throughout the year.

The Society will also conduct a workshop during the festival, conducted by Ralph Shuey, currently coordinator of instruction for the Pittsburgh Society. Shuey has passed the Preliminary Examination for Teachers given by examiners from the Royal Society in Edinburgh.

The festival will also host a ceilidh Saturday evening at 8 p.m. at Will O' the Wisp (admission $4) and a Kirkin' O' the Tartans at 9:30 a.m. Sunday, June 8, at St. John's Episcopal Church

PUBLIC NOTICE

The Board at Garrett County Commissioners and the Planning Commission will conduct a public hearing on June 3, 1997 at 7:00 p.m. in the Auditorium of Garrett Community College. The Commissioners and Planning Commission will receive public comments on a proposed new Garrett County Sensitive Areas Ordinance and a proposed new Garrett County Subdivision Ordinance, which are being recommended for adoption by the Garrett County Planning Commission. The recommended new Ordinances are being proposed in order to fulfill the recommendations made in the recently adopted Garrett County Development Plan and The Maryland Economic Growth Resource Protection and Planning Act of 1992.

The following represents a summary of the most significant contents of the Subdivision Ordinance and Sensitive Area Ordinance:

The draft Subdivision Ordinance is primarily intended to:
a) make sure there is an orderly process for the transfer of ownership of land and a disclosure of planned developments to the buying public;
b) make sure that there is proper road access to lots, especially for emergency vehicles; and
c) make sure that developments are properly engineered and constructed to avoid burdens upon the County and property owners.

Articles 1 and 2 - Administration and Definitions

These sections include administrative provisions and definitions of terms used in the Ordinance. Section 107 provides the County Planning Commission with the authority to grant modifications or exceptions to specific requirements of the Ordinance. Actions of the Planning Commission could be appealed to Circuit Court. The Subdivision Ordinance requirements would not apply to plats that were previously approved by the County Health Department. These plats would be "grandfathered," provided they are recorded within 10 years.

"Residential or agricultural lots of over 25 acres each would also generally be exempt from the subdivision Ordinance."

Article 3 - Lot Requirements

This section includes a "Land Classification Map" based upon the Comprehensive Plan Map. This map will not be used to regulate uses of land; instead, this map is only intended to be used to establish minimum lot area and lot width requirements for unincorporated areas of the County outside of the Deep Creek Watershed.

Based upon the County Comprehensive Plan, a minimum lot area of 3 acres is proposed for the "Rural Resource" and "Agricultural Resource" Areas. The draft Ordinance would also allow a one acre lot to be transferred to each son or daughter of the owner.

The majority of the County would be classified as "Rural" areas. In these areas, a minimum lot area of one acre would apply. In most other areas of the County, a minimum lot area of approximately 3/4 of an acre would apply.

In areas of the County that are not regulated by zoning, then a 20 foot set-back would apply for buildings from the right-of-way of a public road or the cartway of a private road.

Article 4 - Sketch Plat

"This article strongly encourages applicants to submit informal 'sketch' plans that can be discussed with the County before expensive detailed engineering is completed."

Article 5 - Preliminary Plat for Major Subdivisions

"This article would establish procedures for review and approval by the Planning Commission. This section also uses a 'Checklist' to list information to be submitted."

Article 6 - Final Plat for Major Subdivisions

"This article would be very similar to Article V above, except that it would require a few different types of information. State law requires that the Planning Commission approve final applications that meet the Subdivision Ordinance within 30 days after submittal."

Article 7 - Minor Subdivisions and Lot Line Adjustments

"This article provides a simplified process for 'minor subdivisions.' Only a final plat would be required, instead of both a preliminary and a final plat."

Article 8 - Improvement Guarantees

"As provided under State law, the County would either require a developer to: a) construct all roads and other necessary improvements prior to receiving final approval, or b) provide financial security to guarantee to the County that the roads and other improvements will be completed in a timely manner."

Article 9 - Recording

"This article would require that the applicant have an approved plat recorded at the Courthouse. A simplified process is established for recording of a single lot. An applicant would be allowed the option of recording a plat in sections, provided that all portions are recorded within 20 years."

Article 10 - Design Standards and Required Improvements

"This article provides standards for road layout and road construction. The intent is that major new private roads include a 6 inch deep stone road base, 50 foot wide right-of-way width and appropriate drainage. These standards are intended to make it possible for homeowners, if they desire in the future, to upgrade the road at a modest expense so that the road could be considered for acceptance and maintenance by the County."

"The following minimum widths would apply for a new or extended private road:

-Serving 3 to 5 homes: 12 feet
-Serving 6 to 19 homes: 18 feet plus 1 foot shoulders
-Serving 20 to 49 homes: 18 feet plus 2 feet wide shoulders
-Serving 50 or more homes: meeting County requirements for a public road."

Article 11 - Mobile/Manufactured Home Parks

"This article includes standards for mobile/manufactured home parks."

SENSITIVE AREAS: The draft "Sensitive Areas Ordinance" was prepared to bring Garrett County into compliance with the State Economic Growth, Resource Protection and Planning Act of 1992. This Ordinance would also assist in carrying out the County's Comprehensive Plan. This Ordinance would mainly address protection of very steep slopes and stream buffers.

"Steep Slopes": This draft Ordinance would not regulate development on slopes of less than 30 percent. If a building would be proposed on slopes over 30 percent, then a 4 acre minimum lot area would be required. The 4 acre minimum would generally not apply for an existing "lot of record" or a lot that is "grandfathered" because it was previously approved by the County Health Department.

"Stream buffers" would be established along perennial waterways. A minimum buffer width of 25 feet would apply from the banks of a waterway in a "Growth" area, as shown on the County Comprehensive Plan and the Land Classification Map. This width would be increased to 50 feet outside of Growth areas. Within these stream buffers:

a) no new building would be permitted
b) expansions of existing buildings would be limited to 1,000 square feet of land area; and
c) most new paving or stone surfaces would be prohibited, except necessary perpendicular crossings.

"Floodplains" are already managed by the existing Floodplain Management Ordinance.

"Habitats for Rare, Threatened or Endangered Species" - There are two known sites of habitats of Federal Rare Threatened or Endangered Species, one of which is on Federally owned land. Within those areas, permits would not be issued until the Fish and Wildlife Service has approved a mitigation plan. Within sites designated by the State as Rare, Threatened or Endangered Species habitats, the developer would be advised to notify the Maryland Department of Natural Resources of a development application.

Copies of the draft Subdivision Ordinance and Sensitive Area Ordinance are available in the Planning Office and any questions should be directed to the same at 301-334-1920.

SOS - The work done by the committee Save Our Station (SOS) to rescue, restore, and revitalize the 1884 B&O Railroad Station in Oakland may be paying off in the near future. As groups and individuals within the community work together on this project, the purchase of the station may soon be a reality. Some of those who have spearheaded the efforts on behalf of the landmark are

CSX, Oakland Reach Deal On B&O Station

Oakland Mayor Asa McCain announced that the Town of Oakland, in coordination with the Greater Oakland Business Association (GOBA) and its Save Oakland Station Committee (SOS), has reached a verbal agreement with CSX to purchase the Oakland station. "This is a fair deal that will once again place the Oakland Railroad Station as the cornerstone of the town," McCain said.

Many people have been involved in this effort to obtain the historic building and start on the restoration. U.S. Senator Paul Sarbanes has supported the acquisition and has spoken favorably to CSX, the Maryland Historic Trust, and other agencies.

Sarbanes is interested in heritage tourism and understands the historical significance of the Oakland station. "The acquisition of this station -- one of the finest examples of Victorian railroad architecture still in existence -- will not only preserve the station as a museum and visitors center, but also serve as the linchpin in the downtown Oakland redevelopment effort," Sarbanes said.

Tim Magrath, Western Maryland representative to Sarbanes, has been an advocate and helped reach the tentative agreement with all the entities, including the Garrett County Commissioners.

Commissioners Giotfely, Braskey, and Wilt met with CSX on several occasions and have taken favorable

Maryland Boating Access Project Comes To Fruition With Ceremony

More than 20 dignitaries and nearly 200 local residents gathered Monday morning to celebrate the long-awaited ribbon cutting at the Jennings Randolph Lake boat launch site and the Maryland State Highway Administration. The DNR acquired the real property from CSX Railroad to install a crossing, and coordinated with Garrett County officials to purchase easements for an access road through West-vaco property. The initial site work was completed with cooperation from the Maryland National Guard, which helped break ground in 1992.

The Department of Natural Resources (DNR) entered into a long-term lease with the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers in 1987

GARRETT COUNTY CAMARADERIE - Despite the fact that there is a strong rivalry between Northern and Southern high schools, there are many friendships and frequent demonstrations of support among the Rams and the Huskies for each other, at least in the sport of track and field. The above photo is a perfect example of true sportsmanship, as Southern High School's Lauren Rudy holds the starting blocks for Northern's Mariah Gels in the 200-meter dash at Friday's 1A West Region championships in Williamsport. The two competed against each other in different heats of the same event. Many members of the boys' and girls' teams of both local high schools qualified for the state track and field meet, which will be held this weekend in Westminster. The Southern girls' team placed first at the regional meet. See more photos and details on the sports pages in this section.

Request For Another Finzel Vote Is Denied

Restaurant owners in Finzel lost their case last week for a new election in that district to decide the issue of the Sunday sale of alcohol. William and Gary Warn, owners of The Hen House Restaurant, have sought a new poll, since the November 1996 election defeated the referendum issue by fewer than 10 votes. Judge Gary Leasure ruled last week that while errors did occur, there was no fraud and therefore there will be no re-vote.

The Warns have maintained that some individuals voted out of their assigned districts, which was proven to be true during an investigation into the issue. Apparently, 18 voters reported to the wrong district, with some District 3 and 15 residents voting in District 9 and vice versa. But because the 18 individuals do not have to reveal how they voted, the actual outcome of the election could not be

Grants Will Pay For New Crellin Head Start, Razing Of High View

Money in the form of Community Development Block Grants (CDBG) has been awarded to the county for the construction of a new Head Start Center on the grounds of Crellin Elementary School as well as for the demolition of the troublesome High View Apartments 60-unit complex. A new 64-unit complex, "Overlook North," will replace the razed units.

The money for the Head Start building is in the amount of $250,000, and the funding for the High View project is $582,500. The Town of Oakland and the Garrett County Community Action Committee, Inc. (GCCAC), will work together to build Overlook North.

Funding for these projects and 13 others across Maryland is being provided in part by CDBGs, administered by the Maryland Department of Housing and Community Development, according to a release from the office of Governor Parris Glendening.

The release notes that the Crellin Head Start Center has been operated by Community Action on the second floor of the 100-year-old community building since 1968. The building has a variety of problems which make it inappropriate for such a program. The new center will serve 20 children.

"A partnership between the elementary school, the town, and GCCAC, along with this grant, will allow the Head Start Center to remain in town," said Duane Yoder, GCCAC executive director. "The center has been a part of the community for 30 years and is important to Crellin's vitality."

Oakland's High View housing complex has been a source of crime, as well as health and building code complaints, according to the governor's release. Overlook North will consist of 64 "affordable rental apartments," offering one, two, and three bedroom units for individuals and families who qualify.

"Overlook North is a centerpiece of Oakland's revitalization strategy," Yoder said. "This funding

Glendale Bridge Will Not Open For Weekend

Despite attempts to meet the original Glendale Bridge opening deadline of May 24, the project has fallen behind schedule mainly because of weather conditions, according to Lamont Pagenhardt, Garrett County administrative officer. The span will not open this weekend.

Safety is the main issue, Pagenhardt said, noting that the concrete parapets, or barriers, have not cured sufficiently and may not stop a careening vehicle.

The officer did note that the Garrett County Commissioners have authorized Lee Thorne, county roads director, to purchase dry quarry waste material to use for backfill. This is in exchange for wet material that would have been more difficult to use.

"This ought to save a few days," Pagenhardt said.

IA Construction, the contracting company completing the work, will be charged $2,800 per day for every day past the deadline. This was part of the original contract, which does not allow for weather, extra work, or other occurrences beyond the contractor's control.

Four Local Agencies To Receive Maryland's Star Of Life Awards

The teamwork that led to the saving of the life of a 14-year-old hunting accident victim last fall in the Friendsville area has also led to the recognition of four local groups for their contributions to the effort.

The Maryland Star Of Life has been awarded to the Friendsville Volunteer Fire Department, the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad, the Maryland State Police Medevac Helicopter Five, and Cumberland Memorial Hospital and Medical Center for their actions on October 24, 1996.

On that date, Brian Roy Custer was critically injured while hunting near his home along Glade Road near Friendsville. The Maryland State Police report says Custer was accidentally shot with a 20 gauge shotgun from about six feet away by a companion who had observed a squirrel, loaded the gun, and then turned to tell Custer of the sighting.

Friendsville firefighters were first on the scene and applied trauma dressing to the abdominal wound and maintained vital signs until the paramedic unit from Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad arrived. Northern Rescue transported Custer to Friendsville Town Park for Medevac transport. Maryland State Police Trooper 5 transported the

Grantsville Days Welcomes Additional Participants, Sponsors For June Event

The last weekend in June marks the 20th Annual Grantsville Days, a three-day homecoming event swelling the town's population from 600 residents to over 14,000 revelers enjoying the festivities at the Town Park.

The Grantsville Lions Club, overall coordinator of the weekend, recently announced several new events and several new sponsors who are helping to make the June 27 - 29 special anniversary celebration possible. Any additional groups or individuals wishing to participate in or sponsor an event are encouraged to sign up by contacting the appropriate persons listed below.

Friday, June 27
The 20th anniversary weekend kicks off the evening of Friday, June 27, with the Grantsville Days Parade, coordinated by the Grantsville Volunteer Fire Department. Trophies and cash prizes will be awarded to floats, bands, and fire trucks. Farmer's and Merchants Bank of the Cumberland area, a major contributor and sponsor of the parade, recently donated $1,000 to help make this parade "bigger and better than ever," according to parade chairman Duane Stein. Nearly 200 entries are currently scheduled to participate, and additional parade participants may obtain an application by calling Stein at 301-895-4337. Following the parade, events at the park will include the Perry Kamp Band, sponsored by Hilltop Delite, midway games sponsored by the Grantsville VFD, and a number of craft and novelty vendors. A wide assortment of foods will be available at one of the many booths sponsored by local non-profit groups, including civic organizations, church groups, scouts and others.

Friday evening's activities will wrap up with a fireworks display commencing at 10:30 p.m., sponsored by Grantsville Foodland. Saturday, June 28
Saturday's schedule commences with a Grantsville Days Breakfast served at the new Grantsville Senior Center from 8 to 11 a.m. The Lions chicken BBQ starts at 11 a.m., and then at noon the entertainment begins with a bluegrass concert, sponsored by one of this year's new sponsors, Beitzel Corporation. At 3 p.m. the A-B Jazz Combo will play, sponsored by Newman Funeral Homes and Hilltop Fruit Market. A western line dance demonstration by the Back to Country dancers of Grantsville follows at 5 p.m., sponsored by Summer's Auto Parts. The final performance of the day will be by Heart 'N Soul from 7 to 10:30 p.m. sponsored by Yoder-Hersberger Insurance, Billy Bender Chev-

FINALLY THE WORK BEGINS - After months of discussion, planning, haggling, and exchanging funds, the long-awaited work at the Shallmar Road was started this week. Congressman Roscoe Bartlett, who has been a constant champion for the project, is pictured at left as he discusses the project with the many folks in attendance. The Army Corps of Engineers named a contractor a few weeks ago -- James Manno Construction -- who has 90 days to finish the $640,000+ project. Among others working to save the only road into Shallmar will be AmeriCorps volunteers, who will spend two days next month cleaning up the damaged residential area.

QUITE A GATHERING of elected officials as well as hundreds of well-wishers gathered Monday at the Jennings Randolph Lake boat launch ribbon-cutting ceremony and scenic overlook dedication. The celebration came after nine years of planning and work to create a unique boating access area. Numerous agencies and companies have cooperated to make the recreational facility a reality. See story. Pictured left to right are Senator John Hafer, Comtroller Louis Goldstein, Congressman Roscoe Bartlett, Senator Paul Sarbanes, Delegate George Edwards, Colonel Joseph Dannenfelser (Md. National Guard), U.S. Army Corps of Engineers Colonel Randall Inouye, and Garrett County Commissioner Roger Giotfely. Just outside the photograph were Commissioners Wayne Wilt and John Braskey, among other public officials.

THE FACE OF INSPIRATION - This impish little sprite was the inspiration behind the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival's brochure design, created by local artist Mark Stutzman and included as an insert in today's issue. The curly-haired child is Kayla Louise Gibson, 3-year-old daughter of Steve and P.J. Gibson, Crofton. She was hired by Stutzman because of her pixie-like countenance, which he then incorporated in his design of seven winged sprites, dancing to the music of the flute-playing centaur Pan (who looks suspiciously like the artist himself, except for the hooves). "She was a great model," Stutzman said. "So photogenic." The artist contributed the work of art to GLAF as an "in-kind" service. Also included in the scene is a view of Deep Creek Lake and some hidden clues in a contest for season tickets. The brochure includes a complete listing of GLAF's summer season of events, sponsors, and ticket information.

Storck Named Outstanding GCC Contributor

"I am very honored and thankful for the recognition, but many people really share in this honor," said Don Storck, recipient of the award for outstanding contributions to Garrett Community College at the college commencement last week.

Storck, who is director of Information Services for GCC and project manager for the Garrett Rural Information Cooperative (GRIC), has been credited with having the vision and the technical knowledge that has placed the college in the forefront of telecommunications technology for the information age. He went on to say that this achievement would not have been possible were it not for the support of the Garrett County commissioners, members of the college's Board of Trustees, and GCC President Dr. Steve Herman, "who created an environment favorable to the college mission to help the community."

"Dr. Herman shared the vision and opened doors,"

Storck said. He also noted appreciation to Dr. Herman's staff, "who made it happen and translated the vision into reality."

In their letter to Storck notifying him of the award, chairman of the Board of Trustees Charles Bender and Dr. Herman stated, "The Board recognizes you, unflinching dedication to excellence at Garrett Community College. You have been an architect of GCC's leadership in adventure sports, and you have been visionary behind GCC's and Garrett County's advances and leadership in rural communications. You have also guided GCC to excellence in its Management Information System and in its program of institutional planning and assessment."

Storck also developed the concept of "community" for GCC, which he explains as having the college function as facilitator of educational opportunities and information for the entire community covering the full range of needs, not only for academic programs. He said he expects to see more distance learning courses coming into Garrett County as community colleges become the vehicles for delivering this mode of instruction, particularly in the rural areas of the country.

Storck has also been a leader in adventure sports programs at GCC, having served as executive director of the World Whitewater Canoe and Kayak Championships and as a founder and current executive director of the Adventure Sports Institute. He developed the plan for the use of technology in the classroom and has served as adjunct instructor of computer courses.

Before coming to GCC in 1986, Storck lived in the Washington, D.C., area, where he worked for the federal government in the Office of Personnel Management, did consulting work for federal agencies, and worked for the Computer Science Corporation.

Environmental Health Division Fees Increased

The Environmental Health Section of the Garrett County Health Department has changed its fee schedule, effective May 19, according to Steve Sherrard, director. The new fee schedule has been reviewed by the Garrett County Commissioners and approved by state officials at the Department of Environment and Department of Health and Mental Hygiene. The increase is a part of the recently approved fiscal recovery plan for the health department.

Although the fees for most services have been unchanged, the following fee increases are in place for on-site sewage disposal and food service programs:

Building lot evaluations (including percolation test), $200; sand mound evaluation, $150; septic system final inspections, $75; subdivision plat review, $30 per lot; food service plan review, $100 (new facility), $30 (remodel).

The new fees for building lot evaluations and final inspections of septic systems remain under the average when compared to other small rural counties of Maryland, Sherrard reported.

He also noted that this additional revenue will allow environmental health to remain at its current staffing level, which has been reduced by 20% since last October. Without the increase, he said, the services provided by environmental health would be greatly delayed or eliminated in some instances.

Should there be any questions regarding the new fee schedule, persons may call Environmental Health Services at 301-334-8980.

"I AM A STAR," a musical comedy, will be presented at Northern Middle School on Thursday, May 29, at 7:30 p.m. on the school's stage. Directed by Susan Bell, the play features about 20 students on stage as well as several adults behind the scenes. Bell has shipped in elaborate costumes for the various scenes in the show, and noted that the youngsters will also be performing some Shakespearean scenes within the play. "It's been quite a challenge," Bell said. "But I have loved it - these kids are great." The play is set in Moosehead, Montana, where auditions are being

Oakland Police Respond To Two Auto Accidents

An Oakland resident was injured when her vehicle struck a retaining wall earlier this week.

According to a report filed with the Oakland Police Department, Freda Bonner, 79, was in a parking lot on Third Street May 20 at 3:35 p.m., when the vehicle she was in, a 1993 Buick, ran into the retaining wall.

She was transported to Sacred Heart Hospital for treatment. She was not injured in the mishap.

On Wednesday, May 21, Susanne Kight, 35, Oakland, was traveling eastbound on Alder Street at 12:45 p.m. She was turning onto Third Street at a green traffic signal when she was struck by another vehicle.

William Redman, 69, was traveling southbound on Third Street at the time. He neglected to stop at the red signal, the police report, and collided with the Kight vehicle.

Kight was transported to Garrett Memorial Hospital, where she was treated and released. Two children who were passengers in the

Kight vehicle were reportedly not injured nor was Redman or his passenger.

Redman was charged with failing to stop at a red signal, fined $125 and given three points on his license.

DWI
Donald Lee Clark Jr., 25, was arrested by Oakland Police on May 17 and charged with driving while intoxicated and failure to drive right of the center of the road, according to the police report.

At approximately 11:40 p.m. Clark was observed by police to cross the center line while driving eastbound on Oak Street. The report stated that after he nearly hit a parked vehicle, he swerved back onto the road, driving on the center line. Clark then proceeded to cross the line and reportedly to drive on the left side of the road.

Clark failed the field sobriety test and was arrested. He was later released on his own recognizance.

Southern Rescue Squad To Hold Open House

The Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad will host an open house of its facility, located in Oakland on Oak Street near the intersection of Third and Oak. The event will take place on Saturday, May 24, 1-5 p.m.

The purpose of the open house is to help promote community awareness, according to a rescue squad spokesperson. Refreshments will be served and persons may have their blood pressures taken.

The ambulances and the squad facility will be open for touring and personnel will be on hand to answer questions. The public is invited to the event.

Penalty System For Building Code Violations Noted

When the Garrett County Office of Building Permits and Inspections (OBPI) begins operations on August 1, one of the building officials' more difficult responsibilities, according to a spokesperson for the county planning office, will be gaining compliance with the code by builders and/or owners as well as rectifying code violations, should they occur.

Such violations might be as basic as building without a permit or could range to a major violation of the building construction standards, established by the BOCA (Building Officials Codes Administration) Code, and/or the CABO (Council of American Building Officials) One and Two Family Dwelling Code. In the event of an uncorrected violation or more serious infraction, building officials may be forced to resort to legal action which could result in the assessment of penalties to the violator by a court of law in the form of fines and/or incarceration.

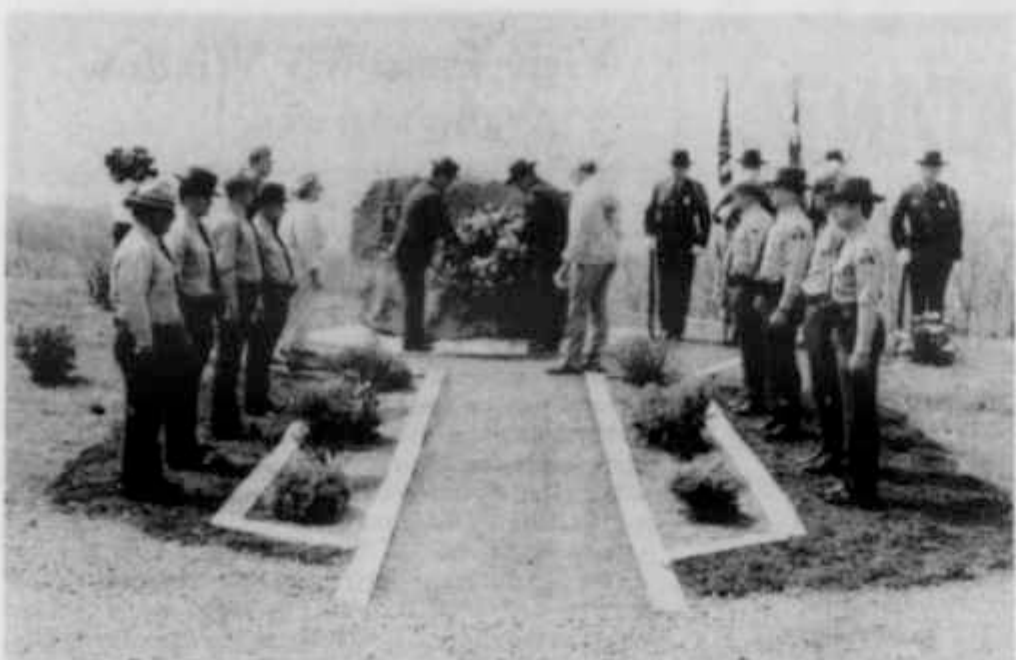

However, in the determination and adjudging of penalties, local residents should note three points, the spokesperson said. First, before the building code is enacted into law, the Garrett County Commissioners will hold a public hearing and provide a period of time for additional public comment on the issue. After the hearing, fines and penalties will be determined. The policies to be adopted are intended to be fair to the public while also acting as a deterrent to those who might deliberately ignore or violate the building codes, the spokesperson explained.

Second, the building officials' primary task will be to get code violations resolved amicably, without referring the cases to law enforcement officials.

Third, the penalties are directed at those who refuse to correct violations once cited or who may be persistent repeat offenders.

"Experience has shown that good building contractors rarely have unresolved building code violations," said Sheldon Dearden, building codes consultant to the planning office. "Problems are more apt to arise from inexperienced and/or unlicensed contractors who may not understand the building standards set by the codes or who simply ignore the codes to ensure a larger profit at the expense of safety and quality."

Primary code enforcement efforts will most likely be directed at ensuring that all persons desiring to build obtain a valid building permit, Dearden stated. This will enhance public safety by ensuring that the work will be inspected and that it meets the building construction standards.

MEMORIAL HONORS THE LATE CAPTAIN ROBERT S. BROWN - The Captain Robert S. Brown Scenic Memorial Overlook was dedicated Monday as part of ceremonies at the Jennings Randolph Lake in Bloomington. A native of Kitzmiller, Brown was a U.S. Army veteran of World War II. He later served as the district game warden for the Maryland Game and Inland Fish Commission until 1952, when he became the game warden in Garrett County until 1967. In that year he was promoted to captain of the Maryland Natural Resources Police, serving in that capacity until his 1980 retirement. In addition to serving the state for 32 years, Captain Brown was also a member of the Maryland National Guard in Oakland from 1956 until 1968. The plaque dedicated Monday reads in part: "A Maryland conservation law enforcement officer for 32 years who has left behind a legacy of loyalty, love, and dedication to Maryland's natural resources." Numerous elected officials and DNR personnel were present for the ceremony, as were Brown's wife of 43 years, Joy Rae (O'Donnell) Brown, and their son Robert.

In the event of the determination of a code violation, the builder will be notified in writing of the violation, the required corrective action, and the time period allowed for correction. If the violation persists after the prescribed deadline, the building official may issue a "stop work order" for any or all work on the site except for the work necessary to correct the violation. If the correction is not completed in a timely manner, legal action may be sought.

Short of legal action, the building official may deny and/or revoke building permits or deny the U&O (use and occupancy) permits for other projects the violator may have in progress. Instituting legal action will essentially be a last resort, Dearden said.

Finally, in light of an extraordinarily serious violation, such as something creating a safety hazard or endangerment to human life, the building official might, without notice, issue a stop work order, suspend or revoke any permits, inspections or U&O permits, or seek legal action for an injunction.

The Garrett County OBPI is being established in order to comply with the Maryland Building Performance Standards Act, which requires the county to adopt a county-wide building permit and inspection system to be effective Aug. 1 of this year.

River Cleanup Described As The "Best Ever"

The 1997 Youghiogheny River and Bear Creek cleanup, held May 16, was "a spectacular success," according to coordinator Jess Whittemore. Initially, Whittemore believed that low water might keep people from participating, but he said this year's turnout was the best ever, with at least 25 participants on the Upper Yough and Bear Creek.

Some 144 cubic feet of trash with an estimated weight of 1,000 pounds was picked up this year out of the Upper Yough river, and 135 cubic feet weighing about the same was picked up from Bear Creek. Since 1993, Whittemore estimates between three and four tons of trash have been picked up out of the Upper Yough.

This was the first year river cleanup included Bear Creek below its confluence with Little Bear Creek. Jessica Hunter and Kris Mitchell, owners of Bear Creek Supply in Friendsville, headed up a group of young fishers, who also cleaned the banks of the Yough from Friendsville to Yough Lake as part of this year's effort.

Especially good news is that the Town of Friendsville was able to arrange to keep about half of the trash volume (and most of the weight) out of our county landfill," Whittemore said.

Bates Tire and Auto Salvage of Markleysburg picked up metal and tires for recycling. Dave Baker and others of the MD DNR picked up trash at different places along the Youghiogheny. Again this year, Rodney Giotfelty, director of the county landfill, accepted the refuse at no cost to participants in the cleanup. Giotfelty did ask that it be noted there are still first offense criminal penalties for disposing of trash of any kind in or near to rivers.

Organizers and participants extended their appreciation to Robert Lohr Distributors and Friendsville Discount Liquors for providing cold beverages to volunteers for the fifth year. "America Outdoors, Mountain Surf, and the Town Council of Friendsville thank each one of the many private boaters, the professional guides from White-water Adventurers and Wilderness Voyagers of Ohio, Pa., and the young fishers for making this the best river cleanup so far," said Whittemore, who is a member of the Town Council.

MacLane Named MSP Barrack W Trooper Of Year

Maryland State Police, Barrack W, McHenry, recently named Alan Scott MacLane as Trooper of the Year.

MacLane's record of accomplishments was noted by Lieutenant F. Ray Milburn, commander, Barrack W. He said that MacLane has shown attention to detail in handling his criminal cases. "Trooper 1st Class MacLane demonstrates a strong ability to identify, analyze and solve each and every problem associated with criminal investigations," he said.

This is the second time the MacLane has been honored with this title. In 1983 while serving at the Prince Frederick Barrack, he was also named Trooper of the Year, and in 1986 he was nominated Law Enforcement Officer of the Year by the Optimist Club of Calvert County.

Major Frank Moran, Maryland State Police re-

HONORED FOR ACHIEVEMENTS - Maryland State Police, Barrack W, McHenry, recently selected the Trooper of the Year. The award went to Tpr. 1st Class Alan Scott MacLane. Praised for his efforts and accomplishments, MacLane was presented with a plaque and a ribbon to wear on his uniform distinguishing him as a recipient of this honor. On hand for the presentation of the award and pictured here are, left to right, 1st Sgt. Daniel Stanton, Lt. F. Ray Milburn, Tpr. 1st Class MacLane, and Maj. gional commander, has worked with MacLane at the Prince Frederick Barrack, and said he recognized the quality of work performed by MacLane. Referring to his closure rate on cases as far above the national average, Moran said, "His closure rate is on a par with what we'd expect of a trained criminal investigator."

Trooper MacLane is temporarily assigned to training personnel for conversion from nine millimeter to .40 caliber weapons. He has also been nominated as the Baltimore Sun's Police Officer of the Year.

Reserve Fund Is Established By Commissioners

A reserve fund for contingency and emergency situations was established by the Garrett County Board of Commissioners last week. The fund was established on the advice and recommendation of various bond rating agencies, according to Lamont Pagenhardt, county administrative officer.

The fund will ensure that money will be available for contingencies and emergencies, as and when they may occur, requiring the expenditure of public funds in the county. The fund balance will be maintained at a minimum level equal to five percent of the county's budgeted general fund expenditures in each fiscal year.

If the reserve fund is depleted to less than two percent of the budgeted general fund, it is to be replenished back to five percent within five years.

Conditions considered "emergency" or "contingency" will be within the sole discretion of the commissioners.

Scapegoat in the Making?..

The daily newspapers and television media waves are filled this week with the story of 1st Lt. Kelly Flinn, who has been charged by the U.S. Air Force with adultery, disobedience, fraternization, and lying to investigators. To simplify things a bit, she had an affair with a married man and then lied when questioned about it.

First of all, we want to make clear that we do not condone adultery in any form, and it's sad that so many in our society are guilty of it and don't seem to have major regrets. The sanctity of the marriage relationship, which is supposed to be among the most solemn vows any couple can make, has been reduced to garbage. Infidelity has been accepted by so many as the norm.

On the other hand, we believe that Ms. Flinn is being made the scapegoat for a crime that has gone on in the military for decades and, to date, has virtually been ignored. At least we can think of no other case when an armed services personnel was tried for adultery. Perhaps there have been some, but since the accused were of the male gender, there was little or no press coverage.

With all of her faults, Lt. Flinn must still be a highly competent, remarkable person. Despite being female in a previously all-male "club," she worked hard and rose through the ranks to become our first B-52 bomber pilot. Some may say that because she is female she received special favors or attention which helped her attain that goal, but we say, either she can fly the aircraft or she can't. Judging from all we have read, she can fly the aircraft with the best of them.

Yes, she made some significant mistakes and certainly should have to pay some price for them; however, we do not believe that nine years in prison, which is the possible punishment for her offenses, is anywhere near justifiable. And we can't help but believe that there are a number of male higher-ups in the Air Force, livid to begin with that women have been allowed into their fold, who are pushing this issue for all it's worth. All the while we are apparently expected to believe that there are no male pilots who have been guilty of adultery, a notion that is truly laughable.

While a request for an honorable discharge may be asking a bit much, we sincerely hope that the life of Lt. Flinn is not totally destroyed for the wrong reasons.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

History tells us that in the spring of 1863, the women of Columbus, Mississippi, went to the community cemetery to decorate the graves of the Confederate war dead. They later returned with flowers to place upon the Union graves that were unattended in a gesture that offered the promise of reconciliation for a deeply divided nation.

On May 5, 1868, Major General John A. Logan, commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, acted to formalize the observance throughout the country. With a General Order No. 11, he called for a special day of remembrance, with a hope that it would be kept up from year to year, while a survivor of the war remains to honor the memory of his departed comrades.

Their widows and orphans, as well as the veterans' organizations, will not be forgotten. Memorial Day is in remembrance of those who paid the supreme sacrifice.

To the Editor:

I would like to start this letter with a statement my parents taught me, and their parents before... "Nothing in this world is FREE." The fact that you believe this, and that Honeywell will give Southern High School $60,000.00 worth of equipment with little strings attached, is unbelievable! Remembering the TV commercial quote "A mind is a terrible thing to waste," the Honeywell controversy seems to put a new spin on that phrase "A mind is a great thing to control."

The structure of Channel 1 and the commitment from Honeywell sound wonderful, but what happens five years from now? Will the mandatory time watching Channel 1 be 30 minutes? Ten years from now, maybe all day! All levels of education starting with kindergarten or even day care would require this mandatory commitment from Honeywell. Understanding that software for our computers changes every day, how would the schools pay for updates on their equipment more mandatory time watching the scheduled programming? Editor, we must be aware of those bearing gifts, giving away $60,000 free, the gimmicks and the scams!

My daughter is 4 years old and already knows you do not litter. In fact, she helps recycle our trash. She knows that in order for her rewards (a new doll or desired toy), she must earn it. Her jobs are to listen to Mommy and Daddy, be nice to the dog, and pick up her toys. She knows if she does not eat her dinner, she does not get dessert. Simple rules and jobs, but she understands and obeys them... and she is only 4. I do not believe 10th, 11th, and 12th graders need to be told or taught not to litter.

When I was in school I learned and enjoyed watching the news, because my teacher made it interesting to watch the news. Each student was assigned a different segment of the news to cover (current events, the weather, world news, etc.), and the next day we would round table and discuss the issues we watched. I think it is insult-

The Curve Balls Of Life
(or Alex's Fish Tank Odyssey)
by Mary Sincell McEwen

"I came here to get fish food."

That was my thought as I leaned wearily against the grocery cart and stared at the pile of things I was about to buy. What an amazing pile -- I had come into the place for a three-inch-high can of fish food, but it now lay hidden by the mass of mac' and cheese boxes, bananas, three gallons of milk, diapers, pull-ups, pediatric decongestant (I should buy stock in that company), frozen juice, cat food, baggies, a new toothbrush for Michael (he stirred the cat's water with his), bread, the peanut butter Rob likes, chocolate for John (he's an addict), and, oh yeah, some fruit gummies to help in the continuing potty training saga of the middle boy.

Counting up my items to see if I could possibly have fewer than 10 -- which I didn't -- I was struck by the literal explosion of events that had followed one small action by one small boy. Life is that way now -- one small thing always leads to bigger events, mainly because those small things are perpetrated by one of three small males in my household.

Intent on icing sweet rolls in the kitchen a few Saturdays ago, I overheard Alexander Eli, my 2-year-old, having a conversation with the fish. He was saying something about breakfast, or "bekfuth." I smiled to myself, assuming he was discussing the loving care with which I iced his sweet rolls, after having lovingly popped them out of a can and thrown them in the oven. What a sweetheart he is anyway. Blond curls, huge blue eyes, a distinct 2-year-old's lisp. He wandered into the kitchen and grinned up at me.

"I feeded da fitheth," he said proudly. The circuitry in my brain took a second to complete all the connections. I dropped the roll, let out a stifled screech, and ran to the 20-gallon fish tank. A veritable cloud of flaked fish food filled the entire thing. I couldn't even see the fish. The brand new can was on its side, empty.

"Oh, Alex!" I yelled.

"I feeded da fitheth," he said again, just in case I didn't understand that he was the one who had so generously provided the six fish with such an extravagant banquet. I began to assess that damage, after informing the boy that he was never, ever, ever to get close to the fish tank ever, ever, ever again (for the 89th time at least -- it was just a few months ago that I had been out of the room for 10 minutes and came back to find on fewer than three video ing to think 10th, 11th, and 12th graders do not understand adult news. The fact is 10th, 11th, and 12th graders do have other things on their minds...like the bottom half of those Levi jeans Jane and John Doe are wearing!

I have personally taken great steps not to make the TV a baby-sitter for my daughter. Some days it is real tempting to plop her down in front of the TV, so I can clean the house or finish the mounds of laundry...but I don't, and I certainly do not want the schools doing this.

In closing, my daughter's mind, body and soul are NOT for sale! Especially to a sweet talking Corporate Business, who is promising the world FREE OF CHARGE!

To the Editor:

It grieves me that the Garrett County Board of Education has again sacrificed a great potential for our community's students due to their inept refusal to look towards the future for our students and to give them every advantage to prepare for that future.

We stand on the cusp of educational potential as we've never known it with the clear advantages which technology and telecommunication offer to enhance the education of our students. I know this potential well, as I am currently finishing master's level research and am soon to start Ph.D. level research in technology and telecommunication in education. However, the Board of Education, in its ill-considered wisdom, has once again elected to knock our students back, as you aptly put it in your editorial, into the dark ages with their inexplicable decision to vote down the Channel 1 program.

Mr. Raley's comment (ironically enough, based on research he performed on the Internet) clearly shows the Board of Education's narrow and inconsiderate concern-improving test scores. One would think that with all of the high-level research Mr. Raley has performed in order to defeat such exciting initiatives, he would have learned by now that standardized testing has long been debunked as an accurate means of assessing a student's knowledge and skills. Standardized testing merely reflects a student's level of comfort in speaking the discourse of the academy and says nothing about his or her real-world skills and knowledge.

Most other school districts in the nation realize that the school's function is both to prepare students academically and to prepare students to become responsible and productive members of the community.

Would Mr. Raley and the rest of the Board of Education please explain to us how sheltering students from 10 minutes of news will help them to become more responsible and productive members of the community? Or is it that what goes on outside of our county should be of no concern to our students?

Additionally, Mr. Hollingsworth's and Mrs. Dominick's statements clearly show the vacuity with which they had considered the program, and exposes their agenda as well -- that they are less concerned with improving the student's education and more concerned with promoting their illusory perceptions of themselves as some sort of social guardians.

The last thing our students need is more television? No, Mrs. Dominick, the last thing our students need is to be sheltered from the world and forced to pretend that it doesn't exist. The last thing our students need is to be led to believe that the world is without problems and all of life is a fragrant Garrett County meadow. The last thing our students need is to be led to believe that they need not concern themselves with problems outside of that meadow. The last thing our students need is to be led to believe that if they don't watch the news the world's problems will go away. And I ask them all: whose morals are going to become bankrupt by watching two minutes of commercial sponsorship, especially considering that the majority of them are geared towards making students more socially responsible?

As an alumnus of Southern High School and as a part-time educator in Garrett County, I am constantly aware of the frustrations which graduates of our school system experience when they realize (as I had) that the regressive educational structure our school system gave them had to be overcome in order to excel or be competitive in higher education or the work force. I had to spend years of my higher education sitting through the ashes of this legacy of close-mindedness, backwards-looking ideals, and social naivete which the county's school system had taught me. It was only after years of sorting through it that I could begin to excel or be competitive.

I thank God that my parents and a few teachers tapes floating in there and Alex grinning like the Cheshire cat. I saw that the two filters were packed with food, the floor was littered with it, the water was a murky soup, the frozen fish were about to founder -- there was just no choice. I was going to have to clean the entire thing out. I had made plans to finish up the laundry and maybe poke around in the dirt outside for awhile -- these dreams simply circled the drain for a moment and disappeared.

So it began. The siphoning of that stinking water and the chasing of the six frantic fish all over the tank. Alex and 17-month-old Michael stood at my elbows, using the tops of my feet as bleachers, and lavishing me with their offers of assistance. When I declined to accept their help, Michael initiated a game of Catch the Fishy with his chubby paws while Alex bargained me with questions: "What's that, Mom?" "It's a siphoning hose, Alex." "Oh." "What's that, Mom?" "It's a siphoning hose." "Oh. Why are ya doin' dat, Mom? Mommy?" "What?" "It's that a hothe!" Needless to say, the operation was halted for a time and not resumed until the two elves were napping.

I caught the hapless beta, neons, and the big silver dollar fish and plopped them into a standby tank. I don't think they were getting the gag at all. John kept looking at me and tsk-ing. I finally asked him if I was doing something wrong or what (in that particular tone of voice we women can muster when we're being smirked at by our husbands), and he said, "No, I'm just glad I'm not the one cleaning that thing out. I hate that stench." Five-year-old Robert, a somewhat fastidious kid, seemed to agree. He steered clear of the entire operation, sitting across the room holding his nose.

About halfway through the job, tired, disgusted, and soaked from water trickling up to my armpits every time I lifted the bucket, I almost acted on John's snide suggestion that I pick up the entire mess and toss it in the back yard, giving the birds an unexpected tropical fish brunch. But then the beta unfurled his red plumes and the neons flashed past and I was instantly mortified for even thinking about it. No, thanks to Alex, I was going to have to finish this mess he started. I did realize, of course, it was truly thanks to me, because I was the one who left the little food in harm's way -- on top of the tank where his fish hands could reach it. Needless to say, the can is now kept on a shelf that six-foot John has to use a ladder to reach. And I have to admit, the tank looks a lot better now that it has been properly cleaned for the first time in about two years.

The only real regret was the loss of the big silver fish. He was the skittish sort anyway, even in the calmest of times, and the upheaval sent him reeling. He went belly up, motionless on the top of the water like a floating silver coin. He was properly mourned, though -- I really felt sorry about it. And Robert grieved in the way of all 5-year-olds: stared at the fish carcass lying on the ground and poked it gently with a stick. "Cool," he murmured.

As the weekend came to a close, the laundry lay untouched in the basement and the flowerbeds-to-be were still "to be." But, the fish tank was sparkling. And wow, did I ever catch up on the groceries. Funny how things turn out.

DOING THE RIGHT THING

We have trash pick-up in our neck of the woods. Each Tuesday morning two trucks make their appointed rounds. Every Tuesday the pure trash truck comes. Then on alternating Tuesdays the second truck comes either for paper to be recycled or plastic, metal, and glass to be recycled.

Payment for the service is all loaded on the pure trash. In theory, pick-up for recycling is free. I say "in theory" because there is no free lunch. Somebody always pays somehow, and that somebody is usually "you." In fact, the cost of picking up the recycling is built into the announced cost of picking up the pure trash.

Our house is down a 700-foot lane, so I do not see much of the traffic on our road. I take the trash up the lane between 6:30 and 7 a.m. I go back up the lane at about 8 a.m. with my son to wait for the school bus. The other week I noticed a strange thing. Our bags of recycling had given birth in the intervening time.

There weren't quite twice as many as there had been an hour before, but almost. The bags were also very empty in personality, most of the contents being empty Michelob beer bottles with a few wine bottles besides.

When I got back to the house I called our trash service company (the best in the world, by the way). I told them what had happened, and asked what could be done about it. The story was not a new one to the fellow on the phone.

"When people don't want to pay for us to pick up their trash, they drop it off at somebody else's house. The odd thing," he continued, "is that they want to do the right thing by recycling even if it means getting a service they aren't paying for. If their consciences lead them to recycle, why don't their consciences also lead them to pay for the service?"

He had stated the moral question well. He also pointed to an endemic failing among Americans, perhaps among people everywhere: they want to do the right thing as long as it does not cost them anything (or, at least, not much).

I am imagining someone on my road (and since there are not a lot of homes on my road, I have a candidate or two in mind) filling up the blue bags with his beer bottles (I note, too, Michelob is not a cut-rate beer, rather, one of the premium brews), and getting warm fuzzies from the virtuous act of recycling.

Meanwhile the demon of greed is also busy at work (he's broke, after all, from having bought such expensive beer) trying to figure out a way to get rid of his trash for free. I also wonder how he gets rid of his pure trash. Does he commingle it with some other neighbor's?

We live and we learn. One of the things we learn, however, is that doing the right thing will cost us something. We maneuver and finagle to get things turned around so that we can feel virtuous without having to pay the price that real virtue demands.

There are other possibilities. One is to be honestly unvirtuous. That entails admitting that 1) I know the right thing to do, 2) I know what it costs to do the right thing, and 3) that the price is more than I am prepared to pay. I do not remember knowing anyone who was honestly unvirtuous.

The second possibility is to acknowledge the price of virtue and to make a commitment to pay that price. True virtue is never cheap; it always requires sacrifice. That goes even for the holiest of human acts, like putting out the trash.

at Southern High were not as closed-minded as the Board of Education and that they showed progressive encouragement and commitment to my education, unlike Mr. Hollingsworth or Mrs. Dominick or the rest of the Board of Education (Mr. Durst graciously excluded), who seem only committed to themselves and their own personal and political agendas.

Sincerely,

Scott Kapel

To the Editor:

The purpose of this letter is to address the rumors concerning the teen dances held by Moonlight Audio at the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department. We at Moonlight Audio want parents to know that, although we are in no way associated with "Z and Company," their children will still be in a safe environment at any dances held by us.

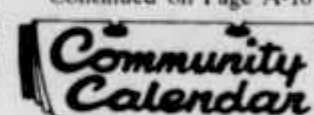

Moonlight Audio is a small company based in Morgantown, W.Va., which I began to help finance my education at West Virginia University. We decided to begin sponsoring teen dances in Oakland after meeting several area teens while doing a show at Par-Matt Lanes. Our company has no intention of trying to compete with Mr. Z, but rather to provide teens with something to do more often than Mr. Z holds dances. The whole idea to sponsor events for teens came after speaking with friends working in juvenile corrections who have been dealing with an increasing number of teens from smaller towns like Oakland. More often than not, the teens' justification for getting in trouble was just that there was nothing to do.

Our rules in general are not hard to follow. Upon the suggestion of Mr. Zimmerman, whom I spoke with before knowledge of his letter to the editor last week, we have adopted a sign-in sheet which includes name, age, school, home phone number, time in, and time out. I will also start providing literature with information for teens about drug and alcohol addiction, teen pregnancy, peer pressure, teen suicide, and AIDS/HIV infection.

As for our other rules, fighting or the possession of drugs or alcohol will result in immediate removal from the dance and a phone call to parents. Teens are expected to behave in a respectful manner. Those who present recurring problems (as of yet, there have been

Music At Penn Alps Series Enters Fifth Season; Program Is Released

The 1997 season of Music at Penn Alps has been announced by Fred Bolton, music coordinator. This is the fifth season for the series, which offers Saturday evening concerts from May through August in the Great Hall of Penn Alps in Grantsville.

This year's festival will include a number of programs of classical music, featuring both instrumental and vocal performances, as well as several evenings of lighter fare, Bolton said, such as traditional Celtic music, pops, and show tunes.

The series will open on May 31 with The Unfortunate Rakes, a Celtic group from Winchester, Va., and soprano Amy Hartle of the Light Opera Academy will appear on June 7 offering an evening of music from Mozart to Gershwin.

Harpist Christine Mazza, accompanied by seven harpists from the Morgantown Harp Ensemble, will perform on June 14, and the June 21 concert will feature the talents of Venezuelan-born pianist Carlos Cesar Rodriguez presenting music from Central and South America. Because of Grantsville Days, June 28 is an open date, Bolton said.

July concerts will include the Duo Concertante, a women's flute and guitar duo from Austria, on July 5, and the M Street Bass Quintet, a Maryland folk, pop, and classical group, on July 12.

Gene Galvin, bass/baritone from Frostburg State University, will perform on July 19, presenting arias and show tunes, and on July 26, Julie Adams and Colleen Anderson will present a program of "thoughtful lyrics and sultry, soaring melodies, combined with the wit of an honest storyteller."

All four August concerts will be devoted to the Windmere Ensemble, with individual members performing as well as the entire group. Clarinetist David Drosinos will perform classical pieces and Greek folk songs on August 2, and Julius Wirth will offer a viola program on August 9. Principal violinist José Cueto will present music of Beethoven, Ravel, and others on August 16.

To close the series, the Windmere Ensemble will perform on August 23, presenting two chamber music works -- the Mozart clarinet quintet and the piano quintet of Johannes Brahms -- featuring Nancy Roldan of the Peabody Conservatory faculty as pianist.

Music at Penn Alps concerts are held on Saturdays at 7:30 p.m. in the Great Hall, which is adjacent to the Spruce Forest Artisan Village on Alternate Rt. 40. Tickets are $8 for adults, $5 for students 13 and older, and free for children under 12. Five and 10 concert subscriptions are $35 for five and $60 for 10. They are available at the door or by calling Trish Morgan, Spruce Forest Artisan Village coordinator, at 301-895-3332.

Refosco Speaking At Oakland Observance

Art Refosco, former principal of Southern High School, will be the featured speaker at the Memorial Day observance at the Oakland cemetery sponsored by Oakland American Legion Post 71. Prior to Refosco's tribute to our fallen veterans, there will be a parade through downtown Oakland commencing at 10 a.m., ending at the cemetery, where Refosco is scheduled to speak at 11 a.m.

Principal of Southern High from 1984 to 1996, Refosco is a six-year veteran of the regular Army and the Army reserves, serving from 1957 to 1963. He received a bachelor's degree in education from Concord College in 1965, a master's degree in education from Salisbury State University in 1971, and concluded additional studies at West Virginia University in 1981.

Refosco was the principal of Southern High from 1984 to 1996, and presently is the director of transportation for the Garrett County Board of Education. He resides in Oakland with his wife Kathi, and is the father of Angie Bosley, Tony Refosco and Joe Refosco, all of Oakland.

Child Safety Seat Check Set For Saturday

A child safety seat check will be held in the Treasure Island parking lot this Saturday, May 24, from 9 a.m. to noon as one of the activities being held across the state in recognition of National Emergency Medical Service Week, May 18-24.

"Child safety seat checks help answer parents' question and correct problems with usage," said Diane Lee, director of highway safety at Garrett County Health Department. "Statistics show that up to 90% of car seats are not used correctly."

"Local personnel who recently attended a training on child safety seats will check the car seat for installation problems, and show parents how to make corrections to keep their child as safe as possible," Lee said.

Fire and rescue equipment will be on display and the Maryland State Police Medevac Helicopter will arrive at about 11 a.m.

"This joint project between agencies demonstrates what the EMS system is all about, working together for the benefit of the whole community," said Dave Ramsey, Maryland Institute for Emergency Medical Services Systems Region 1 administrator and coordinator of the project.

The child safety seat check is being sponsored by Region 1 EMS, Midas, the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department, Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad, Garrett County Health Department, and Maryland Kids In Safety Seats. Locking clips were donated by Shaffer Ford and Diehl's Ford.

GLIMPSE OF THE PAST? Not really, although quite a few glimpses of the past can be observed at the new Garrett County Historical Society Museum, which opened Sunday with an open house event. Hundreds of people came to tour the new site, which is located along Second Street in Oakland in the Professional Building. Several donations were made by those attending to help offset the costs of the move and to support the important work of preserving Garrett County history. The museum is open from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m., Monday through Friday. An expansion of the hours is being planned, according to a spokesperson.

He was a retired truck driver, welder, and mechanic. He was a U.S. Air Force veteran of the Korean Conflict, and a member of Proctor Kildow American Legion Post 71, Oakland.

Military honors were accorded at the cemetery by members of the various veterans organizations in southern Garrett County.

S.A.L.T. Warns Of Robbery Through Telephone Scams

A group of people gathered recently to hear information about telephone scams that rob older citizens of their savings. The informal forum was presented by members of the organization Seniors and Law Enforcement Together (S.A.L.T.) at the Grantsville Senior Center.

Bill Heise, chairman of the Garrett County branch of this national organization, caught the attention of the group when he held up a phone in one hand and a sheathed pistol in the other. "Both of these can be used as weapons against you in a robbery," he warned. "The only difference," he pointed out, "is that the phone can't kill you."

One topic touched on by Heise and affirmed by some of those present was the focus on elderly citizens in phone scams. "Our generation is polite," he said. "This sense of good manners bred into many older people makes it difficult for them to say no to telephone solicitations," he explained. "They don't want to be rude," he added.

Det. Pat Kelly of the Garrett County Sheriff's Office, county coordinator of S.A.L.T., agreed that elderly are clearly targeted by the scam artists. "They look through newspapers to learn who has been recently widowed because they know that these people will be more vulnerable," he said. "These are not nice people who are doing this," he emphasized.

Heise described a letter

SENIORS BEWARE - The Seniors and Law Enforcement Together (S.A.L.T.) organization warns older citizens about telephone scams that target the elderly. Learning to say no and be firm is a lesson that many must learn in order to protect themselves from scam artists who use a phone rather than a gun to rob the elderly. This was the message brought by Bill Heise, chairman of the Garrett County branch of S.A.L.T., when he and other committee members joined citizens at the Grantsville Senior Center, recently. Heise is seen here as he demonstrated ways to respond to unwanted phone calls.

brought to his attention. The person who received it was unsure how to respond to it. The letter addresses people aged 71-80. It notes a $5,000 settlement that may be due from Social Security. It also requests money. He asked if others present had received such a letter. A few hands went up. "I filed mine in the circular file," one gentleman stated.

S.A.L.T. is a sounding board available to seniors as well as a source of information, Heise said. He expressed his gratitude to the Garrett County Sheriff's Office for sponsoring S.A.L.T. He credited Sheriff Randy Sines for his support of the program, which started in 1993. "Without Randy Sines' help this thing wouldn't fly," Heise said.

Members of the S.A.L.T. committee are looking for more ways to reach the public and let people know that information and help are available to older citizens through this network of law enforcement officers and senior advocates.

Heise said that sometimes people are ashamed to admit that they have been victims of scams. Through S.A.L.T., older people have the opportunity to speak with someone who understands their concerns, he said.

actions to help in the station acquisition. The GOBA Downtown Revitalization Committee and chairman Ken Perrin and the SOS Committee and chairman Dave Saba have been supporting and working with McCain on the acquisition and fund-raising efforts.

The SOS Committee will now intensify its efforts to raise the targeted $50,000 local match for purchasing and restoring the station. CSX needs areas of the station through the year 2000 but will allow use of the grounds and exterior restorations to begin as soon as the purchase is completed. The target date for that transaction is July 1, 1997.

A grant writing committee has started applying for eligible programs available through several organizations and agencies.

The next SOS fund-raising event, "Night at the Station," will be held on June 28. This celebration event will be held in the Mt. Fresh Pavilion, at the Oakland Parking Lot. This will be the kick-off membership campaign, and people who sign up for the $35 membership fee at this event will receive a specially designed limited edition ornament of the Oakland Railroad Station. The evening will feature food from local restaurants, local entertainment, and other activities. There is no admission charge for this event, and additional details will be forthcoming.

"The acquisition of the station marks a milestone and fulfillment of a dream for many area residents, and they should all be thanked for their interests and efforts to this point," stated Mikal McCartney, president of the Greater Oakland Business Association.

"The next step of the process will be the restoration efforts. We need the entire community to come together to make the restoration of this landmark a reality. We need members to sign up and we need significant contributions to complete this project," Saba said.

ARMED SERVICES REVIEW

Marine Lance Cpl. Tony R. Murray, son of Thomas R. Murray of Oakland, has departed on a six-month deployment to the Mediterranean Sea with the 22nd Marine Expeditionary Unit (MEU). The 22nd embarked aboard the ships of the USS Kearsarge Amphibious Ready Group (ARG).

Murray is one of more than 2,000 marines and sailors who departed Norfolk, Va., and Camp Lejeune, N.C., aboard the amphibious assault ship USS Kearsarge, the amphibious transport dock USS Ponce, and the dock landing ship USS Carter Hall.

The 22nd MEU can evacuate civilians, rescue downed pilots, conduct reconnaissance and serve as an initial landing force ashore. Murray and his fellow marines and sailors spent the past year training for the wide range of conventional and special operations they might be tasked with during the deployment.

As part of the preparations, USS Kearsarge ARG participated in exercises involving air, naval and ground operations. The exercise also included surveillance, rescue, humanitarian assistance, maritime interdiction, embassy support and non-combat evacuations.

Murray, a 1993 graduate of Southern High School, joined the Marine Corps in June 1995.

CELEBRATING OUR SEVENTH ANNIVERSARY!

EVERYTHING'S BUGGY AT DENNETT ROAD ELEMENTARY! About 1,200 bugs, worms, ants, bees, grasshoppers, butterflies, and other beasts -- made by the entire student body at Dennett Road Elementary -- will be featured as part of the school's Excellence Fair, to be held this evening beginning at 7 p.m. The band will open the festivities with a concert in the cafeteria. As for the "Bug World" art project, Maggie Murphy's students have been working on the project for eight weeks and in addition to the hundreds of bugs, the art students and members of the Art Club have built an ant hill, two trees, a hollow log, and a huge spider web. Pictured with lots of wiggly creatures are kindergartners along with Art Club members. Kneeling left to right are Twila Ashby (Art Club), Megan Soult, Meaghan Beem, Rusty Glover, Kevin Mauk, and Stefany Giotelly. In the back, same order, are Ginger Stemple (Art Club), Sarah Riggelman, Ms. Murphy, Cody Cooperman, Charles Bowman, and Eileen Mouyard (Art Club).

Southern Girls Win Regionals, Boys Third, Huskies Fourth

Despite the fact that the majority of the Southern High School girls track and field team is comprised of freshmen and sophomores, the Rams paid no attention to their youth and relative inexperience Friday afternoon and coasted to a victory in the Class 1A West Region track and field championships at Williamsport.

The Rams amassed 221 points to smash the rest of the field, as host Williamsport placed a distant second with 129 points, Mount Savage finished third with 77 points, the Northern Huskies placed fourth with 58 points, Clear Spring was fifth with 49, Beall finished sixth with 11, and Hancock was seventh with nine points.

Meanwhile, in the boys' competition, Southern placed third with 125 points and the Northern boys finished fourth with 66. Williamsport won with 167 points, followed by Clear Spring with 130. Beall finished fifth with 35 points and Hancock was sixth with 17.

The top four finishers in each event at the regional meet qualify for the state tournament, which will be held this Friday and Saturday at Westminster High School.

Newcomb won the triple jump and the 1,600-meter run, and was a member of the winning 800 and 1,600 relay teams. Snyder won the 400 and 800 runs and was a member of the 1,600 and 3,200 relay team. Hoalcraft won the 300 hurdles and was also on the 800 and 1,600 relay teams.

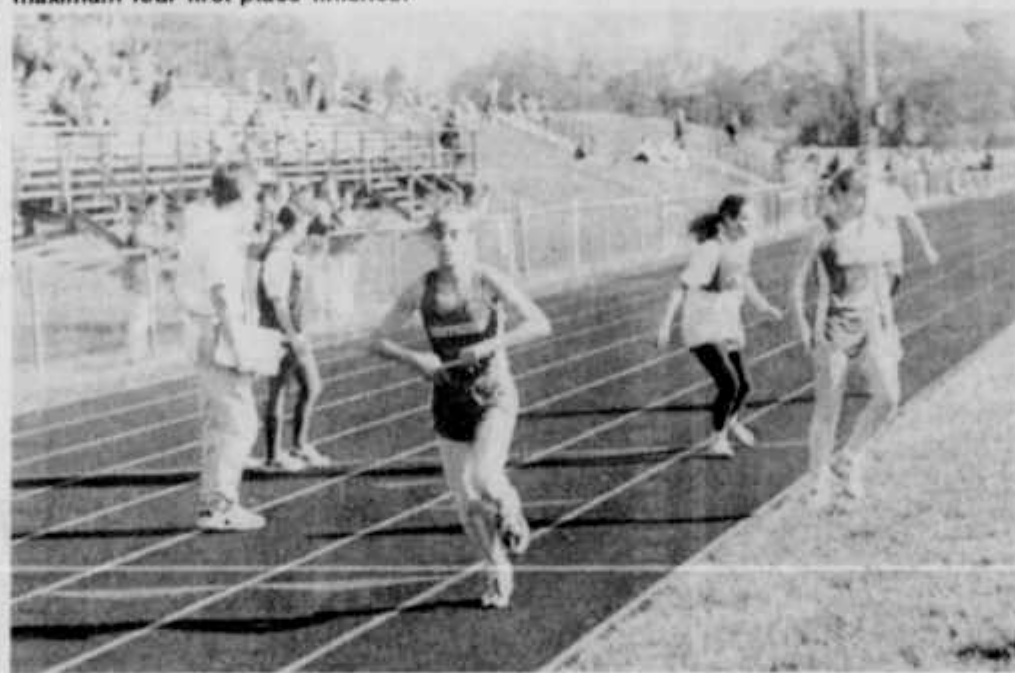

Double winners for the Rams were three more sophomores, Andi Bender, Jodi Bowser, and Katelyn McBee, and a freshman, Erin Hoalcraft. Bender won the high jump and was a member of the winning 400-meter relay team. Bowser won the 100 hurdles and was on the 800 relay team, and McBee and Hoalcraft were members of two winning relay teams. McBee also qualified for the state 800 run with a third place finish and Hoalcraft qualified in the 3,200 run with a third place.

Bender also placed second in the triple jump and third in the 100 dash. Bowser was second in the 200 dash. Hoalcraft was second in the 100 hurdles, and senior Kerri Cannon was second in the discus and third in shot put. Toni Sullivan won the long jump and also qualified for the state 300 hurdles with a fourth place finish.

Other Rams who earned a spot in the state championships are: sophomore Crystal Hinnant, who finished third in the 300 hurdles; freshman Lauren Rudy as a member of the 400 relay team and, by virtue of a Williamsport runner scratching from the state event, Rudy also qualified for the 100-meter dash with a fifth place finish; junior Alison Rudy with a fourth

Below, Southern's Erin Hoalcraft receives the baton from teammate Angie Sincell in the 3,200-meter relay event, which was also won by the Southern girls. place in the high jump; junior Liz Paesani with her third place in the long jump; and freshman Angie Sincell, who was fourth in the girls 3,200 and also qualifies as a member of the winning 3,200 relay team.

Northern High girls who qualified for the state meet include junior April Enlow, who placed fourth in the 100-meter hurdles, freshman Trista Smith, who was third in the discus, junior Jill Speicher, who placed third in the 400 run, junior Jane Williamson, who was third in the high jump, junior Courtney Bittner, who tied for fourth in the high jump, and Chelsea Frickey, who finished fourth in the long jump and as a member of the 400 and 800 relay teams, which placed third.

The Northern 1,600 and 3,200 relay teams also placed third and thus advance to the state meet.

Senior leaper Jared Beckman again spearheaded the Southern boys' effort, as he broke a school record with his first place in the triple jump (42'6.75"), first place in the long jump, and first place in the high jump. He was also a member of the Rams' 800-meter relay team, which placed second.

Other Rams qualifying for the state meet as individuals were: senior Nathan Rickman, third in the 400 run; sophomore Eric Rexrode, third in the 1,600; junior Dan Sincell, third in the 3,200 and fourth in the 1,600; senior Adam Chorpenn, second in the 300 hurdles; senior Corey Friend, second in the triple jump; senior Matt Sincell, third in the pole vault; sophomore Jonathan Price, fourth in the 110 hurdles; and senior Tim Jeffreys, fourth in the shot put.

Four Southern boys' relay teams also qualified for the state meet: second place 400 team, comprised of Justin Helbig, Price, Ted Wolf, and Chad Lovett; second place 800 team, comprised of Helbig, Beckman, Wolf, and Lovett; third place 1,600 team, comprised of Rickman, Wolf, Rexrode, and Brian Park; and the 3,200 team, comprised of Rickman, Rexrode, Park, and Tim McCauley.

Hinebaugh-Vent Doubles Team Going To States

The Northern High School mixed doubles tennis team of Steve Hinebaugh and Jamie Jo Vent will be competing in the Maryland state high school tournament this weekend at Essex Community College by virtue of their second-place finish in last weekend's West Regional tournament at South Hagerstown.

Hinebaugh and Vent finished the regional tourney with a 2-1 record, as they crushed Eddie Thomas and Leigh Newton, 6-0, 6-0, in the first round and the North Carroll team of Shawn Martin and Tracy Golden in the second round, 6-4, 6-7, 6-4.

They were then topped in the final match, 6-0, 6-0, by Duc Trieu and Marcie Dixon of Williamsport.

Other Huskies in the regional tournament, but not qualifying for the state meet, were Lori Arnold and Anika Weth in girls' doubles, and the mixed doubles team of Kathy Arnold and Joe Weiner.

The Grantsville Three-on-Three Basketball League is now registering new teams to add to the league for the 1997 season. The league is open to all ages and skill levels and numerous trophies, plaques, and other awards will be handed out at the season's conclusion.

The league plays at the Grantsville Community Park, which is considered one of the best outdoor facilities in the area, and will run from Tuesday, June 3, until mid-August. Those interested in playing are asked to call Paul Edwards at 301-895-4255.

Thank You Dr. Ryscavage

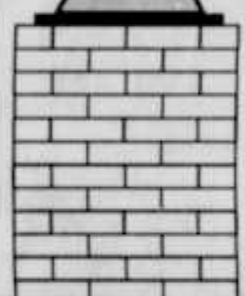

The words have not been spoken that tell the tale of the impact you have had on the children, parents, community, young adults, students, and staff of Garrett County. You will be missed. Our collective futures will be brighter for the care you have given them over the last 24 years. Thank you just seems inadequate, but we'll say it anyway--

Thank You.

McClive's Food For Thought

by Chef Francesco G. Pisano

Down-home favorite: ice cream "sandwiches" made with big oatmeal-raisin cookies. Use your favorite recipe, then spread 3 Tbs. of dough per cookie, with lots of room between them on the cookie sheet. Bake until soft and chewy.

Boil large red potatoes, quartered but not peeled, in salted water until tender. Drain well and return potatoes to the hot pan. Mash them lightly with olive oil. Stir in lots of chopped arugula, plus salt and pepper to taste.

Problem: seafood or other chilled foods sometime release too much liquid when they're cooked, and boiling everything down would make the food tough. Solution: remove the food with a slotted spoon, boil down the liquid, then return food to pan to heat briefly.

No need to make dough and roll out pasta for home-made ravioli if you use wonton wrappers instead. Top filling with a second wrapper, seal and trim with a biscuit cutter.

No need to fuss for a fancy meal. Put us to work for you. Bring everyone out for dinner at

MSA To Hold Annual Summer Soccer Camp

Major League Soccer, the division I professional soccer league in the United States, has teamed up with North American Sports Camps, the largest camp operator in the country, to offer Major League Soccer Camps. These camps are designed for boys and girls ages 5 to 18 and will be conducted on a weekly basis during the summer months. They will be held at 1,000 sites, with a projected attendance in excess of 57,000 nationwide.

One such camp is being offered in Garrett County, is the Mountaintop Soccer Association will sponsor the MLSC program from July 28 to August 1.

"We are extremely pleased to be associated with Major League Soccer. We firmly believe in the camp's focus on the player first, and strongly feel the soccer techniques learned will have a profoundly positive effect on our youth soccer community," said Nancy Pagenhardt, camp coordinator for MSA.

Players attending the camp are grouped by ability and playing experience. The Munchkin session (5-6-year-olds) will introduce youngsters to soccer and teach them the skills they need to have fun and success in the game. Principles are taught in a non-directive coaching environment, giving every child the opportunity to save and score goals. The Nippers session (7-9-year-olds) centers on developing fundamental techniques-control, running with the ball, dribbling, passing, heading, shooting, and the introduction of pressure through small sided games.

In the Intermediate program, recommended for 9-11-year-olds, players confront team concepts like space, balance, width, and support. Play is adapted to the area of the field that specifically relates to a real game situation. Finally, in the Advanced and Team Training programs, recommended for 12-18-year-olds, roles for defenders, midfielders, and strikers are evaluated en route to developing positional responsibilities, systems of play, and team communication skills.

According to MLSC literature, the camps are staffed by coaches who are recruited with the criteria in mind: "Magic - the ability to play games at the kids' level and on their terms; Personality - an animated personality and an ability to motivate; Encouragement - the ability to be supportive and positive as the group's number one cheerleader; Organization - the ability to present well-structured, practical coaching sessions; and Concern - an interest in the child as a person, not just as a soccer player."

Each coach must hold the United States Soccer A or B license or its international equivalent. In addition, each coach is required to complete a three-day educational orientation at which workshops are conducted in areas of child psychology, such as motivation, learning styles, and discipline. Each coach must then be certified in the North American Sports Camps National Curriculum at regional certification courses held in the spring.

The schedule and fees for MSA's camp is as follows: 9 a.m. - noon, grades 6-12, $93; 4:30 - 6 p.m., ages 5-6, $60; 6:30 - 8 p.m., ages 5-6, $60; and 5-8 p.m., grades 2-5, $93. All players receive a sponsor's Goody Bag featuring a voucher for a 2 for 1 ticket to a DC United professional soccer game, plus a soccer ball and a T-shirt.

For more information or to register for camp, persons may contact Nancy Pagenhardt at 301-334-1021. Applications are available at all branches of the Ruth Enlow Library, Bailey Realty, and Rudy's at Wisp. Registration will close on June 30.

Football Parent Meeting Slated

The parents of all athletes who plan to play football next year at Southern High School are urged to attend a meeting on Monday, June 2, in the school cafeteria at 7 p.m. The coaching staff will be introduced and there will be a question/answer session about Ram football. Parents will also be given a tour of the athletic facilities at SHS.

MSA Field Work Day Slated For This Saturday

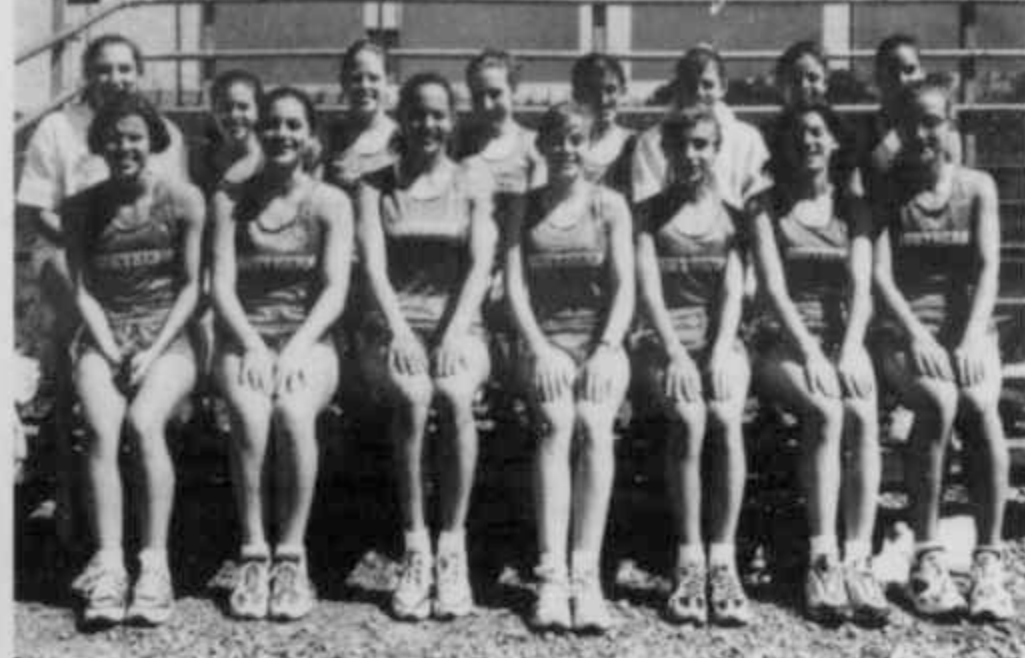

Local soccer enthusiasts are reminded that the Mountaintop Soccer Association will conduct a field improvement work day at the Southern Middle School fields this Saturday, May 23,

BREAKING HIS OWN SCHOOL RECORD in the triple jump on Friday at the West Region track and field championships at Williamsport High School on Friday was Southern Ram Jared Beckman, above left, who recorded a distance of 42 feet, six and three-quarter inches. Beckman also won first places in the high jump and long jump to lead the Southern boys to a third place finish in the six-team regional event. He and many of his teammates who finished among the top four in a variety of events will travel to Westminster High School this weekend to compete in the state meet, a competition in which the Southern boys placed second as a team last year. Above right, Southern's Matt Sincell clears nine feet, six inches to take third place in the pole vault. The Southern girls' team won first place in the regional event, while the Northern boys' and girls' teams each finished fourth.

HEADED FOR STATES - These members of the Southern High School girls' track and field teams will be traveling to Westminster this Friday to compete in the Maryland 1A state high school championships. They qualified for the state meet by finishing among the top four in their various events at last Friday's regional meet in Williamsport. As a team, the Southern girls won the region title. Pictured from left above, front row, are: Alison Rudy, Michelle Teter, Liz Paesani, Angie Sincell, Erin Hoalcraft, Lauren Rudy, and Christy Hoalcraft. In the second row are: Kerri Cannon, Katelyn McBee, Lauren Newcomb, Andi Bender, Beth Sauder, Toni Sullivan, Jodi Bowser, and Crystal Hinnant. Boys' team members pictured below from left, front row, are: Nathan Rickman, Matt Sincell, Chad Lovett, Ted Wolf, Dan Sincell, Brian Park, Eric Rexrode, and Tim Jeffreys. In the second row are: Justin Helbig, Adam Chorperring, Corey Friend, Jared Beckman, Jonathan Price, Tim McCauley, and Casey McBee. See story for individual results at the 1A West Region championships.

Huskies' Hope For State Title Dashed By Blazers

A chance for a state title for the Northern High School baseball team ended last Thursday afternoon when the Huskies were edged in the bottom of the eighth inning, 7-6, by host Clear Spring in a Maryland 1A West Region semi-final game. The Huskies had earned a spot in the semifinals by upsetting Southern and rolling over Oldtown in their first two playoff games.

Thursday's contest with Clear Spring featured excitement for both teams, as the Blazers took a 2-0 lead in the first inning and were up by a 4-1 score after six innings, after which the Huskies rallied for four runs in the top of the seventh to take a 5-4 advantage. Clear Spring then knotted the score with a run in the bottom of the seventh, the Huskies answered with a run in top of the extra inning to resume the lead at 6-5, and the Blazers finally scored a pair in the bottom of the eighth to record the win.

In both the seventh and the eighth innings the Huskies were within an out of winning the game. "No one ever expected us to be here," stated Coach Phil Carr, whose team finished the regular season with a modest 8-11 record, but then came on strong in the playoffs. "We had only one starter back this year, so I figured on winning only five or six games. I'm real proud of the kids, especially after we lost 12-0 to Southern and came back a week later to defeat them (5-2) in the playoffs. We made a real good run late in the season."

The Huskies' big seventh inning rally against Clear Spring started with back-to-back walks, followed by a sacrifice bunt by pinch hitter Adam Bach, which moved the runners to second and third. Senior Zach Leverenz then smacked a two-run double to cut the Blazers' lead to 4-3. A ground-out by Matt Fritz sent Leverenz to third and Herman Arndt followed with a single to bring Leverenz home with the tying run.

After Scott Sisler drew a walk, Arndt stole third and then came home on a bunt to put the Huskies up by one, 5-4.

It appeared that the Huskies would end up in the regional finals against Williamsport, as they recorded two outs, one on a ground-er and another on a fielder's choice. But between the two outs, Phil Helser reached first on a fielder's choice and Jared Mowen stepped up to the plate and rapped a double down the right field line to bring Helser home with the tying run to force the extra inning.

The Huskies loaded the bases in their half of the eighth and took a 6-5 advantage when Chris Herman stole home while E.J. Scofield was being run down between second and third base. This second opportunity for a Northern victory was also squelched, however, in the bottom of the eighth.

Matt Bragunier led off Clear Spring's eighth with a double and then scored on a hit by Jeremy Duffy. With no outs, Leverenz took the mound for the Huskies and forced a pair of ground-outs. But Duffy was on third base when Jeremy Stonebreaker hit a bloop single to left field that brought Duffy home to score the winning run.

The Blazers were led offensively by Duffy, who had three singles for two RBI. Stonebreaker with two hits and two RBI, and Mowen with a double and a single. Contributing a double each were Bragunier and Tony Hornish.

Leverenz concluded his high school career with a double and a single for two RBI, while Scofield had a single to go with his run-producing double. Joe Wilhelm contributed a double.

Sisler pitched the first seven innings for the Huskies and finished with eight strike-outs, but had to take the loss since he was responsible for the runner at first base when Leverenz was called to the mound.

Clear Spring went on to lose, 9-8, to Williamsport in the 1A West Region championship game on Friday.

Ferguson Wins Singles Title At Regionals

Southern High School junior Brandon Ferguson captured the singles title in Saturday's Maryland State West Regional tournament by topping Luke Grimshaw of Thomas Johnson High School in the finals, 6-4, 7-5, while Southern's Meghan Dabney, who was undefeated in the regular season, finished as the runner-up singles champion.

Ferguson, who also won the boys' singles title in last week's Bi-County tourney, will take an unblemished personal record (17-0) into the state tournament this Saturday at Essex Community College. Dabney also qualified for the state event with her second-place finish in the regional event.

Dabney, a senior, was topped in the finals of the regional tournament, held at South Hagerstown High School, by Gretchen Unger of Brunswick High.

The Southern doubles team of Melvin Rexrode and Justin Stephens also qualified for the regional tourney, but was defeated in the first round by the

Local Riders To Compete In 24-Hour Bike Race

Team High Mountain Sports, a team of four local mountain bikers, is completing training for the 1997 Newsweek 24 Hours of Canaan Mountain Bike Race. Sponsored by High Mountain Sports of Deep Creek Lake, the local athletes will compete against 400 teams from across the nation in the 24-hour relay event. The race will be at the Timberline Ski Resort in Canaan Valley, W.Va., from noon on June 7 straight through to noon on June 8.

"It takes everything you have just to finish this race," according to team captain and co-owner of High Mountain Sports Steve Green. "You really have to drink a tremendous amount of water to replenish the fluids in the body. Performance really depends on how hydrated you can stay over this 24-hour event," he said. "If you even start feeling thirsty it can be too late."

The Team High Mountain Sports racers will ride in a 24-hour relay in laps over a 12-mile-long course, with over 1800 vertical feet of climbing per lap. Racers take turns out on the course by riding one lap, then resting, eating and drinking plenty of water until their next turn. The course is unlighted, so racers at night must use light battery packs carried on their backs. The laps that would normally last one and one-half hours each under normal conditions can be stretched out to four hours by rain and mud.

Tom Bulhack, and Shawn Patterson have been training for months for the event. "Our workouts are geared to increasing stamina for the long laps we have to ride," said Green. "We include road biking, running, lifting, even some swimming, but there is nothing better for mountain bike race training than mountain biking itself."

Support for the racers will be provided by team manager Ken Sumpter and team technician Coelian Green. Both Sumpter and Green expect to stay awake for the entire 24-hour event. Team mechanics are Brian Glatfely and Gino Maurici, both of whom will be responsible for the maintenance and major repairs of the high-tech mountain bikes.

"While the racers are the only ones actually riding the course," Green said, "we're a team that's bigger than just the four of us. Like any sport, it takes everyone doing their jobs for it all to come together."

Frank Winter Will Play For College Of W.Va.

Frank Winter, a student on the Garrett County basketball team, has signed a two-year scholarship to continue his athletic and academic career at the College of West Virginia, in Beckley, W.Va. He will be filling the void left by graduating center Al Brown for the (25-10) Cougars.

"We think Frank is going to be a real asset to the team," remarked College of W.Va. head coach Bob Bolen. "He is a strong, powerful post player that is willing to be physical. I have followed his development for the past two years at Garrett and have been impressed with his attitude and work ethic. It also helps that Frank is coming from Garrett and has been well coached in a very strong program."

Winter averaged 10 points and 8.5 rebounds per game for the 19-12 Garrett Lakers this past season. He was also selected this year's Defensive Player of the Year at the recent Laker Awards Reception.

"You could not find a harder working kid than Frank Winter. I personally feel that of all the Division I, II, and III schools that expressed an interest in Frank, the College of W.Va. is the best fit for him," stated Laker head coach Dennis Gibson. "You have to realize that Frank is a 3.8 student interested in continuing his education in a physician's assistant program. The College of W.Va. has that major and it is a very hard program to find and get accepted into. Frank has come a long way and is very deserving of this scholarship."

Mindy McCarty Will Play For Garrett Lakers

Mindy McCarty, who will be a 1997 graduate of Northern High School, plans to continue her athletic and academic career at Garrett Community College. She signed an NJCAA National Letter of Intent to play volleyball for GCC, and has received an athletic scholarship.

During her senior season at Northern, she led the team in attacks with 117 kills and was the recipient of the team Outstanding Attack trophy. Other impressive statistics included: 85% serving proficiency, and 93 service points including 29 aces. Mindy was selected Area Student-Athlete for September 1995 by the Cumberland-Times News, All-Area Team 1995, and was nominated to the All-Area Team for 1996.

"We are very fortunate that Mindy has decided to attend Garrett," remarked head coach Margaret Quinn. "She is an outstanding left-handed hitter with solid skills and excellent court sense. We look for her to pace the offense, and with her experience and expertise she will provide solid leadership on the court."

Mindy is the daughter of Michael and Betty McCarty, Friendsville.

Wetlands, either natural or man-made, have a tremendous power for attracting wildlife of all kinds. One definition of a wetland is a combination of soils, plants, and water characterized by the dominance of moisture in the soil. The majority of plants in a wetland depend on the water even though the soils appear dry. Wildlife is attracted by the water and the plant life that it supports. In fact, many endangered plants and animals depend on wetlands to survive.

In addition to attracting wildlife, wetlands are important because (1) the plants found here can filter pollutants from the water, (2) the wetlands help control storm water runoff and control flooding, and (3) the plants hold soil and reduce erosion.

To see a classic, naturally occurring wetland, Garrett County residents only need to drive out to the Cranesville Swamp, which stretches through western Garrett County and Preston County in West Virginia. This area is a rare specimen of subarctic wetland created by the retreat of ice age glaciers. Found here are all forms of life typical to a wetland. Included are white tail deer, red wing blackbirds, muskrats, herons, ducks, raccoons, swallows, frogs, etc. And, I know of one family who will tell you about the mountain lion they saw not far from the swamp.

There are many other wetlands in Garrett County. You can locate them by spotting vegetation that thrive in the moist environment. If you are interested, look for willow trees, cattails, rushes, and pin oak trees. Take your field glasses and spend some time watching the residents. Try not to disturb the area by walking off paths and using vehicles of any kind.

TURKEY HUNTING

Even though the opening of turkey season was rough because of the weather, the ensuing days have been very productive all over the county. Paul Wilt bagged a gobbler with an 11-inch beard, Rich Paugh tagged one with over a nine-inch beard, Gary Whittaker took a 20-pounder, and Kathy Lyons of Kitzmiller took one at 21.

While we're talking turkey, you may be interested to know that there are six subspecies of wild turkey in North America. The strain indigenous to Garrett County is the "eastern" turkey with the scientific name of meleagris gallopavo silvestris. The "eastern" turkey inhabits the eastern half of the U.S., although it has been successfully transplanted to some western states.

Much of the credit for the spread of the wild turkey and resulting good hunting must be given to the National Wild Turkey Federation based in Edgefield, S.C. The federation is a non-profit, educational organization dedicated to conservation of the wild turkey and preservation of the awarded an emblem and citation, and plaques are awarded for the season's largest catches of bluegill, brown trout, chain pickerel, crappies, largemouth and smallmouth bass, northern pike, rainbow trout, walleye, and yellow perch. To enter the contest, catches must be registered at Johnny's Bait House, Rt. 219, south of the Deep Creek Lake bridge.

Deep Creek Lake Bass Tourney Goes On-Line

Tournament and travel information for "Bass '97 with Hank Parker" is now available on the World Wide Web at <http://www.CUWbass.com>. The bass fishing tournament is scheduled for Saturday, September 20, at Deep Creek Lake State Park. The event is an annual fund-raiser for United Way charities over a seven-county region.

As in 1996, nationally known professional bass fishing personality Hank Parker will appear at the tournament. Parker will also be the keynote speaker at a dinner to be held the prior evening. Parker's appearance is provided through the support of Kelly-Springfield Tire Company, for whom he serves as a celebrity spokesperson.

At the web site, bass fishing enthusiasts interested in competing for $5,650 in cash prizes are encouraged to print out tournament entry forms, rules, and travel directions. Tournament organizers think they have a good match between the profile of the serious bass competitor and the profile of Internet users. They noted that many tournaments are already using the Net for promotion and information.

Event sponsors, including Pepsi, CSX Transportation, and Kelly-Springfield Tire Company, have links to their own world wide web sites from the bass tournament home page. More information about entries may be obtained by calling Linda Beachy, County United Way, at 301-722-2700.

RIVER REPORT

The word from Harold Harsh regarding river fishing here in Garrett County is that the fishing has been great. The Savage is running low and clear and producing lots of nice size browns and brooks. Most of the fly action here has been on Blue Quill and Quill Gordons with Olive Caddis in about size 14 starting to come into their own.

The report on the Yough is almost identical with most of the action coming on Olive Caddis and Quill Gordons. The most productive time has been mid afternoon, with the Quill Gordons starting to come off around 2 p.m. and the Caddis about 3 p.m.

The stretch of the North Branch of the Potomac below the Jennings Randolph impoundment has been fishing a bit tougher because of the colder water temperature. Most of the fish that have been caught have been hitting flies drifted along the bottom—specifically bitch creek nymphs and sculpin imitations. Action upstream on the delayed harvest waters between Wallman and Lostland in the Potomac State Forest has been better.

Trout fishing in the "put and take" rivers and streams has been good. Don Wartring took a 19-inch rainbow in the Potomac, while Terry Lucas and Craig Collins both took rainbows nearly 16 inches near Vindex. Terry and Craig were using green Powerbait while Don used orange.

FISHING THE LAKES

The bass have definitely moved into the coves as they do every year about this time, and Larry Iden at AMC said that some large northern had been weighed in late in April, but action has slowed somewhat since then. There hasn't been much in walleye action yet, but this could break any day as the weather improves.

tors, Inc., was in 1992 awarded the contract to complete the access to the Maryland side of the lake. When this was finished, the DNR began the construction of the boat launch facility and the scenic overlook.

U.S. Senator Paul Sarbanes was instrumental in bringing the project to reality, according to a DNR spokesperson, as were Senator Barbara Mikulski, W.V. Senator Robert Byrd, W.V. Congressman Jay Rockefeller, Maryland Congressman Roscoe Bartlett and W.V. Congressman Alan Molohan.

An unusual agreement was signed between the Maryland and West Virginia natural resources departments, enabling officers from both states to enforce recreational laws as well as fish and wildlife protection regulations.

The officials who spoke at the ceremony -- including Sarbanes, Delegate George Edwards, Senator John Hafer, Comptroller Louis Goldstein, Colonel Randall Inouye (Army Corps), General James Fretterd (National Guard), and James Dunmyer (assistant secretary of Public Lands) -- all commended the spirit of teamwork that has brought the project to fruition.

The Captain Robert S. Brown Scenic Memorial Overlook dedication was a more solemn affair, as speakers honored the memory of Captain Brown. See photo.

determined. Leasure stated that he could not speculate as to how the individuals had voted, and a new election cannot be done unless the plaintiffs can prove that the errors altered the outcome of the election.

The Warnings first requested that the Garrett County Board of Supervisors of Elections re-count the votes, but this request was denied. The plaintiffs then entered into litigation.

In his ruling, Leasure referred to similar cases that had gone through the Maryland Court of Appeals, from which he quoted: "Unimportant mistakes by election officials should not be allowed to thwart the will of the people freely expressed at the ballot box."

This investigation led to a review of all voting districts in the county, which revealed that the entire system was in dire need of updating, as Mountain Lake Park was not even included in the listing and Kitzmiller was referred to as Kitzmiller'sville. The system is now being updated and districts are being determined with the help of the new 911 mapping system.

The case of the week for the Garrett County Crime Solvers involves the firing of a shotgun near a residence on Finzel Road.

On April 10 at approximately 9:10 p.m., two shotgun rounds were fired near a residence at 1099 Finzel Road. One of the rounds went through the garage door.

The vehicle involved was a small gray automobile, about the size of a Chevette or Dodge Omni. The car had a loud exhaust system, or perhaps no muffler at all.

The suspects are two white males. The passenger was wearing a black and yellow jacket as well as a dark baseball cap with a "Nike" emblem.

Persons who have information about this or any other unsolved crimes are urged to contact Crime Solvers at 334-1975. Callers do not have to give their names, nor do they have to appear in court. Rewards of up to $1,000 are available to persons who provide tips that lead to arrests.

Tax Rate Stays

To fully offset the effect of increasing assessments, the county should be able to reduce property taxes by $2.54 -- the constant yield rate. However, the commissioners felt the best option for the county would be to keep the rate the same this year.

The public meeting was attended by just two individuals, both of whom opposed an increase in the tax rate.

Chairman Roger Grotfelty explained that the county agencies' budget requests total about $4 million more than is available in the budget. This is an improvement from last year, when the requests came in at $8 million more. In light of the overage, however, the commissioners agreed that a reduction in the tax rate would not be wise.

Grotfelty also noted that in the past year, the county has experienced a great deal of natural disaster, mainly in the form of flooding. This has cost the county more money than was expected, and monetary relief from the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) has been quite slow in coming, Grotfelty said.

Westvaco Forest Division Wins National Award

The American Forest & Paper Association (AF&PA), national trade organization for the forest products industry, has named Westvaco Corporation a co-winner of its annual Forest Management Award. The award recognizes companies which go above and beyond federal, state, and industry guidelines to make significant advances toward improving forest ecosystems.

Westvaco was honored for the sustainable forest management assistance the company provides to non-industrial landowners. That assistance is part of Westvaco's Cooperative Forest Management (CFM) Program, which celebrated its 40th anniversary in 1996. More than 2,900 private landowners in 13 states participate in the CFM program, which promotes a stewardship ethic by helping landowners with considerations like conservation, water quality and aesthetics. Westvaco shares this year's award with the Hancock Timber Resource Group, recognized for its sensitive lands management program.

This year's award represents the sixth time since 1980 that Westvaco has received national recognition from the AF&PA for its accomplishments in forestry and wildlife management. Over that time, the company has also received more than 50 awards for other aspects of its environmental performance from federal and state agencies, environnone), will be barred from our dances. To help with the problem of teens "hanging out" around the building, they are now permitted to use the phone inside for twenty-five cents, allowing us to keep everybody inside until they are ready to sign out.

We have had some problems with tobacco use by those under the age of 18. Anybody outside before or after a dance who is smoking has been and will continue to be carded. Those under age are given the choice of going inside or having their parents pick them up. We legally can't say anything to those over the age of 18, although we discourage them from smoking outside our dances.

To address the rumors concerning the music we have been playing at our dances, we want parents to know that anything we play is well within FCC regulations. All of our music is selected based on what is played on daytime radio and any "borderline" material will not be played.

In addition to the rumors about our dances, we have had a few other problems in the community, the first of which involves having our signs and banners torn down. We find this behavior highly disrespectful and very inappropriate. We have also dealt with slanderous remarks from certain adults in the community with a great deal of influence over the teens. Of these remarks, the most popular ones seem to be telling students that our dances are canceled or that the Oakland Police Department is going to shut us down, the latter of which I find highly ironic considering the Oakland Police Department and the Garrett County Sheriff's Department have gone out of their way to help us have safe and successful dances.

After dealing with the previously mentioned problems, we were also visited by two of Mr. Z's DJs. They are more than welcome to visit our dances at any time, but we did not appreciate them starting to sign in as Southern High School students. Before leaving, we were asked about a release date of a song that is actually inappropriate to be played at teen dances anyway. The justification for asking this question was, "If you're a DJ, I thought you would know something like that."

In closing, I'd like to extend the invitation to all parents and school faculty to come to one of our dances and volunteer as a chaperon, as a few parents have already done, or just to visit and see what our dances are really like. I would like to extend a formal apology to Jamie Ashby and the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department for having to answer to all of the rumors, and a thanks for your cooperation in allowing us to continue. I would also like to thank the Oakland Police Department and the Garrett County Sheriff's Department for their help, and most of all, the teens who have attended our dances for giving us very few problems and being cooperative with our rules.

If anybody has any questions concerning our dances or our company, please feel free to call me at 304-291-6949.

MARYLAND EMERGENCIES MEDICAL SERVICES WEEK PROCLAIMED - The Garrett County Commissioners, along with several local emergency medical personnel, this Tuesday proclaimed the week of May 18-24 as Maryland Emergency Medical Services Week. The proclamation signed by the elected officials states in part that emergency service is a vital public service and the members of these teams are ready to provide life-saving care 24 hours a day, and access to quality emergency care dramatically improves the survival and recovery rate of those stricken ill or injured. Emergency medical service teams consist of physicians, nurses, medical technicians, paramedics, fire fighters, dispatchers, Med-Evac crews, educators, administrators, and others. They all engage in thousands of hours of training and continuing education to enhance life-saving skills, the document notes, and more than 2,000 Marylanders benefit daily from the knowledge and skills of these individuals. The proclamation states that it is "appropriate to recognize the value and the accomplishments of emergency medical service providers by designating Emergency Medical Services Week." Pictured in front of Garrett County Memorial Hospital are, left to right, Commissioners Wayne Wilt, John Braskey, and Roger Wilt; Dave Moon, capt. of Southern Rescue; Rayma Weeks, president of the EMS Council; Alvin Shumaker Jr., Northern Rescue; Dr. Mark Dominick, Garrett County regional medical advisor; Barry Beal, capt. of Northern Rescue; and Mike Saunders, 911 telecommunicator.

To the Editor:
Mountain Top Crisis Pregnancy Center of Mtn. Lake Park just completed its ninth annual Walk-A-Thon. As this is our only fund-raiser in Garrett County each year, we wish to thank each walker who braved the cold rainy weather to participate in our walk either on May 10 or those who used our rain date of May 17 which was still a rainy day. We also wish to thank those who still participated by walking at another place and time.

We want to thank those who participated in the Walk-A-Thon by making pledges to each of the walkers. The walkers and you make this annual fund-raiser a success.

Since we opened in July 1989, MTCPC has touched the lives of over 8,000 individuals, and when you help one person, you help many. There are now three MTCPC Centers. The other two centers are in Keyser and Kingwood, W.Va.

Because of people like each of you, whether you are a walker or you made a pledge, this ministry can continue to reach out and help those who are less fortunate.

On behalf of MTCPC, I thank each of you. May God bless you and your family.

Director of Centers

To the Editor:
I'm writing in response to Crede Calhoun's letter in the May 8th issue of The Republican. I wanted to say that I completely agree with Crede.

Although I don't live on a farm myself, my father did, and so I help my grandfather make hay and do various other jobs around the farm. I am 13 years old and unlike many of my peers who enjoy having a movie theater and fast food restaurants around the corner, I feel the need to support farmers and encourage them to fight for their way of life.

Huge second homes, which are hardly used, keep eating up family farms. These second homes are unnecessary and resource consuming, and a law should be passed to protect rural areas from such buildings.

I fear that unless we do something fast, Garrett County will turn into just a bunch of fast food restaurants and mini marts, just like any other suburban area.

Sincerely,
Leo Schlossnagle

To the Editor:
I have a cousin who is in need of a double lung transplant. We are getting up an account for him at the Terra Alta Bank so that if he doesn't need it we can return the money. He is number one on the list for type A blood. Anything we get will be returned if he is still alive in October without the surgery, he can get help, but before that it has to come from friends and neighbors. He needs at least $85,000. The cost is $120,000.

Anyone wanting to help may send checks to the Len Greenwalt Transplant Fund to Wildean Frantz, Rt. 2 Box 134, Terra Alta, WV 26764, or The Terra Alta Bank, Box 65, Terra Alta, WV 26764, Attn. Richard Gibson. We will keep all names and addresses and notify when he has surgery or return whatever people send with our thanks.

Sincerely,
Wildean Frantz

To the Editor:
The evolutionist Richard Kingsley uses the formula utilized by Satan to usurp God's sovereignty: Take a lie mixed with truth to give it credibility, add deceit to make it accepted without question, then add lies at will.

The truth in his letter is that I do indeed believe in the "one-sided religious dogma" called Christianity to be taught as the only religion for the reason given above. A half cup of pure water mixed with poison will forever remain polluted.

The deceit in his letter is saying the Constitution "protect(s)" us from such one-sided religious dogma being inflicted on us all.

Mr. K. pretends to be a champion of religious freedom. Since his god of evolution is being taught while my God of Creation is prohibited, it is his one-sided-religion dogma that is being inflicted on us all, not the reverse. His willing failure to reveal this fact proves that he is deceitful and hypocritical, as most evolutionists are. Many of them even join churches and attempt to serve two masters to enhance their credibility image. Mr. K's reversal of fact is comparable to a hog telling a duck his feet are dirty. What a classic example of hypocrisy!

As for lies, Mr. K's statement that evolution is the "long accepted irrefutable scientific proof" is a lie and has been shown to be so by scientists who deal in facts and not by deluded suppositions of liars.

Charles Darwin, evolution's founder, has passed from the scene as will the diseased carriers of his poison, but God will remain forever. These poison carriers with their "accepted, irrefutable scientific proof," who have been unable to find their origin on earth are now searching outer-space. They are searching in the wrong places for it is in the heart and mind and is visible everywhere the eye gazes. What fools we mortals be.

For fear of offending I will quote a secular man rather than a biblical one - a man who attained more respect and credibility than all the evolutionists combined.

"I am much afraid that the universities will prove to be the great gates of Hell unless they diligently labor to explain the Holy Scriptures and to engrave them upon the hearts of youth.

I advise no one to place his child where the Scriptures do not reign paramount. Every institution where men are not unceasingly occupied with the Word of God must become corrupt." Martin Luther

You, Mr. K., are helping Martin Luther's Fears become a reality. May God have mercy on your soul. You're going to need it.

To the Editor:

On February 27, 1997, Dr. Ian Wilmut, a 52-year old embryologist at the Roslin Institute near Edinburgh in Scotland, published an article in Nature, which described how he and his colleagues had created a Scottish sheep named Dolly, the first mammal to have been "cloned" from the tissue of another animal. The researchers used udder or mammary cells in her creation, and named her after Dolly Parton, whose mammary cells they considered equally famous. Instantly, she became the most famous sheep in history (biblical references aside), her creation likened to the Wright Brothers at Kitty Hawk, who freed humanity from a restriction once considered eternal.

President Clinton demanded a report within 90 days, and on March 4, 1997, imposed a ban on the use of federal money for cloning humans. The Vatican was aghast. Press and pundits trundled out fears of cloned Hitlers, Mozarts, or Aldous Huxley's society described in Brave New World, published in 1922.

What Dr. Wilmut and his colleagues did was take a cell from a 6-year-old ewe and fuse and activate it with an egg from which the nucleus and its DNA had been removed, eliminating all generic characteristics of the egg donor. In past attempts, the cell kept on growing and dividing apart from the egg. The researchers stopped the cell from developing, replicating its own DNA, and growing by culturing it in a solution which deprived it of its nutrients to stop its development. Inserting the cell inside the egg and introducing an electric charge caused the cell to merge into the egg. The charge also induced the egg to start to divide with the nucleus and DNA of the cell from the ewe, resulting in an embryo which was inserted into the surrogate mother sheep, who gave birth to Dolly.

The Roslin Institute was established during World War II, when England was under siege by German U Boats, to improve the productivity of agriculture. That remains its mission. Dolly is considered as a step toward more productive sheep, despite the overtones assigned by the press.

The accomplishments of Dr. Wilmut and his research group cannot be understated. However, 277 eggs had been fused with adult cells; only 29 developed into embryos. Of the 29 implanted, only 13 sheep became pregnant, and only one carried the pregnancy to term and delivered a live lamb. Clearly, efficiencies will be required for any possible commercial exploitation. And finally, when asked if Dolly should be considered 7 months old, which is as long as she has been alive, or 6 years old, since she is a replica of a 6-year-old sheep, Dr. Wilmut's clear blue eyes clouded for a moment and he responded, "I can't answer that. We just don't know. There are many things here we will have to find out."

mental groups, industry associations, customers, and others.

The award announcement preceded the AF&PA report on its Sustainable Forestry Initiative (SFI). The initiative includes annual public reports on the forest products industry's compliance with SFI standards. SFI places limits on the size of clearcut harvest sites; requires protection of wildlife habitat, water quality, and sites with ecologically unique features; fosters biodiversity in forests; encourages logger training and education; and advocates outreach to non-industrial landowners. Compliance with SFI guidelines is a requirement for AF&PA membership.

Westvaco took a leadership role in developing SFI, which was launched in 1994. Since that time, the forest products industry has collectively reported on the reforestation of millions of acres and has worked to improve the environment for wildlife. The progress report for the year 1996 indicates a positive trend toward ecologically sound forestry.

Two Traffic Stops Net Drug Arrests By GCSO Deputies

As a result of traffic stops for other violations, Garrett County Sheriff's deputies arrested two drivers after discovering drugs in their vehicles. The drivers have been charged with possession of a controlled dangerous substance (CDS) possession, among additional charges.

Randy H. Haney, 35, Markleton, Pa., was arrested on May 20 after being stopped for driving a vehicle with a cracked windshield on Blaine Frantz Road in Friendsville. As Haney opened his glovebox to comply with the deputy's request for his registration, a film canister was observed and asked for and it revealed residue of marijuana. A subsequent vehicle search found a baggie with seeds and residue also in the glove box.

Haney was arrested and charged with possession of marijuana. He was subsequently released after posting a $500 bond.

In a separate incident, William G. Camp, 40, Wichita, Kan., was arrested on May 17 after being stopped for weaving on Garrett Highway at Route 42. The deputy noticed that the validation tag on Camp's vehicle had been fraudulently altered to reflect a 1998 expiration date. Camp was placed under arrest for displaying the altered tag, and a routine vehicle search turned up an overnight bag with a container inside containing white powdery substance. A trained drug detection dog called to the scene reacted to the substance in a manner consistent with detecting a controlled dangerous substance. The powder was subsequently identified as cocaine residue.

Camp was arrested and charged with possession of cocaine, possession of CDS paraphernalia, fraudulently falsifying his car's validation sticker, and failure to drive to the right of the center line. He was subsequently released after posting a $1500 bond.

A Grantsville man is being held in jail pending a bond hearing. Daniel Merrill, 18, faces charges of possession of marijuana and cocaine, and misdemeanor theft.

James House, 36, Friendsville, faces a charge of violating his probation that resulted from an earlier conviction of possession of marijuana. He was released from jail after posting a cash bond.

Paul Kessel, 23, Swanton, was arrested and charged with driving while intoxicated (DWI), as a result of a traffic stop on Sang Run Road. He was subsequently released on his own recognizance.

Rory Bernard, 22, Swanton, was arrested and charged with DWI after being stopped on Paradise Point Road. He was subsequently released on his own burglary, had been broken into. The door had been pried open and the doorjamb also was broken.

Sheriff's deputies are investigating the theft of a CB radio from the cab of a semi truck parked at Sisler's Trucking on Cranesville Road. Stolen during the night of May 16 was a Cobra 29 LTD CB with an Astatic 66L microphone, valued at $500. Several other vehicles parked on the property were broken into the same evening.

A theft from an unattended house on Sang Run Road in Fantasy Valley was reported on May 13. Stolen was a sum of cash. There were no apparent signs of forced entry.

Deer Park Man To Serve Four Years In Prison

A Deer Park man convicted on several drug charges has been sentenced to four years in the Maryland Department of Corrections. Scott E. Kahl, 24, began his sentence immediately following the Garrett County Circuit proceedings last week.

Judge Gary Leasure presided at the sentencing hearing. A pre-sentence investigation had been ordered in January for Kahl, after a jury convicted him on charges of marijuana possession, possession of marijuana with intent to distribute, and possession of drug paraphernalia.

Kahl was given credit for the 110 days in jail he has already served, according to the court report.

The defendant was arrested last year after the Garrett County Sheriff's Office received a tip that he would be transporting drugs in his car. He was stopped and charges were filed when a search revealed over 80 grams of marijuana in the vehicle.

In other circuit court news, an appeal from Garrett County District Court was heard by Judge Fred Thayer. Richard A. Wright, 39, appealed a district court six-month jail sentence handed to him for a violation of probation conviction. In circuit court, Wright pleaded "no contest" to the violation charge and Thayer accepted the plea. The judge then reimposed the six-month sentence, suspended. The defendant will be on probation for two years.

tion. She owed a total of $1,195 to the court as ordered in proceedings in August of last year but had apparently not paid the amount by January, at which time the probation office filed charges.

Hutzel pleaded guilty to the charge and Leasure accepted the plea. He extended her probation to December 31 of this year and in lieu of fines and costs, ordered her to perform 200 hours of community service.

Swanton Man Found Guilty Of Assaulting Teen

A Swanton man was sentenced recently in Garrett County District Court proceedings after Judge Ralph M. Burnett found him guilty of assaulting a juvenile female.

William P. Clemons, 37, had pleaded not guilty to a charge of second-degree assault stemming from his February arrest after an altercation at his wife's apartment in Mtn. Lake Park. Clemons received a six-month sentence, four months of which were suspended, and was placed on one year of supervised probation. Conditions of his probation include staying away from his wife and children, abstaining from alcohol and any abusive drugs, and attending addictions counseling sessions while incarcerated.

According to court records, Clemons arrived at his wife's apartment on February 2, and began verbally abusing and threatening her, their children, and his wife's father. Clemons then allegedly physically assaulted several of those individuals, and was subsequently arrested and charged with one count of second-degree assault and one count of child abuse. The state's attorney's office did not prosecute him on the child abuse charge.

In addition to his assault conviction, Clemons was found in contempt of court. After his conviction, Clemons continued to glare at the juvenile female in disobedience of the judge's warning. Clemons received an additional 10 days jail time for that action.

In other recent District Court news, an Accident man was found guilty of two counts of second-degree assault.

James VanSickle, 48, had pleaded not guilty to the charges, which stemmed from two separate incidents

SEND IN THE CLOWNS - Skippy the Clown from the Roberts Bros. Circus made a visit to some children in Friendsville before the rest of the circus train arrived. Friday, May 23, the big top will be up and open and ready in the Friendsville Town Park for a 90-minute extravaganza of clowns, aerialists, jugglers, and animals. In the front row left to right they are Braddon Redman, Desiree Groom, Robert Wolfe, Charles Rittenhouse, and Lea House. In row two are Chris Seip, Stephen Whitting, Jamie Stemple, Derek Stone, Laura Casteel, Russell Frazee, and Tommy Kobach. Mrs. Skippy and Skippy the Clown stand behind the children. at his residence involving two different women. For each conviction, visiting Judge Timothy Finan gave VanSickle a 30-day suspended sentence. VanSickle was also placed on three years of unsupervised probation, ordered to serve 50 hours of community service, and ordered to have no contact with either victim.

VanSickle's first charge stemmed from a February incident when he allegedly assaulted a woman who shared his residence. She reported that during an argument VanSickle punched her in the face with his fist, grabbed her by the throat and choked her as he held her against the wall. The second charge stemmed from a March incident when VanSickle was arrested after allegedly assaulting another woman at his residence.

In other court news, Finan issued a bench warrant for the arrest of Tommy Meyers, 24, Oakland, charging him with failure to appear for trial.

Meyers still faces two counts of second-degree assault and two counts of reckless endangerment. Those charges stem from his February arrest after allegedly pointing a rifle at two acquaintances in front of his Dennett Road residence who were seeking repayment of a loan. After pointing the weapon at them Meyers reportedly pointed it into the air and fired it, then pointed it at them again as they drove off in their car.

Timothy Beeman, 33, Oakland, received a probation before judgement order (PBJ) from Judge Burnett after not entering a plea on a charge of second-degree assault. Beeman had been arrested in November after a domestic incident at a Highway apartment in Oakland.

Finally, Benjamin Shaffer, 22, Deer Park, had a charge of violation of probation dismissed by the state.

Wet Roads Noted By State Police In Recent Accidents

The wet road conditions contributed to an accident on May 14 that injured one man, according to a report filed by Maryland State Police, Barrack W. McHenry. Robert C. Farrell, 45, Pleasanton, Calif., was eastbound on Route 50, approaching Route 560 around 1:07 p.m. when his motorcycle skidded on the wet road as he applied the brakes.

Farrell then lost control, the report said, and was thrown from the vehicle, which then flipped over. He was transported by Northern Garrett Rescue Squad to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, where he was treated and released.

Wet pavements also were reported by police to be a factor in an Accident involving William K. Richards, 29, Thomas, W.Va.

Richards was traveling northbound on Route 219 south of Foster Road on May 17 at 10:15 a.m., when he slid on the wet surface, skidded into the southbound lane, hit an embankment, and overturned, the report stated.

Southern Rescue Squad transported Richards to Garrett Memorial Hospital, where he was treated and released.

Norman J. Bogar, 59, and Ruth Ann Bogar, 60, both of Baldwin, were traveling eastbound on I-68 near Chestnut Ridge Road May 18 at 6:49 p.m. According to the report, Bogar lost control of his vehicle in the heavy rain and overturned. Both passenger and driver were transported by Northern Rescue Squad to Cumberland Memorial Hospital. Ruth Ann Bogar was treated and released. Norman Bogar is reported by the hospital to be in serious condition.

Police also report injuries sustained in a mishap involving a deer. William D. Zorick, 22, West Milford, W.Va., was driving westbound on I-68 near Garrett Highway May 14 at 8:46 p.m., when a deer came from the southbound lane, crossed the median strip, and struck the driver's side windshield of Zorick's vehicle.

Zorick was transported by Northern Garrett Rescue Squad to Cumberland Memorial Hospital, where he was treated and released.

Betty K. Trickett, 66, Oakland, and her passenger, Leo V. Stottlemeyer, 69, Mtn. Lake Park, were injured when their vehicle was struck in the rear by another car.

Christopher W. Friend, 29, and Rita K. Friend, 30, both of Friendsville, were traveling eastbound on Route 40, north of New Germany Road at 11:10 a.m. Trickett had stopped her vehicle in the eastbound lane of Route 40 waiting to turn into Folk's Paint and Glass store.

Friend failed to stop, according to the police report, and struck Trickett's vehicle.

Trickett and Stottlemeyer were transported by Northern Garrett Rescue Squad to Sacred Heart Hospital, Cumberland, where they were treated and released.

Friend was charged by police with failure to avoid collision, violating a license restriction, and failure to wear a seatbelt.

In another incident reported by Maryland State Police, the driver, Fred E. Schermerhorn Jr., 31, Frostburg, was charged with driving while intoxicated; transporting a minor while intoxicated; negligent driving; and transporting a child age 4 or 40 pounds or less without a seatbelt.

Schermerhorn was southbound on Piney Run Road near National Pike May 17, 7:34 p.m. He reportedly reached over to put a seatbelt on his passenger, Chad E. Schermerhorn, 3, Frostburg. No injuries were reported.

An accident on Garrett Highway resulted in one person being transported to the hospital for treatment.

Grace L. Marple, 79, Oakland, was stopped in the northbound lane of Garrett Highway at 3 p.m. May 20 while waiting to turn left into a private driveway.

James R. Bradley, 61, Swanton, was also northbound on Garrett Highway. Bradley failed to stop, and struck Marple's vehicle in the rear.

Marple was transported by Southern Rescue Squad to Garrett Memorial Hospital, where she was treated and released.

BURGLARY/THEFT
Maryland State Police report an arrest in a burglary that occurred May 3 between 8:40 a.m. and noon at the residence of Vera E. Merrill, Westernport Road, Grantsville.

Stanley W. Platter, 18, Grantsville, is accused of acting as look-out while a juvenile broke into the victim's home through a basement door. The report states that after the juvenile stole $101 and left the residence, the accused willingly and knowingly accepted a portion of the stolen cash to purchase cigarettes.

Platter was arrested and taken the Garrett County jail. He has since been released on $1,500 bond.

Chautauqua Will Feature Figures From Literary Past Of Maryland

Figures from the literary past of Maryland will "live again" when famous writers take the stage and present workshops for the Literary Maryland Chautauqua at Garrett Community College and other locations July 2, 3, and 5. Garrett Countians and visitors will meet Edgar Allan Poe, Gertrude Stein, Zora Neale Hurston, F. Scott Fitzgerald, and H. L. Mencken during the three-day event.

As in other years, evening performances will be under a tent on the college campus, with a 30-minute musical entertainment beginning at 7 p.m. and presentations by two literary figures following. Daytime workshops have been scheduled at the college and at several branches of the Ruth Enlow Library.

The Chautauqua will begin on Wednesday, July 2, at 2 p.m. in the Accident branch of the Ruth Enlow Library when Zora Neale Hurston will present a workshop. Hurston is portrayed by actress and living historian Phyllis McEwen.

On Thursday, July 3, three workshops have been scheduled: Edgar Allan Poe, portrayed by writer Doug Boulter, at 10 a.m. in the GCC Art Gallery; Gertrude Stein, portrayed by Professor of Performance Studies Lynn C. Miller, at 11 a.m. in the Grantsville Senior Center; and H. L. Mencken, portrayed by historian John Dausch, at 2 p.m. in the Friendsville branch of the Ruth Enlow Library.

That evening Zora Neale Hurston and F. Scott Fitzgerald will appear under the tent in a performance moderated by H.L. Mencken. Fitzgerald is portrayed by Michael McCarthy, instructor at the University of South Carolina and University of Colorado. A musical performance will be presented by the GCC Pipes and Drums.

On Saturday, July 5, F. Scott Fitzgerald will present a workshop in the Performing Arts Center of Frostburg State University at 10 a.m. The evening performances will be given by Edgar Allan Poe and Gertrude Stein with H.L. Mencken moderating, preceded by a concert by the Marsh Mountain Consort.

All of the Chautauqua events are open to the public free of charge. The Literary Chautauqua is being sponsored by the Maryland Humanities Council and Garrett Community College, with funding from the Garrett County Arts Council and the Maryland State Arts Council.

Glendening Acknowledges Braskey's Exit

Governor Parris N. Glendening this week acknowledged Garrett County Commissioner John Braskey's decision to resign this week via a letter, stating that he knew the decision was difficult for the commissioner, "given the many years you have spent making sure that the interests of Garrett County citizens are well represented."

Glendening then noted his support for Braskey in his new position:

"It has been a real gain for us to enlist your services with the Department of Natural Resources. In this capacity, you and I will continue to work together in serving the interests and needs of Western Maryland," the governor wrote.

He expressed his thanks to Braskey for his assistance and support during his tenure as commissioner.

Home Once More

Rosy dawn lifted the veil of darkness from the mountains of the sleepy town. What a perfect day for a homecoming. "Thank goodness this is nearly over," thought the slight young woman with golden hair as she took the hands of her young son and daughter and began the drive to the airport in the city. As the sun rose higher in a cloudless sky she remembered the day her husband flew to the base from which he would leave to fight for his country. Tall and tan, he had smiled through his sadness at leaving them as he disappeared into the darkness of the plane. Through her tears, she had whispered, "See you later."

Another plane would land today, bringing him home once more. There were others here to meet their loved ones. A band played a familiar song. Flags waved in the brisk breeze as the silver bird landed. Several men began to descend the steps as tears of emotion spilled down her cheeks. She stepped forward but the men just kept walking toward the shiny black limousine, the casket draped with a flag. Through her tears she whispered, "Goodbye."

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

TIME AND ETERNITY

May 25, 1997

Background Scripture: Revelation 21:1 through 22:5

Devotional Reading: Revelation 22:1-9

Eternity is beyond my comprehension for I am a prisoner of time. My watch and calendar shape my perceptions, my experience and my expectations. And as I grow older time seems to become my tormentor, perhaps even my enemy.

All human beings experience the tyranny of time. At first, it may lie heavily upon us and we foolishly wish for it to hurry along. Eventually, however, we are amazed to find it flashing past us so quickly and try as we might, we cannot stop it or even slow it down.

Our problem is that we habitually interpret eternity through the prism of time. That is understandable for time is all that we have experienced. Viewed thus, eternity seems a dim prospect of endless time. What we need to do more often is to let eternity interpret time, for, as Aldous Huxley has written, "It is only by taking the fact of eternity into account that we can deliver thought from its slavery to life. And it is only by deliberately paying our attention and our primary allegiance to eternity that we can prevent time from turning our lives into a pointless or diabolic foolery."

Sunday 1 John 5:1-12
Monday Acts 5:1-11
Tuesday Acts 5:12-42
Wednesday Acts 6:1-15
Thursday 1 Corinthians 12:1-11
Friday Ephesians 4:17-32
Saturday Ephesians 5:1-20

IS TIME REAL?

Although some people tend to regard the concept of eternity as "pie in the sky... sometime," one of eternity's greatest gifts is to the living of life in time. One of the things eternity teaches us is the distortion of time. Because we measure time with clocks, calendars and astronomical apparatus, we tend to think of it as reality. In truth, it is only one perspective of reality or one reality among others. The Greeks had two different concepts of time. One of these was Chronos or chronological time. This is the concept by which 9:00 a.m. is always followed by 9:01 a.m., as Tuesday follows Monday, February comes tripping on the heels of January and 1999 is certain to be succeeded by the year 2,000. Chronos causes us to see time in terms of a past that is gone, a present that is fleeting and a future that is unseen.

The Greeks also thought of time as Kairos, the depth of time that is not governed by a ticking clock or nagging calendar. To put it lightly, the difference between Chronos and Kairos is the difference between an hour a teenager spends with his parents and the hour he spends with his girlfriend. Chronos is measured time, while Kairos is time fulfilled. And even though we rarely break out of the restraints of chronos, human beings have the capacity to experience both.

THE DWELLING OF GOD
 Whatever eternity is, Revelation assures us that it will be with God. "Behold, the dwelling of God is with men. He will dwell with them and they shall be his people" (21:3). Eternity will be Kairos because we will be with God. Denis de Rougemont has written, "As is well known, the Devil is the Prince of Time, and God is the King of Eternity. Time without end, that is Hell. Perfect presence, that is eternity."

In that eternity, John assures us, "God... will wipe away every tear from their eyes, and death shall be no more, neither shall there be mourning nor crying nor pain any more, for the former things have passed away" (21:5, 6). It is difficult for us to envision an eternity such as this, but it is enough that God has promised it.

Eternity will be so much more than anything I could imagine. And we will put time behind us as we live in the presence of him who said, "I am the Alpha and the Omega, the beginning and the end." COVER STORY

American Film Institute gives Scorsese its blessing

By Suzanne Gill
©TVData Features Syndicate

It has the distinctive ambience of an Italian family dinner — without the pasta. And that's an appropriate setting for a tribute to a man who has made movies about his mother's spaghetti sauce (Italianamerican), an Italian-American boxer (Raging Bull) and the mob in New York and Las Vegas (GoodFellas, Casino).

It's the American Film Institute Salute to Martin Scorsese, airing Wednesday, May 28, on CBS.

Amid the cheers of the black-tie crowd, Scorsese makes his entrance with a daughter draped over each arm and takes the seat of honor. From that spot, the writer, director, producer and sometime actor blows kisses to Sharon Stone as she sets the tone of appreciation that rings through the program, laughs as James Woods jokes about his perfectionism and blinks back a tear as Robert De Niro speaks of their long association.

Other celebrities on hand to offer their congratulations are Michelle Pfeiffer, George Lucas, Joe Pesci, Jodie Foster and previous AFI award winners Gregory Peck, Steven Spielberg, Jack Lemmon and Clint Eastwood.

The AFI was founded in 1967 to preserve the nation's film heritage and develop young filmmakers. President Lyndon B. Johnson appointed documentary George Stevens Jr., son of director George Stevens (Remember Mama, Shane, Giant), to head the institute. In 1973, Stevens established the life achievement award.

Today, Stevens and his son, Michael, produce the annual AFI television special. The winner is selected each year by the institute's board.

"A kind of subcommittee is appointed to go through the various prospects and possibilities," Stevens says. "They usually bring two or three names to the board, and very often a board member will add another name. And then it's a secret ballot."

Stevens admits choosing a life achievement award winner is a balancing act, somewhere between a "so far, so good" and a eulogy. The amount of films necessary for consideration is not to be overlooked either.

"It has to be — what would you say — 25 years? I don't recall us ever discussing it, but it's not three or four pictures," he says. "It's a substantial body of work."

Stevens accepted an award at this year's gala for preserving and restoring hundreds of films and for leading the AFI's Center for Advanced Film Studies, whose graduates include David Lynch, Martin Brest and Jon Avnet.

"I've just been involved in the restoration of Giant and Shane," Stevens says. "When I was starting the AFI, it never occurred to me that (the films) would someday be in jeopardy."

But this night belongs to Scorsese, who recalls watching the first AFI special, honoring John Ford, on TV.

"Scorsese is very much what the AFI and the life achievement award are all about — not just his work but his dedication to the medium of motion pictures. And that interest he had in the directors of (an earlier) generation took him to the place where those great directors themselves (stood)," Stevens says.

Calling it the Indy 500 might be stretching it

There will be a different sound to this year's Indianapolis 500, but the competition should be as intense as ever.

Gone are the turbocharged engines that have roared to victory in recent years. They have been replaced by a new generation of normally aspirated V-8 power plants, as the Indy Racing League attempts to contain the high costs of racing. These engines have yet to complete a 500-mile race, so the drivers and their teams will face the dilemma of how hard to race their cars.

The Indianapolis 500 airs Sunday, May 25, on ABC.

It will be difficult to top last year's finish, in which Buddy Lazier, who was recovering from a broken back, passed Davy Jones with eight laps remaining and held on for a narrow victory. Lazier is healthy this year, but Jones will miss the 81st Indianapolis 500 because of injuries sustained during a practice run in January. An exciting addition to this year's race is Robby Gordon, a NASCAR Winston Cup driver, who also will compete in the NASCAR Coca-Cola 600 in Charlotte, N.C., later in the day. Gordon is a former PPG CART ace and SCORE off-road champion.

Among the top contenders at "The Brickyard" are 1996-97 IRL points leader Mike Groff, 1996 IRL rookie of the year Tony Stewart, 1996 IRL co-champions Buzz Calkins and Scott Sharp, and 1990 Indy 500 winner Eric Lusky.

And once again, a huge crowd will fill the stands and the infield in anticipation of another wide-open battle for the checkered flag — provided there are enough cars still running.

Cars entered in this year's Indianapolis 500 will be using new engines that have yet to complete a 500-mile race. The Indianapolis 500 airs Sunday on ABC.
